SALES FALL OFF 6.62 PCT. HERE IN LAST 12 MONTHS

Merchants' and Manufacturers' Business Drops $80,871,000 in Fiscal Year Ending April 10.

4631 FEWER AUTO LICENSES ISSUED

Depression Hard on the Dogs Too, Collector Chapman Reports—Hotels Show a Slight Gain.

St. Louis merchants and manufacturers suffered a loss in sales during the last 12 months amounting to $80,871,000, or 6.62 per cent, according to the annual report of License Collector Chapman, presented to Mayor Miller yesterday.

During the fiscal year ending April 10 merchants reported total sales of $516,371,000, against $[illegible] in the previous 12 months, a decrease of $54,912,000, or [illegible] per cent. Stocks of merchandise carried were reported at $[illegible], a decrease of $2,410,-[illegible]. Some of the sales decrease can be traced to lower commodity prices and not entirely to volume.

Manufacturers announced sales totaling $593,263,000, compared with $612,222,000, a decrease of $[illegible], or 4.2 per cent. The value of merchandise carried was given as $62,108,800, a decrease of $[illegible].

Merchants and manufacturers are taxed for license purposes at the rate of $1 a thousand on sales, and $12.70 a thousand on stock carried.

Tax Revenue Drops.

Manufacturers numbered 1866, and the tax collected was $1,582,-[illegible]. The decrease in tax revenue was $72,128.41, and in the number of licensed manufacturers [illegible].

There were 16,345 licensed merchants paying a total fee of $1,-[illegible]. For the year there were [illegible] fewer merchants and the tax revenue was $75,170.79 less.

Although fewer automobiles were licensed in 1931 the total tax collected, based on horsepower, was only slightly less than in 1930. The figures for 1931 were 149,477 cars with fees of $[illegible] against 154,108 machines and $[illegible].75 in 1930. Licensed motorcycles also decreased in number with 539 machines and $988 in fees in 1930, against 472 machines and $872 this year. Bicycles licensed this year numbered 457 at $1 [illegible], an increase of one.

Brokers and Hotels Gain.

Stock and bond brokers showed a slight gain in numbers with 174 paying $15,225 in fees, against 171 whose licenses totaled $14,962.50 the previous year.

There was also a slight gain in receipts from hotels, 299 paying $[illegible] against 292 paying $[illegible]. Several billiard hall licenses were not renewed, the number at present being 347, paying $20,700, against 409 with licenses totaling $24,920.

[illegible] railway mill tax figures, paid by the Public Service Co., are $[illegible], against $223,714.69 during the previous fiscal year. The 1 per cent gross tax on motorbus receipts amounted to $73,129.51 last year, compared with $76,-[illegible] the year before.

The apple sellers are reflected in the [illegible] peddlers' licenses, an increase of 756. Due to the temporary nature of many of the permits receipts from a larger number of licenses were less than those of the previous year. The fees were $15,230 against $15,-[illegible].

There were 213 fewer restaurants than previously, the present number being 3041, paying $28,910.

Boxing Gets Financial Knockout.

Fees from boxing exhibitions show a decrease that indicates a financial knockout to promoters. [illegible] shows during the last 12 months paid $2,675.10 on the basis of receipts, against $11,350.19 from 34 exhibitions the year before.

Gasoline taxes, levied at half a cent a gallon, were higher than those of the previous year, the totals being $383,517.05 against $[illegible].96.

Fifty-four pawn shops paid fees amounting to $10,800, this being a decrease of four establishments and $800 in fees.

[illegible] increased from 174 to

P. S. CO. EARNINGS FAIL TO MEET INTEREST NEEDS; NEW WAGE PROPOSAL MADE

As Result of Three Months' Showing, Employes Are Asked to Set Aside 10 Per Cent of Pay in Contingent Fund.

Earnings of the St. Louis Public Service Company in the first three months of this year were insufficient to meet interest requirements, the company stated yesterday in notifying its union trainmen of the terms upon which it is willing to renew their wage contract.

The company proposes to renew the contract, which expires May 19, at the present scale of wages with the provision that for six months, 10 per cent will be contingent upon the company's earning its interest. That is, that 10 per cent of the wages of all employes, from president down, will be withheld each pay day, but that at the end of each month any earnings above interest requirements will be applied prorata toward the payment of back wages in full.

The contract with the union employes requires that the company notify the union 30 days before expiration as to any changes proposed in the renewal. The trainmen had already voted not to ask for a wage increase.

The business of the company declined sharply in 1930, revenue falling off 5 per cent as compared with 1929, and number of fares 12 per cent. Net profit was $411,235, not enough to pay preferred stock dividends, and the dividend for the fourth quarter was passed. The company's interest bill for 1930 was $1,811,093, which included $1,158,355 on funded debt and $652,738 on notes. Salaries and wages in 1930 aggregated $9,030,-824 and 10 per cent of this would amount to about half of the annual interest account.

3500 Union Employes.

The company has 4800 employes of whom 3500 are members of the union.

An increase in fares to make up the loss in revenue is not being considered, according to the announcement. Heretofore fare increases have been followed by reduction in number of riders.

Stanley Clarke, president of the company, said that under the proposed plan there would be no earnings for stockholders in any month until employes' wages had been paid in full for that month.

"Interest on indebtedness must be paid regularly," Clarke said in his statement. "Despite the fact that we have cut operating expenses to the bone and that the interest on indebtedness is as low or lower than in other street car companies of comparable size, revenue for the first three months of 1931 has been insufficient to meet that interest.

"Several courses are open to the company. We could make a horizontal cut in wages, but we have no desire for that drastic measure. We could seek a higher carfare, but we want to preserve for our regular riders the benefits of the weekly ticket which gives them rides for an average of 7½ cents. We could cut service, but we want to maintain service to attract the largest possible number of riders even in this period of unemployment. We could discharge numbers of employes and, in that way, reduce our wage bill, which is nearly $9,000,000 a year, but we prefer to keep all our employes at work if possible. We have no desire to aggravate the problem of unemployment in St. Louis.

"We anticipate that employes will receive some percentage above 90 per cent and up to 100 per cent of their present wages. But even if only 90 per cent were paid, employes' purchasing power would remain at or above the level of a year ago, because prices are falling. Had such a plan been operative during the first three months of this year, 94½ per cent of present wages would have been paid in January, 90 per cent in February and 100 per cent in March.

"Our proposal is for six months. We are confident that, when general business conditions improve, falling-off in riding will be checked and that the company will earn enough to pay 100 per cent of present wages."

The company proposed that a firm of certified public accountants shall determine how much, above 90 per cent employes should receive.

Henry M. Nelson, president of the street car men's union, would not comment on the proffered contract last night. The union will have a statement to make tomorrow, he said.

MOB LYNCHES NEGRO AT UNION CITY, TENN.

Hangs Him in Courthouse Yard—Victim Suspected of Attempted Attack on Woman.

By the Associated Press.

UNION CITY, Tenn., April 18.—George Smith, 18-year-old Negro accused of attempting to attack a white girl, was taken from jail here today by a crowd of men and hanged from a tree in the county courthouse yard while hundreds of persons thronged the grounds.

Sheriff J. D. Hubbs and Deputy Sheriff J. F. Holloway said "a great big crowd" assembled in front of the jail about midafternoon, forced its way in and dragged Smith out after smashing the lock on the jail door.

"We did all we could to protect the Negro," Holloway said, "but we didn't want to take his place." He added he saw no weapons among the attackers.

After the lynching most of the crowd dispersed in orderly manner. The Negro's body was cut down 45 minutes later and taken to a mortuary.

Smith was held as the Negro who entered a home here last night and tried to attack a woman. Her screams aroused her father and the intruder fled. Bloodhounds led officers to Smith, but he had not been identified definitely as the attacker.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Luther Johnson, of Union City, said he doubted that any arrests would be made.

TENANTS NEAR SEWER WORK ORDERED TO MOVE BY CITY

Buildings at 6003 and 6005 Kingsbury Av. in Danger of Collapse, Aegerter Thinks.

Occupants of buildings at 6003 and 6005 Kingsbury avenue, west of the section of the River des Peres sewer being constructed at present, have been ordered out of the structures by Building Commissioner Aegerter, on the theory that the walls are in danger of collapse.

The first of the buildings has been empty recently, and Mrs. Zetta Moore, 6005A Kingsbury, only resident of the other building, told police she would leave. Harry Diener, who operates the Nu-Way Cleaning and Dyeing Co. on the first floor of the same building, said that he had arranged to have the buildings watched and would leave at the first sign of peril.

The west wall of a two-story building at 5958 Kingsbury avenue, containing the Kingsbury Pharmacy, fell into the excavation March 26. It is east of the point of construction.

GAMES AND KNITTING BEFORE LOG FIRE AT HOOVER'S CAMP

President Catches 20 Trout (Legal Limit) Which Are Served at Dinner.

By the Associated Press.

ORANGE, Va., April 18.—President Hoover rested tonight before an open fire at his Virginia Mountain camp after an active day spent fishing for trout in the Rapidan River.

The day was clear and warm but at night it became necessary to light the fires. Most of the women of the party played games, while Mrs. Hoover sat by the fire and knitted a sweater.

The President caught twenty mountain trout—the limit allowed under Virginia law—on his first visit of the season. These, together with a large catch by other members of the presidential party, were eaten tonight at dinner.

With the President were Mrs. Hoover, Allan Hoover, their son; Secretary and Mrs. Hyde; Justice and Mrs. Stone; Walter Newton and Mrs. Newton, Lawrence Richey; Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Health; Assistant Secretary of the Navy Jahncke; Capt. Joel Boone, the White House physician, and Mark Sullivan, newspaper writer.

SHIP CREW KILLS 1444 WHALES ON EIGHT MONTHS' ARCTIC TRIP

Norwegian Hunters Reach New York; One Man Shot 254 Single-Handed.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 18.—From the land of the midnight sun and 40 below zero, 250 wind-burned Vikings plowed into the New York bay today on the Sir James Clark Ross, one of the biggest whaling vessels in the world.

Out-harpooning Capt. Ahab, who bagged the famed Moby Dick, this crew brought back 1444 whales—some little ones measuring only 20 feet, others, monsters of nearly 100 feet in length.

Captained by Oscar Nilsen, the big whaler left Sandefjord, near Oslo, Norway, Aug. 10 to seek a fortune in whales, or rather commodities which are made from whale oil. Rich plunder from the ice-blocked sea of King Edward VII Land was the result of their eight months' trip of 25,000 miles.

Edward Jorgensen, according to the crew's report, shot single-handed 254 whales, bringing his life-time total to 2700. He is eager to get home, for he will collect $40,000 as pay for the trip.

WOMAN FATALLY BURNED WHEN AUTO HITS POLE

Miss Willie Mae Homsley of Columbia, Killed in Accident Near Danville, Mo.

MONTGOMERY CITY, Mo., April 18.—Miss Willie Mae Homsley, 27 years old, of Columbia, Mo. was burned to death near Danville tonight when her automobile, which she was driving west on Highway No. 40, struck a telephone pole and burst into flames. She was alone.

Riley Kieth, standing at a filling station at the scene of the accident, called help immediately, but was unable to free Miss Homsley from the wreckage. The body was brought here to an undertaking establishment.

Miss Homsley, a former student at the University of Missouri, was engaged in home economics extension work.

Opera Star and Prince Serge Mdivani Married Secretly Week Ago.

By the Associated Press.

SANTA MONICA, Cal., April 18.—Prince Serge Mdivani and Mary McCormic, opera star, have been married more than a week and spent their honeymoon in three states, they said upon their return here today.

Mdivani, who was divorced in Paris recently by Pola Negri, screen actress, declined to disclose where the marriage took place.

He said they were in San Francisco when they read dispatches telling of the robbery of their home here of three of Miss McCormic's fur coats and an Oriental rug of a total value of $12,000 and returned immediately to employ detectives to aid in their recovery.

SIX ESCAPE DEVIL'S ISLAND BUT LAND IN TRINIDAD JAIL

There, However, Magistrate Frees Them and They Set Out for Colombia.

By the Associated Press.

PORT-OF-SPAIN, Trinidad, April 18.—Six ragged, half-starved men who beached a small boat in Los Cheros Bay and dropped exhausted into the arms of the police were on the way to Colombia and freedom tonight.

They had lived through an escape from Devil's Island spending their last sou for the leaky craft which carried them here from the penal colony.

But they landed without formal permission and were thrown into another jail. Today a Magistrate discharged them and decided that they be sent out of Trinidad but not back to Devil's Island.

FAMILY TREES FIGURE IN CLAIMS TO $2,000,000

Depositions Taken in U. S. and Ireland on Both Sides in Contest of Thomas Halpin's Will.

39 CLAIMANTS SEEKING SHARES

Bulk Willed to Son and Daughter of Deceased Wife of Druggist by a Previous Marriage.

Depositions in the suit to set aside the will of Thomas Halpin, wealthy druggist, who died Dec. 6, 1929, have been taken by both plaintiffs and defendants in various parts of the United States and Ireland. Several depositions were filed in Circuit Court yesterday and will be used at the trial of the case, which has not yet been set. The suit is pending before Judge Hamilton on a motion attacking parts of the pleadings.

There are 39 plaintiffs claiming to be heirs-at-law of Halpin, who, according to the petition, left an estate valued at $2,000,000, yielding an income in excess of $120,000 a year. Some of the petitioners live in Ireland, but most of them are residents of St. Louis. The will left the bulk of the property to Mrs. Frank X. Hackman and Redmond McBride, the daughter and son of Halpin's deceased wife by a previous marriage. Their brother, Joseph McBride, received a monthly income for a period of 10 years, during which time the will provides the estate shall be in trust of the Mercantile-Commerce Bank & Trust Co.

Family Trees Brought In.

The depositions taken in Ireland deal with traditions concerning the family tree of plaintiffs by which they seek to establish their relationship to Halpin. All claimants assert their interest as heirs of two brothers and a sister of Halpin's father or through relationship with his mother.

The Rev. Philip Cusack, parish priest of Powerstown, County Tipperary, Ireland, is among the deponents. He identified a church record showing the marriage of James "Halpenny" and Anne O'Brien Feb. 12, 1840. They were the parents of Thomas Halpin. Other testimony shows they had another son and a daughter, both dead.

It appears that the father of the family disappeared from Ireland and subsequently his wife and daughter came to St. Louis, where Mrs. Halpin or Halpenny worked in a hotel. Thereafter they were joined by Thomas, who was then 16 years old, and his brother James, who was killed later in a railroad accident. In recent years Thomas Halpin, it is shown, made trips to Ireland and visited some of his relatives; further, at various times, wrote to them and sent them money at Christmas.

In their suit the petitioners charge Halpin was not of sound mind when he made his will, and that the McBrides were not his heirs-at-law, alleging he never adopted them. Relative to the charge of unsoundness of mind some of the plaintiffs living in Ireland said they had no information on the subject. They explained they left the case in charge of their attorneys, who prepared the petition on information available there.

Shakspearean Allusion "Odd"

However, one plaintiff, Miss Mary Prendergast of Clonmel, Ireland, testified she thought she detected a change in Halpin's mind from some of the letters he wrote, stating he made what she construed as silly remarks. Asked on cross-examination to cite an example, she produced a letter from Halpin in which he wrote: "The poet wisely said, 'That it is the toad, ugly and venomous, which wears a jewel in its head and only requires work and labor to keep it.'"

"Are not those the views of a well-read man?" counsel asked, to which the deponent replied: "It may be they are, but I found little things like that from time to time in the letters."

The depositions for defense deal with Halpin's business ability and his keenness of mind. Persons who had known him for years testified they regarded him as mentally alert. His foresight in buying property years ago at the southwest corner of Grand boulevard and Olive street is mentioned. This property is now under sublease to

U. S. Refugees Tell of Massacre, Guerilla Warfare in Nicaragua

Thirty Men, Women and Children, Many with Only the Clothes on Their Backs Reach New Orleans.

By the Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, April 18.—Thirty Americans, men, women and children, tragic and nerve-shattered, arrived in American waters aboard the steamship Cefalu today, refugees from the latest insurgent outbreak in Nicaragua.

Many of them penniless and with nothing left save the clothes they wore, they docked at New Orleans tonight, bringing with them tales of massacre and guerilla warfare.

The bodies of two of the nine Americans, killed in the Nicaraguan clash during the last week, lay in the hold of the Cefalu, whose pennants flew at half staff as it steamed up the Mississippi River.

These were Marine Capt. H. C. Pefley of Philadelphia, slain at the head of a detachment of Guardia Nacional trying to beat off an insurgent attack on Puerto Cabezas, and William L. Selser, formerly of Jackson, Miss., and Hart, Ala., Standard Fruit and Steamship employe, who was killed from ambush. Sandino forces fell on a group of plantation overseers gathered at Logtown the same day and killed four of Selser's co-workers.

2 Survivors of Logtown Attack.

The only two survivors of the Logtown attack, James Lloyd and Cathey Wilson, both of Fayetteville, Tenn., also were among the Cefalu's refugees. They are under care of a physician for nerve shock and it was with the assistance of a physician in whom they had confided that the story of the Logtown massacre was told.

These two saved their lives by "playing dead" among the bodies of their co-workers while the insurgents looted and burned Logtown. When the attackers withdrew at dark, they made their way by separate routes through the jungle to reach the Wawa River and Puerto Cabezas, where they collapsed.

Mrs. William Selser accompanied her husband's body on the Cefalu. Miss Eleanor Bond of Sarasota, Fla., who fled to the safety of a fruit company steamer, after her brother, William Bond, was killed at Logtown, also is aboard, as is Mrs. Bertha Q. Phelps of Livingston La., and White Bluff, Miss., who was widowed by the Logtown massacre. These had been forced to leave their dead in the jungle, when the Cefalu steamed away.

U. S. Flag Again Over Town.

The Cefalu's passengers were without details of the sacking and burning of Cabo Gracias a Dios. As the steamship sailed from Puerto Cabezas, where the American warship Asheville has taken up patrol duty, the town on the cape was in flames, but after American naval planes had bombed approaching insurgent boats, the American flag was again seen waving over the town.

The refugees gave the Associated Press the first eyewitness account of last week's happenings in Nicaragua.

Roderich Mueller Convicted on Charge of Ridiculing Singer in "Riff Raff."

By the Associated Press.

VIENNA, April 18.—Roderich Mueller, of Guttenbrunn, tonight was sentenced to one month in prison following his conviction on a charge of libeling Maria Jeritza in his novel, "Riff Raff." The trial lasted two days and was attended by many of Vienna's social leaders.

Baron Popper, the singer's husband, refused to accept Guttenbrunn's apology which was offered in an effort to settle the litigation amicably.

At one point in the proceedings the court was cleared while the Judge read passages from the book describing what the Neue Freie press calls the "Love Life" of the heroine, Grete Levita, in whom, the Metropolitan prima donna contends, the author caricatured her.

At this second day of the trial one witness testified that he reconized Grete Levita as Maria Jeritza because the heroine's figure was described as "Slim." He knew, he said, that most of Vienna's other singers were "full-figured."

FOREST FIRES KILL TWO; DESTROY VILLAGE AND LOGS

Volunteer Fire Fighters in Minnesota and Wisconsin Handicapped By Lack of Water System.

By the Associated Press.

ST. PAUL, Minn., April 18.—Forest fires in Northern Minnesota and Wisconsin tonight had taken a toll of two lives and virtually destroyed a village.

The victims were Charles Dreyden, 45 years old, and Louis Bruun, 50, experienced woodsmen. They were presumably trapped in a circle of flame while trying to control a blaze near Morse with backfires.

In Tipler 22 of the 31 buildings in the settlement were razed by the flames, which have burned over thousands of acres in the two states during the last two days. The fire started in cut-over timberland and was driven into the village by a high wind.

Volunteer fire fighters, handicapped by lack of a water system, used back fires and bucket brigades in an effort to save the village, but the flames were swept past their defense by the strong south wind.

Included in the buildings burned were the general store and postoffice and the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad's station. One and a half million feet of logs, valued at $40,000, were destroyed along with thirty flat cars.

STIMSON EXPLAINS POLICY IN NICARAGUA

Warns Americans Out Because Problem Is Not to Protect Them From War, as in 1926, but From Murder by Bandits.

GUARDIA SHOULD MEET SITUATION

Local Constabulary Sufficient He Thinks—U. S. Warships Will Be at Ports but Troops Will Not Be Sent Into Interior.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 18—Secretary of State Stimson said today that American naval vessels standing by at all the threatened ports on the east coast of Nicaragua with orders to protect, American life and property at those ports "will remain until the danger is over."

"There has been no change in the determination of the American government not to send troops into the interior,' the Secretary said. "Purely from the standpoint of protection the most effective way to protect the American and foreign civilians who have been suddenly exposed to this danger in the forests of eastern Nicaragua is to give them warning of the danger and an opportunity to escape to the protection of the coast towns, and then for the specially-trained Nicaraguan constabulary to operate in the jungle against the bandits. If the constabulary now on the east coast is not sufficient for that purpose, there are certainly enough elsewhere to re-enforce them against these comparatively small bands of outlaws."

Text of Statement.

The text of Secretary Stimson's statement follows:

"The problem before the Government today is not a problem of the protection of its citizens in Nicaragua from a war, but from murder and assassination. In that respect it is totally different from the problem which existed in 1926.

"In 1926, two armies, consisting of 2000 or 3000 men each, were fighting in Nicaragua on the East coast. Both armies professed to be carrying out the rules of warfare and to be protecting neutrals and neutral property. So the problem of this Government was solved by establishing neutral zones in which, by agreement with both armies at that time, hostilities did not enter.

"These neutral zones, as I recall it were established with the consent of both the Liberal and Conservative commanders of the contending armies. There was no organized attempt to murder private citizens of any country. The problem was only to protect them from the inevitable catastrophes of war.

Jungle Fighting Difficult.

"Now we have a situation where small groups of confessed outlaws—treated as outlaws by the Nicaraguan Government—are making their way through the jungle to the East Coast with the avowed intention of murdering and pillaging the civilian inhabitants of the country. The terrain where this is taking place is one of the thickest jungles in the world. The rainfall on the east coast of Nicaragua is something more than double the rainfall on the West coast and as a result this is very thick jungle country a region where it would be almost impossible for regular troops to operate effectively even if it were attempted.

"Another point of difference which is vital is that in 1926 there was no Nicaraguan constabulary. Since that time, for nearly four years, our officers have been helping the Nicaraguan Government train a force of constabulary especially for fighting in this kind of terrain, the very object being to produce the most appropriate kind of force to meet tropical and jungle conditions of warfare.

Depends on Constabulary.

"That force has been recently raised from 1850 to over 2100 and is reported by its officers as being highly efficient. Purely from the standpoint of protection the most effective way to protect the American and foreign civilians who have been suddenly exposed to this danger in the forests of Eastern Nicaragua is to give them warning of the danger and an opportunity to escape to the protection of the

GOVERNOR VEXED OVER SCHOOL BILL; VETO POSSIBILITY

Caulfield Opposes Trend Toward Ultimately Putting Full Burden of Support on State Treasury.

HELD A HANDICAP TO OTHER INSTITUTIONS

Legislature Disregarded His Plea Not to Confuse Educational Program With Tax Relief.

By CURTIS A. BETTS,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 18.—An executive veto of the school bill passed by the Legislature with the design of reducing local school taxes, principally in the rural districts, and providing for increased rural school aid with funds obtained for the most part from the larger cities, appears as a possibility in the closing days of the Fifty-sixth General Assembly.

While it cannot be said with certainty that Gov. Caulfield will return the bill to the House without his approval, it is known that he is dissatisfied with it, both in its trend toward ultimately throwing the full burden of school support on the State treasury and in the fact that its demands on State revenues will be so heavy that many needed improvements in State penal, eleemosynary and educational institutions must be delayed.

Though refusing to discuss the question of a veto, the Governor said he was giving the bill very careful study.

One of His Main Objections.

He pointed out one of his main objections in that part of his biennial message to the Legislature in January, in which he discussed the Survey Commission report. He insisted that the subject of improved educational facilities in the country should not be confused with the subject of tax relief. The Legislature gave no heed to his admonition and passed a bill which proposes to limit local school taxes to 20 cents on the $100 valuation, setting out a plan by which local districts will be supplied with such State funds as are necessary to provide revenue above that produced by the 20-cent tax to maintain a definite minimum standard.

To meet these requirements, the school appropriation bill has been written to set aside one-third of all ordinary State revenues of 1931 for the public school fund, and 45 per cent of the revenues in 1932, and with the expectation that future Legislatures would adhere to the latter proportion.

The effect of the plan will be to decrease the proportion of the State revenue which will be available for use in correcting hazardous and overcrowded conditions at the State institutions, the principal thought which was in the mind of the Governor when he proposed the creation of the survey commission two years ago. For many years it has been customary to appropriate one-third of the revenues for the schools, though the Constitution requires the expenditure of only one-fourth for that purpose.

If the Governor should refuse to approve the school bill, it probably would be with the idea that the 1933 Legislature could take up the problem again and possibly work out a different scheme. A veto would mean that there would be somewhat more money for expenditure at the institutions, though not a great deal more.

No Aid From Higher Income Rates

No additional revenue will be produced this year by the graduated income tax bill because collections under the increased rates will not begin until next year.

In fact, a substantial reduction from the 1930 income tax collections of $4,600,000 is expected in 1931 because of the business depression. Even next year the increase in the collections will be small because those collections will be based on the 1931 income and the new and increased rates will not become effective until about Sept. 1, leaving only four months of the year to which the new rates will apply.

Senator Gunn, chairman of the Senate Committee on Appropriations, said today that recommended appropriations for the institutions would not be available until Monday. If the committee provides liberal appropriations for the insitutions, the Governor, by a veto of the school bill, would have some additional money to use on them before the end of his term in January, 1933, but if the appropriations are not made sufficiently large, the money, even if available, could not be expended and would lie in the Treasury for appropriation by the 1933 Legislature.

Decision Due This Week.

Executive action on the school bill will come some time next week, as the bill was sent to the Governor several days ago and under the Constitution he has only 10 days in which to consider a bill if the Legislature is in session. If a bill reaches him within 10 days of the date of adjournment he has 30 after the adjournment.

It is the expectation of Senate and House leaders that the Legislature will conclude its consideration of legislation next Saturday night, there remaining little of importance on the calendars except the appropriation bills. While more than a week might be needed to complete these bills, night sessions will be held if it should be seen that regular legislative hours are insufficient.

After the completion of regular legislative work, the House members will return to their homes, while the Senate will recess for a week or 10 days and the Senators will return to Jefferson City for the impeachment trial of State Treasurer Brunk.

When the Legislature convened in January, six major matters of legislation were submitted. Of these, three have been passed by both houses, two have been killed and one is pending in the Senate.

Work of the Legislature.

The Survey Commission program for additional revenue measures to provide approximately $192,000,000 for expenditures on schools and State institutions in 10 years, was largely scrapped by the Legislature, though Chairman Theodore Gary of the commission and an organization operating under his direction made strenuous efforts to have it carried into effect. The proposed $16,000,000 a year income tax bill was cut to a $10,000,000 bill and the extensive school program was much modified.

A bill creating new congressional districts was passed by both houses, and is on the Governor's desk awaiting his action. In a special message to the Legislature he criticised it as unfair and there is more than an even chance that he will veto it.

A senatorial redistricting bill passed the Senate, but is not being vigorously pushed and probably will die on the House calendar.

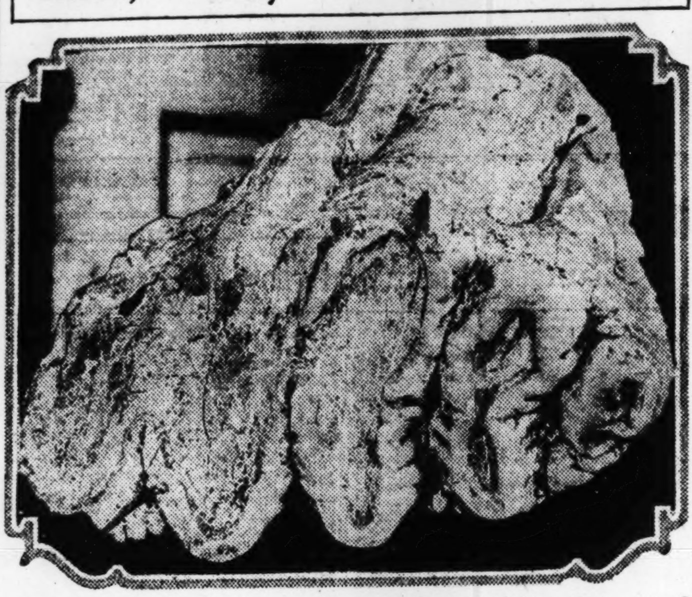
The proposal for the creation of a State highway patrol met defeat in the House, due to opposition from the wet Representatives, rural sheriffs and a bloc of rural members who objected to taking approximately $400,000 a year from State road funds to support the patrol. They contended it would delay completion of the farm-to-market roads.

Water Power Bill Shelved.

A bill to create a State water power commission to regulate the issuance of permits for hydro-electric projects in the State died in the Senate Judiciary Committee principally because the bill, as drawn, proposed to set up an extensive and expensive commission organization, which increased salaries for members for the Public Service Commission, the attorney for the commission, and the Attorney-General.

The only other important subject of constructive legislation was that dealing with regulation of busses and trucks. One bill limiting the length of truck trains to 40 feet was passed and has been signed by the Governor. Another bill placing common carrier truck companies and contract carrier truck companies under the jurisdiction of the Public Service Commission for regulation of service and charges is before the Senate for consideration Monday. This bill provides for annual licenses ranging from $25 for 1½-ton trucks and $500 for trucks of nine or more tons, but this feature applies only to trucks which are common carriers, the Constitution containing a prohibition against increased license fees for other trucks before 1939.

Relics, Possibly of Mammoth, Found



The grinding surface of the five teeth imbedded in a fragment of jawbone, which were found Friday in a quarry south of East St. Louis. The left-to-right measurement is 6¼ inches; the vertical, 3¼ inches.

TEETH, THOUGHT TO BE THOSE OF MAMMOTH, FOUND IN QUARRY

Unearthed in Clay 20 Feet Below Surface, South of East St. Louis.

A section of jaw-bone containing five huge teeth, thought to be those of a mammoth, prehistoric ancestor of the elephant, was found buried in clay 20 feet below the surface in a quarry south of East St. Louis Friday. The longest of the teeth, which vary in size, is slightly less than 10 inches from surface to root-tip. The teeth and bone fragment are 6¾ inches thick and 3¼ inches wide.

No other teeth or bones were found nearby. The quarry owner said he would present the fragment to Washington University. Mammoths are thought to have roamed the Western North American plains during the Pleistocene period, approximately 40,000 years ago.

4 TRIED FOR SHOOTING POLICEMAN ACQUITTED

California Jurors Apparently Moved by Belief Officer Fired First.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LONG BEACH, Cal., April 18.—The month-long trial of Ralph Sheldon, Ray Wagner, Louis Frank and G. L. Bruneman, accused of assault with intent to kill three Long Beach policemen, last Dec. 21, ended in their acquittal this afternoon after the jury had deliberated for 22 hours.

The unexpected verdict brought sobs from the wives of three of the defendants, Sheldon, Bruneman and Frank.

The jurors reported they stood six for acquittal, with the remainder undecided when they took their first ballot.

Early this afternoon the jurors asked for additional instructions, saying they were undecided as to whether the fact that the officer may have fired the first shot, would have any bearing on the responsibility for the shooting. Judge Aggeler told the jurors they must be guided by the Court's original instructions. It was not long afterward that the jury returned its verdict.

Margaret Iacobucci, one of the jurors, although declining to make a direct statement, intimated that the jury's belief that the policemen had fired the first shot was responsible for the acquittal.

As the jurors filed out they shook hands with the four defendants and one juror paternally advised Ray Wagner, former St. Louis gangster, to be a "good boy" hereafter.

Three of the men were freed from the county jail tonight. Louis Frank was held on a charge of suspected arson. They were met at the jail doors by friends, one a fashionably dressed blond woman. An attorney was with them. They departed in an expensive automobile.

Chief Investigator Matthews of the District Attorney's office, when informed of the verdict, said: "I consider this acquitftal a blot on the judicial record. Does a policeman have to wait for a suspect to fire the first shot? I am afraid the jury did not consider the records of the defendants, nor the fact that Officer W. H. Waggoner lies paralyzed by a bullet and is not expected to live more than six months."

The trial was the most colorful here for years. The courtroom bristled with machine guns and heavy guards accompanied the prisoners atf all times. Numerous rumors of attempted gang rescues were heard, but never materialized. Waggoner's testimony was taken at his bedside in a hospitfal, where he accused Sheldon of firing the shot which paralyzed him.

At the trial the State attempted to link the shooting of Patrolman Waggoner wih the kidnaping of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Caress. Caress, wealthy race track bookmaker, and his wife were held prisoners by kidnapers who released them only when Caress signed chgecks for a total of $50,000 ransom.

SPAIN TO RESCIND CREDIT CONTRACT FOR $60,000,000

Republican Government Says There Is No Need for Aid From International Banking Group.

NATIONAL ASSEMBLY VOTE LIKELY IN MAY

Present Plans Are to Speed Up Election and Establish Permanent Constitutional Rule.

By the Associated Press.

MADRID, April 19.—(Sunday).—The Republican Government announced today that it had decided to rescind the $60,000,000 foreign credit contract recently negotiated by a group of international banking interests, on the ground that there was no official need for the credit.

The announcement was embodied in a laconic note issued at the end of a cabinet meeting after midnight.

It is understood that the credit is still intact and that it was deposited with the understanding that it could be used or not, as the Spanish government saw fit.

The official announcement said, "The Minstry of Finance has been carefully studying the problem of the Morgan credit loan.

"As circumstances are favorable for rescinding the contract, the Cabinet has decided to proceed to this end."

Before they came into power, Republican leaders campaigned against the credit as illegal, asserting that all foreign loans must be approved by Parliament and that the Aznar Government never convoked the Parliament.

Finance Minister's Statement.

Indalecio Prieto, Republican Minister of Finance, said tonight:

"Even before we came into power we were determined that the Morgan loan be terminated. In our municipal campaign we concentrated our attack against it, and at that very moment our present Minister of Justice was preparing to file a suit against the Aznar Government, contending that the loan was illegal.

"Now that we have examined the state of the Spanish treasury we are more eager than ever to terminate the contract. The condition of the treasury is so good that it needs no such loan to bolster it."

He said the Government would direct Julio Caravia, Governor of the Bank of Spain, to arrange for cancellation of the contract as soon as possible.

J. P. Morgan & Co., heading an American banking syndicate, underwrote $38,000,000 of the $60,000,000 credit to the Bank of Spain, which was announced by the Spanish Minister of Finance at the end of March, just before the monarchy fell.

The new republic is planning to hold its first elections early in May to set up a National Assembly and establish a constitutional government to replace the present provisional government.

The Associated Press learned from reliable sources today that present plans are to speed up the elections, scheduled for June by the former Government, and to hold them at the latest within the first two weeks in May. Members of a Constituent Assembly will be selected, it is said, but Senators and Deputies to Parliament will not be voted on.

Designed to be in operation by June, this Assembly will write a new Republican Constitution and arrange for the transfer of power from the Government of President Niceto Alcala Zamora to a permanent one.

Four-Party Contest Likely.

Presumably the Monarchists, Socialists, Republicans and Communists will advance candidates for these elections. The Socialists, lately allied with the Republicans, may give them a stiff fight in the balloting. The Communists, of course, will fight all three groups. However, the vote may be divided between Republicans, Socialists and Communists. The total vote against the monarchy is expected by the Republicans to give to former King Alfonso the answer he is waiting for in Paris. He has said he would accept the verdict of the people as to his permanent exile.

After this program is completed, it will be the problem of the Republicans, Socialists and Communists to work out their own rival claims for political power. The proposed National Assembly may name a Republican Cabinet to succeed the provisional one, confirm the present Cabinet or order future elections to elect a permanent President by direct vote.

For the present, the republic will convert into public parks, playgrounds and schools the great landed estates of the royal family in Madrid and elsewhere in Spain. The Government's decision does not mean confiscation of the private property of the nobility and grandees. That may come later, but there is no indication of such a move yet.

Steps to prevent the continued transfer abroad of money and securities by members of the aristocracy are being seriously considered by the Government. This attitude is not justified, officials say, and unless there is a change the Government will require that banks put such funds and securities in separate accounts, properly safeguarded by legal trusteeships but forbidden to be sent outside of Spain.

Would Separate Church and State.

Fernando de Los Rios, Minister of Justice, who has been given jurisdiction over the new Government's relations with the Catholic church, said tonight the Cabinet would prepare for submission to the Parliament a proposal to separate church and state.

The cabinet itself, he said, "would not take so important an action without the authority of the people. This is a matter which only the Parliament can decide."

He said the present proposal is to "confine the priests exclusively to their religious missions, to guarantee freedom of all religious creeds, and to secularize all cemeteries previously controlled by the Catholic church."

One time when they were ill with typhoid fever he called in his family physician, Dr. Michael Pinkney Morrell, 4500 McPherson avenue, and said: "My children are sick and I want you to attend them," Dr. Morrell testified.

Testimony for McBrides.

Thomas S. Hogan of Chicago, an attorney, formerly of this city, deposed that when he was a boy he lived in the vicinity of Broadway and O'Fallon street where James McBride, father of the McBride heirs, conducted a drug store. Thomas Halpin was a clerk for McBride. McBride died in 1874 and his widow was married to Halpin three years later. "Mr. Halpin acted as a father to the McBrides and talked about adopting them," Hogan said. Similar testimony as to fatherly interest was given by other witnesses.

Leo F. Laughren of the law firm of Foristel, Mudd, Blair & Habenicht, which, with Douglas H. Jones, represents the plaintiffs, went to Ireland to take depositions of witnesses there. The defense was represented by attorneys acting for the law firms of Leahy, Saunders & Walther and Thompson, Mitchell, Thompson & Young.

AVERAGE INCOME OF DOCTOR IN U. S. IS $5059 A YEAR

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 18.—The average net income for a doctor in the United States is $5059 a year. Surgeons average $9233.

The figures are the result by a nationwide survey of physicians' incomes conducted by Medical Economics, a business magazine for doctors.

The best paying specialties are, in their order: Surgery, opthalmology, gynecology, eye-ear-nose-and-throat, orthopedics, pediatrics, gastro-enterology, radiology, and urology. The lowest paid specialties are those of the anesthetist and physical therapist, though the general practitioner falls even below these.

Doctors who limit their work to radium and X-ray treatment have the highest expense, the survey shows. Their average gross income is $13,417, but their professional expenses cut it down to $6326 net.

Alfonso Has Entire Floor Of Expensive Paris Hotel

Former King Said to Have Deposited Several Millions in U. S. Banks Before His Exile.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, April 18.—Still resting from their hurried trip from Madrid into exile, King Alfonso and the Spanish royal family kept close to their hotel suite today and, as much as possible, out of the public eye.

Alfonso's position as a monarch without a throne which he has not renounced intensified the public interest in his plans for a future residence. The Duke of Miranda intimated yesterday that these plans might be announced today but the cancellation of a press conference was taken as an indication that Alfonso is still undecided.

It is thought here that the choice had been narrowed to France, Great Britain or Belgium, although there was some doubt that Belgium, having seen the wane of the hopes of French Bourbons would be chosen, unless it might prove an advantageous point from which the King might keep in touch with his adherents in Spain.

Has Plenty of Money.

If France should be the choice King Alfonso was expected soon to retire to the country. That the King has plenty of money, it was being pointed out, is evidenced by the fact that the royal family is occuping the entire second floor of one of the most expensive hotels in Paris. There was a rumor, which could not be confirmed, that the King had deposited several million dollars in banks in the United States before his exile began.

He is keeping in close touch with the news of developments in Spain, and had a conference with the Duke of Miranda to go over the happenings there.

Hotel attaches were puzzled over what to do with the avalanche of flowers which continues to pour in Fearing for her sister, Beatrice, a Princess of Spain, Queen Mother Marie of Rumania has sought from Alfonso and Victoria their first hand account of the revolution which set up a Spanish Republic.

Marie of Rumania a Visitor.

Beatrice had remained in Madrid at the bedside of the aged Infanta Isabella, aunt of King Alfonso, who because of her great age and infirmity is considered safe, with her entourage, from any anti-monarchist popular demonstrations.

Beatrice is the wife of the Infante Don Alfonso, favorite cousin of the deposed King. Her husband and the Duke of Miranda were the King's companions on the trip by automobile, cruiser and train into exile Wednesday and Thursday.

Beatrice, who by some is considered as beautiful as Marie, famed for her comeliness visited the United States with Don Alfonso late in 1928. They were the guests of Gen. Cornelius Vanderbilt of New York, and vice President Dawes at Washington. Don Alfonso is an aviation enthusiast. Beatrice is a granddaughter of the late Queen Victoria of England.

TO CHECK POLICE BANK BOOKS

Chicago Grand Jury Borrows Idea from New York in Inquiry.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 18.—A special grand jury will scrutinize the bank accounts, real estate holdings and safe deposit boxes of virtually all police officials, it is learned today. Assistant Prosecutor Charles E. Lounsbury said 237 subpenas had been secretly issued last week against officials of banks, trust companies and safe deposit concerns in Chicago. It is expected that 25 banking representatives will testify Monday concerning the holdings of 17 police captains.

This move was decided on after a trip by Assistant Prosecutor Charles L. Mueller and Joseph A. Farmer, jury foreman, to New York where they saw how the vice grand jury there was working.

UPRISING ON ISLAND TERCIERA OF AZORES GROUP SUPPRESSED

Rebel Garrison Abandoned by Insurgents; Two Others Surrender.

By the Associated Press.

LISBON, April 18.—A report that the rebel garrison on the Island of Terceira, Azores, had surrendered, and that the island was in control of the Government punitive force was received by wireless today by the Prime Minister.

The commander of the Government troops cabled that the officers in the garrison of Angra do Heroismo had been abandoned by their troops, and that the latter had fled, thus ending in that section the revolt which spread from the Madeira Islands.

The islands of Sao Jorge and Graciosa previously had surrendered, an official communique said, and the garrisons are in the hands of troops from the cruiser Carvalho Araujo and the destroyer Damao. Ring leaders of the rebellion are under arrest.

The islands Sao Miguel and Faval still are in the hands of the insurgents. Rear Admiral Magalhaes Correia, Minister of Marine, expects to sail for Horta tomorrow to take charge of operations and attack the garrison.

SAYS DIRIGIBLE TRAVEL WILL REPLACE PLANES

Roy Knabenshue, 1904 World's Fair Flyer, Thinks Cabin Ships Unsafe.

Roy Knabenshue, who in the World's Fair year gave St. Louis its first demonstration of dirigible flying, was in St. Louis yesterday. He came not by air, but by automobile, from his home in Los Angeles, and he will leave today for Washington by the same conveyance.

Knabenshue has not traveled much by airplane in recent year. He has had his share of thrills, and he has concluded that heavier-than-air flying, at least in cabin planes, is not safe for the passenger, and is not likely to be made so.

"The airplane with outboard motors, suspended from chassis and wings, is subject to a tremendous vibration," he said. "Under such excessive vibration, the best steel will fail sometimes. The wings crumble, and the machine goes into a motion that batters its occupants, and leaves them no chance to escape, even if they had parachutes. To get out of a cabin plane with parachute is seldom practicable. In the ship with open cockpit, a man has a chance.

"To replace the wings frequently would increase safety, but this would destroy the profits of commercial flying. So we have such terrible accidents as the recent one, which would have received much less notice if Knute Rockne had not been one of those killed.

"Safe carrying of passengers, in my opinion, will be accomplished better by large dirigibles. The success of Eckner in the Graf Zeppelin has convinced me that this is the future method of air trans[illegible] though airplane mail carrying may continue."

Knabenshue gave four demonstrations of his dirigible "California Arrow" at the World's Fair grounds in the last week of October and the first week of November, 1904. One demonstration, that of November 1, was a success in steering the craft as desired; two of the tests began well, but engine trouble developed and the bag drifted away without control, and the fourth was only moderately successful.

Capt. Tom Baldwin, who six years later made the first long airplane flight in St. Louis, was the builder of Knabenshue's "California Arrow." Knabenshue relates that, before the first test at the World's Fair, Baldwin said to him, "Fly over the fence; that's all you're required to do. Don't be silly and try to steer, for it can't be done; I've tried." Knabenshue has his own ideas about the matter, and while he got over the fence only with difficulty, he did try to steer, and succeeded as long as the engine would run.

Knabenshue gave dirigible exhibitions at state fairs until airplaning killed the interest in dirigible shows. In 1910-11 he was exhibition manager for the Wright brothers, and in 1912 he managed Glenn Martin's flight to Catalina Island, then a new and thrilling event. He built observation balloons for the Government during and after the war. He is not now actively in the aircraft business.

MAYOR APPROVES LINDELL WIDENING WITHOUT HEARING

Condemnation Commission Report Ignores Former Objections to Benefit Assessments.

CHANNING TO GRAND IS AREA INCLUDED

Gross Damages Increased More Than $100,000—If Objections Are Filed Work Will Be Delayed.

Mayor Miller has approved the report of a condemnation commission for a widening plan to eliminate the traffic "bottleneck" in Lindell boulevard, between Channing avenue and Grand boulevard, although the Commissioners had ignored the city's objection to many benefit assessments and had increased the gross damages for the required property in excess of $100,000.

The Mayor ordered the city Law Department to agree to the Commissioner's findings, so that if there is no unforeseen legal interference, the widening can be carried out. In this action he disregarded his own recen, promise to conduct a public hearing in the Lindell case to make clear all the facts in conutroversy and seek to reach an agreement on fair prices for the property.

This promise was made for a number of specific widening plans, where objections of property owners have delayed progress. The Mayor said at that time the Lindell case would be one of the first he would take up, and that in each case he would call interested property owners and city officials and invite newspaper reporters to attend. No hearing was conducted in the Lindell matter, but the Mayor held a private conference on the subject. He said yesterday: "I didn't need a hearing to settle this one."

Efforts to eliminate the bottleneck began in 1919 and have met with all sorts of interference. Three previous condemnation commissions, appointed by Circuit Court, sat in the case. The city proposes to widen this stretch of Lindell to 100 feet from the present average of 60 feet, to link the wide section of Lindell, west of Grand, and widened Olive street, east of Channing.

Former Report Rejected.

The last previous commission late last year made a report of damages and benefits which the city's lawyers attacked in court as slipshod, as the city excepted to many of the benefit levies and some of the damage awards. On the city's motion, a new commission was appointed by Judge Hall on Dec. 8. It consisted of William Hayes of 3209 Barrett street, a Republican, who was nominated for the Board of Aldermen last month with the aid of Mayor Miller's machine, and who will take his seat next Tuesday; Eugene J. Altheimer, a real estate dealer, of the Versailles apartments, and James Duross, a lawyer, of 5253 Vernon avenue.

These commissioners on Friday reported gross damages to property in the two blocks of Lindell affected as $715,399.59, or $103,[illegible]17.13 more than the previous commission set. They fixed benefits at $409,528.36, or $25,012 less than their predecessors. The difference between damages and benefits, which is the share the city will have to pay with bond funds, is $305,871.23, or $128,729.13 more than the amount formerly set.

All of the reduction in benefits made by the last commission was in the case of property on Lindell which will be damaged, except a $125 change elsewhere to correct an error.

In changing the damage awards the last commission was confined to nine pieces of property. For eight of these pieces, they increased the net damages, that is the actual amount the city will have to pay, being the gross damages less the benefit assessment on each piece. For the other piece, owned by Miss Mary Semple Scott, who has been active in Democratic politics, they cut the net damages from $76,300 to $60,000. It is on the north side of Lindell between Channing and Theresa avenues.

Damages and Increases.

Net damages, where increased, and the owners are:

Pierce B. Barnard, southwest corner of Lindell and Channing, $686.98 to $11,250; Louis Sambuzetti, northeast corner of Grand and Lindell, $84,658.37 to $95,000; Benjamin A. Wood, north side of Lindell, between Theresa and Grand, $16,436 to $38,000; Jack Dubinsky, same, $17,452 to $46,052.97; Amanda Hawk, same, $6055.38 to $10,667.95; Belwell Realty Co., same, $19,810.05 to $25,359.25; Thomas J. Hoolan, northeast corner of Theresa and Lindell, $21,855.41 to $60,774.12; A. A. Guenther, north side of Lindell, between Channing and Theresa, $32,263 to $57,017.97.

The city had taken the stand of excepting to a number of benefit assessments by the previous commission on the grounds they were too high or unjustifiable. It had been anticipated the last commission would rectify them, but they Damages and Increases.

Net damages, where increased, and the owners are: Pierre B. Barnard, southwest corner of Lindell and Channing, [illegible] to $11,250; Louis Sambuzetti, northeast corner of Grand and Lindell, $84,658.37 to $95,000; Benjamin A. Wood, north side of Lindell, between Theresa and Grand, $10,436 to $38,000; Jack [illegible], same, $17,452 to $46,-[illegible]; Amanda Hawk, same, [illegible] to $10,667.95; Relwell Realty Co., same, $19,810.05 to [illegible]; Thomas J. Hoolan, northeast corner of Theresa and Lindell, $21,855.41 to $60,774.12; A. Guenther, north side of Lindell, between Channing and Theresa, [illegible] to $57,017.97.

The city had taken the stand of objection to a number of benefit assessments by the previous commission on the grounds they were too high or unjustifiable. It had been anticipated the last commission would rectify them, but they were ignored. There were 12 pieces, with an average benefit levy of $30 a front foot, where the city thought the figure should be smaller. There were 82 pieces of property on Locust street, between Twelfth boulevard and Jefferson avenue, which the city believed should not have been assessed at all, benefit being too remote.

On the other hand, the city excepted to numerous benefit assessments as being too low and to some glaring instances of inequality in the levy. It called attention to the fact that the north side of McPherson avenue, between Newstead and Taylor avenues, had been placed in the benefit district by the previous commission, but was not charged benefits.

No change was made in the benefit district, which in general covers Olive, Locust, Lindell and McPherson avenue, between Twelfth and Kingshighway. The city's lawyers do not know whether Miss Scott or the eight property owners whose net damages were raised will agree to the findings, or whether some other property owner may file objections which would prevent going ahead with the physical work of widening the bottleneck.

ST. LOUISAN KILLED IN AUTO NEAR PERRYVILLE

Harry Wilsmann, 3752 Chippewa, Victim of Upset When Traveling Down Hill.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PERRYVILLE, Mo., April 18.—Harry Wilsmann, 37 years old, 3752 Chippewa street, St. Louis, was killed when an automobile in which he was riding upset on the Perryville-McBride road, eight miles north of here, about 3:30 p. m. today.

The automobile, a touring car, was being driven by Joseph K. Kekinennick, also of St. Louis. The driver was uninjured. He said the machine ran off the road when he lost control going down a hill.

HUNGARIAN NOBLE PAIR WED IN WASHINGTON

Countess Alice Szechenyi Becomes Bride of Count Bela Hadik.

By the Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 18.—With courtly pomp, Countess Alice Szechenyi, daughter of the Minister of Hungary and fifth in descent from the original Commodore Vanderbilt, was married today to Count Bela Hadik, son of a Prime Minister of the old empire of Austro-Hungary.

About 1500 social personages heard the Most Rev. Fumasoni-Biondi, Apostolic delegate, conclude the church service by reading a cable bringing the Pope's special blessing "as a pledge of heavenly favor" on the union. Mrs. Herbert Hoover sent regret at not being here for the event. Her wedding present was a six-volume history of the United States, an early edition richly bound and illustrated.

Rare even for such a union of wealth and nobility were the other gifts. They ranged from a priceless diamond necklace once worn by the Empress Maria Theresa to an electric refrigerator for the vast estate where the Count and Countess will live, south of Budapest.

The 19-year-old bride, wearing a long-sleeved white satin gown with her mother's long bridal train embroidered in silver and silk, was led to the brilliantly lighted altar by her father, who wore the court dress of high patent leather boots, and velvet uniform bordered with ermine and broidered with gold and silver.

In the high-vaulted church, simply adorned with spring flowers and tall Lebanon cedar trees, the Dowager Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt watched her granddaughter, the bride. Among the bridesmaids in green chiffon, was the bridegroom's sister, Princess Elizabeth Cantacuzene.

As the simple ritual was concluded Count Hadik, also in court dress, lifted his gold-cased sword and escorted the bride to a waiting automobile. The wedding party and a small number of guests went to the legation for a reception.

SAYS MILLIKEN "NEARLY HAD FIT" AT BILL FOR $100

John T. Milliken Jr., "nearly had a fit" when his wife made him pay a $100 restaurant check while entertaining friends, Mrs. Mildred Carver Milliken asserted in a recent deposition taken in connection with her suit to divorce the wealthy son of a late millionaire chemical manufacturer.

The episode, according to the deposition, occurred in February, 1929, when the Millikens made their home at West Palm Beach. Friends of Mrs. Milliken arrived from Pittsburg, Pa., and Milliken met them at the train in overalls.

"The whole week that they were there he complained to them that they were an expense," she testified. "One night we went to a place where there was dancing and he nearly had a fit when I made him pay the check.

"He left the check on the table for the guests to pay and was furious when they didn't take it. He called them cheap skates and everything else. He thought the guests should pay the bill because they had been sponging at his house for a week, and that the least they could do would be to pay the check when we left. He didn't say that, he just intimated it.

"Ordered Everything on Menu."

"The next night they invited us to dinner. He said: 'Fine, we'll get back at you for what you ate at our house.' He ordered everything on the menu. It was laughable, but I nearly died I was so embarrassed."

Milliken's attorney, Randolph Laughlin, asked what the $100 check was for. "Oh, White Rock and stuff we had about the table. There were about eight of us."

Mrs. Milliken described other occurrences concerning her husband's alleged parsimony. Although he has an income of $1200 a month, she said, Milliken permitted her mother to help out financially during a month that the mother lived with them.

"When we would go out in the automobile mother would offer to buy the gas," Mrs. Milliken related. "J. T. would say, 'fine.' We would go to a restaurant, there would be a couple of mechanics with us, and mother would pay the bill. That would be fine, too."

The mechanics, she related, were employed by Milliken to assist him in his boat business and for a time one of them stayed at the Milliken home. "He told me one night he and J. T. Were going out the next night," she testified. "He didn't have the decency to slip out, no, I was just told: 'I'm going out.'

Complains of "Toughies."

"Night after night I would want to do something, or just sit at home, but no, he had to go down to the boathouse and be with all those mechanics and people like that. I had either to sit at the river or go somewhere by myself, and I knew if I went by myself he would be out with some toughies disgracing himself."

Mrs. Milliken described a dinner party at their St. Louis apartment at which there were several guests. "After dinner we decided to play cards," she related. "J. T. said he wouldn't play and just went into the bedroom, threw all the wraps of the guests out of there and went to bed." Whenever they went out together, she said, they would have to leave as soon as Milliken became bored.

Milliken is not only contesting the divorce action but has filed an alienation of affections suit for $350,000 against his wife's relatives. In his answer to the divorce suit, he made a blanket denial of her allegations of indignities and filed counter charges.

Arizona Governor's Wife Dies.

DEMPSEYS' ATTORNEYS CONFER, FIND REUNION "IMPOSSIBLE"

In Joint Statement They Express Hope of Avoiding Aggravating Situation.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 18.—Hope that Jack Dempsey, former champion heavyweight boxer, and his wife, Estelle Taylor Dempsey, motion picture actress, could be reconciled, appeared to have been abandoned today.

Robert E. Burns of Reno, Dempsey's attorney, and Joseph E. Scott of Los Angeles, representing Mrs. Dempsey, met here and discussed the demands of their clients. The attorneys then issued the following joint statement:

"We have both come to the conclusion that a reconciliation between our respective clients is impossible and readjustment of their domestic life cannot be accomplished.

"We are hopeful, both of us, that a divorce can be obtained under circumstances that will not aggravate the situation, but our instructions from our clients are so limited that we will have to return and each of us do our best to present the viewpoint of the other. This is as far as we feel justified in committing ourselves under the circumstances without the consent of our clients."

Dempsey has established residence in Reno, Nev., where under the new six weeks divorce law he expects to file suit for divorce. He has rented a home for $1000 a month. Mrs. Dempsey is in Los Angeles and plans to bring suit there.

REFUGEES RETURN FROM NICARAGUA, TELL OF MASSACRE

Canal Zone said they saw Cabo Gracias a Dios burning and insurgents attempting to escape up the river with loot.

"The lives of all non-Americans in the interior are in jeopardy now," the doctor said.

Dr. Eugene, who superintended rescue work and cared for the wounded, described the outbreak. There were 150 Americans in the city at the time, and 20 others on outlying plantations.

First reports of renewed Sandino raids came in word from Logtown that the commissary there was being raided and that one or more had been killed.

Saw Looting of Village.

Selser immediately started into the interior with four of the Nicaraguan National Guardsmen to investigate. From a distance, hiding in the brush, they saw the looting of Logtown and hastily returned to report to Capt. Pefley. Pefley took six guards and Selser and his party and they returned to Logtown on narrow-gauge motor cars, the only means of hasty travel through the jungle.

The insurgents, hiding along the tracks, opened a volley of fire, instantly killing the Marine Captain and mortally wounding Selser.

With the national guard in retreat, news reached the port of general raiding and looting of villages and Marine Lieut. Clyde Barrah, aided by Ralph Beardsley, a civilian, prepared for another advance on the interior with reorganized guardsmen.

Ordered to Abandon Plantations.

The detachment, composed of 16 men, traveled on a flat car, piled with sand bags, behind which machine guns were set up to assure passage through the jungle snipers. As they left Puerto Cabezas word was received that the raiding party numbered not less than 500 men, equipped with the most modern machine guns and other arms. On the basis of these advices the fruit companies hastily sent word to their overseers to abandon the great plantations in the interior and bring all Americans to the coast.

But the move was checkmated. The Sandinistas not only cut off Lieut. Darrah's detachment by burning bridges behind him and tearing up railroad tracks, but a large force swooped down on Moss Farm, near Logtown, where the plantation overseers had gathered to perfect plans for the evacuation. Four American plantation overseers—Rip Davis, John Bryan, William Bond and Hubert Wilson—were killed in the surprise attack. Their bodies were mutilated beyond recognition.

One Englishman, A. Murphy, in the party, was captured, but released.

BOSTELMAN'S BONDSMAN KNOWS LEMON BUT NOTHING ABOUT 'THE BONDS,' HE SAYS

"Jimmy" Miller, Justice of the Peace, Supposes It Would Have Been Logical for Those Seeking Bonds to See Him for Information.

State Representative Joseph L. Lemon, who dealt with the underworld in returning $822,000 worth of bonds stolen in the now celebrated Grand National Bank robbery, is a close friend of Justice of the Peace "Jimmy" Miller, who in turrn signed a $20,000 bond for "Monte" Bostelman, when Bostelman was arrested on a charge of having robbed the bank.

Justice Miller told a Post-Dispatch reporter yesterday that, while he had known Lemon for several years, he knew nothing of Lemon's dealings for the return of the bonds.

Neither, Miller asserted, had the fact that he signed Bostelman's bonds brought to him any suggestions from other sources that he himself might be helpful in establishing contact with the burglars and laying the groundwork for the return of the bonds.

"I suppose it would have been logical to go to Bostelman's bondsman about the bonds as long as Bostelman was suspected of knowing about the robbery," he said. "But the fact is no one came to me about the bonds or any other phase of the robbery at any time."

Surety for Herbert and Brittin.

Miller said that in the course of his business as a professional bondsman he had acted as surety for Gifford J. Herbert, cashier of the Grand National, and William A. Brittin, vault custodian, who were placed under bonds of $50,000 each for questioning about the robbery. Miller also signed bonds for the Young brothers, after their brokerage business failed, and for many others who have figured in prominent criminal prosecutions in the last 15 years.

"If I had been tied up with every criminal prosecution I signed bonds in during the past few years, I'd be a lot better known than I am now," Miller said in commenting on his activities as a bondsman.

"I can't understand why my name should be mentioned in the Grand National case any more than in the Young Brothers' case or any of the others. 'Dick' Lemon (Lemon is so known to his friends) knows where he got those bonds. If he won't tell I don't see how anyone is going to find out who gave them to him."

Met Lemon as Sidener's Aid.

Justice Miller said he became acquainted with Lemon while the latter was Assistant Circuit Attorney under Howard Sidener from 1926-29. At that time Miller was to be found daily in the Municipal Courts Building in the course of his business as a professional bondsman.

"That's why I don't see what importance my friendship with Lemon has," he said. "I met hundreds of lawyers as a bondsman and a lot of them I would call close friends."

Lemon is a Republican. Miller is a member of the Democratic City Committee from the Fourth Ward. The Third legislative district, represented by Lemon, includes the Democratic Fourth Ward ruled by Miller. As Justice of the Peace of the Sixth District, Miller took his seat this year and closed his business as a bondsman. His court is at 1505 Cass avenue.

Bostelman has been known to Miller for several years, but only casually, the magistrate told the Post-Dispatch.

"He's one of those fellows you see around a lot," Miller said. "But he and I have never been close friends. I signed a bond for him several years ago when he was picked up by the police and the next one I signed was the $20,000 bond when he was arrested last July. I signed the bonds purely because they meant business to me. I was a professional bondsman and there was no friendship indicated in the fact I acted in the case."

When Bostelman was arrested at a teller's window in the Hamilton State Bank at 5852 Delmar boulevard, the police seized $2500 which he had proffered as a deposit. Of the money, $1080 was in gold coins. This was exactly one-sixth of the gold specie stolen in the Grand National robbery, in which six men participated.

Subsequently, Grand National tellers identified 24 bills of various denominations and one gold coin, as part of the bank's funds. The bills were identified by tellers' notations and the gold coin by its date, being a rare issue, and by certain stains on one of its faces.

Bostelman refused to answer policemen's questions beyond saying he had come by the money honestly. Circuit Attorney Miller declined to issue a warrant, holding that it would be impossible successfully to predicate a proof of Bostelman's guilt upon his possession of the loot, since more than six weeks had elapsed between the date of the Grand Bank robbery on May 25 and his arrest July 12. "Recent possession," meaning possession near the time of the crime, was necessary to make such a case, the Circuit Attorney held.

Bostelman's Story to Friend.

To a friend who demanded a more particular explanation than he had given the police, Bostelman said that he had raised the money by selling a dyeing and cleaning establishment in Springfield, Ill. Investigation showed he never had been connected with such an establishment in Springfield.

In June, 1921, Bostleman pleaded guilty to two charges of burglary and larceny in connection with the theft of furs valued at $60,000 from the Leppert-Roos Fur Company, and Famous-Barr Company. He was sentenced by Judge Hartmann to consecutive terms of five years in the penitentiary, a total of ten years, but three weeks later the terms were commuted to the Missouri Reformatory for Boys at Boonville.

He was then 24 years old, but for purposes of punishment at that time the law considered convicts as juveniles until they reached the age of 30 years. Bostelman was released under parole after serving 13 months. Justice of the Peace Miller said he had not intervened in Bostelman's behalf either for the commutation or for the parole.

For several years "Jimmy" Miller has been a power in the Fourth Ward. He also is in the real estate business and is a partner in the Biltmore Country Club, a pretentious Jefferson County gambling house on the Gravois road, which runs with the consent of the authorities, but which is now closed because of poor business due to the depression. One of its owners, Harry Levin, died Friday of heart disease.

SAFETY COUNCIL URGES TRAFFIC VIGILANTES

Would Have "Responsible Citizens" Observe and Report Law Violations.

A safety program designed to curb the increase in traffic accidents has been approved by the Executive Committee of the Safety Council upon recommendations by investigating committees appointed March 27.

Up to yesterday there had been 53 deaths resulting from traffic accidents so far this year as compared with 42 for the same period of last year. The comparative figures at the time the committees were appointed were 43 and 32.

The recommendations were grouped under three heads, law enforcement, safety engineering, and educational campaigns.

The law enforcement program included suggestions for the organization of a Vigilance Committee of responsible citizens to report observations of traffic law violations, an increase in personnel of the traffic bureau, formation of an accident investigation squad in the Police Department, renewed enforcement of laws against speeding, careless driving and driving when intoxicated, and rigid enforcement of parking light, head light and tail light regulations. The question of giving limited police powers to members of the Vigilance Committee was deferred for conference with police and other city officials.

John C. Tobin of the Law Enforcement Committee suggested an investigation of cases appealed from Police Courts to the Courts of Criminal Correction.

The engineering program embodied recommendations for installation of additional concrete, illuminated safety zones, automatic traffic signals, and stop and warning signs; acceleration of street widening and resurfacing projects, and the inclusion of additional funds for the Street Department in the next bond issue.

It was decided to reorganize the Speakers' Bureau of the Council in continuing present educational methods and to inaugurate an intensive campaign to acquaint the public with traffic regulatons and the most frequent causes of accidents.

Committees to carry out the recommendations will be appointed by T. P. Chapman, president of the council.

HOUSEKEEPER ENDS LIFE; $3614 PINNED ON CLOTHING

Mrs. Annie Vetter Found Dead, Gas Turned on at 4348 Swan Avenue.

Mrs. Annie Vetter, a widow, 69 years old, was found dead yesterday in the kitchen of the home at 4348 Swan avenue, where she was employed. Five burners of a gas stove were opened but unlighted.

In a pouch pinned to her clothing police found $130 and bank time deposit receipts for $3484. Mrs. Vetter kept house for Henry Witte, who was away from the city.

WOMAN, 75, IS FOUND DEAD FROM GAS, SON UNCONSCIOUS

Mrs. Mary Basse, 6416 South Kingshighway Victim of Asphyxiation in Home.

Mrs. Mary Basse, 75 years old, was found dead, and her son, Fred Basse, 45, unconscious from gas at their home, 6416 South Kingshighway boulevard, yesterday morning. A burner of a gas stove in the kitchen was open but not lighted.

The two were found by Mrs. Basse's sister, Mrs. Celestine Drehle, who called at the house. Mrs. Basse was lying in nightclothes on the floor of a bedroom adjoining the kitchen, and her son, an invalid, in a chair by a partly opened kitchen window, fully dressed.

Basse was taken to City Hospital, after being revived with an inhalator. Police said the gas apparently had been turned on accidentally.

ELECTRIC COMBINE OUSTER APPROVED BY SUPREME COURT

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 18.—The ouster by consent decree of four St. Louis electrical organizations, approved today by the Supreme Court in an anti-trust proceeding, will result in the dissolution of three of the four offending corporations within 60 or 90 days. A reasonable length of time to terminate their affairs will be afforded them.

In view of testimony by experienced contractors that the price of electrical installation was increased 50 per cent by the activities of the combine, an almost immediate reduction in costs in that field is expected.

The corporations whose charters were revoked after attorneys representing them agreed with Assistant Attorneys General Richmond C. Coburn and John B. Edwards of St. Louis, that they were violating state anti-trust laws, are: The Electrical Employers' Association, an organization of contractors; the Electrical Approval Bureau, an inspection board; the Electrical Protective Association, a clearing house for the payment by contractors of insurance premiums on group policies for union labor, themselves and non-union employes and the Electrical Listing Bureau, a cost estimating agency.

Conditionally Exempt.

Judgment against the last named corporation was suspended on condition that price fixing practices will be abandoned. The ouster will be reinstated by terms of the decree, if the Listing Bureau fails to comply in the future with state anti-trust regulations.

About a year ago, upon information furnished him by the Post-Dispatch after an extended investigation, Attorney-General Stratton Shartel instituted quo warranto proceedings against the four corporations, charging them with conspiring to regulate prices and restrain trade. He charged they were guilty of "unlawful and malicious perversions and abuses of their charters."

At the hearings which followed, contractors testified there was an agreement among them to charge a minimum of 33 1-3 per cent profit, that each contractor must belong to each of the four organizations to do business in St. Louis, and that failure to comply with the regulations imposed by those who dominated the associations resulted in harassment, labor difficulties, and loss of contracts for work.

Each contractor was compelled to pay to the Electrical Protective Association $2.80 a day for each union man in his employ for life and annuity insurance given all members of Local Electrical Workers' Union No. 1, the contractor and his non-union employes. So far as the public—which eventually footed the bill—was concerned the wage scale for union labor in the electrical trade was $16 a day, but the union worker received $13.20.

Expected to Revive Bidding.

This cost, and numerous fees, dues and assessments levied on the contractor by the associations, is eliminated from the industry by the ouster decree. Equally important, will be the resumption of competitive bidding for contracts by rival contractors who are no longer compelled by agreement to charge a minimum profit, thus making their bids for work almost uniform.

The Supreme Court assessed the costs of the litigation, estimated at about $5000, against the defendant corporations.

Indictments for conspiracy to violate antitrust laws, against Orville E. Jennings, and Chester Chapline, dominant figures in the formation and management of the ousted companies, will be dismissed in St. Louis Monday. Jennings, International Electrical Labor Union delegate, and Chapline, a contractor, were indicted last November by a Circuit Court grand jury, charged with organizing and controlling the defendant corporations for their own personal profit.

Circuit Attorney Miller has agreed to nolle pros the indictments in pursuance of an arrangement between Assistant Attorneys-General Edwards and Coburn and defense attorneys who consented to the stipulations in the ouster decree.

The Circuit Attorney explained that the indictments would be dismissed because the object of legal action on the part of the State was accomplished. "As a practical matter," Miller said, "there is considerable doubt that with the Supreme Court ouster in effect, criminal intent could be proved against the individual defendants."

Shartel to Warn Other Combines.

"Ouster of these companies is very important," Attorney-General Shartel said. "It will prevent other trades from entering into similar associations. Our victory in this case will stop the spreading of a scheme which would soon stifle construction work in St. Louis." Similar organizations now operating in Kansas City would be warned, Shartel said.

St. Louis Electrical Contractors Form New Organization.

With the announced purpose of "stimulating industry, creating work, particularly in this field and in all collateral industries of building and contracting," a new organization to be known as the Associated Electrical Contractors was formed last week by many men who were formerly affiliated with the Electrical Employers' Association.

In a formal statement, announcing the election of officers, it is set forth that "this organization is not affiliated with the Approval Bureau, the Listing Bureau or the Protective Association of the electrical industry, and is not to be confused with any association wherein O. E. Jennings is an officer or a member."

Officers of the new group, three of whom were witnesses for the State in the successful quo warranto suit brought by the Attorney-General, are: Roy Hoskins, president; Emmet Barnes, vice president; Harry Faig, treasurer, and John O'Mara, secretary.

KENNARD'S

Have Not Lowered Their Quality Standards

When price is being shouted so loud and lustily it is well to remember that quality is oftentimes forgotten in the attempt to have the lowest price. It is easy to lower quality along with price. We mark our things with the legitimate profit of good shopkeeping and do not attempt to convey the impression that we give something for nothing. We have lowered our prices but have maintained the quality.

STIMSON EXPLAINS PRESENT POLICY IN NICARAGUA

coast towns; and then for this specailly trained constabulary to operate in the jungle against the bandits.

"If the number of constabulary now on the East Coast is not sufficient for that purpose, there are certainly enough elsewhere to reinforce them against these comparatively small bands of outlaws.

"American naval vessels are standing by at all the threatened East Coast ports with orders to protect life and property at these ports. These ships will remain until the danger is over.

"By assisting the Government of Nicaragua in organizing and training a competent Guardia, we are not only furnishing the most practical and effective method of meeting the bandit problem and the protection of Americans and foreigners in Nicaragua from its attedant perils, but we are at the same time recognizing that it is a problem with which the sovereign Government of Nicaragua is primarily concerned and a problem which it is primarily the right and duty of that Government to solve.

"There has been no change in the determination of the American Government not to send American troops into the interior.

Sandino "Mythical Patriot."

"The events of this last week have pretty thoroughly torn the mask off the character of the mythical patriot, Sandino. Two of his lieutenants have been recognized as leaders of these outlaw bands, and both from their work and the evidence of captured papers they are shown to have been engaged in a deliberate plan of assassination and pillage against helpless civilians of various nationalities, including Nicaraguans, working in mines and logging camps.

"The movements of these outlaws from the Northwestern provinces to the Eastern coast of Nicaragua came just after the terrific eathquake which prostrated the center of that country, when every humane impulse was to assist those who were suffering from the catastrophe and when all forces, including Marines and constabulary were engaged in the allevation of distress. It was in the hour of his country's desolation that Sandino chose to send his outlaws across the country and to attack the region which he believed to be left unguarded."

In addition to his prepared statement the Secretary said no other Government had yet approached the United States with respect to the protection of its nationals in Nicaragua. He added that recent American declarations of policy affecting Nicaragua in no wise involved the Monroe Doctrine, the recognized principles of which the Government had no intention of altering.

About half of the approximately 600 American civilians in Nicaragua, recent State Department figures show, live along the eastern coast, most of them at Bluefields and Puerto Cabezas, although before the first insurgent raid a week ago there were many in the hinterland of those ports.

American Investments.

American properties and investments in Nicaragua have a total value of more than $19,000,000, of which $16,500,000 is in the eastern portion of the country. Properties of banana and lumber companies there are estimated at $14,625,000, by far the largest single item listed in information at the State Department.

Both the State and Commerce Departments refused requests for detailed information on American business interests in the Central American republic. It was shown, however, that $1,180,000 is placed in public utilities; $552,000 in mercantile business and $525,000 in mining.

William C. Dufour, counsel here for the Standard Fruit & Steamship Co. of New Orleans, said of the money invested in banana and lumber production, $13,000,000 was represented by plants of his company.

"The rest," he said, "is accounted for by the fruit farms owned by the United Fruit Co. on the Rio Grande and the Escondido River."

Rumor of Threatened Attack.

Reports that all is quiet along the Eastern coast of Nicaragua reached the American Government today from the commanding officers of its warships stationed at Bluefields, Puerto Cabezas and Cape Gracias a Dios. The commander of the gunboat Sacramento, at Bluefields, however, relayed an unconfirmed report that Pedro Altamirano on the Rio Negra was preparing an attack on the El Gallo ranch.

The commander of the gunboat Asheville, which arrived yesterday at Cape Gracias, reported that nobody had been killed in the raid of last Wednesday and that the town was quiet.

The commander of the Guardia in Eastern Nicaragua said he expected no trouble except possible looting by local unemployed in case the Guardia should be drawn into the interior in pursuit of insurgents. The Guardia has 36 men at Bluefields and a total strength of 136 along the entire coast.

Borah Demands U. S. Cease Interference in Central America.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 18. — Chairman Borah of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said today American Marines should be withdrawn from Nicaragua "as rapidly and as effectively as the situation can be adjusted," but the Government should not "lose sight of the fact that American lives may be involved."

Borah said when American citizens go into undeveloped countries they consent to the kind of government that country has and "it should not be the business of the United States to substitute our rule for the rule of the people, whose country it is, in order to accommodate investors."

"We ought to establish a definite and permanent policy with reference to these South American countries," Borah said, "and that definite policy should be to cease interfering with these Central American Governments.

"We are losing in trade and in friendship in South America and the basic reason why that is so is our policy heretofore prevailing with reference to the Central American countries.

"It is one thing to protect American lives when threatened. It is a wholly different thing to take possession of a country and interfere with the local Government and undertake to furnish a general police force for all those who have invested."

$150 REWARD OFFERED FOR $1500 DIAMOND BRACELET

Miss Harriet Moreno Is Loser—Avowed Finder on Phone Fails to Keep Appointment.

The loss of a $1500 platinum bracelet by Miss Harriet Moreno, 24 Brentmoor Park, Clayton, was made known yesterday by the offer of a $150 reward for information leading to its return. An advertisement offering the reward appears in the Post-Dispatch today.

The bracelet, set with 40 small diamonds, was lost between Glen Echo Country Club and the Moreno residence Saturday night, April 11. Following the printing of an advertisement a few days later, a woman called the Moreno home and said her husband had found the bracelet, but failed to keep an appointment to return it.

BARNES EXPLAINS HIS STATEMENT ON 'THINNING' WAGES

Says He Meant Available Work Should Be Divided to Spread Pay Among More Persons.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Julius S. Barnes, chairman of the United States Chamber of Commerce, who recently suggested in an interview in the Post-Dispatch that unemployment be solved by taking the total sum now paid in wages to persons with jobs and spreading it out to cover those who have none, last night issued a statement denying that he had advocated "wage cuts."

The substance of Barnes' statement was that what he had advocated was not cutting the wage rates of workers now employed, but simply giving them less work and less earnings, to provide work for others now unemployed.

The statement was recognized here as an effort to extricate the Chamber of Commerce from a painful situation.

What Barnes Said.

In the interview which appeared in the Post-Dispatch April 2 which was an elaboration of a speech he had previously delivered before a business organization in New York, Barnes said:

"We have normally employed in the United States about 45,000,000 wage and salary earners, receiving $52,000,000,000 annually. There has been a shrinkage to 40,000,000 workers, and a shrinkage in the payroll to about $46,000,000,000. Under present conditions, the majority, fortunately retain their positions, and without shrinkage in their wage or salary, but rather with the addition of a premium in buying power, because of price declines in things they do need to buy. At the same time, a portion of the earning army lose their income largely or completely."

He therefore advocated that this condition be met by giving work to the entire 45,000,000 workers, and dividing among them the $46,000,000,000 now being paid to the 40,000,000 employed, which would result in a reduction of about 11 per cent in the annual earnings of those now employed.

A few days ago statements from the White House represented President Hoover as being "gratified" at the attitude of American industry in "maintaining wages at pre-depression levels." Yesterday morning a number of Eastern newspapers, including The Washington Herald and the Baltimore Sun, contrasted this statement with Barnes' interview in the Post-Dispatch.

The comparison was especially pointed, because Barnes is an intimate friend of President Hoover and was designated "Director of Prosperity" by the President following the series of White House conferences with industrial magnates more than a year ago.

Embarrassed by Couzens.

Meantime, the Chamber of Commerce had been placed in an embarrassing position by the fact that Senator James Couzens of Michigan issued a statement warning business executives that unless they found means of preventing such conditions as exist now Congress would present them with a remedy in the form of compulsory unemployment insurance and old age pensions. He ironically suggested that delegates to the annual convention of the Chamber at Atlantic City 10 days hence give some thought to this problem "while attending the night club parties in the Pompeian Room."

Replying to this suggestion, President William Butterworth of the Chamber issued a statement to newspapers declaring that delegates to the convention expected to give their most earnest consideration to the problems mentioned by Couzens, and would "welcome" any remedial measures that Couzens could advance, thus conveying the impression that the Michigan Senator would be invited to address the Chamber.

Couzens let it be known Thursday night that he had received no invitation, and that the only knowledge he had of Butterworth's statement had been obtained from reading the newspapers. This circumstance was linked in the Eastern press with Barnes' advocacy of a general 11 per cent reduction—or what he calls "thinning out"—in wages and salaries.

No Place for Couzens.

A flurry resulted in the chamber, and a meeting of the program committee of the chamber was called yesterday to see whether "a place could be found" on the convention program for Senator Couzens. This effort was unsuccessful, and Senator Couzens remarked: "I thought so."

Last night the chamber issued the latest statement by Barnes, as follows:

"A newspaper story published this morning makes the statement that I have advocated wage cuts. Nothing could be farther from the truth. I have not advocated wage cuts. What I have advocated is that industry, in times of depression, keep the greatest possible number of persons employed by staggering employment.

"This depression, like all previous ones, is a pause in business progress. Necessarily business receipts and the total amount available to pay out for salaries and wages and for materials all shrink with a smaller volume of trade. To my mind it is better to have the fullest number of persons employed, if necessary at shorter hours, than to have the few number living under the fear of possible unemployment held before their eyes by those out of work. That does not mean a cutting of wage scales or rates. It does mean a more general spreading temporarily of total earnings. Wouldn't any man rather work temporarily on shorter hours than to take a cut in his wage scale, if on the return of full-time employment his wages automatically are restored to their former basis?

"After all, those who are directing business, with lower earnings or none at all, are trying primarily to keep business going for those employed, as well as trying to reabsorb the unemployed as fast as possible. Many enlightened leaders think that can best be done by preserving wage scales wherever the circumstances of individual business permit, and that policy is generally pursued."

As has been pointed out, the effect of Barnes' plan would be to place the burden of relieving unemployment on the workers who now have jobs, rather than on the employers, since the wages of the newly employed would be taken out of the wages of those already employed instead of being taken out of profits.

Belmont Mansion

Furnished by

LAMMERTS

Lammert's Interior Decorating Department executed the furnishings for "Belmont Mansion". The Georgian Period is used as the general theme with other appointments in keeping, but a refreshing departure here and there adds interest and variety; for instance, one bedroom is in Colonial Maple, another typifies the classic French spirit of Louis XVI. Draperies, floor coverings, glass curtains, and furniture form a complete and harmonious ensemble of arresting charm and sumptuous beauty. The entire effect is one of exquisite good taste and quiet elegance done in the traditional Lammert Manner.

This charming Colonial home—artistically decorated and beautifully furnished—in Pasadena Hills, St. Louis County with the invitation extended to all St. Louis to come and see it.

Will Be Formally Opened Today, Sunday, April 19th

BELMONT MANSION in its rugged park-like setting presents the truly Colonial type of home with the present day additions of all desired comforts and conveniences.

Belmont Mansion affords an opportunity for all lovers of the Colonial to take an enjoyable trip through a distinctive type of home with the atmosphere of old historic New England throughout—in construction and furnishings—furnished by Lammert's.

Belmont Mansion may prove to be the home expressing exactly your personality and affording the inspiration of a home-life of that charming higher type of your dreams.

Drive out and see Belmont Mansion!

Look about and behold the beautiful environment of Pasadena Hills, this delightful garden of homes, homes of personality, where property is restricted and—with three splendid golf courses less than a mile away.

OTHER HOMESITES IN PASADENA HILLS. In your visit to Pasadena Hills you will see many stately homes that have been erected in this "garden spot of Saint Louis County." You will enthuse over the splendor of the wonderful landscape, the beautiful Roland Boulevard—100 feet wide—with its parkways and elaborate fountain. You will appreciate that here is the type of home community which makes life mean more . . . a community with cultured neighbors and refined surroundings, where all facilities for parks, playgrounds and schools have been amply provided.

Many of the choicest lots are still available in Pasadena Hills and you will be agreeably surprised to note how reasonably they are priced. For the splendid environment and living satisfaction which are truly typical of Pasadena Hills no premium is exacted, they become yours as a home owner.

The Colonial Ancestor of

BELMONT

Belmont, the beautiful home of Judge Richard Peters—loyal patriot and friend of General Washington during the revolution—stood in West Philadelphia, now Fairmount Park, on a commanding site, whence an extensive panorama spreads out before the eyes—the sweep of the Schuylkill River.

The great hall of the house with its stately paneling and carving had one of the most elaborate examples of Colonial plaster work ceilings known, where viols and guitars, trumpets and shepherd's reeds intermingled with the family arms and crests.

Belmont — of Colonial history — is clothed with the memories of the man whose deeds are a matter of historic pride, of whom Congress went on record in a resolution in the Journal, "that Congress are sensible of his merit and convinced of his attachment to the cause of his country," adding their thanks for his long service.

And now, a new Belmont rises, a monument to its Colonial ancestor, out here in the Garden Spot of St. Louis County.

Drive out and see Belmont mansion, today—and enjoy the delightful atmosphere of nature's garden community, "Where your home is your playground!"

How to Reach Pasadena Hills:

RESINOL STOPS THE ITCHING OF RASHES

Don't endure the annoyance another day. Just get a jar of Resinol Ointment and a cake of Resinol Soap from your nearest druggist. Bathe the affected parts with the soap, and warm water, dry lightly, and apply the ointment. That's all there is to it but you will be amazed to see how quickly the itching is relieved, the inflammation is reduced, and healing begins.

SUIT AGAINST GRAND BANK IS DISMISSED

Harrison, Ark., Depository Had Sought $161,940 Alleged to Be Due on Notes.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HARRISON, Ark., April 18.—The Citizens' Bank & Trust Co. of Harrison yesterday dismissed its suit for $161,940 against the Grand National Bank of St. Louis. The suit was filed last March 17, the plaintiff alleging that amount was due it for notes it had sold to the Grand National.

The plaintiff bank also sought to garnishee notes in the hands of representatives of the Grand National for collection. Dismissal of the suit released the garnishment.

A. T. Hudspeth, vice president of the Citizens Bank & Trust Co., said arrangements had been made for payment of a loan that bank had obtained from the Grand National. The Grand National was holding the notes in dispute as collateral for the loan.

ART OF LIVING LOST, SAYS MISSOURI U. PROFESSOR

Dr. C. E. Germane Addresses the Board of Religious Organizations.

The art of living has become a lost art in the present tendency to seek happiness in material things, Dr. C. E. Germane, professor of education at the University of Missouri, said Friday in an address before the Board of Religious Organizations, at its annual election meeting at Hotel Jefferson.

"If the art of living is not rediscovered, it will lead to individual disintegration and racial deterioration," Dr. Germane said. "We are living—we don't know how. We are simply hurrying up to a premature death." He suggested philosophy, science, religion, literature and fine arts as a means of escape from "the realistic whirlpool of existence."

Officers elected were Mrs. E. A. Kieselhorst, president; Mrs. C. W. Wingley, Mrs. Robert L. Lund, Mrs. Clay E. Jordan, Mrs. Virgil Rule, Mrs. Gilbert Fox, and Mrs. Ida Pauley, vice presidents; Mrs. C. Howard Stewart, recording secretary; Mrs. Joseph S. Calfee, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Henry Wolfner, treasurer, and Mrs. A. O. Wilson, assistant treasurer. Mrs. Henry S. Butler was named chairman of finance.

BUS SERVICE TO STEAMERS

Vehicles Will Run to Levee Beginning May 2.

Shuttle bus service from Third street and Washington avenue to excurison steamers on the levee will be begun May 2, on the day the boats start operating, by the People's Motorbus Co.

Passengers on any of the People's Motorbus Co. lines will be able to transfer at the downtown end of the lines.

Auto Death Held Accident.

A Coroner's verdict of accident was returned yesterday at an inquest into the case of Mrs. Netta Weighton, 50 years old, 6500 Southwest avenue, who died Thursday evening from a fractured skull, suffered when she was thrown from an automobile driven by her husband after a collision with another machine at Arsenal street and Ivanhoe avenues.

To Address Municipal Engineers.

Hymen Shifrin, assistant chief engineer of the division of sewers and paving, of the Board of Public Service, will describe the organization of the division at a meeting of the St. Louis section of the American Society of Municipal Engineers Tuesday night at 8:15 o'clock at 4359 Lindell boulevard.

BANQUET WEDNESDAY IN HONOR OF NEUN

Expected to Be Feeler to Learn Support He May Expect for Mayoralty in 1933.

A banquet next Wednesday in honor of Walter J. G. Neun, celebrating his recent election to a third term as president of the Board of Aldermen, is expected to constitute an early feeler as to the support he may expect for the Republican nomination for Mayor in 1933. He defeated Mayor Miller's machine overwhelmingly and surprisingly in the primary this year.

The banquet will be given under the auspices of the St. Louis Republican Club, of which Neun is president. J. F. O. Reller, vice president, is in charge of arrangements. It will be held at Hotel Chase. About 500 persons are expected to attend. The club has a membership of about 600.

The subject of the mayoralty will be avoided studiously by Neun and Reller, who will be toastmaster. The list of speakers has not been completed. Gov. Caulfield has been invited.

AMERICAN-MADE TAPESTRY PLACED ON EXHIBITION

Work of Lorenz Kleiser's Studios Shown at the Noonan & Kocian Galleries.

An exhibition of American tapestries—real tapestries—made by the same process used by Queen Matilda, wife of William the Conqueror and her maids more than 800 years ago when they wove the world-famous Bayeaux tapestry, is in progress at the Noonan & Kocian galleries. The tapestries come from studios designed and built by the artist, Lorenz Kleiser, in the village of Edgewater, N. J., across the Hudson from New York City.

The tapestries of varying sizes shown in St. Louis have as their subjects classical or allegorical concepts, with remarkable modeling of faces and figures and surprising blend of colors, considering that they are placed in the tapestry stitch by stitch.

The Missouri State Capitol possesses four designs by Kleiser—"the Santa Fe Trail," "The Fur Trade," "River Traffic," and "Lead Mining."

A class of 253 applicants took the examination, 177 of them, or 70 per cent, failing to obtain passing grades.

Applicants to be licensed include 19 from St. Louis. They are:

William E. Barry, John J. Carroll, Sidney Harold Dilks, Paul Everest Farrier, Elmer W. Oehler, Clyde Miller Smith, Elmer A. Webb, John D. Bryan, William G. Burch, George W. Curran, Charles Dralle, Francis Harlan Quigley, Thomas J. Roach, R. B. Shrewsbury, John Walter Zierchner, Bernard Hollander, J. M. Brown, E. Louis Klobassa Jr., and Charles C. Higgins of Jefferson Barracks.

Thirty-three from Kansas City passed and the others who passed are from different parts of the State.

DRESS FACTORY TO REOPEN

Plant Closed by Wage Dispute to Resume Work Tomorrow.

The Collinsville dress manufacturing plant of the Forest City Manufacturing Co., 1627 Washington avenue, will reopen tomorrow under a temporary restraining order obtained in Federal Court at Bloomington, Ill., to prevent groups of strikers from interfering with activity of the factory.

The plant has been closed for the last two weeks as a result of a wage dispute, some of the 450 women employes having demanded an increase. About 75 to 85 per cent of the force is expected to return to work tomorrow, according to officers of the company.

FOREIGN TRADE CONFERENCE

Speakers Announced for St. Louis Sessions on May 22.

George W. Doonan, manager of the foreign department of the Central Trust Co., Chicago, will address one of the sessions of the fifth Central Mississippi Valley Foreign Trade Conference here on May 22. He will speak on "Financing Foreign Trade."

Other speakers will be C. C. Coldren, vice president of the Quaker Oats Co.; George J. Eder of the United States Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, and R. L. Lundquist, export manager of the Kelvinator Co. of Detroit. The conference is sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce Foreign Trade Bureau.

Religious Education Council.

The Missouri Sunday School Council of Religious Education will open its annual financial campaign at a meeting of Sunday school workers from St. Louis and St. Louis County at Union Avenue Christian Church Tuesday evening at 6:30 o'clock. WARNING AGAINST REFUSE

Police Warned to Prevent Littering of Vacant Lots.

An order to all police districts calling attention to the fact that refuse had been dumped on vacant lots in residential sections, and asking for closer police supervision to prevent such a practice, which is in violation of a city ordinance, was issued yesterday by Chief Gerk.

"Such minor violations are a matter of routine police duty," the notice states, "and the fact that complaints in such cases come to the Chief's office is a reflection against the beat officer."

FRESH OUTBREAKS IN NICARAGUA LAID TO SANDINO BAND

Official of U. S. State Department Outlines Situation Before Academy of Political and Social Science

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, April 18.—Creation of the situation in Nicaragua which he said "has resulted in the shocking murder of unoffending private American citizens" was credited today by Walter C. Thurston, chief of the division of Latin-American affairs of the State Department, solely to the insurgent leader, Augustino Sandino.

Speaking at the annual meeting of the American Academy of Political and Social Science, Thurston called Sandino a "petty chieftain schooled in outlawry and dedicated to rapine and destruction." It was ironical, he said, that such a man "should have assumed the proportions of a hero, even of a defender of the 'vestiges of the sovereignty of an invaded republic.'"

Peace Effort in 1927.

He recalled that the virtual pacification of Nicaragua was accomplished in 1927 when Stimson, then on a special mission for President Coolidge, visited that country and arranged for disarmament of both factions. All leaders joined in the movement of peace, he said, but "one of Gen. (now President) Moncada's chieftains, Sandino, who, after having promised Gen. Moncada that he, too, would surrender his arms, broke his word and secretly fled to the hills."

"There, safe within the pathless mountain fastness of a desolate region some 15,000 square miles in extent," he related, "he has preyed upon his fellow countrymen by pillage and murder, and waged an intermittent guerilla warfare of ambush and flight against the forces of his Government and the co-operating forces of the Government of the United States.

"He was well trained for such a career, for it is understood that he was schooled in similar tactics by service under Pancho Villa, whose activities resulted in bloodshed and destruction on both sides of the common frontier of Mexico and the United States.

Not All Nicaraguans.

"His present followers are outlaws of various nationalities—they are not all by any means Nicaraguans.

"Moreover, he was already familiar with the terrain in which he now operates, for he was employed by an American mine owner in the department of Nueva Segovia—his patron's mine being one of the first properties to be seized and looted by Sandino when he turned to his present career.

"It is such a man, then, who, when a great catastrophe has overtaken his native land and at the time his capital city lies a smouldering waste of ruin, when the Nicaraguan Government has been practically paralyzed and has been obliged to call upon all its forces and all its resources for the essential immediate task of protection and relief in the neighborhood of the disaster, devises and deliberately sets in motion a program for the destruction of American and other foreign lives and property and the lives and property of Nicaraguans as well, not in open warfare, but by the stealthy and ruthless tactics which characterized the savages who fell upon American settlers in our country 150 years ago.

"For these Americans who have been killed in Nicaragua during the past few days were first taken prisoner and then slaughtered.

Sandino's Apparent Purpose.

"A further word about the alleged patriotism of Sandino. It has frequently been stated by those said to be his spokesmen that his objective is not loot, but that his only purpose is to rid Nicaragua of the American Marines. How truly are his colors shown by his recent acts!

"As long ago as Feb. 13, widespread public announcement was made by our Government of the conclusion of a program whereunder the Government of Nicaragua would increase its own forces, the Nicaraguan National Guard, and whereunder the forces of the United States would be decreased rapidly and drastically, and would be completely removed from Nicaragua immediately after the next presidential elections of 1932.

"Within the two months which have since elapsed 154 Marines have left Nicaragua and the plans for the continuing of evacuation of those forces are in active operation. It is under these circumstances that Sandino has resorted to the very measures against foreign lives and property that would be most likely to precipitate the foreign military intervention he is said to oppose."

Yale Scholarship Correction.

By the Associated Press.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 18.—Yale University today made known that William David Behnke, Rivera, Cal., was one of the winners of the first Henry Fund scholarship, and not Albert Robert Behnke, as the official announcement read yesterday. These scholarships went to four students. They have a value of $2300 each and provide courses at Oxford and Cambridge. Behnke is a senior in Yale College.

Another triumph for Listerine!

Instantly overcomes odors other antiseptics fail to mask in 4 days

Listerine's 8 points of superiority over other mouth washes:

1. Absolutely safe to use.
2. Quick deodorant power.
3. Instant halting of fermentation.
4. Swift destruction of germs.
5. No damaging effect on tooth structure.
6. Does not attack metal fillings.
7. Heals and soothes tissue.
8. Requires no dilution.

Always the safest of antiseptics . . . now the swiftest of deodorants

The most searching scientific analysis ever made on the subject of deodorant power of mouth washes now reveals Listerine, the safe antiseptic, as the outstanding deodorant for oral use.

Repeated tests show that Listerine immediately overcomes odors that other solutions fail to mask in 4 days.

Because of its amazing deodorant effect, its power to kill germs in the fastest time, and its absolute safety, Listerine is the ideal antiseptic for oral hygiene.

For the treatment of halitosis (bad breath) there is nothing like it. 95% of halitosis is caused, dental authorities say, by fermenting food particles in the mouth and by infections of the oral tract.

Listerine instantly halts fermentation, and at the same time attacks infection. Having struck at these two causes of mouth odors, it then overcomes the odors themselves.

Use it every morning, every night. And between times before meeting others. It is your assurance that your breath will be sweet, clean, and wholesome, and therefore inoffensive.

Keep Listerine handy in home and office. Carry it with you when you travel. No other antiseptic mouth wash is so pleasant tasting. No other mouth wash has swifter deodorant and germicidal effect. No other mouth wash is more healing. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

ILLINOIS GASOLINE TAX INQUIRY IS REOPENED

Wets, Angry Over Veto of Repeal Bill, Take the Initiative.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 18.—The Republican State Administration was headed today into the second round of a legislative investigation of gasoline tax finances. A subcommittee, headed by Elmer C. Wilson (Rep.), Kankakee, opened up the investigation this week, on a resolution introduced by Howard Doyle (Dem.), Decatur, demanding that Garrett de Forest Kinney, Peoria, State Director of Finance in Gov. Emmerson's Cabinet, account for interest on several million dollars of 1927 and 1929 gasoline tax money, on deposit in banks.

"Political banks" was the new designation born in the first meeting of the subcommittee on Thursday, when first witnesses were called, and it was indicated that the gas tax collections had been deposited in Gov. Emmerson's bank in Springfield, Kinney's bank in Peoria, former Gov. Len Small's bank in Kankakee and the bank with which Speaker Shanahan is connected in Chicago.

Kinney has challenged the committee to find anything wrong with his management of the gas tax funds, and on Tuesday next will have opportunity to defend himself before the subcommittee. Oscar Nelson, State Auditor, also will be invited to appear at that time for questioning.

Doyle said that thus far it seemed that large amounts of gas tax money had been left on deposit in banks for extended periods without any payment of interest by the banks.

Democrats and anti-administration Republicans took the investigation as the first means of attacking Gov. Emmerson following his veto of their dry repealer bill.

Harry McCaskrin (Rep.), Rock Island, is expected next week to present his resolution, calling for a committee of five to investigate the amount of money the Governor spent printing and mailing copies of his veto measure. McCaskrin said he intended a further attack on the administration when his prison Visitation Committee reports.

MRS. J. J. HAYES GETS DIVORCE

Wins Decree From Insurance Man on Grounds of Indignities.

A divorce on grounds of general indignities was granted Mrs. Sallie C. Hayes, 4 Highland place, Glendale, by Circuit Judge McElhinney at Clayton yesterday. Mrs. Hayes testified that her husband, Joseph J. Hayes, an insurance agent with offices in the Rialto Building, was quarrelsome, stayed out late at night and told her his love for her was dead. She asserted his conduct toward her had seriously impaired her health. The marriage, she said, took place in 1917 and they separated March 26, last.

By a stipulation she is to receive $332 a month alimony until the first of next year, when the amount will be reduced to $300; $400 a year for the education of a 10-year-old adopted daughter; the family home, furniture and automobile.

VETOES IOWA ROAD BOND ACT

The Governor said the action was taken because he opposed the mandatory provision enlarging the primary road system at a cost of $50,000,000. He was preparing a message to be sent to the Legislature in amplification of his veto.

WIDOW CHARGES FRAUD IN APARTMENT DEAL

Mrs. Clementine Windey in Suit Says She Bought $150,000 Property at $268,000.

In a suit filed at Clayton yesterday, Mrs. Clementine Windey, a widow, asks for $30,000 damages from Samuel Stein and Frank A. Gilbert, described as co-partners in the real estate business under the firm name of Gilbert & Stein, on account of a transaction wherein she alleges they sold her an apartment building at an excessive price, through misrepresentation and fraud, resulting in loss to her.

The petition, drawn by her attorney, Ephrim Caplan, describes the transaction in detail, designating three of the principals as Mr. X, Mr. Y, and Mr. Z.

It is alleged the apartment building, 6158-70 Waterman avenue, was erected by Mr. X, "a certain well-known real estate operator," at a cost of $150,000 or less, who sold it to Mr. Y, another real estate operator, for $5000 cash and a deed of trust of $250,000; that Mr. X then used the deed of trust as collateral for a loan of $100,000 at a St. Louis bank.

Mr. Y, it is charged, purchased the property in the name of a straw man, who executed a series of notes for $40,000, secured by a second deed of trust on the property, and "that said notes and deed were executed solely for the purpose of 'padding' the apparent value of said property and 'hiking' the price thereof to some innocent purchaser as a 'sucker.'"

The property then was conveyed, the petition states, to Mr. Z, who knew all the facts, and paid only a nominal price for it. Defendant Stein, it is charged, was associated with Mr. Y and knew all the facts.

It is alleged that on April 21, 1930, Stein sold this property to Mrs. Windey, representing to her that it was worth at least $325,000, citing in support of this valuation the first deed of trust for $250,000 and the second for $40,000, she believing that the first was accepted by the bank for a loan of that amount.

It was represented the annual income from the property was $36,000, the petition alleges, sufficient to pay all interest, upkeep and taxes, in addition to providing the owner with living quarters and necessary living expenses.

In exchange for this property, the petition recites, Mrs. Windey conveyed to persons designated by the defendants, property she owned at 5132 Waterman avenue valued at $150,000 and mortgaged for $118,000.

The suit charges the $250,000 deed of trust on 6158-70 Waterman exceeded the value of the property and that Mrs. Windey soon learned the income was not sufficient to meet all expenses and interest, and that after a few months the property was sold under foreclosure.

Neither Stein nor Gilbert could be reached.

What to do with that $3 you save

Buy yourself bedroom slippers with what you save by using Listerine Tooth Paste instead of dentifrices in the 50¢ class. The saving averages about $3 per year per person, assuming you use a tube a month.

How to make your teeth brilliant white—beautiful

WILL you risk 25¢ to try a new, different dentifrice that beautifies teeth amazingly?

Listerine Tooth Paste is its name, made by the makers of Listerine. That guarantees its quality. A bit of it on your brush, a little gentle brushing—and immediately you begin to see your teeth improve. Others notice it, too.

Those tiny stains and discolorations vanish so quickly. Dull teeth grow white. And teeth already attractive take on a wonderful brilliance and luster—the way nature intended them to look.

These results are due to natural cleansing agents—so gentle in action—which first clean, then polish teeth.

They are softer than enamel so cannot harm it. But they are harder than tartar and therefore quickly remove it.

And remember, this dentifrice costs you not 50¢ but 25¢. Get a tube today and learn its benefits from actual use. Lambert Pharmacal Co., St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

AHOKIA DOG TRACK BANKRUPTCY HEARING

Claims of Some Alleged Creditors Denied by Company's President.

A hearing on protested claims totaling $30,000 against the Mississippi Valley Kennel Club, a corporation, which attempted to operate a dog track at Cahokia, was held Friday before Referee in Bankruptcy Walter Grant at East St. Louis.

The corporation was adjudged bankrupt on an action begun by a group of minority stockholders. The largest item of indebtedness, $15,650, is claimed by John Benson, a director, for services as manager. James Gorman, president of the corporation, testified Benson was never employed as manager, but received $200 a month for services in aiding to promote the venture.

The second largest item, $9400, is claimed by George W. Dowell, an attorney, who represented the Benson group in lawsuits among the stockholders. Gorman testified that Dowell had never been employed by the corporation, but had represented Benson and others in litigation.

Questioned by Dowell, Gorman denied that $30,000 in stock, marked "paid up" and held by Benson, had been given to Benson by the officers of the corporation for "fixing anyone." He said Benson still owed the corporation for stock he holds.

August Gruntz, secretary, testified that the corporation was broke the night it attempted to open and was stopped by the Sheriff of St. Clair County.

He said that the track opened with $4000 in cash put up by himself, Benton, and others to pay bets.

The balance of the alleged indebtedness is made up of claims by employes and material dealers. Ernest G. McHale, representing Gorman and the original incorporators, said he would attempt to have the bankruptcy judgment set aside on the ground that the claims of indebtedness were false.

The United States Supreme Court gave a decision this week that the rabbit invention of George W. Heintz, installed at the Cahokia track, was not an infringement on the patented rabbit used at the Madison Kennel Club in Madison County. Patent litigation was one of two obstacles that prevented the Cahokia track from operating. The other was the objection of State's Attorney Hilmar Lindauer.

ARRESTED ON BIGAMY CHARGE BROUGHT BY HIS FORMER WIFE

Joseph Boelhauf, 5442 Robin, Accused of Remarrying Without Getting Divorce.

Joseph Boelhauf, a 47-year-old cabinet maker, of 5442 Robin avenue, was arrested yesterday on complaint of his former wife, who charged he left her and remarried without having obtained a divorce. A bigamy warrant will be sought.

Police stated Boelhauf said he married the complainant, Mrs. Margaret Gebhard Boelhauf of 4250 Prairie avenue, in East St. Louis in April, 1905, a month after the death of his first wife. He left his wife after a month, according to the police, and in October, 1929, married Mrs. Mathilda Ansteett. She said she did not know he had married after his first wife's death.

KILLER FRED BURKE REPORTED WILLING TO PLEAD GUILTY

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., April 18.—The Benton Harbor News Palladium says it has learned from an authoritative source that Fred Burke, notorious gunman, will plead guilty of first degree murder in the Berrien Circuit Court next week.

The day for arraigning Burke, who was brought here from Missouri to face a charge of killing Patrolman Charles Skelly, of St. Joseph, Mich., has not been set.

Burke's attorney, Charles W. Gore, would not confirm or deny that the gunman would plead guilty and accept life imprisonment, which such a plea would make mandatory.

Bond Estate Left to Daughters.

The will of Mrs. Isabelle Scudder Bond, 17 Vandeventer place, who died March 17, was filed yesterday. She left her estate in trust of her daughter, Miss Mary Scudder Bond, and the St. Louis Union Trust Co., designating Miss Bond and another daughter, Mrs. Isabelle Sibley, as beneficiaries of the income during their lives. No estimate of the value of her estate was made. Mrs. Bond was the widow of Dr. H. Wheeler Bond, former Health Commissioner.

REPORT ON STATUS OF CONDEMNATION WORK

March 1 City Had Finished 9 Projects, Abandoned 4 and Was Progressing on 28.

A report on the status of condemnation proceedings for street widenings and a few other city undertakings has been issued by the General Council on Civic Needs. It lists 41 as of March 1, including nine which were completed during the 12 months preceding that date, four which were abandoned and 28 which are in varying stages of progress.

Cutoff at Eighteenth street and Geyer avenue; work has been done and opened to traffic; Enright cutoff, widening and extension, Taylor to Kingshighway, work may start this year, as an appropriation has been made; Fourteenth street, extension between Chouteau avenue and the new Gravois avenue; Kingshighway Northwest, Penrose Park to Broadway, this boulevard has been completed, except for the extreme north end, where it awaits the end of sewer construction; Lindell-Skinker Circle, to relieve traffic congestion at the northwestern corner of Forest Park, work likely to be done this year; Sheridan avenue, widening and opening between Jefferson and Easton avenues, work may start this year, as an appropriation has been made; Gravois avenue, opening and widening, Twelfth street to Grand boulevard, work is expected to be done this year; Twelfth street, widening between Market and Spruce streets, work should be done this year; Wabash avenue, widening between Bancroft and Leamington avenues.

The undertakings abandoned during the year under survey were Southwest Highway, the Kingshighway-Oakland traffic circle and two playground plans.

Outstanding among the widening plans and other improvements for which condemnation suits are pending are:

Clark avenue, Eighteenth, to Compton (a plan calling for a bridge over the Union Station tracks); Eighteenth street, Walnut to Chestnut; North and West Florissant avenues, Palm to Warne; traffic circle at intersection of Kingshighway Northwest, Goodfellow avenue, Hall's Ferry road and the proposed State highway No. 99; elimination of Lindell boulevard bottleneck, Channing to Grand; McCausland avenue, extension, Manchester to Leamington; Market street, Vandeventer to Seventh and cutoff to Third and Walnut; Morgan street, Third to Fourteenth and Jefferson to Grand, with extensions to Delmar and Enright, west of Spring; Natural Bridge avenue, North Florissant to city limits; Grand boulevard, Natural Bridge to Florissant, and Magnolia to Pine; North Twelfth boulevard, opening, Washington to Palm; St. Louis avenue, Grand to city limits; Theresa avenue, Market to Bell; Vandeventer avenue, Chouteau to Hunt; River des Peres parkway, winding about southwestern part of the city; Memorial Plaza site; Negro City Hospital site.

AMERICAN KILLED IN MEXICO

W. H. Barke Name Found on Body; Beasts Had Attacked It.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, April 18.—Dispatches to the newspaper El Universal from Saltillo tonight said a forest guard in the Boca De Lorenzo area had discovered the body of an American in whose pocket was a notebook bearing the name William H. Barke and an address in Chicago.

One arm was broken, the forehead was badly cut and apparently the body had been attacked by wild beasts. The man had had a bad fall or had been attacked and murdered, the evidence indicated. The police were inclined to attribute the death to murder with robbery as a motive.

TWO GET PRISON TERMS FOR MORTGAGE FRAUD

O. L. Shaner and J. W. Smith Sentenced to 2 Years and Fined $1000 Each.

Orville L. Shaner, St. Louis real estate dealer, and James W. Smith, Chicago, were sentenced to two years in the Federal penitentiary and fined $1000 each by Federal Judge Davis yesterday for using the mails to defraud. Both filed notice of appeal and bonds were set at $5000.

Shaner, 30 years old, and Smith, 49, were found guilty by a jury Wednesday principally on the testimony of A. L. Rascher, a contractor in the Franklin-American Trust Building, who said he advanced $1100 to Shaner after Shaner and Smith had falsely represented themselves as mortgage brokers and agreed to finance a $150,000 mortgage on an apartment building in Evansville, Ind., owned by Rascher.

Rascher caused the arrest of Shaner and Smith in January after opening a letter written by Smith to Shaner, in care of Rascher. "If they don't come across easy, you had better check out," the letter said in part. "They have never confirmed the commitment, and, owing to rapid changes of finances and financial markets, all commitments are accepted by a letter following a signed application. Now, old boy, get those commitments in your possession and keep them, see."

Shaner and Smith insisted they were legitimately arranging for the loan when Rascher failed to comply with the terms of commitments for the loan. Smith said the letter was intended to put Shaner on guard against efforts by Rascher to obtain the loan elsewhere and avoid paying Shaner a 1 per cent commission.

Young Dictator of Manchuria Says China and Japan Must Join Hands for Peace in Far East

Gen. Chang Hsueh-liang, the Former Boy General, Writes That Mutual Aid Is Key to Prosperity.

By GEN. CHANG HSUEH-LIANG

Since the death of his famous father, Chang Tso Lin, who was killed when his train was bombed June 4 last, Gen. Chang has been known as "The Young Dictator of Manchuria." He is military and political head of one of the richest sections of the Chinese Republic, covering an area half the size of the United States, with a population of more than 25,000,000. In the present lineup of fighting war lords, he is one of two dominating figures; the other being Chiang Kai-shek, head of the Nanking Government. Chang holds the balance of power and hence, despite his youth, is the most important political personality in China today. He is a noted sportsman, swimmer, skater, motorist and jockey. His personal fortune is estimated at $50,000,000 to $100,000,000. He was born in 1898 and trained from childhood for military command. When he was 21 he was a colonel of artillery and during his father's campaigns, he became known as "The Boy General."

MUKDEN, China, April 18.
(Copyright, 1931.)

AFTER the European war many observers looked on China as the possible explosive point for world-wide unrest. The divisions of power within the nation gave it a surface resemblance to the Balkans as a center for war that would entangle many powers. That danger still exists. The future of China depends on what course our great nation takes and on her own consciousness of her inherent strength. Otherwise, there is the possibility of the nation's becoming the prey to the ambitions of other nations.

There is no doubt that the Far Eastern situation is getting more and more serious. Therefore, if anybody wants to get at the core of international unrest and invite peace to the whole world, he must seek the peace of the Far East.

As yet the unification of China is not complete. On the contrary, the movement toward unification has only recently been started. My message issued Sept. 18 of last year urging generals to stop hostilities and to make peace secure probably had its effect in bringing about our present degree of unification. I believe now that as a result of this message there has been an increasing consciousness among the people of the necessity for unity and patriotism. It was a message that reflected national sentiment. The fact that Gen. Yen Hsi-shan and Gen. Feng Yu-hsiang gave up their severe fighting with all of its strong background of animosity proves that peaceful sentiment is quick to take root in the hearts of the Chinese people.

Peace Is Natural Gift.

The heart and mind of China is like a flowing stream which may sometimes become disturbed and crash thunderously over a waterfall, but will in time resume its natural aspect of calm and peace. Among individual Chinese an attitude of composure is natural and peace is a natural gift of China as a nation.

However, no country has ever effected her unification or no general has ever achieved pacification without the use of arms. Mencius, the famous Chinese philosopher, says the unification of a country is only possible for a king who hates the killing of men. But this is too theoretical, far from the realities of things. Was there any lord who succeeded in imposing peace without using the sword? The only exception lies in the case of the present unification of China. If this unification is strengthened and enlarged it will not only make China enjoy permanent peace but will also result in the peace of the world.

Between China and Japan there lies only a streak of water. Their relations are close, like the wheels of a cart. The Chinese and Japanese people come from the same race and possess the same letters and culture. Even in religion and political foundation, these two nations have led the same career for the last thousands of years. Therefore, the Chinese naturally like what the Japanese like, the Japanese hate what the Chinese hate. In pleasure and distress, the friendship of these two nations has been on the increase. Naturally, the relations are closer than the relations between any two nations.

Marching Toward Peace.

Now the Republic of China tends to become unified. She is marching toward triumphant peace. The people are becoming all of one heart, seeking the path cleared for eternal destiny. Japan is her brother country and her friendly neighbor. So, what is called Tan-Kuan-Ching, or the pleasure of friendship, must exist in the case of the relations between China and Japan.

Especially, these two countries must be interdependent in their industries and their demand and supply of materials. Japan is in need of China's exports, while China is a main market for Japanese manufactured goods. China's destiny, therefore, must be Japan's because their interests are so closely interrelated. Had China been able to develop her land and to produce more goods, she would supply them to Japan and the wealth of the two countries would be limitlessly expanded. If, on the contrary, China's internal trouble as well as business failures continue for some time to come, as they have been in recent years, the influence of it must be keenly felt by Japan.

Thus, Japan would suffer from the dearth of commercial goods and raw materials. China's misery would directly afflict the people in Japan and indirectly affect the strength of her nation.

The busines depression in Japan, caused by the fall of silver value in China, as well, of course, as by other facts shows the mutually close relations between both countries. So, China's peace in every sense safeguards the prosperity of Japan. The prosperity of Japan and China, cemented by friendly relations, will be the main support of the peace of the Far East. The key to the prosperity of both nations is mutual aid between them.

Simple Way to Peace.

Then, how can we achieve the peace of the Far East? And how can we maintain it? The answer is simple. Let Japan and China keep forever their friendly relations.

By friendly relations I mean true friendly interdependence, not any mere gestures or lip service to the idea. It should be proved by facts. The expression of friendly spirit by facts alone can solve the important question of the Far East and it can be accomplished only when estrangement, yokes, suspicions and barriers existing between China and Japan are completely banished by the spirit of fairness and mutual trust.

If both nations effect their mutual security and hold themselves responsible for the maintenance of peace in the Far East, the situation then must benefit not only Far Eastern nations, but the entire world. This is my great wish, and I must ask both nations to do their best toward the achievement of the peace of the Far East.

Changes are necessary in the course of the political development of a country. In the process of these changes, a country can hardly maintain her order at home and keep harmony with other states. Fortunately, however, in such a time of rise or fall, the Chinese people are holding fast to their peaceful doctrine and remaining constant to their aspirations, whether they face an easy or a hard situation. They are even now in such a vortex of political change trying their best to find a way for peace and the suppression of disturbance.

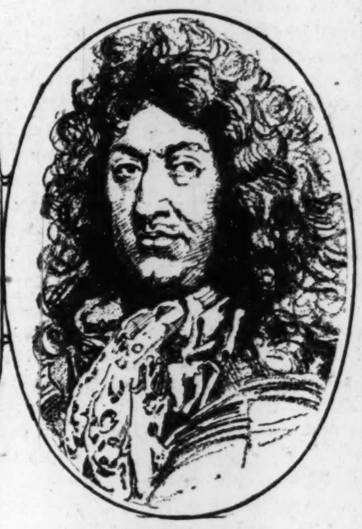
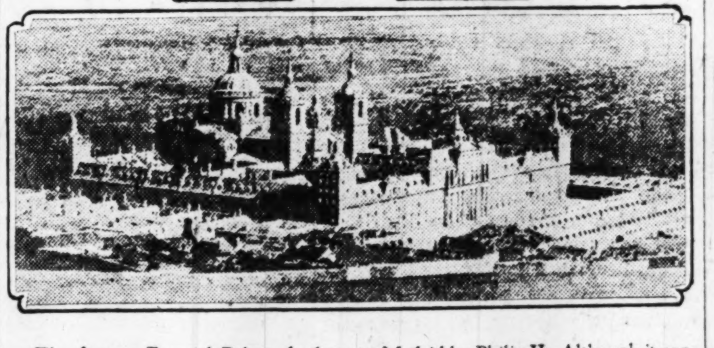
of France, "the Grand Monarch."





The famous Escorial Palace, built near Madrid by Philip II. Although it contains 1000 rooms, Philip occupied only a tiny cell himself. Here many of the Kings and Queens of Spain are buried. All places for tombs are filled except two, a sinister omen which has impressed many Spaniards.

Exile Now in Paris Last to Sit on Throne As Representative of Two of the Most Famous Families in History, War Lords Of All Europs.

By CARLOS F. HURD.
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.

"THE BOURBONS," said Talleyrand, "have learned nothing and have forgotten nothing."

The Hapsburgs—who does not remember Henry Watterson's white-hot wartime slogan, linking them with a less ancient royal house?—"To Hell with the Hohenzollerns and the Hapsburgs!"

But with all the earnest denunciation they have received, the Bourbons lasted nearly four centuries, and the Hapsburgs nearly seven centuries, as dynasties in Europe. They ceased to reign only when Alfonso XIII, representative of both lines, was displaced from the throne of Spain last Tuesday.

The downfall of the Bourbons in their other domains—France, Naples, Parma—was known to Alfonso only as it was known to all readers of history. But Alfonso himself, since his maturity, has seen the crash of the House of Hapsburg, in Austria. He has given asylum in Spain to Zita, widow of the last Hapsburg Emperor of Austria-Hungary. Zita now lives in the seacoast town of Lequeitio, with her 18-year-old son, claimant to a vanished imperial crown, and her seven younger children.

Alfonso was not one to make great ado over his ancestry. He was modern and practical, and doubtless he fared the better for it. But when, a few weeks ago, the rumblings of Republicanism began to shake his throne, he suddenly disappeared from the Royal Palace in Madrid. Later it was made known that he had motored at high speed to the palace-monastery of the Escorial, and had knelt in prayer before the tomb of his mother, and those of his forebears on the throne.

Sinister Omen.

Near the tomb of the late Queen Mother, where Alfonso prayed, two more tombs are to be seen, without inscriptions. They were the intended resting places of Alfonso himself, and his British Queen, Victoria.

Beyond the tombs set apart for Alfonso and Victoria, no more space remains in the well-filled crypt, where Philip II, builder of the great and gloomy Escorial, and his successors on the throne now lie.

When Spanish guides called the attention of visitors to this condition in the crypt, they did so in whispers. A few questions, and a peseta or two, would bring further whispers—

"It is the tradition, senor, that the crypt of the Escorial is to hold all the Kings and Queens of Spain. There is no room for any more after Their Majesties now reigning. Does that mean that Alfonso XIII will be our last King? Some of our people believe so. Who knows?"

The same is doubtless being repeated, with many elaborations, and no longer in whispers, to the plentiful number of spring tourists who visit the royal tombs, or are told about them.

Only a part of Alfonso's royal ancestry rests in the Escorial. Three centuries before that somber pile was built, Rudolph I of Hapsburg was elected German King, or, in the more pretentious title, Holy Roman Emperor. This was in 1273. The castle of Hapsburg, or Habsburg, earlier Habichtsburg, or hawk's castle, was then two and a half centuries old. It stood over the Rivar Aar, near its junction with the Rhine.

Family Reaches Peak.

Rudolph and his successors added Austrian, Czech, Styrian and Tyrolean territories to the domains of the House of Hapsburg, by wars of conquest. Maximilian I found an easier way, and it became proverbial that, while other nations had to grow by the sword, Austria could make its accessions by marriage. Maximilian's marriage brought the Netherlands and Burgundy into the family control, and the marriage of his son, Philip, brought in Spain and the Indies, then Spanish possessions.

With the start thus given to him, Philip's son, Emperor Charles V, made himself proprietor of a world empire on which, as on the British Empire of a later time, the sun never set.

Under Charles V, Spain reached the peak of its glory. His equestrian figure on the Paseo, in the City of Mexico, reminds the traveler that Charles was the sovereign for whom the dauntless Cortez and his crew won the empire of Montezuma. Pizarro and his rough gang, overturning the Incas of Peru, were also Charles' subjects, and when they showed a rebellious spirit, Charles took stern measures to keep them loyal. Had Charles been less determined, Peru and Chile might have been an independent domain from the first, and the silver mines of Potosi would have sent their yield elsewhere than to the crown of Castile and Aragon.

It was Charles, too, who sent Magellan on the expedition which added to the Spanish crown the distant islands, which took, after Charles' son and heir, the name of the Philippines, and which remained a Spanish appanage until Admiral Dewey's May-day visit in 1898.

A zealous Catholic, Charles V reigned at the fateful period of the Protestant Reformation. Napoleon afterward said that Charles should have been a Protestant, and could then have brought about the religious and political unifying of Germany.

Enter Religious Question.

Historians have held that Luther, if he had enjoyed the Emperor's support, could have made a much more thorough job. As it was, with the Emperor giving Calvinism an equal chance with Lutheranism, and supporting the Society of Jesus, the counter-reformation won back a large part of Germany to the Church of Rome. By the Peace of Augsburg, it was determined that the subdivisions of Germany should take the faith of their respective Princes.

Charles' record was not free from persecution, and the Moriscos of the Province of Valencia suffered under his edict, but the Inquisition showed little activity. He abdicated in 1555, and died three years later, gazing on the crucifix and murmuring, "Ay Jesus!" He was mourned, in the phrase of the time, as "the chief of men that had ever been or would ever be."

Philip II, son and successor of Charles V on the Spanish throne, has carried into history a weight of execration and a record of disaster such as few sovereigns have known. He revived the Inquisition, with all the terrors that had attended it under Torquemada, in the rule of Ferdinand and Isabella in the previous century; and he extended it overseas to Peru and Mexico, and to his nearer domain of the Netherlands. The heroic revolt of the Dutch ensued, and drew Philip into conflict with France and England.

Philip's second marriage, to Mary Tudor, Queen of England, followed his attempts to cajole or to frighten the English into submission. The religious persecutions of "Bloody Mary" in England, and the atrocities of the Duke of Alva in the Netherlands, are kindred horrors of sixteenth century history. It was Alva's boast that, in the service of his royal master in the Netherlands, he caused the execution of 18,000 persons. In the city of Antwerp, Alva erected a statue of himself trampling on two prostrate figures, one of them representing the nobility, and one the people, of the Netherlands.

Armada Started Downfall.

When the Lutheran belief appeared in the Spanish cities of Seville and Valladolid, Philip crushed it mercilessly. To a condemned heretic, the King said, "If my own son were like you, I should lead him with my own hands to the stake." He succeeded in stamping out the feeble beginnings of Protestantism in Spain, but there remained the Moriscos, of Moorish race, in Granada. The harassing and scattering of these thrifty folk, accomplished by Philip through years of persecution, has been connected, by some historians, with the decline of Spanish industry thereafter.

When Queen Mary died and was succeeded on the throne of England by her half-sister, Elizabeth, Philip sought to pay court to the new Queen. She was unwilling, and events moved toward the naval conflict which came when, in 1588, Philip sent the Invincible Armada against England, and it was destroyed by the guns of Drake and Hawkins. Spain never saw a darker day. Thenceforth, Spain's sea power and her commerce declined. The loss of the Northern Netherlands was an added calamity.

From these and other losses, Philip retired to the gloom of the Escorial, which he built on a wild slope of the Guadarrama, near Madrid. The monastery-palace was dedicated to St. Lawrence. This, according to one of the numerous historical legends of the period, was because Philip, in one of his wars, had been obliged to direct cannon fire against a church dedicated to that saint, and wished to make reparation.

The Escorial was laid out in the form of a gridiron, the emblem of St. Lawrence, who had suffered martyrdom upon a gridiron. The four square towers with pointed steeples represent the inverted legs of the gridiron, the inner courts and cloisters, running at right angles, form the connecting bars, and the church and palace, projecting to one side, compose the handle. In this grandiose palace of 1000 rooms, Philip reserved for himself a tiny corner, saying that he desired only a cell in which he might bear his weary limbs to the grave.

From his small bedroom, the royal penitent could survey the high altar of the great church, and could follow the religious services to which he was awakened, at daybreak, by the chanting of monks. Here he died after 14 years of seclusion. His successor, Philip III, was the son of his fourth wife, a daughter of Emperor Maximilian II. Under Philip IV, Portugal was lost, and was never regained by the Spanish crown.

Two of Political Triumvirate Which Ruled Republican House Ask for Longworth's Scepter

Tilson "Logical Choice" But Snell Appears to Have Best Chance—in Case of Hard Contest Garner Will Likely Be Next Speaker.

By Paul Y. Anderson,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 18.

IT has been a long time since the House of Representatives has provided a more dramatic spectacle than the collapse of the "iron triumvirate." For six years—up to the end of the last Congress—this formidable trio ruled the House in a manner worthy of its name. Now one of its members is dead, and the other two are fighting over his job.

The "triumvirate" was a singular institution in the national Government. It consisted of Speaker Nicholas Longworth, Representative John Q. Tilson of Connecticut, Republican floor leader, and Representative Bertrand H. Snell of New York, chairman of the powerful Rules Committee.

BERTRAND H. SNELL

JOHN Q TILSON

For six years their word was law in the House. No measure could be passed over their opposition. Indeed, without their consent the members could not even vote on pending bills.

"Longworth, Tilson and Snell" became a familiar chant reminiscent of refrain famous in baseball—"Tinker to Evers to Chance." As a matter of fact, the suggestion was based on more than a similarity in rhythm. Both combinations were notable for the same deadly precision, the same smooth concert of action. Many a legislative rally was smothered by the deft double plays of Longworth, Tilson and Snell. Nevertheless they represented diverse personal types, and events of the last few days have served to emphasize that there was not always harmony under the surface.

The late Speaker Longworth was celebrated for his wit, personal charm, genial manner, and his fondness for polite society. He was an aristocrat to his fingertips, and never made the slightest attempt to conceal it. Tilson is a handshaking, back-slapping politician, never too busy for small favors. Snell is a burly, determined business man, with no time for nonsense.

The policy of the "triumvirate" was to support the administration and under its rule the House became the principal bulwark of Presidents Coolidge and Hoover against insurgent measures initiated in the more independent Senate. When differences did occur Longworth and Snell invariably stood together, while Tilson sided with the President through thick and thin. It is significant that whenever Longworth and Snell decided to oppose the White House they were successful in carrying the House with them. A conspicuous example was the passage of the Veterans' loan bill over President Hoover's veto during the last session.

Hoover Leans to Tilson.

Tilson, as the majority leader, is the "logical" Republican choice for the speakership, and as soon as the Longworth obsequies were completed it was made known that Tilson would be a candidate, although the nomination will not be made until the party conference is held next autumn. Simultaneously, however, a formidable movement was set under way to obtain the nomination for Snell.

Already it is apparent that Snell is counting on much of the support that would have been Longworth's, while Tilson is expecting assistance from the administration. President Hoover has been officially represented as keeping neutral, but no competent observer questions his preference for Tilson. As a party man Snell is fully as "regular" as Tilson and considerably more "hard-boiled," but he is possessed of much independence, while Tilson can be relied on to take his orders from the White House on all occasions.

At this early stage of the contest, Snell appears to have the best of it. The House has been restive under the imputation of being a mere "rubber stamp for the White House," and that imputation would gain weight if Tilson were selected. Moreover, Snell is generally regarded as the abler of the two men. There is no doubt that he is the more determined character, and there is a feeling that a strong hand will be required in the next House, with its membership almost evenly divided between the two parties.

If the contest between Tilson and Snell develops on the scale now indicated the result may be the election of the Democratic candidate, Representative John Garner of Texas, as Speaker, and the organization of the House by the Democrats. Longworth, with his tact and talent for conciliation, might have held the Republicans together, but the fight between Tilson and Snell is likely to split them wide open.

The Progressives' Power.

The balance of power obviously is in the hands of the Republican Progressives. Representative La Guardia, New York, spokesman for this group, served notice at the last session that the rules must be liberalized in the next Congress. Now it is probable that the Progressives will go still further, and demand, as the price of their support in organizing the House, the passage of the Norris "lame duck" amendment, the Wagner employment bill and other measures sponsored by Progressives.

Since most of Democratic members supported those measures in previous sessions, it would be easy for them to pledge their support again. On the other hand, it would be very embarrassing for Republican leaders, in order to obtain Progressive support in organizing the House, to promise their support to bills previously killed by Republican votes or a Republican President.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Reassuring Effects of the Depression.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I AM again tempted to request an opportunity to say a word to your readers about the business depression. Public opinion seems to be greatly disturbed by the general distress and few seem to understand the progress we have already made toward recovery.

Crises are caused by derangements in a delicately contrived co-operative system which necessarily involves mutual dependence. Where no one works for himself and everybody sells what he has or does in order to buy the goods or services of another, it is obvious that if for any reason such mutual service be relaxed, inefficient and predatory, the community must suffer the consequences.

Every past period of prosperity has become in the course of time a temptation to folly. During the "new era" of 1928-1929, when many people thought it possible to get rich by speculation, many demanded higher wages than they earned and merchants more for goods than they were worth to the purchaser, building and trade was brisk because the public had become wildly extravagant. There was, however, a limit beyond which extravagance, even when stimulated by easy credit, high wages and paper profits, could not go, and when this point had been reached, business was instantly arrested. Goods made could not be disposed of and debts contracted could not be paid. That under such circumstances many banks and many merchants should fail, many factories shut down and many workmen lose their jobs, was inevitable. Months of depression have followed; building has stopped; merchants have sold fewer goods; the factories have produced less; the railroads have carried less, and the number of the unemployed has increased. To these influences have been added in the present instance a great drouth and the passage of a high tariff act, which immediately arrested the foreign demand for our goods.

The present situation is nevertheless reassuring. Men are now trying to earn their wages, merchants are asking less for their goods and the cost of living is falling. While many incomes have been reduced or extinguished, yet the vast majority of the people of America have been prudent, and these are discovering that goods and luxuries beyond their reach during the boom have again become accessible; and as their incomes will purchase more, they will buy more. So the demand for goods should increase and continue to increase so long as prices continue to fall.

That prices shall continue to fall is inevitable because the cost of production tends to become actually less during a period of depression; raw materials cost less; competition compels efficiency; neglected machines are put in order or improved; employes work more diligently and merchants become less rapacious. As prices decline, the demand for goods will increase, more goods will be produced, more hands will be employed, more wages will be earned and prosperity will return.

Such a crisis as we have suffered has already been corrective of many evils. Our co-operation is even now more sincere, we are trying to help rather than hurt one another and in the course of time, as a result of our present distresses, we shall again know prosperity. The despondency of today is no less foolish than the furious frenzy of the boom.

I. H. LIONBERGER.

What China Does When Banks Fail.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

BANK failures are practically unknown in China because the laws are so drastic that thieving is decidedly unhealthy. When a bank fails over there, the president and directors are promptly beheaded.

If such a law had been in effect in this country during the past 12 months (and had been enforced) there wouldn't be enough bank presidents and directors left in Arkansas today to organize a baseball nine.

The Giggers Had Better Luck.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE Post-Dispatch has heretofore fostered many bills and movements for the good Missourians and I sincerely hope it will start a movement toward an anti-gigging bill.

Last summer I spent several weeks down in the Ozarks and have for a number of years visited the various State parks. However, this one particular week at Meramec State Park we camped and went fishing each morning at 4 and fished most of the day.

During that week a few sun fish (weighing not even a pound) were my catch. However, the giggers were very successful. Each night they came down the river in flat boats right past the State park and the next day they went around selling fish to us campers and, what I mean, they had plenty of fish.

A modification of the present law will not remedy this. Gigging will have to be strictly forbidden if the Ozarks are to remain attractive fishing grounds.

A. SCHUSTER.

(The Post-Dispatch has consistently opposed gigging and is now advocating that it be made illegal.—Editor's note.)

THE AUSTRO-GERMAN EXPERIMENT.

The temper and attitude of the French were well illustrated by the flurry which arose over the German-Austrian tentative trade agreement. French statesmen viewed it with alarm as a menace to France in particular, and to European peace in general. Even Briand, the apostle of peace and advocate of a European customs union, denounced the treaty as a blow to peace and good understanding.

Edouard Herriot, in an article in last Sunday's Post-Dispatch, denounced the treaty as a treacherous move, a revival of secret diplomacy which might lead to serious consequences. Yet the treaty was a harmless agreement, relating solely to the breaking down of tariff barriers and the promotion of freer trade between Germany and Austria. There was not a hint of a defensive or offensive alliance in it, nor of any military accord, and the German Foreign Minister explained that it was impossible to announce such an agreement until it was made. But immediately after the two nations had accepted the treaty, the fact was made public, and not only that, but other nations were free to enter into it, and were invited to participate.

The truth is that the worst menace to European peace is French touchiness and fear of Germany and the vanquished remnants of the old Austrian Empire. France will get very little sympathy from the civilized world in any efforts to wreak vengeance on Germany or to keep her from renewing her industrial and commercial prosperity and winning again her rightful place among the nations. The pursuance of a policy of that kind is not only bad for France but for all the civilized world.

Fortunately, however, after the first flash of anger and fear, the French are coming to a better view of the Austro-German treaty. They now see in it the first step toward the goal that Briand has been urging all Europe to seek. They find the movement by two nations vanquished in the World War a step toward the general reduction of tariff barriers which are throttling European trade, and a stimulus to European industry and commerce. That was the object of the proposed customs union and economic federation of European states.

Of course, Germany, Austria and Hungary were the worst sufferers from the tariff craze which prevailed throughout Europe after the war. There was a tariff wall around all of them, particularly Austria and Hungary, stripped to the bone in territory and population for the benefit of the new nations carved out of the defeated Powers, which were determined to keep them down.

The French now, as we have said, are taking a new view of the Austro-German agreement. French statesmen and the French press are discussing it reasonably as a possible nucleus and start toward a general European customs union. Great Britain, which was startled at first, is now interested. Italy and Rumania are inclined either to participate or to form a similar customs union. The whole trend of European thought, at first rather hostile to the idea, is showing signs of change, so that it may be that the Austro-German initiative will lead to a substantial improvement in the attitude of European nations and to trade agreements which may have a most beneficial effect upon the entire continent.

If Europe, following the Austro-German initiative, should adopt trade agreements or form a customs union designed to reduce or wipe out tariff barriers, the result will not only profoundly affect European industry and trade, but will seriously affect American business. We would then be confronted with the problem of dealing with practical free trade among European nations and barriers against American trade. We are the victims of the tariff craze which has already shut us out of valuable markets, and might find ourselves almost completely barred from European trade.

The interesting experiment of Germany and Austria has possibilities that ought to make Americans think. It ought to start a little inclination to think even in the minds of the leaders of the tariff plunderbund who labor under the delusion that they can exploit the American people by barriers which exclude imports from other countries and yet sell to these countries. That delusion has proved costly already, and may be roughly dissipated.

WITHOUT BENEFIT OF TEST TUBE.

From the palm-lined drives of Stanford University comes the latest about the protozoa. Three biologists announce they have discovered that these smallest members of the animal world crave well balanced diets. They found, so they said, that the protozoa prospered very little or not at all on poorly planned diets, but waxed fat and generously increased their kind when several types of bacteria were fed in balanced proportions. Now far be it from us to controvert the findings of the laboratory, but to us this sounds like so much propaganda for the spinach and rutabaga growers. We respect the laboratory as a meritorious institution, capable of great good; however, we insist on being selective. Let those accept the Stanford laboratory who will. We prefer the laboratory of the Mayo physician who has denounced the "vitamin mania" and roughage foods as conducive to ill health. As we see it, this resolves the question into an issue between the tastes of protozoa and human beings, and until the protozoa make a more significant contribution to civilization we are going to side with human beings.

BUDAPEST'S ERUDITE WHITE WINGS.

There are 27 street cleaners in the city of Budapest with Ph. D. degrees. This fact symbolizes a condition of over-education that exists not only in Hungary but in nearly every country in Europe and in the United States as well. It happens that the problem of the educated unemployed is so acute in Budapest that an organization has been formed to seek some solution, thus serving to emphasize that it is not only the untrained, unskilled worker who has felt the effect of the world-wide depression. Because of our antiquated and grossly unbalanced system of distribution, there is a surplus of teachers, lawyers, doctors and nurses.

Some of the blame certainly must fall upon an educational system that has very little relation to the modern world, that for the most part clings to outworn patterns and formulae which are imprinted with grim determination upon the minds of the young. Street cleaners, good street cleaners, are very essential members of society. But it is doubtful that the Ph. D. studies would contribute much to the skill required for this work. In fact, it is almost a certainty that each of the 27 doctors of philosophy is an inefficient and unhappy street cleaner. In a state without social plan or direction, there is no guarantee that the education machine will not continue to turn out, through dint of long and laborious effort, doctors of philosophy who will have to become street sweepers.

THE SPANISH REPUBLIC'S CREDENTIALS.

The question of whether the United States shall recognize the new Spanish Republic now is before the State Department, and a decision may be expected in a few days. According to the standard set up by Secretary Hughes in 1928, recognition should depend on a new government's stability and on popular approval of the people whose rule it has undertaken.

Few revolutions are accompanied by such formal expressions of the popular will as was that in Spain. The results of the municipal elections last Sunday were overwhelmingly anti-monarchist, and led directly to the overturn. Some royalist sentiment lingers, chiefly among the grandees and their hangers-on, but the people have spoken plainly. The United States has recognized numerous South American revolutionary governments which seized office by coup d'etat and claimed popular support, though with no such credentials to back up the assertion as the Spanish Republic can offer in its election figures. The King's hasty departure bolsters considerably the new Republic's stability. He has announced that he will not fight for the throne, but will return only when and if the people call for him. The new regime's assumption of the monarchy's debts speaks eloquently for its good faith.

Recognition of the Spanish Republic would follow our nation's best traditions. When the South American peoples shook off Bourbon rule more than a century ago, we led the world in recognizing them, and set up our Monroe Doctrine to guarantee their liberties. Now that the Spanish people at home have likewise cast off the Bourbon yoke, consistency and justice call for similar recognition. France and several Latin American countries already have assumed diplomatic relations with the Zamora regime. Early action by our own Republic in welcoming the newcomer into the family of democracy would go far toward encouraging the Spanish people in their undertaking, and in helping them keep down the forces of radicalism. The sooner we extend recognition, the more potent will be its effect.

ALONG THE CONCRETE.

The complaint of C. E. M. Joad, English philosopher, against ugliness along highways was directed at his own country, but it applies none the less to the United States. The same red rash of badly designed and ill built bungalows which he finds lining the roads away from English cities is also a Middle Western blight. We too have a ribbon development which, as he points out, shuts off the wayfarer from the beauties of the countryside. One of the most striking changes during the last 10 years has been the way once pretty open roads have been edged with squat structures that are downright ugly and nothing short of it. This is not to object to building in the country, but it is to say there is no reason to put up an inartistic dwelling along the highway when very often a house of truly attractive design would cost no more. There are few things the Middle Westerner does more strange than motor through the pretty towns of New England and the Pacific coast and then come home to build a typical Missouri or Illinois highway dwelling. We need thousands of Mr. Joads, righteously enraged, to remind us of our heritage and what we are doing with it.

CUBA'S STANCH SUPREME COURT.

President Machado may hold the press of Cuba in his dictatorial grasp, censoring newspapers and suppressing them at will, but the Supreme Court has eluded the dictator's power and remains independent. This is proved by the 13 Judges' unanimous decision a few days ago holding unconstitutional the suspension of El Mundo last Jan. 9, when eight other publications also were suppressed. The suspensions remained in effect until March 6.

Machado had obtained from a suppliant Parliament power to suspend the Constitution. Closing of newspapers he explained by saying they were guilty of "continuous publication of material designed to incite sedition and violence." Condemning Machado for an unconstitutional act at a time when the Constitution was officially non-existent, the Supreme Court in effect denies his right to suspend the code. The courage of this decision may be understood when one considers the fate that has overtaken persons who have taken steps opposing the administration.

Cuba's Supreme Court, in upholding freedom of the press, realizes the best ideals of what the high judiciary should be in a democratic government. The Judges have done their duty in supporting the people's Constitution over the incursions of the chief legislative and executive functionaries.

THE SPRING TONIC MYTH.

A bit of American folklore that still has its followers, like the asafoetida legend and the madstone myth, is the belief in spring tonics. Its devotees seem to believe that the blood much resembles molasses, in that it becomes syrupy and sluggish in winter, and has a difficult time squirming its way through the arteries. Hence it must be diluted before the individual can shake off his torpor in spring, and for this a still more viscous substance is chosen: a compound of sulphur and molasses. In sober fact, the blood's consistency is about the same at any season, and only in rare diseases does it become thicker. No person who eats meat, or vegetables containing proteins, need worry about getting enough sulphur. Molasses is useful as an adjunct to hotcakes and an ingredient of ginger bread, but not as a blood medicine. Sassafras tea, which also comes into favor at this season to aid the blood-thinning process, is to many persons a pleasant beverage, but its therapeutic value is zero.

The best spring tonic is fresh vegetables, says the Federal Bureau of Home Economics in an iconoclastic statement directed against the superstition. The older generation, which held its nose and dutifully took its evil doses each year, may not relish this disillusionment, but it should save present-day youth from the ordeal. Even spinach tastes better than the traditional sulphurous tonic.

ANOTHER MONARCH WHOSE DAYS ARE NUMBERED.

Twilight of the Economic Gods

Having trusted its future to bankers and economists, world now finds they have failed deplorably; three major debacles, German reparations mess, non-recognition of Russia and neglect of China's needs, helped bring present crisis; politics and diplomacy about to displace financiers in public esteem as lesser of two evils.

Jay Franklin in Vanity Fair (Reprinted by Permission).

FOR a fat decade we have been hearing—chiefly from the bankers and business men—that bankers and business men are pre-eminently qualified to manage world affairs and that politicians and sociologists are either inefficient knaves or dangerous cranks. Prompted by the big bankers, we have dutifully held our noses whenever politics or statesmanship was mentioned. We have actually been persuaded that banks and money can cure any international ailment, from military flatulence down to hardening of the political arteries.

This golden age of bankers is passing, however. We are witnessing the twilight of the economic gods. The old theory that the best way to make every one healthy, wealthy and wise is to let the rich get rich and the poor get children is as dead as McKinley. Our whole system is on trial, in our own eyes, for the first time in 60 years. Never again will we take it for granted that a banker must necessarily be right or a reformer necessarily wrong.

If our economic leaders had been endowed with more knowledge than is at the disposal of the average intelligent man, they might have had a little more luck in heading off this recent world disaster. As it was, they were unable to do so as they had bound themselves to the insane, if human, dogma that nothing had any existence which was not purely financial. There were no racial animosities, no political problems, no diplomatic arrangements or historical traditions, no conflicts of culture or clash of systems; nothing but loans, currencies, trade balances and risks.

As a consequence of this economic effrontery, the bankers were entrusted with world power for a decade, and made a complete mess of it and of the world. There are, for example, three major problems which must be settled before the world can regain its economic health. Bankers cannot settle them, because they are political problems, but bankers and economists could have called attention to their existence and demanded their solution by the political forces of society as a prerequisite to prosperity. These problems are not unemployment, deflation and debt—for these are only the symptoms of the failure of economic statesmanship. The failure lies deeper—in politics—in Germany, Russia and China.

The bankers have had two chances to deal with the question of German reparations—by the Dawes plan of 1924 and the Young plan of 1929. The failure was worse than abysmal, for the bankers preferred to base the financial credit of the entire world on the shaky foundation of reparations rather than admit their own inadequacy.

There is no doubt that the Germans should pay reparations. They have admitted it repeatedly. There is, on the other hand, still less doubt that their liability to pay ought to be settled by arbitral procedure. Our bankers simply reckoned German capacity to pay, never German liability to pay, and so put international credit at the mercy of a German default or a moratorium.

The second failure is even more damning, if somewhat more understandable. Despite the fact that, without Russia, the world is economically lame, our professional economists have attempted to get on without Russia for 12 fateful years. For the sake of a few millions sunk in deplorable anemic Czarist bonds and for the love of a few bales of depreciated rubles, the bankers strenuously oppressed any effort to adjust our society to the Russian experiment. They instituted and maintained a financial and economic blockade against the Soviets. Even today they act as though they were conferring an inestimable boon in permitting the Russians to buy our goods.

Finally, the disorganized condition of China has placed a huge burden upon world trade and has been a drag upon world prosperity for years.

When the bankers and their friends, the economists, can prove themselves so wrong as to misjudge the political potentialities of the Germans, the most vital race in Europe, of the Russians, the most portentous people in Asia, and of the Chinese, the most numerous and industrious race in the world; when the financiers leave out of reckoning a full third of the human race, we cannot be expected to have too much respect for them.

The plain fact is that neither our economists nor our bankers have the foggiest notion of where we are going or how we are going to get there. They scold and mock Soviet Russia for her ambitious five-year plan, and have no corresponding idea of what is to be our own course in the next three years. They denounce socialism and then applaud the use of half a billion of the taxpayers' money to pay the farmers for producing too much at a loss.

Of course, our economic leaders are not altogether to blame. Just as the World War demonstrated the bankruptcy of politics, so it seemed logical for the world to turn to non-political leaders. Surely, the world felt, they could do no greater harm than the statesmen had done. High finance could be no more dangerous than high diplomacy, and might even prove beneficial. The world was mistaken.

The financiers did make a mess of it. The economists successfully demonstrated their incapacity, and the politicians are coming back to power.

For the underlying factor in the present crisis is, that despite their pretensions to omnipotence, bankers and economists must still take their orders from politics.

Our economic leaders have never had the power which they have claimed for themselves. Economics, in their hands has been a science which is purely descriptive, like geography. Their "solutions" have simply been sublimated political maneuvers. Their failures have been political failures.

For their pretense that they alone could do the job, they are being punished by the obvious fact that the job is still undone. Rather than admit their own fallibility, they have preferred to lay a time-bomb under international credit and to endanger our entire economic system. It is a high price to pay for a political fiasco.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

WASHINGTON, April 19.

PRESIDENT HOOVER rarely goes on a visit without being well supplied with reading material. When he first planned to return to Palo Alto, visiting the national parks en route, the Library of Congress was called upon for books of all sorts. There were volumes to explain what he would see in the parks. There were studies on economics that he might look into at other times.

The President is described as one of the greatest book lovers ever to occupy the White House. And he is an ardent collector of books. Library authorities say he has an unusual faculty for delving in out-of-the-way places, in searching for material not readily accessible.

One authority says Mr. Hoover is the greatest book collector among the Presidents since Thomas Jefferson; that he resembles Jefferson in that on all his journeys he gathered volumes eventually valuable to the student.

WHEN Mr. Hoover was in China, for example, he gathered a comprehensive collection of books in many languages on China and the Chinese people. These eventually were donated to Stanford University and became the nucleus of that institution's great Chinese library.

Mr. Hoover's war library at Stanford is more evidence of his love for collecting. During the war, at every opportunity, he gathered documents, pamphlets, proclamations, periodicals or broadsides relating to it, which in time will be foundation material for the history of that great conflict.

MR. COOLIDGE was something of a book lover and collector, too. His favorite is said to be "Alice in Wonderland." Several years ago, when the original manuscript of "Alice" was bought in London at auction by an American, Mr. Coolidge invited the purchaser to lunch at the White House with the request that he bring his purchase along.

He asked many questions about the first publication. When it was explained to him that the first edition, not being altogether to Carroll's liking, was suppressed, Coolidge was greatly surprised.

"Suppressed?" said the President. "I did not know there was anything off-color in 'Alice'."

Other Presidents' tastes in books vary. Woodrow Wilson used books, but is said to have had no real love for them. Taft was interested in a mild sort of way. Harding had no interest in collecting books. Roosevelt was both a great reader and collector.

DEFINING "COLLEGE BRED."

From the Independence (Mo.) Examiner.

WE wonder how far Walter Williams, president of our State university, would have gone with the members of our Legislature if he had used the brand of "kidding" that Harry Woodburn Chase, president of the University of Illinois, employed with his Legislature. He is said to have captured the support of many of the members by appealing to their sense of humor with a story in which there was used a new definition for "college bred." According to President Chase, "It means the flower of youth and the dough of old age."

BARGE LINE DEFICIT TURNS INTO PROFIT

Gen. Ashburn Berates Railroads for Opposition Because of 1930 Success.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
201-205 Kellogg Building.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—The net profit of the Inland Waterways Corporation, which operates the Government barges on the Mississippi and Warrior rivers, was $46,336 last year as opposed to a net loss of $354,048 for 1929, Major-General T. Q. Ashburn, executive chairman, announced today in the corporation's annual report.

Net income from operations last year amounted to $65,177, as compared to net operating loss for 1929 of $72,798, Ashburn reported. Included in 1930 charges were items amounting to $542,200 for accrued depreciation and other deductions involving no expenditure of funds.

In a long foreword, Gen. Ashburn bitterly assailed the railroads for what he called severe and unfair attacks on the Government-operated barge line. He pointed out that there was relatively little criticism of Federal support to inland waterways transportation when the old Government lines were losing money and claimed that the present antagonism had resulted from the present corporation's success.

Insidious Railroad Opposition.

"When this organization was created," said Ashburn, "when it turned an annual operating deficit of a million dollars into an average net operating gain of about $81,000 per annum; when, during the calendar year of 1930, despite an unprecedented period of depression, a long continued drouth of such proportions as to become a national calamity, its net operating income was slightly over $65,000; when, in fact, the inland waterways corporation was demonstrating what it set out to do, then began that insidious but persistent, and finally open opposition, which has taken the virulent form of misleading the people into the belief that water transportation means the destruction of railways, the lowering of their securities and bonds, and is generally a damnable ogre which should be destroyed.

"The same arguments which are being advanced are the arguments advanced by the opponents of railways in their early days."

Inland Waterways transportation, said Ashburn, was the only agency which could restore the economic balance in the Middle West which had been disturbed by the Panama Canal.

"A manufacturer," explained Ashburn, "locates where he can assemble his raw material cheaply and distribute his finished products cheaply. When these costs get out of line, either for the assembly of raw material or for distributing the finished product, he moves to some place where he can find these conditions. He always moves to the lakes, the gulf, the seacoast or interior navigation. If not, he locates at that place where proper terminal facilities for interchange between rail, water and motor, facilities exist.

Restoring Economic Parity.

"The utilization of the Mississippi River and its tributaries is restoring the economic parity destroyed by the diversion of traffic between the East and West by the Panama Canal, and if we cannot restore that economic parity, then the nation as a whole is bound to suffer."

Answering the charge that the corporation is subsidized by the Government, Ashburn pointed out

Insidious Railroad Opposition.

"When this organization was created," said Ashburn, "when it turned an annual operating deficit of a million dollars into an average net operating gain of about $51,000 per annum; when, during the calendar year of 1930, despite an unprecedented period of depression, a long continued drouth of such proportions as to become a national calamity, its net operating income was slightly over $65,000; when, in fact, the inland waterways corporation was demonstrating what it set out to do, then began that insidious but persistent, and finally open opposition, which has taken the virulent form of misleading the people into the belief that water transportation means the destruction of railways, the lowering of their securities and bonds, and is generally a damnable ogre which should be destroyed.

Restoring Economic Parity.

"The utilization of the Mississippi River and its tributaries is restoring the economic parity destroyed by the diversion of traffic between the East and West by the Panama Canal, and if we cannot restore that economic parity, then the nation as a whole is bound to suffer."

Answering the charge that the corporation is subsidized by the Government, Ashburn pointed out that the railroads have been beneficiaries of that policy by huge land grants and surcharges on Pullman car tickets.

"If one form of transportation is better and cheaper than any other," concluded Ashburn, "it will prevail whether it destroys or partially destroys any other form or not.

"Personally we believe that in giving the railroads the subsidies mentioned the people have done a wise and legitimate thing. We have no quarrel with the railroads. They are essential to our progress and must be protected. It is only because they themselves have unfairly propagandized against so-called unfair and subsidized competition, because they have attacked waterways, motorways, airways and pipe lines, that their attention is called to the fact that they, while living in a house of glass, have been caught throwing stones."

Co-operation between the railroads and the barge lines was the remedy for the present situation, Ashburn said. Reasonable compliance with the Denison act, which sought to compel the railroads to interchange freight with the barge line, Ashburn asserted, would lead to prosperity for the railroads and would establish the barge lines to such an extent that they could be turned over to private operation.

NEW MAYOR OF ST. CHARLES FOR MUNICIPAL LIGHT PLANT

Wayne S. O'Neal, on Assuming Office, Says Bond Issue Will Be Planned.

On assuming office as Mayor of St. Charles Friday night, Wayne S. O'Neal delivered an address outlining a program for the construction and operation of a municipally owned electric light plant.

"There is a conviction on the part of many citizens of St. Charles," he said, "that the city should own and operate its electric light plant. The council committee on electric lights will be charged with the responsibility of formulating a definite plan to be paid for through a bond issue."

The new Mayor said he hoped the bond issue election could be held next year at the same time as the regular city election.

Under the retiring administration headed by Mayor Frank H. May, who was not a candidate for re-election, St. Charles already has taken steps toward municipal ownership. The electric light committee of the council made an investigation and recommended that the city build its own light plant to be ready for operation in 1933 when the franchise held by the Union Electric Light and Power Co. will expire. It estimated that such a plant would cost between $200,000 and $400,000, and suggested it be operated in connection with the waterworks now owned by the city.

A Board of Public Works was recently created by the City Council to have charge of the waterworks and such other public utilities as the city may acquire.

DIRECTOR OF METROPOLITAN MUSEUM OF ART DIES AT 71

Edward Robinson, Head of New York Institution Since 1910; Formerly at Boston.

NEW YORK, April 18.—Edward Robinson, director of the Metropolitan Museum of Art since 1910 and for many years connected with the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, died today after an illness of several months. He was 71 years old.

Robinson was born in Boston. After his graduation from Harvard in 1879, he spent five years in Europe studying classical archeology. In 1885 he became curator of classical antiquities at Boston Museum. He was elected director of that institution in 1902.

On Jan. 8, 1906, he became assistant director and curator of classical antiquities at the Metropolitan Museum. He was elected director on Oct. 31, 1910.

FUNERAL IN THE ODEON FOR FREDERICK FISCHER

Services at Noon Tomorrow for Assistant Conductor of St. Louis Symphony.

The body of Frederick Fischer will lie tomorrow before the dais in the Odeon, where he directed many concerts in his 36 years as assistant conductor of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra.

For the noon funeral the string choirs of the orchestra will be grouped about the conductor's vacant stand. They will play Grieg's profound farewell, "To Spring," and Bach's Air for the G string.

The funeral address will be delivered by Percival Chubb, leader of the Ethical Society. Helen Traubel, St. Louis soprano, will sing Wagner's "Dreams." Interment will be in Valhalla Cemetery, and a trombone quartet from the Symphony Orchestra will play in services there.

Four years ago the orchestra, at a concert directed by Mr. Fischer, celebrated his fortieth year of service. He joined it as a bassoonist on his arrival here as an honor graduate at 19 of the Royal Academy of Music in Munich, Bavaria.

He became assistant conductor of the old Choral Symphony Orchestra in 1895 and continued in that position when it became the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra in 1907. His thorough musical scholarship won him national distinction and led to many invitations to direct other orchestral or choral organizations, in St. Louis and elsewhere. In the direction of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra he had served under Rudolph Ganz, Alfred Ernst and the late Max Zach, whose funeral in 1921 was held in the Odeon.

Mr. Fischer, who would have been 63 years old on May 25, died Friday at De Paul Hospital. He resided at 5854 Cabanne avenue. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Daisy Hays Fischer, and a daughter, Mrs. R. G. Kemmet.

Pallbearers will be members of the orchestra, and the long honorary list includes Vladimir Golschmann, the new conductor of the orchestra, recent guest conductors, Mr. Ganz and men of distinction in St. Louis and in the musical world.

The active pallbearers will be Robert Buhl, Henry J. Falkenhainer, Elmer Gesner, Oscar Hallback, John F. Kiburz, Ellis Levy, Max Steindel and Oswald Thumser.

R.M. FOSTER ESTATE, $204,015

The inventory of the estate of former Circuit Judge Robert M. Foster, who died last Nov. 1, was filed in Probate Court yesterday. It shows property valued at $204,015, consisting of the following items: Notes, $32,887.58; corporation stock, $11,720; bonds, $155,000; cash, $2019.78; chattels, $388, and real estate appraised at $4000. The real estate consists of farm land in Arkansas.

Judge Foster placed his estate in trust of his widow, Mrs. Lizzie L. Foster, and the St. Louis Union Trust Co. for her benefit during her life. At her death the principal is to be divided among their daughter, Mrs. Virginia de Serzano of Paris, France, and sons, Sterling Foster of San Francisco and Robert M. Foster of Helena, Ark., or their heirs.

EXPOSITION PROGRAMS BY SCHOOL CHILDREN

Programs of physical exercises, music and dancing in which children of the schools of the city will participate will be held almost daily in the B Building of The Arena during the Mississippi Valley Exposition of Progress, May 1 to 10.

Groups of 200 to 300 children from the elementary schools will present programs from 2:15 to 3:45 o'clock the afternoons of May 1, 4, 5, 6, 7 and 8, and pupils of the intermediate and high schools will appear in programs from 8:15 to 9:45 p. m. on the same days. The exercises of the older students will be similar to those of the elementary pupils except that high school bands and orchestras will furnish the music. Students of the Negro schools will present one or more choral concerts.

Besides the activities of the students, the Board of Education will conduct an educational museum with exhibits of craftsmanship in keeping with the general nature of the industrial exposition. These exhibits will include shop work, domestic art work and special displays showing all phases of modern school work. A half holiday has been declared for Monday, May 4, which has been designated as "Public School Day" at the exposition.

The Rev. Father James P. Murray, head of the Catholic School Board, has announced that he has communicated with pastors of Catholic churches and heads of parochial schools regarding their participation in the exposition. The activities in which they will engage, he explains, will be optional with the authorities of the individual schools.

Battle Anniversary Observed.

The St. Louis chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution celebrated the one hundred and fifty-sixth anniversary of the battles of Lexington and Concord with a luncheon and program of patriotic addresses in the Daniel Boone room of Hotel Statler yesterday. Charles M. Hay was the principal speaker. His subject was "Comparative Liberties of Our Forefathers and Ourselves." Dr. George M. Trawick, president of the Missouri Society, S. A. R., also spoke.

GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY TO BE ORGANIZED HERE

The St. Louis Genealogical Society will be organized Tuesday night at Cabanne Branch Library, Union boulevard and Cabanne avenue. Eighty-five persons who have expressed their intention of becoming charter members have been asked to the meeting, which is scheduled for 8 o'clock.

The St. Louis Society will operate as a branch of the Institute of American Genealogy of Chicago. Its purposes will be to foster interest in genealogy and history locally, to provide research facilities in conjunction with the Public and Mercantile Libraries, and to preserve historical and genealogical records of St. Louis. The American society has more than 2200 members.

The meeting will be to discuss the purpose and scope of the organization, to plan its incorporation, and to elect officers and trustees. There will be a president, three vice presidents, a secretary, a treasurer, a genealogist, a historian and nine trustees. John E. Turner, an attorney, has been mentioned for president.

Among those who are interested in the society are Senator Harry B. Hawes, Dr. M. B. Clopton, Mrs. Paul Brown, Mrs. William Bagnell, Mrs. J. C. Schwinbeck, George O. Carpenter, Mrs. James G. Nugent, Richard McCulloch, Mrs. B. H. Pollock, Ola W. Bell and Mrs. Corwin H. Spencer. The Public and Mercantile Libraries, the Society of Women Descendants of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Co., and the Missouri Historical Society will be charter members.

Grand Boulevard Tax Meeting.

The Grand Boulevard Association will meet at 8 p. m., May 8, at Mission Inn, South Grand and Magnolia avenue, to devise means of protecting taxpayers' interests in the proposed widening of Grand boulevard.

Exit Bourbon and Hapsburg

Some of Philip's successors made the Escorial their retreat, but Alfonso XIII showed no fondness for it. "All too soon it will be my dwelling place," he once remarked when asked why he did not make use of its vast uninhabited spaces.

Royal Lines Merged.

When Maria Theresa, great-granddaughter of Philip II, became the wife of Louis XIV of France, the Hapsburg and Bourbon lines blended to form Alfonso's ancestry. The Austrian Hapsburg line continued to the long reign of Francis Joseph, Emperor of Austria-Hungary, and man of many sorrows, who was still clinging to life when the assassination of his nephew and heir set off the World War. Charles, a grand-nephew, who reigned over the tottering empire in the last two years of the war, was the latest sovereign of the Austrian Hapsburgs—the last, unless the pathetic Zita's dream of a crown for her son is some day realized.

The name of Bourbon was first borne to fame by Charles, Constable de Bourbon, who at the age of 26 held the highest military command in France, and who was sought in marriage by Marie Louise, the King's mother, an alliance which he boldly declined. He suffered the loss of his possessions and dignities, but the Bourbons could not be kept down, and Antoine, Duke of Vendome, "muscled into" the ranks of royalty, when he attained by marriage the throne of Navarre.

In the next generation, the House of Bourbon gained the French crown, for Henry of Navarre, son of Antoine, became Henry IV of France, succeeding Henry III, whose stormy reign was ended by an assassin's dagger.

Henry IV, famed for his personal charm, quick wit and dashing courage, had the task of reconciling a land torn apart by religious warfare. The edict of Nantes, assuring tolerance to the Huguenots, was an achievement of Henry's checkered reign. The revocation of the same edict by Henry's Bourbon grandson, Louis XIV, 87 years later, sent a tide of Huguenot emigration to the New World.

"The Grand Monarch."

Louis XIV, the Grand Monarch of France, is best known, to this age of the movies and of revelatory biography, through his association with his succession of feminine companions, Louise de la Valliere, Mme. de Montespan and Mme. de Maintenon, the last of whom attained to a form of marriage with the sovereign. If he was swayed often by women, he at least was independent of his courtiers and ministers of state. Cardinal Mazarin, successor of Richelieu, directed statecraft in the early years of Louis, who succeeded to the throne at the age of 5; but on the death of Mazarin, the young King announced that he would thenceforth be his own first minister. The great schemes of Colbert, for the reorganization of French finance and administration, were backed by Louis, but a sucession of wars left France burdened with debt, and the banishment of the Huguenots clouded the reign of Louis, which was 72 years in length. He was the builder of the palace and gardens of Versailles.

Louis XIV was succeeded on the French throne by his great-grandson, Louis XV, father of the Louis XVI who, with his Queen, Marie Antoinette, was beheaded by decree of the revolutionary convention in Paris, Jan. 21, 1793. There was a restoration after Napoleon, but in 1830, Charles X bore the flag of the French Bourbons into an exile that has now lasted more than a century.

Last Chapters.

The French Dauphin, son of Louis XIV, and the Hapsburg Maria Theresa, was the father of Philip, Duke of Anjou, who in 1700 succeeded the imbecile and childless Charles II as King of Spain.

From 1700 to 1931, the Bourbon-Hapsburg dynasty ruled Spain with two interludes. One was the rule of Joseph, placed on the throne by his brother, Napoleon I, and driven out by the Spanish people in one of the most heroic episodes of their history. The other was the revolutionary period of the '69s and '70s, when first a foreign dynasty, then a short-lived republic, was set up. Don Carlos, claimant to the succession after the death of Ferdinand VII without a male heir, and two later claimants of the name and lineage of Don Carlos, added to the complications of the Spanish dynasty in the last century.

Alfonso XII had to follow a clerical policy to keep the Church from aiding Don Carlos, and he had to send troops, and more troops to Cuba to deal with repeated uprisings. He died in 1885, and six months after his death, Alfonso XIII was born. His mother, Maria Cristina, was of the House of Hapsburg.

The Spanish-American War, with the loss of Spain's East and West Indies, came in Alfonso's boyhood. The later vicissitudes of his reign, leading to the long dictatorship of Primo de Rivera, are almost as familiar to newspaper readers as is the news that, last week, he and the royal family departed from Madrid and went to Paris.

PAYING BILLS
In Small Installments . . .
without keeping creditors waiting

WHEN families want a radio, washing machine, vacuum cleaner, or motor car they can get it at once and pay while they enjoy its advantages.

How much more important it is, when a family wants to pay an accumulation of past due bills, to have some means of doing so in small installments!

Families can usually get along without buying a new household device or luxury. They cannot get along without paying their current bills for necessities, even though they haven't the money.

Yet sickness, tax assessments, temporary lay-offs, and dozens of other unavoidable emergencies frequently wipe out surplus and bring indebtedness.

What then may families do who have not the collateral necessary to borrow from banks? They may go to a family finance company, borrow the money to pay off all their debts at once, keep their credit clear, and repay the finance company in installments over as long as twenty months.

The charges made for the loan are comparable to charges on installment buying plans. They are fixed by the wise laws of this state to be fair to the family and to the finance company.

Household, America's foremost family finance company, charges only this low rate of 2½% a month on loans of $100 to $300; without any extra or hidden costs.

In 74 principal cities, 133 Household offices are helping hundreds of thousands of families pay bills promptly, and repay in small installments. More, Household is helping them to budget their incomes so as to keep out of debt in the future.

MONEY MANAGEMENT FOR HOUSEHOLDS, a helpful booklet on budgeting family income, leading to the happiness of financial security, is offered without charge to all. Telephone, call, or write for a copy.

ACTIVITIES OF BOY SCOUTS

COURT OF HONOR SET FOR APRIL 27

Boy Scout Awards to Include First and Second Class Badges.

All applications for awards to be presented at the Council-wide Boy Scout Court of Honor, April 27 must be filed at Scout Headquarters, 505 Chemical building, before tomorrow evening, William Puffer, educational director of the St. Louis Boy Scout Council, announced. The Court of Honor will be held at the Scottish Rite Temple, to award second class, first class and merit badges, and Star, Life, Eagle and Eagle Palm honors.

This will be the first Council-wide court to present second and first class badges, the awarding of these pins usually being left to Troop Courts of Honor. Only a few more than half of the 283 troops of the city have held troops courts this year, however, so an exception will be made at the coming council court to clear up the large number of applications for these badges now on file. The next council court, which will be held this fall, will probably not award these badges.

Applications for Star, Life or Palm honors must be made on a regular form sheet, along with four references of persons in a position to know whether the applicant is living up to the Scout oath and the Scout laws.

In addition to filing application, every Eagle Scout candidate must appear before a special Eagle board of review, which must certify that the applicant is eligible for this highest honor in scouting before his application can be considered. Two reviews will be held for Eagles this week, one Tuesday and the other Wednesday. Both will take place at Scout Headquarters from 4 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon. Candidates may attend either review.

At the council court a special program will be given by one of the troops.

Troop Notes

West District.

Scout Gilbert Seidel was chosen Officer of the Day at the meeting of Troop 30, of the Y. M. H. A., a week ago Thursday evening. Scouts Harold Cohn, Harry Rothman, Simon Reznikoff, Morris Moss and Nathan Glikman received Honor Bars for earning at least 25 points in an achievement contest conducted by the troop. In the contest 10 points were awarded for advancement in rank, one point was given for each test passed, and three points were awarded for each merit badge. Most of the meeting was given over to pyramid building, games, contests and test-passing. The troop hiked to Nelson's farm Sunday. All cooking and most of the contests were conducted according to the Buddy System. Games also were played.

Scribe Paul Johnston has been made leader of a new patrol organized at Troop 45, of the First Christian Church. Scout Ted Nelson will succeed him as scribe. The junior officers of the troop delivered 21 bird houses to the State Park at Sullivan, Mo., last Sunday, in exchange for a free trip taken through the caves there last fall.

A patrol competition system is being used by Troop 98 of St. Roch's Church, in preparation for the Camparall this year. Practice will start with a fire-by-friction contest Tuesday evening, and a compass event Wednesday afternoon.

Three new Scouts, Richard Moore, Clifford Douthit and Arthur Smith, have joined Troop 128 of the Fountain Park Congregational Church. The troop is planning to hike to Gray's Summit today, to pass tests. Several of the scouts will leave early to work on the Pioneering merit badge.

North District.

A new North District troop is being organized at the Elliott School, under the sponsorship of the School Patrons' Association. The association voted to form the troop at a meeting last Tuesday. No number has been assigned as yet.

Seven new recruits were admitted to Tenderfoot Scouts into Troop 99 of St. John's Evangelical Church, at an investiture ceremony conducted by the troop last week. The church Brotherhood was present for the ceremony.

Plans for reregistration were made by Troop 148 of the Hyde Park Congregational Church a week ago Friday evening. The meeting was preceded by a Fathers' and Sons' banquet.

The Pioneer patrol of Troop 103 of the Elmbank Church went on a hike to the county a week ago yesterday. The day was spent exploring the woods and passing tests. Plans are being made by the troop for an 80-mile hike into the Ozarks.

South District.

A new troop, Troop 36, has been organized in the South District, at the Wilkinson School. Scoutmaster John Zeibig and 13 scouts were formally invested into scouting in an investiture ceremony conducted by Troop 157 Thursday evening.

Sixteen Scouts of Troop 249 of the Mason School, held a week-end camp at Cliff Cave last Saturday and Sunday. A Troop Court of Honor was conducted by the troop a week ago Friday evening.

Eighteen Scouts of Troop 232 spent last Sunday at the troop camp site on the Big River, near DeSoto. A council ring and assembly place was constructed, a nature study hike taken, and a treasure hunt held. Several fathers and members of the troop committee visited the camp during the day.

Central District.

Scout Valentine Tattitch of Troop 100 of the South Side Lions' Club became a five-year Veteran Scout two weeks ago. Scouts of the troop are already [illegible] for the coming Camparall. Thirteen troop members visited Scott Field yesterday, to witness the aerial exhibition given for St. Louis Scouts.

Suburban District.

A new Suburban District troop, Troop Mount Pleasant 1, was organized Thursday evening at the Midlink Baptist Church, under the leadership of Scoutmaster C. C. Kirk. Nine members were invested into the troop, and presented with Tenderfoot badges, in a ceremony conducted by Troop Overland 2. The committee of the new troop is composed of Chairman Russell E. Warren, Dwight E. Reynolds and Walter Talbert.

SOULARD POOL WILL HAVE SWIMMING CLASS FOR SCOUTS

A swimming class of 25 Boy Scouts will be organized at the Soulard pool, Seventh and Soulard streets, by Merit Badge Examiner Dr. Appel next Thursday evening. Permission for the Scouts to use the pool has been granted by the Park Board as a substitute for the Beaumont and Roosevelt School pools formerly used for this purpose.

Membership in the class will be limited to the first 25 scouts filing application at headquarters, although replacements will be made if any original members are dropped for non-attendance. The class will meet from 5 to 6 o'clock.

The scouts must report at the pool before 5 o'clock, bringing with them a clean swimming suit, towel and soap.

By James M. Gould.

Walter Stewart, Bill Killefer's clever lefthander, turned in another of his good games yesterday and recorded his second victory of the young season when the surprising Browns made it three out of four by defeating the Detroit Tigers in the series final, 7—3.

He was ably aided and abetted by Jim Levey, who appears to be the Jewish ball player John McGraw has been seeking for so many years. Levey drove in four St. Louis runs, with a single, a real homer to left and a squeeze bunt. Levey's average for the season to date is an even .600, with 9 hits in 15 times up.

Stewart was hit hard only in the sixth, when Detroit failed to score and in the eighth when they counted their three runs. He allowed eight hits, struck out six batters and walked four. The Browns made 11 hits off Bridges, Sullivan and Uhle.

The attendance was announced as 4375.

By their victory the Browns are in a four-way tie for the American League lead, with the Yanks, Senators and Indians.

Browns Score at Start.

The Browns, aided by Dame Fortune, scored in the first. After Levey had swung three times at nothing in particular, Burns popped a single to center. In keeping with Killefer's 1931 instructions to his men to "keep moving." Burns dashed for second and made it when Grabowski juggled the pitch. Bridges took a hand here and wild-pitched Burns to third. Schulte walked and Burns scored on Kress' fly to Doljak. There was no scoring then until the fourth. Stewart worked easily and hitlessly after the first and through the fifth the Browns, after having four men left on bases in the second and third, proceeded to "cash in" in the fourth.

Bridges handed passes to Melillo and Ferrell and then cut loose with a second wild pitch to move them respectively, to third and second. Stewart's crash off Bridges' fo to McManus resulted in his reti ment but Melillo scored. Then strode Jim Levey with his ro ing wallop into the seats in l for a homer and two more runs.

Sullivan was the Detroit pitc in the last half of the fifth he escaped in the inning. Jenki single being the only hit made him.

One Hit in Five Innings.

Not until the sixth did the Ti get their second hit off Stew Then, Gerald Walker pushed past Kress to open the inn Stewart struck out Shiver but G ringer's pop single over s moved Walker to second. The b were filled when Alexander d a pass. But Stewart refused

By James M. Gould.

Walter Stewart, Bill Killefer's clever lefthander, turned in another of his good games yesterday and recorded his second victory of the young season when the surprising Browns made it three out of four by defeating the Detroit Tigers in the series final, 7—3.

He was ably aided and abetted by Jim Levey, who appears to be the Jewish ball player John McGraw has been seeking for so many years. Levey drove in four St. Louis runs, with a single, a real homer to left and a squeeze bunt. Levey's average for the season to date is an even .600, with 9 hits in 15 times up.

Stewart was hit hard only in the sixth, when Detroit failed to score and in the eighth when they counted their three runs. He allowed eight hits, struck out six batters and walked four. The Browns made 11 hits off Bridges, Sullivan and Uhle.

The attendance was announced as 4375.

By their victory the Browns are in a four-way tie for the American League lead, with the Yanks, Senators and Indians.

Browns Score at Start.

The Browns, aided by Dame Fortune, scored in the first. After Levey had swung three times at nothing in particular, Burns popped a single to center. In keeping with Killefer's 1931 instructions to his men to "keep moving," Burns dashed for second and made it when Grabowski juggled the pitch. Bridges took a hand here and wild pitched Burns to third. Schulte walked and Burns scored on Kress' fly to Doljak. There was no scoring then until the fourth. Stewart worked easily and hitlessly after the first and through the fifth but the Browns, after having four men left on bases in the second and third, proceeded to "cash in" in the fourth.

Bridges handed passes to Melillo and Ferrell and then cut loose with a second wild pitch to move them, respectively, to third and second. Stewart's crash off Bridges' foot to McManus resulted in his retirement but Melillo scored. Then up strode Jim Levey with his rousing wallop into the seats in left for a homer and two more runs.

Sullivan was the Detroit pitcher in the last half of the fifth and he escaped in the inning, Jenkins' single being the only hit made off him.

One Hit in Five Innings.

Not until the sixth did the Tigers get their second hit off Stewart. Then, Gerald Walker pushed one past Kress to open the inning. Stewart struck out Shiver but Gehringer's pop single over short moved Walker to second. The bases were filled when Alexander drew a pass. But Stewart refused to

Van Ryn Makes Clean Sweep of Pinehurst Titles

By the Associated Press.

PINEHURST, N. C., April 18.—John Van Ryn, brilliant Philadelphia netman, today added championship honors in the men's and mixed doubles to the singles title he won yesterday to make a clean sweep in the North and South tennis tournament.

The Philadelphian teamed with Frank X. Shields of New York, to defeat Dr. Jack Wright and Marcel Rainville of Montreal, Canadian Davis Cup players, 6—3, 9—7, 7—5, for the men's doubles title.

His partner in the mixed doubles was Mrs. Van Ryn. They defeated Virginia Rice of Boston and Clifford Sutter of New Orleans, 6—3, 6—4, 8—6, in the championship match.

Mrs. Van Ryn also shared in the women's doubles championship. She and Mrs. Marian Jessup, Wilmington, Del., after losing their first set, co-ordinated their play to beat out Miss Rice and Anne Page, Philadelphia, 3—6, 6—4, 6—1, for the title.

WILCY MOORE BEATS YANKS IN 15-INNING GAME

NEW YORK, April 18.—Some fine relief pitching by Wilcy Moore enabled the Boston Red Sox to win their first game of the season today, defeating the New York Yankees 5 to 4 in a 15-inning duel. Moore relieved Milton Gaston in the seventh and pitched shutout ball, allowing three hits in nine innings.

Jack Rothrock's double and Earl Webb's single pushed over the winning run off Roy Sherid, who went the route for the Yanks. Charley Berry gave the Sox a 4-4 tie with a home run in the ninth. The Yankees scored all their runs off Gaston in the sixth inning, Lary's homer bringing in the first two.

CADILLAC WOMEN TAKE THIRD PLACE IN TENPIN TOURNAMENT

NEW YORK, April 18.—The Cadillac five of Detroit rolled 2552 points in the women's International Bowling Congress tonight to take third place in the five-women team division.

The only other change of the day saw the Indianapolis team of H. Broich and A. McDaniel roll into fourth place in the doubles, with 1114.

5180 SEE TILDEN DEFEAT KOZELUH AT THE ARENA

By Davison Obear.

William T. Tilden II, tall Philadelphian, defeated Karel Kozeluh of Czecho-Slovakia, in the feature match of the professional tennis program at The Arena last night. The former United States Davis Cup player won in straight sets, 6—3, 6—3, 6—4, before 5180 persons, the largest crowd to ever witness a tennis match in this city. In the preliminary match Robert Seller, San Francisco, defeated Emmett Pare, Dayton, 6-2, only one set being played.

Two Doubles Sets.

Only two sets were played in the doubles. Kozeluh and Seller won the first, 7—5, while Tilden and Pare took the second, 6—4.

In the first set of his match with Kozeluh, Tilden started with a rush, winning three straight games. He took his own service in the first and third games and broke through Kozeluh's in the second game. Kozeluh had some difficulty in getting his drives working during the early part of the set, but became steadier at the opening of the fourth game, which he won. There was very little net play at this stage of the contest. The Czecho-Slovakian star won the fifth game on placements and errors by Tilden. Big Bill won the next game on good placements from the net position and followed by taking his service to lead at 5 to 2. Kozeluh outsteadied Tilden to win the eighth game, but the former Davis cup player won his service in the following game to take the set, 6—3.

Each player won his service until the score reached 2-all in games in the second set. Tilden then broke through Kozeluh's service to lead, 3—2. The sixth game went to deuce several times, Tilden finally winning it on outs by Kozeluh. In the next game Kozeluh made some very pretty placements to win it, several times catching Tilden out of position. Tilden had his service going good in the eighth game to lead 5-3. In the next game Kozeluh was erratic, Tilden winning to capture the set, 6-3.

The Third Set.

The first two games of the third set went to Kozeluh, who played his best tennis of the match. He won the games on service and steadiness. Tilden's placements enabled him to take the third game. The fourth game was one of the most interesting of the match. There were a number of exciting rallies, Kozeluh winning it to lead, 3—1.

The next game went to Kozeluh on placements. Tilden outsteadied his opponent to win the sixth game. In the following game Tilden's fast service and two good placements enabled him to even the count, 4-all. Play was close in the ninth game, but Tilden's proved the steadier of the two and won it. Tilden drove to the base line to win the tenth game, the set, 6—4, and the match.

Lock Wei, former Chinese Davis Cup team captain, and Ted Baehr, St. Louis district official, served as umpires for the matches last night. Linesmen who served were members of clubs belonging to the local district association.

ONE AMERICAN WINS, ANOTHER LOSES IN JOHANNESBURG RING

By the Associated Press.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, April 18.—Kid Como, billed as an American featherweight, defeated Ernie Eustace, former South African lightweight champion, in a 15-round bout here tonight. Willie Smith, South African featherweight champion, outpointed Sammy Shack, also billed as from the United States, in another 15-rounder.

Sun Beau raced in hand until after passing the half-mile pole when he went to the front and drew away into a commanding lead rounding the far turn. Kurtsinger, a bit over anxious in stretch run struck him with the whip at sixteenth pole. He had his field soundly beaten at the time. Paul Bunyan slow to begin and a trailer for half a mile gradually improved his position remainder of journey to finish going very strong. Fortunate Youth set the early pace on sufferance. He faltered right at the end when put to a drive. Morsel was hustled along all the way. Spinach was eased up when he tired.

$2 mutuels paid: Sun Beau win $2.60, place $2.90, show $2.60. Paul Bunyan place $6.80, show $4.60. Fortunate Youth show $7.60.

By the Associated Press.

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., April 18.—Sun Beau, 6-year-old stake campaigner, won the Philadelphia Handicap and $9000 for his owner, Willis Sharpe Kilmer, before a crowd of some 25,000 here today, and increased his total winnings to $276,819.

The son of Sun Briar, Beautiful Lady, outclassed a field of five other entrants, winning by a length and a half, despite the 129 pounds he carried. Jockey C. Kurtzinger struck him with the whip at the sixteenth pole, though he had the field soundly beaten at the time, to bring him home ahead of Paul Bunyan and Fortunate Youth.

The time for the mile and one-sixteenth distance over a fast track was 1:44 4-5.

It was Sun Beau's second victory in his second start this season, and it gave hope to his owner that he would exceed the record winnings of Gallant Fox, William Woodward's Preakness and Derby winner of last year, before the season is over. Gallant Fox, retired at the end of his phenomenal season as a 3-year-old, won a total of $328,000.

In his previous start earlier this week Sun Beau came within three-fifths of a second of the mile and 70 yards track record of 1:43.

Spinach, William Ziegler Jr's star four-year-old, which last fall beat the Kilmer Ace by 4 lengths in the Havre de Grace cup handicap, finished last today, being pulled up by Watters when he tired. It was the season's opener for Spinach.

Ten horses and mares of four years or more were named for the feature, but four were scratched.

The Kilmer Ace's victory was his twenty-seventh in 63 starts. He also has finished second ten times and has been third on nine occasions.

Sun Beau was such an overwhelming choice that he paid but $2.60 for a $2 mutuel win ticket, $2.90 to place and $2.60 to show. Paul Bunyan paid $6.80 to place and $4.60 for third, while a show ticket on Fortunate Youth netted his backers $7.60.

JIM BAUSCH.

By the Associated Press.

LAWRENCE, Kan., April 18.—Officials who juggled figures all day decided tonight that James A. (Jarring Jim) Bausch and not Wilson (Buster) Charles had won the decathlon of the Kansas Relays, adding an unexpected climax to a day of brilliant performances that included the shattering of two intercollegiate relay marks.

Charles, an Oneida Indian student at Haskell Institute, won the national championship last year at Pittsburg, and in the first five events of the decathlon here conducted yesterday, far outdistanced the field. Bausch scored heavily in today's field events, however, and the final score was Bausch, 7846.2203; Charles, 7744.1205.

Total Betters Record.

The revised decathlon figures gave Carl Parker of Lake Forest (Illinois College), who finished third, a total of 6664.2572.

Bausch's point total betters the American record of 7784.68 of Kenneth Doherty, College of the City of Detroit, but may not stand, because of confusion in timing.

Bausch, who thus defeated the National A. A. U. decathlon champion, was entered in the meet under the colors of the Kansas City Athletic Club. He is a student at the University of Kansas here.

A swarm of midwestern and far western athletes who participated in the relays also eclipsed numerous meet records.

A fleet quartet of milers from the University of Illinois beat the intercollegiate four-mile record made by another Illini team in Side Show Rivals the Circus.

WITH the lifting of the suspension against Primo Carnera by New York and the apparent likelihood that the Man Mountain will fight Jack Sharkey in Brooklyn, next June, it appears that the main heavyweight fistic circus will have to move into the side-show tent. This match, if announced next week, as promised, will attract even greater attention than the title contest at Cleveland between Max Schmeling and Young Stribling, scheduled for July 3.

The fancy trimming that Sharkey gave Schmeling last year and the curiosity aroused by the colorful Primo, seem to give this fight first rank in interest if not in actual championship merit.

A majority of fans think Sharkey the world's greatest boxer; quite as many believe that Primo is the toughest physical fortress in the world to subdue. The ever-interesting struggle between science and mere mass will add another lure to attract the customers.

On the other hand Stribling's fights have disappointed; and Schmeling, although champion, to the popular mind was a lucky guy who was saved from defeat only by Sharkey's inadvertent foul. The title event thus seems destined for the side show, while the Fighting Freak will move into the Big Tent.

May Be for the Best.

IT ALL may work out for the best, especially should Carnera, by any chance, be able to wear down the sharpshooting Sharkey and overwhelm him by sheer bulk.

In that case the eyes of the country would be turned to the Cleveland contest to learn which of the pair, American or German, would survive to face the giant Italian.

The chance that Schmeling might win and thus create a September title final between a German and an Italian would certainly attract the customers.

Wielding the Big Stick.

ONE surprising feature of the heavyweight drama seems to be the attitude of the New York Commission. Apparently it is executing a silent but sure squeeze play on the Madison Suare Garden Corporation, in an effort to break a contract which the Garden officials had arranged between Carnera and the winner of the Schmeling-Stribling fight. This contract is reputed to have been signed and protected by forfeits. It has been hinted that the commission may take action against the Garden unless it consents to abandon its plans and let Carnera fight Sharkey!

It could suspend the Garden Corporation for arranging a match in which a suspended fighter figured. The Garden cannot afford a suspension of its New York activities.

If the commission's alleged hostility is a fact, it certainly is swinging a big stick and apparently a rather partisan one. Threats by the Garden to sue the commission are probably idle. The big corporation would have a hard time doing business without the good will of the State Athletic Board.

The Garden probably will have to take its medicine to keep peace in the family.

CUBS' PITCHERS FORCE IN WINNING RUNS; HORNSBY AND L. WILSON FAN IN THE PINCH

By J. Roy Stockton.
Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

CHICAGO, Ill., April 18.—Charles E. Street, the philosopher of the dugout, took a flyer in psychology this afternoon, nursed "Wild Bill" Hallahan through eight and two-thirds innings of a nerve-testing contest and almost lost a ball game to the Cubs because of his eager desire to build up the confidence of his southpaw ace.

However, just when it appeared that Hallahan's nine bases on balls and a flock of Chicago base hits were going to break the Redbird winning streak, the "Old Sergeant's" lucky star blinked through the April twilight and bases on balls, the curse of the Cardinals in the early innings, became their blessing and salvation and the National League champions scored a 7-5 victory.

An Old-Time Thriller.

It was an old-fashioned thriller that the two outstanding teams of the National League played before a howling crowd of 30,000 cash customers. Hallahan always gives you a thrill and into this affair he packed enough to test the cardio-vascular systems of the strongest fan.

Even at the finish, the stands were howling and yelling and two Cub base runners were on second and third base, stamping and pawing with their spikes and waiting for the one more base hit that was needed to tie up the score and send the athletes into the eleventh inning, or perhaps send the fans home to cheer over another Cub triumph.

Hallahan, the "Sweet William" of last September and the fair-haired boy of the world series, started as though he had reverted to the "Wild Bill" of other years. He gave three bases on balls and a run to the Cubs in the first inning, but Street permitted him to stay in there. It would have been a blow to Bill's morale, to be yanked from the box on his first start of the year and Street knew that, and gambled the ball game against the chance that Bill would pull himself together.

After three bad frames, Bill did improve, but in the ninth, with a two-run lead, he again looked like an imposter with Hallahan's pugnose, left arm and a glove. Even then Street withheld the signal that would have sent him to the showers.

Laughter Turns to Groan.

Even after a single by English, a pass to Hornsby, an infield out by Wilson and a double by Riggs Stephenson tied the score, Street kept Hallahan out there on the hill. But when Bill issued two more passes, the eighth and ninth of his afternoon, Gabby decided that psychology and confidence building were all right, but he wanted a ball game. So he derricked Bill and called on Paul Derringer. The young recruit from Rochester, drew a roar of laughter from the stands as he wound up and fired his practice pitches into Jimmy Wilson's glove, but the laughter faded to a snicker and then turned to a groan as Derringer whipped three strikes over the plate to fan Pinch Hitter J. Taylor and leave the score still tied.

Passes Become a Sedative.

Then it was that the base on balls ceased to be a curse and became as a sedative to the frazzled nerve of Street and the Cardinal fans.

With one out Bottomley doubled to right center and that was the only active bit of attacking that the Redbirds needed. Lon Warneke, a young right-hander with a wide sweeping curve, walked Watkins because his curve was too sweeping and when Andy High batted for Gelbert, Warneke threw four more bad ones and Andy walked to fill the bases. Adams flied to Stephenson and Street wisely held Bottomley on third. A wild man was on the hill for the other fellows now and, maybe, he had four more bad balls up his sleeve. He did, and when Jimmy Wilson drew the fourth one, Bottomley was forced home, and when Bud Teachout relieved Warneke and pitched four wide ones to "Pepper" Martin, Watkins scored and the Redbirds were two runs ahead.

Hornsby and Wilson Fan.

There were still more frills for the customers, for Cuyler led off in the tenth with a double to right off Jim Lindsey, and English singled off Lindsey's glove. But that was the end of the Cub attack for the afternoon. Hornsby took a third strike and scowled and Hack Wilson did the same thing and scowled and kicked 10 pounds of dirt in the air in his rage. But rage wins no ball games and when Stephenson flied to Watkins the game was over and everybody was happy, that is, everybody except the Cubs and about 29,900 of the 30,000 customers.

It was a pleasant finish to a thrilling afternoon, for the follow-

KANSAS TAKES HALF-MILE RACE IN NEW TIME FOR LAWRENCE MEET

1929. Gould, Garrison, Woolsey and Evans stepped the long distance in 17:37.8. The old intercollegiate record was 17:40.2 and the former Kansas relays mark by the University of Indiana in 1930 was 18:03.4.

The Kansas Jayhawkers, running on their home track, captured the half mile relay record in 1:26.5, defeating the University of Iowa. Nebraska and Michigan Jointly held the old record of 1:26.6.

Edward Gordan, Negro from the University of Iowa, set up a new broad jump mark for the Kansas carnival with a leap of 25 feet 4⅝ inches in the preliminaries. It was his best jump of the day, although in the final he easily defeated Timberlake of Washington State, retaining the title he won here last year. Charles finished fourth in the open broad jump.

Favored by a breeze, Paul Swift, Washington State College sophomore, nosed out Glass of the Oklahome Aggies in the 100-yard dash. The winner's time was 9:5, the same as he made in the fastest heat and one second less than the Kansas relays record made by Cy Leland last year.

Lee Sentman of the University of Illinois, running with the wind, equalled his Kansas relays 120-yard high hurdle record of 14.6, in the preliminaries and the finals, in which he finished with an appreciable lead over Hager of Iowa State College.

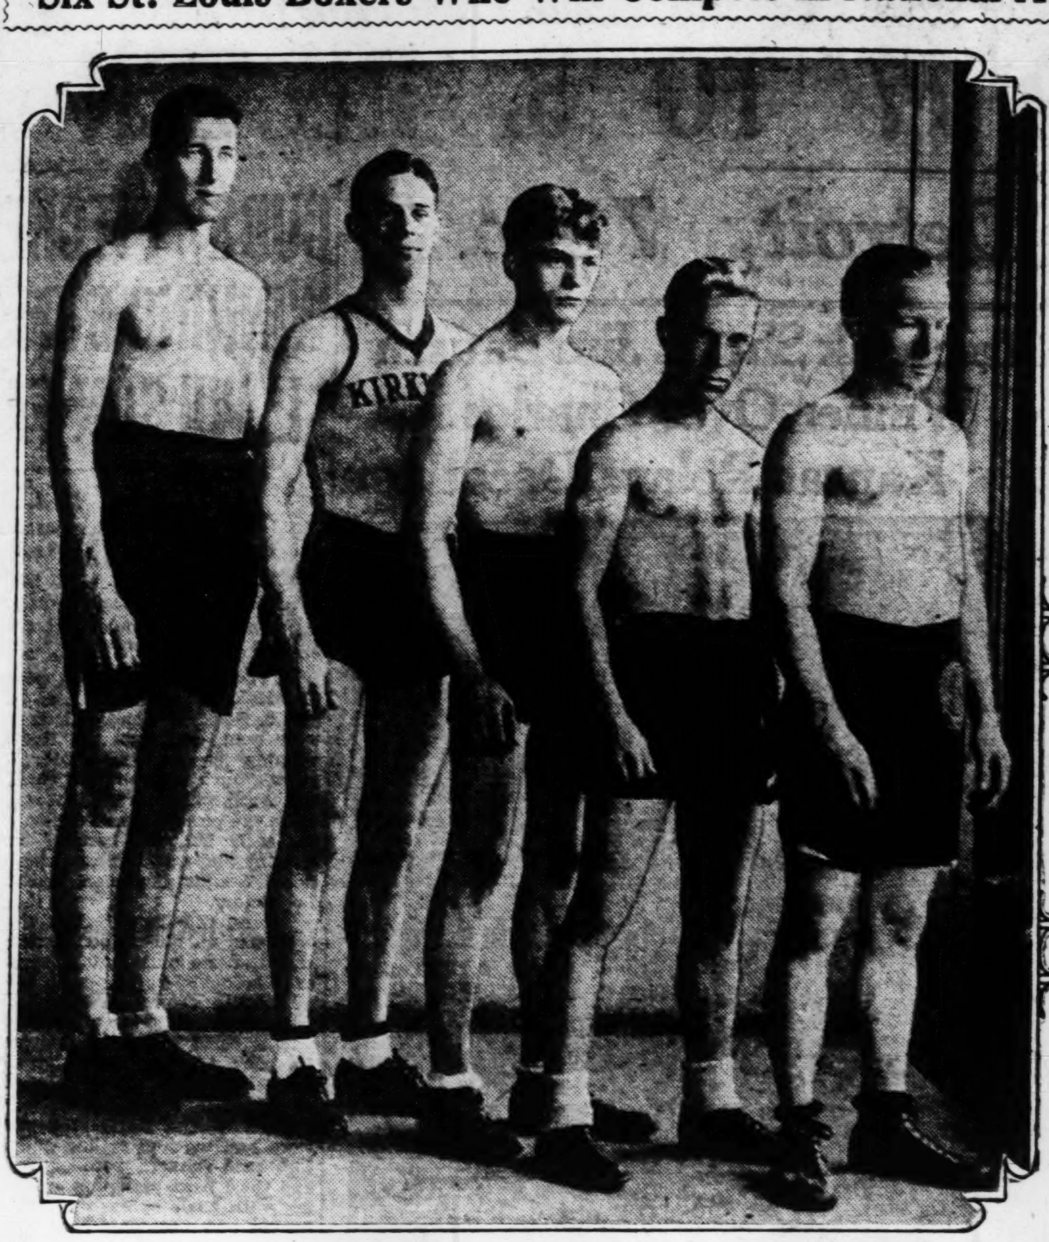
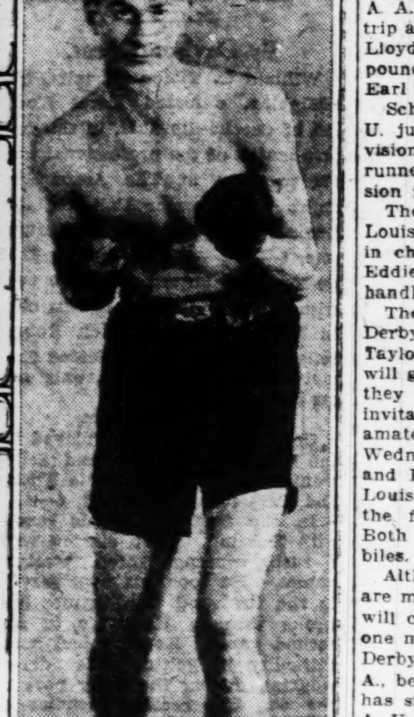
Six St. Louis Boxers Who Will Compete in National A. A. U. Tourney



Six of the eight St. Louis boxers who will compete at New York, April 27 to 30, are: Leslie Schulte, heavyweight; Herbie Hahn, welterweight; Joey Parks, lightweight; Russell Derby, bantamweight; Ray Lang, featherweight, and Johnny Miles, light heavyweight. Earl Taylor, middleweight, and Lloyd Young, featherweight, are other members of the team.



CHRISTNER WILL OPPOSE SCHWAKE IN CONTEST AT COLISEUM MAY 1

By W. J. McGoogan.

K. O. Christner, Akron (O.) "rubber man," will be John Schwake's next opponent, it was announced yesterday by Jack Hurley, promoter for the Jackson Johnson Jr. Post. Christner has been signed to box 10 rounds with Schwake at the Coliseum, May 1.

This will be the main event of a card of six bouts, the supporting contests featuring several local boxers, including Al Stillman, Johnny Kaiser and Sammy Offerman.

Schwake will be seeking his seventeenth professional victory and it is expected his powers of resistance will be tested by Christner's right hand.

Christner is long past the age when boxers are supposed to be at their best, as the record book shows he is 35 years of age. He started to box late in life, however, and was quite a sensation until he ran into Otto von Porat's right hand and was knocked out in 1929.

During 1930, Christner fought 14 battles, winning seven, three by knockouts, losing five, four of them on kayoes. The rest were no-decision affairs.

Christner defeated George Manley, Tony Fuente and George Panka by knockouts and won decisions over Joe Sekyra, Jack McCarthy, Arthur de Kuh and Walter Pickera. He was knocked out by Primo Carnera, Max Baer, Young Stribling and Mickey Walker. He lost a decision to Ernie Schaaf.

So far this year he has had five bouts, winning two and losing three.

Through as Title Hope.

As his record indicates, Christner is through so far as being a championship threat is concerned, but he is said to retain the power in his right hand and the experience gained through fights with many of the topnotchers seems to make him a good trial horse.

Schwake has traded punches with some good hitters, but none who possess the power of Christner, and those behind John's campaign want to see if he can stand up under real punches. If he does, he will be matched with higher-grade opponents.

There will be no change in admission prices, which range from 55 cents to $3.30, but there will be more $1.10 seats than heretofore, while the two sections on each side of the ring, in the first balcony, which have sold for $3.30, will be reduced to $2.20 a seat.

Mattoon Athletes Win.

URBANA, Ill., April 18.—In a quadrangular track and field meet held on McKinley Field here this afternoon, Mattoon High won first place honors with 28½ points, followed by Urbana with 17; Danville third with 11 and Champaign fourth with 9½. Mattoon won first place in the high jump and discus and annexed a number of second and third places to win the meet. Urbana won four of the six relay events, which were not counted in the table of points.

WRAY'S COLUMN

—in fact, all comers are welcome, Ed broadcasts.

But Londos is Ed's most prized meat, he says, adding: "If Jim will venture into the ring with me I'll best him as decisively as I have in the 14 previous times that I proved my superiority over him."

That "fourteen" victories is interesting, if true.

But the world will be greatly amazed if such a match takes place. In the first place it is entirely unlikely that the men will agree on either the time, the place, the referee or the guarantee for such a contest. What one wants the other will balk at. Unless matters are entirely "clubby," champions seldom oppose dangerous opponents.

And Londos, whatever he was in the days when Lewis wiped the mat with him, here and elsewhere, today is classed as dangerous, even to real wrestlers.

Stecher's "Turn?"

IN fact, if history repeats itself, it is far more likely that the venerable Mr. Lewis will hurl his "fat and forty" frame against "Scissors Joe" Stecher, than against Londos. Joe has been emitting noises suggesting that he would like to sit in on the melon cutting. History says it's Joe's turn and if you doubt it, take a look at the order in which the mat kings of the past few years have succeeded one another.

Charley Cutler (won tournament to determine Gotch's successor).

JOE STECHER defeated Cutler.

STECHER defeated Earl Caddock (who was injured in the war).

STRANGLER ED LEWIS beat Stecher.

Stanislaus Zbyszko defeated Lewis.

LEWIS made it all square by beating Zbyszko.

Old Man Zbyszko then handed a package to Munn.

JOE STECHER defeated Zibby for his third title.

ED LEWIS then made it "even-stephen" with Stecher by beating Joe to gain his third stretch on the throne.

Don George defeated Sonnenberg.

Which brings us around to where we came in—Joe Stecher! Joe is due to even it up with Lewis and is the logical contender of the Sandow circus for a fourth chance at the big money.

So, while Lewis is talking about meeting Londos it is more likely that he is thinking about making things pleasant for Stecher.

That, of course, will not come until Lewis has had a chance to recoup his fortune, said to have been somewhat depleted, in recent years.

Helene Madison Wins 200-Yard Free-Style Event

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 18.—That slender speed marvel from the West Coast, Helene Madison, continued tonight to turn the women's national championship swimming meet into a personal triumph, but for the third straight night she failed to eclipse any of the records she had previously set in her whirlwind career.

Although she bettered her field by 10 yards in the finals of the 200-yard free style championship, one of the two events decided tonight, she lacked a full second of equaling her own record for the distance. The Seattle star's time was 2:36, compared to her best mark of 2:35 set last year.

Tonight's easy victory gave her two national titles out of the present meet, with one more day to go. She previously had won the 100-yard free style and her great performance at anchor last night enabled her club, the Washington Athletic Club, to win the national 400-yard relay.

Despite its star's fine performance, however, the Washington A. C. lost ground for the night in the tussle for team honors. By winning both first and second places in the 300-yard medley race, the Women's Swimming Association of New York forged far to the front with 34 points. Washington A. C. was second with 21; Los Angeles A. C. third with 10, and the Scranton (Pa.) Swimming Club fourth with seven.

Horse Van Turns Over.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BALTIMORE, April 18.—One of Beitler's vans that was conveying the C. C. Smithson and R. Jackson horses over from Bowie to Havre de Grace turned over five miles out of Aberdeen. The horses were pretty well shaken up, but fortunately none was killed.

THREE VALLEY CHAMPIONS ON TEAM GOING TO A. A. U. TOURNEY

Three champions of the Mississippi Valley Athletic Association are included on the team of eight boxers which will represent St. Louis and the Western A. A. U. in the National Amateur Athletic Union's amateur senior boxing championships at New York, April 27 to 30. They are Les Schulte, heavyweight; Johnny Miles, light heavyweight, and Joey Parks, lightweight.

Others members of the Western A. A. U. team which will make the trip are: Russell Derby, 118 pounds; Lloyd Young and Ray Lang, 126 pounds; Herbie Hahn, 147 pounds; Earl Taylor, 160 pounds.

Schulte won the National A. A. U. junior championship in his division last year, while Parks was runner-up in the lightweight division for juniors.

The boys will depart from St. Louis in two groups, with Joe Bode in charge of the first group, and Eddie Vanderventer (Kid Bandy) handling the second.

The first group, composed of Derby, Young, Parks, Hahn and Taylor, will depart Tuesday and will go by way of Detroit, where they will compete in an intercity invitation tournament with Detroit amateurs as their opponents, Wednesday night. Miles, Schulte and Lang will depart from St. Louis, Wednesday, and will join the first group in Zanesville, O. Both squads will travel in automobiles.

Although all boxers on the team are members of St. Louis clubs, all will compete as unattached. Only one member of the St. Louis team, Derby, of the North Side Y. M. C. A., belongs to an organization that has standing with the Western A. A. U.

The seven other boxers are members of clubs which belong to the Mississippi Valley A. A., a rival organization to the Western A. A. U. Young and Parks are members of the Wesley House boxing team; Hahn and Lang, Sherman Park A. C.; Taylor, Jefferson Barracks; Miles, South Broadway A. C., and Schulte, Business Men's A. C.

All expenses of the trip are being paid by the National A. A. U.

On their return to St. Louis, it is planned to match the Western A. A. U. team with a team from either Detroit or Chicago for an intercity tournament here, May 8, at the Winter Garden. If this tournament is a success future programs will be held.

James F. McGinn, president of the Mississippi Valley A. A., has stated that any boxer who deserts his organization for the A. A. U. will be suspended.

GREYHOUNDS ROLL INTO LEAD IN ALLEY OWNERS TOURNAMENT WITH 3052

The International Greyhounds took the lead in the team event of the Alley Owners' Scratch Bowling tournament on the Wellston Recreation drives last night with a 3052 score, passing the Gardenville Arcades who had held the lead for two weeks with a 2998 count.

In collecting their total the Greyhounds shot consistently good tenpins, getting games of 1063, 978 and 1011. Johnny Fitzgerald was the big noise for the outfit with a 653 cluster, with the veteran D. J. Sweeney next in line with 634, including a high first game of 257. Ray Zeigler got 586, Jack Nece 604 and Steve Kenney 575.

On the same squad with the Greyhounds other money scores were being compiled, the Rogers Recreations leading the others with 2943, followed by the Schmitt Ready Mixers with 2942, Pop Steins with 2912 and the Congress Alley five with 2900.

Squads will bowl in the team event this afternoon at 1, 3 and 5 o'clock. Several of the city's leading teams, including the Justin T. Flints, leaders in the Major City League, will bowl in these squads.

BURROUGHS "A" NINE CRUSHES WESTERN

In its first "A B C" League baseball game of the year the John Burroughs "A" team defeated Western Military Academy by the decisive score of 17-6. The game was played at Western and was the Cadets' second loss this season.

The Burroughs took the lead at the beginning and tallied 15 runs in the first six innings to one run. The Western nine also substituted pitchers.

CANTLON TO DRIVE NEW SPEED CREATION IN 500-MILE RACE

By the Associated Press.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 18.—William "Shorty" Cantlon of Detroit will drive what is claimed to be the fastest automobile ever entered in the annual 500-mile race here May 30, according to announcement today by the Indianapolis motor speedway.

The car, built by Harry Miller of Los Angeles, has a 16-cylinder motor, developing 300-horsepower at 6000 revolutions and capable, its sponsors say, of doing better than 200 miles an hour.

Cantlon, who finished second here last year to Billy Arnold of Chicago, will have the new car at the track within a few days. The owner is William White of Hollywood, Cal., who has seen his cars in past years win prize money at Indianapolis.

COAN WINS RACE IN PENN SPRING MEET

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, April 18.—Carl Coan, intercollegiate indoor mile champion, proved he was rounding into good form for the outdoor season when he stepped three-quarters of a mile race in 3 minutes 6 5-10 seconds in winning the event in the annual spring meet of the University of Pennsylvania today. The record is 3 minutes 2 8-10 seconds. Coan conceded handicaps up to 100 yards to a starting field of 16.

THREE DISTRICT RECORDS FALL IN MAPLEWOOD RELAY CLASSIC

Athletes from University City High School added another victory to their long list yesterday afternoon, when Coach Schemmer's stars won the second annual Maplewood relays with a total of 28 points. Maplewood and Roosevelt gave the U. City runners plenty of competition, finishing in a tie for second place with 27 points. A total of 14 schools competed.

The other point totals were: Webster 20, Kirkwood 13, St. Charles 8, Cleveland 8, Soldan 2 and St. Louis U. High 1. Five schools failed to gain a place.

In three of the events, records of the district were beaten. In the 100-yard dash, Robert McClure was timed in 10.1 seconds. The district record is 10.4. James Owen clipped a full second off the district standard for the 220-yard dash, when he negotiated the distance in 22.2 seconds. Arthur de Salme of Webster threw the javelin 165 feet, which is one foot better than the district mark.

In addition to these, new meet records were established for the 880, two-mile, one-mile and 440-yard relay races.

The special events as well as the junior and senior medley races were decided for the first time.

ROUGH RIDERS GO INTO A TIE WITH CLEVELAND FOR THE LEAD

By Harold Tuthill.

Roosevelt went into a first-place tie with Cleveland in the City High School League baseball race yesterday afternoon, the Rough Riders defeating Soldan, 11 to 8, in the first game of the double-header at the Public Schools Stadium. Clifford Brengard turned in a beautiful pitching performance to enable Central to win from Beaumont, 3 to 2, in the second contest. Only 400 saw the games.

Soldan, the defending champion, overcame a 7 to 0 lead which Roosevelt held after four and one-half innings, to go ahead, 8 to 7, by scoring two runs in the fifth and six in the sixth inning.

The rally made by the West Enders drove Ollie Steiner, Roosevelt's starting pitcher, and Merrill Baumgartner, the relief hurler, from the mound. Jack Murrel, the third pitcher, and one of the seven during the game, managed to stop Soldan and to finally get credit for the victory.

Roosevelt won the game by scoring three runs in the eighth and adding another run in the ninth.

The second game was a pitcher's battle. Hayward Gray of Beaumont lost the decision to Brengard of Central, only because Brengard was invincible in the pinches, despite seven errors committed by his mates.

Street Will Soon Know If Pitcher Dean Has Big League Self Control

Eccentric Hurler's Work in Spring Series Indicates He Has World of Natural Ability.

By James M. Gould.

After several weeks of training in the South and a string of exhibition games there, on the way North and in St. Louis, "Dizzy" Dean, the big, new Cardinal right-hander, still is an indeterminate factor. Taken by itself, there is no doubt of his pitching ability. He has speed, curves and control of the ball. All that is needed to make him one of the greatest young pitchers in years seems to be control of self.

Manager "Gabby" Street of the champions has gone a long way with this eccentric young man. Probably, because of the kid's promise, he will go somewhat further. But Dean cannot afford to trade on this possibility, for "Gabby" can be stern and not for a minute will he permit one man to damage the morale of the club he thinks is the best in the National League.

Dean went to the Bradenton training camp early and proceeded to get into trouble almost immediately after his arrival. At one stage, he was "in bad" to such an extent that Street ordered him to stay away from the ball park. Later, he was about to leave the camp but, not having anything the railroad men were willing to accept for money, reconsidered and, given another chance by Street, managed to be "with the team" when it arrived in St. Louis.

The youngster's idea of money is concerned mainly with the spending of it. He has drawn in advance all of his 1931 salary and may have gone into 1932. However, if he comes through with a string of 1931 victories, it is probable that the club officials will see that he isn't poorly off financially.

No Time for Triflers.

One of the greatest menaces to a successful career for Dean is that he has made himself offensive to his teammates and to his manager. The Cardinals, under "Gabby" Street, are serious about this business of baseball. They believe they can win another pennant and any player who, by his conduct, jeopardizes that victory, will find himself decidedly persona non grata. As a matter of fact, Dean already has found this out. His present relationship with Street and his fellow players is not a very cordial one.

Participation in the World Series means "big money." Even a loser's share is close to $4000 while members of a winning club gather in nearly $6000. Cardinal players have, in the past, pointed this out to Dean and have tried to get him to see the serious side of his profession. It may be that they have succeeded, to a certain extent; but Dean will have to prove it before he again is accepted as a member in good standing.

Dean Really Has Fine "Stuff."

Dean's pitching this spring really has borne out the promise of his first big league appearance last year when, toward the end of the season, he worked a beautiful game against the Pittsburg Pirates and defeated them easily. His work, because of his "troubles" was not over-impressive in camp but, though allowing the Browns four runs in the second city series game with the Browns, he wasn't hit especially hard.

Several things militated against the youngster in this series game. He had just been presented with a big floral horseshoe; there were more than 26,000 fans in the stand; the first Brownie up reached him for a scratchy single. It is hardly to be wondered at that the kid lost his poise and issued a couple of costly walks which resulted in three runs against him almost before he was warmed up. Thereafter, except for a home run by Melillo, he held the enemy helpless.

Manager Street makes it plain that he believes Dean is now—or can be—one of the greatest pitching prospects in years. He also makes it plain that he will stand for no more nonsense from the temperamental youth and that, if Dean doesn't show he is a major-leaguer, he will be shown the way to the minors.

Semi-Pro Player, Holdout All His Life, May Weaken

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PITTSBURG, April 15.

OLLIE CARNEGIE, sandlot slugger de luxe, who has been a holdout from the ranks of organized baseball all his life, is about to weaken to accommodate old friends. Carnegie is a Pittsburg sandlot star. They call him the "Smoketown Bambino."

For years he has been besieged with big league offers, but he has turned a deaf ear to each. He was satisfied to stay at home, pursue his regular work, and play ball on the side.

But the past winter some of his old friends took over the Hazleton franchise in the New York-Pennsylvania League and Ollie may weaken and give league baseball a tryout this summer.

McAuliffe Leads In Two Events of Stein Tourney

Russ McAuliffe, lead-off man for the Arena bolwing five of the Major City and Washington scratch leagues, went into the lead in both the singles and all-events divisions to feature play in the Stein, Jr., handicap tournament at the Washington alleys yesterday afternoon. McAuliffe rolled 613 in the five-man; 653 in the doubles and 682 in the singles for a combined total of 1948 pins to pace the all-events, while a 12-pin handicap swelled his individual count to 694, displacing L. Dennis of East St. Louis from the top berth by four pins.

F. Smith, a member of the A. R. T. team, which is leading in the five-man event, was next best in the singles division, his 685 count placing him in a tie for fourth place. Ray Jacobsmeyer, teammate of McAuliffe, registered 668 for ninth place, while W. Kay of the Vescovo team scored 671 for eighth position.

The best doubles score of the day was 1241, rolled by McAuliffe and Al Pfyl, giving them a tie for twelfth place.

Fight Promoter Given Chance to Develop Own Son

NEW YORK, April 18.

JIMMY JOHNSTON, veteran New York sports promoter, recently received a letter from a Southern boxing enthusiast praising a schoolboy boxer who had beaten all opponents in the vicinity and who had won a sectional title. The writer said he would take the boy under his wing as a professional if Johnston would give him some matches in New York.

Johnston nearly fainted when he read that the boxer's name was "Tuffy" Johnston. It was the promoter's own son, who is attending a military academy in the South.

Tilden Talks to Boys and Girls on Game of Tennis

William T. Tilden II, probably the most widely known figure in the tennis world, yesterday afternoon addressed an assemblage of boys and girls and grown-ups, too, at The Arena. The occasion was arranged primarily for the younger players. In the course of his remarks Tilden described the various ways in which to grip a racquet and how to execute the various important strokes used in tennis.

Tilden also gave his hearers some advice on training and diet, and concluded by giving out autographed photos of himself on the back of which was printed his "Ten Commandments of Tennis," as follows:

1. Keep your eye on the ball.
2. Make all shots with your body sidewise to the net.
3. Always have your weight going into the shot.
4. Use a racket that is well strung and not too heavy.
5. Always dress specially for tennis and be sure to shower and change after playing.
6. Remember no match is lost until the last point is played, so fight no matter how far you are behind.
7. Never change the style of a winning game.
8. Always take chances when losing, for you have everything to gain and nothing to lose.
9. Don't worry over defeat or crow over victory. Winning or losing, keep your mouth shut.
10. Play the game as much as possible and play it for the fun of the game.

BATH, Me., April 18.—The 143-foot yacht Helene, built for Charles E. Sorenson of Detroit, an executive of the Ford Motor Co., was launched from the yards of the Bath Iron Works, Inc., today. The wife of the owner christened the vessel. The yacht is built entirely of steel and is powered with twin 400 horsepower motors. She will be sailed to Detroit, via the St. Lawrence River.

Cardinals Win Extra-Inning Game From Chicago Cubs, 7-5

ers of the Redbirds, but the shine will remain on the trouser seats long after the score is forgotten. You never saw so much squirming and writhing in seats as the St. Louis rooters did this afternoon, and you won't see as much until Hallahan pitches again.

For the demon lovers of statistics, it was the fourth straight victory for the Redbirds and enabled them to remain in first place, tied with the surprising Boston Braves, who hung another wreath of base hits on the brow of the Robins of Brooklyn.

Redbird Notes.

Chicago, April 18.

CHARLIE ROOT, who pitched a four-hit game against the Pirates on opening day, will face the Cardinals tomorrow in the secod game of the series, with Flint Rhem, also an opening day victor, due for the Red Birds.

Sam Breadon, owner of the Cards, saw today's game and will remain for tomorrow's contest. Sam said there was nothing new in the Hafey case, but his evasion of questions indicated that the club might be in a receptive mood if Hafey agreed to sign for the last offer made by the club.

"I wouldn't care to state," was Sam's answer when asked if the club had been communicating with Hafey, or Hafey had communicated recently with the club. "Hafey's case is being handled from the St. Louis office," Breadon added.

No evidence of business depression here. Nearly 30,000 persons could spare the admission price for the series opener.

It was an unusually warm day for April in Chicago and many of the sun-seat customers were in their shirt sleeves.

The contest lasted two hours and 55 minutes and there wasn't a dull moment.

Rogers Hornsby helped the Cardinal cause by making two errors, a fumble and a wild throw in the sixth inning, in which the Cards scored three runs on one hit.

Jim Collins batted for Derringer in the tenth, but Teachout relieved Warneke, so Martin batted for Collins. The Ripper is a turn-around hitter, but he is more dangerous when batting left-handed.

Hornsby went hitless and twice took a called third strike. In the second inning he didn't take his bat off his shoulder. Rogers had won two previous games with home runs, but the fans passed the razzberries for the manager in the late innings.

Concordia Wins From Kirksville By 4 to 1 Score

After six tight innings in which both teams scored a run and made three hits, the Concordia Seminary baseball team knocked over two runs to win from Kirksville State Teachers by a score of 4 to 1, yesterday afternoon in a game on the Concordia diamond. The Kirksville players are staying over in St. Louis to play Washington University tomorrow.

This was Concordia's first victory of the season.

The star of the contest was Siebert, Concordia's pitcher. He held Kirksville to six hits and himself scored three runs. He had a perfect day at bat with three safeties out of three times up. One of these was a long triple. It was not until the seventh frame that any Kirksville batter was able to hit a fly ball into the outfield off him, and he fanned 11 of them.

The Seminarians counted first in the second inning. Siebert walked, went to second on Bigsby's error, to third on Gesswein's sacrifice, and scored when Kellermann lifted a single over second base. Kirksville came right back and tied the score in the third, Gates sliding in safely on a squeeze play.

In the sixth Concordia scored twice when Kirksville's hurler, Langhop, weakened to allow two safeties. Siebert, after hitting safely, scored on Gesswein's triple to deep left, the latter following him across the plate a moment later on Kellermann's sacrifice bunt. Concordia scored a final run in the eighth when Siebert poled a triple and scored on Gesswein's single.

STEWART HURLS BROWNS TO 7 TO 3 VICTORY OVER DETROIT TIGERS

"blow." He made McManus fly out to Bettencourt, whose quick return held G. Walker on third, and then made Doljack force Alexander.

The irrepressible Levey drove in another run in the last of this inning. With Melillo out, Ferrell singled to right and moved up on Stewart's tap in front of the plate. Levey promptly singled to left for the run.

George Uhle pitched to the Browns in the last of the seventh In the eighth, the Tigers finally scored, a single by Doljack with the bases filled accounting for two runs and Owens' hit for another. Bettencourt's triple, a single by Melillo, a wild pitch and a squeeze engineered by Levey and Melillo, gave the Browns two more runs in their half.

Brownie Notes.

Schulte was promoted to the No. 3 spot in the batting order with Goslin among those absent. The "Goose" tried out his bad hand in batting practice, but found it was no go. Bettencourt replaced him in the field and batted sixth.

The very first play of the game was a fielding gem. Melillo went far into Tom Jenkins' territory for a fine catch of G. Walker's high fair fly.

Burns made the circuit in the first inning without the aid of any hit but his own single. He stole second, went to third on a wild pitch and scored after Doljack caught Kress' fly. Doljack made a fine throw home, but McManus cut it off in front of the plate.

When Doljack struck out in the second, Ferrell's throw to Levey was so good that McManus, trying for second, was out by at least 10 feet.

The Browns continued their sprightly type of play. Killefer has the unique managerial idea that a base-runner is supposed to do some running, so when a Brownie gets on first, he usually goes somewhere. He starts, anyway.

Burns, who singled his first time up, had a fine chance to be a hero in the second when he batted with two down and the bases filled. Bridges had other ideas and struck him out.

The only exception was Charley Gehringer and all pitchers look alike to him.

Rick Ferrell was busy handling strike-outs and fouls. He was credited with six of the first nine putouts.

Bridges, while fairly hard to hit, was bothered by wildness. In the Brownie fourth, he walked Melillo and Ferrell with eight straight bad ones.

There was nothing powder-puffish about Levey's homer. The second the ball was hit, Doljack put his head down and sped toward the fence in left, but the ball was over the fielder's head and "in there."

EAST ST. LOUIS MAKES THREE RUNS IN SEVENTH TO DEFEAT NORMANDY

The East St. Louis High School baseball team scored three in the last inning yesterday afternoon to defeat Normandy High, 8 to 6.

Normandy routed Henry in the fourth, Rice tripled in the seventh with three men to win the game for East St. Louis.

Rice and Wells led the East Side attack with three hits apiece. Doyle of Normandy had a perfect day, getting three hits in three times at bat.

STANFORD SCORES 101 2-3 POINTS TO 29 1-3 FOR CALIFORNIA U. TEAM

By the Associated Press.

STANFORD STADIUM, Cal., April 18.—Scoring more than 100 points for the first time in the history of their 38 years of competition, Stanford University's powerful track and field team crashed the University of California in their annual big meet today, 101 2-3 to 29 1-3.

Kenneth Churchill, California star, battered the national collegiate record in the javelin throw, hurling the spear 220 feet 9 inches.

Churchill established the I. C. A. A. A. A. record of 212 feet 5 inches at Cambridge, Mass., last year.

SARAZEN II, THE 1930 WINNER IN JAMAICA STAKE, OUT OF MONEY

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 18.—With only a featherweight in the saddle, Louis Perry's Protractor stepped away from a classy field of veteran sprinters to win the historic Paumonok Handicap and $6300 today as the 169-day metropolitan race season opened at Jamaica under midsummer weather conditions.

Protractor met a band of rivals more highly regarded in turf circles but the five-year-old son of Tetrameter had only 100 pounds in the saddle, and the light weight told the story. Sidney Hebert, up on the Perry sprinter, rated the colt back of the pace for three-fourths of the journey and then sent him out in front with a bound that turned back the bid of the turf's best in the stretch.

At the end of the six furlongs Hebert had his mount four lengths in front of W. R. Coe's Maya, which just nosed out Rudolph Spreckles' Judge Schilling in a brilliant stretch drive. Protractor's time for the distance was 1:12 and he paid 7 to 1.

Sarazen II, racing for Mrs. Graham Fair Vanderbilt, was in the field, making an effort to repeat his triumph of last year, but the son of High Time was never in the running. He finished ninth in the field of 10.

Heavy Play on Pittsburgher Not Justified by Record

PITTSBURGHER
Owned by Shady Brook Farm Stable (T. E. Mueller).
Juvenile Record.

Firsts	Seconds	Thirds	Unplaced.

Stake Race—Finished eighth in Post and Paddock Stakes at Arlington Park, Aug. 2.

By Dent McSkimming.

PITTSBURGHER—No. 10

There has been a heavy, 'though rather quiet unloading of money in support of the colt Pittsburgher in the future book betting on the Kentucky Derby. The horse's record as a 2-year-old scarcely seems to justify unlimited confidence in his chances but the wagering has been so heavy as to back his price down from 80, a couple of weeks ago, to 40 to 1.

Like Vander Pool, Pittsburgher played a part in one of the few disqualifications of last season. He is officially credited with only one victory in 13 starts, but he actually finished first on two occasions. He hit his best stride during the running of the summer meeting at Arlington, winning two races. It was on July 25 that he was ruled out of the money by the judges after having beaten Upright, Don Alvaro, Birthday Gift, Doris Jean, Aunt Deb and a lot of others over the five and one-half furlong course. Don Alvaro set the pace, with Birthday Gift in close pursuit. Pittsburgher, a slow breaker, was working his way up on the turn and at the head of the stretch he swerved too sharply into the rail, knocking Birthday Gift off his stride. Then Pittsburgher, with Leyland up, went on to pass Don Alvaro to win, going away. The disqualification took away from him the fruits of the best race of his 2-year-old career. He was carrying 115 pounds.

In his only start in a stake race, Pittsburgher did nothing to bring happiness to the hearts of his handlers. He went after the Post and Paddock Stakes at Arlington on Aug. 2 and wound up eighth, badly beaten. The distance was six furlongs and Pittsburgher, with 114 pounds up, had 12 pounds less than Siskin and Back Log and two pounds less than the winner, Insco. This race alone would seem sufficient to dampen the ardor of Pittsburghers backers, for he was never better than eighth and made up no ground.

The foundation for the recent plunge on Col. Theodore Mueller's colt is his very satisfactory preparatory workouts at Churchill Downs. Under the handling of J. H. Moody, veteran trainer, the colt has improved almost daily. Furthermore, he is the biggest and strongest-looking colt in training for the Derby. He is well bred, by In Memoriam-Wistaria, whose sire was Ballot. It is quite possible that Pittsburgher may be a contender on May 16, but he must run a lot faster than he did as a 2-year-old.

Insco and Other Derby Horses In Good Workouts

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 18.—With Jockey Steve O'Donnell aboard, Griff Watkins' Insco, which is being prepared at Churchill Downs for his Kentucky Derby engagement, was sent a half mile in 48 4-5 seconds today, going the quarter in :23 2-5, and the three furlongs in :35 2-5. This was regarded as very satisfactory by Trainer Durnell and those who observed the smooth going of the colt gave him credit for being far advanced in condition.

Two of the Hamburg Place colts, Conscience and The Mongol, were sent a mile by Trainer Bill Reed, and Bosafabo worked out six furlongs. Conscience showed the best form, going a mile in 1:45, breezing, the fractionals being :23 4-5, :49, 1:02 2-5, 1:16, 1:30.

The Mongol's time was :25 3-5, :52, 1:19, 1:32 3-5, 1:47 2-5.

Bosafabo had a good three-quarters breeze in :23 2-5, :49, 1:17.

Jimmy Moran and Bargello showed a good seven-furlong workout in 1:30, while Bellsmith traveled a mile and one-eighth in 1:57 2-5.

Col. Theodore Mueller's Pittsburgher, which has been got ready here for his Preakness and Derby engagements, has been taken by van to Lexington, where he is entered in a sprint race Monday afternoon, which is expected to demonstrate how fit Trainer J. H. Moody has got the strapping big son of In Memoriam.

Bloomington 10, Decatur 7.

DECATUR, Ill., April 18.—The Bloomington Club got to Oakley Carlson, former Iowa University hurler, for five hits and six runs in the sixth inning here today to defeat the Decatur Commies, 10 to 7, in the first exhibition game of the season. Ponzer and Conners each made four hits for the locals. Score:

M'MILLAN TO MEET ZAHAROFF ON ARENA CARD

Three interclub bouts in which amateur boxing champions of the Mississippi Valley A. A. will engage local rivals of class A rating and a heavyweight wrestling event were announced last night by Tom Packs, matchmaker for the Citizens' Committee on Relief and Employment, for the combined boxing and wrestling program to be held at The Arena on Monday night, April 27, for the benefit of St. Louis' unemployed.

Packs has lined up Tony Viviano of the Croatian A. C., Cliff Doetzel and Charley Schober of the South Broadway fistic team, to appear in the amateur boxing attractions.

A flyweight feature of the card brings Viviano against Carmen Durso of the D. A. Club., in a return match, while Doetzel takes on Earl "Tiny" Kehr of the E-K Athletic Club, in another return engagement, carded as the bantam number. Schober will trade punches with Joe Huff, a teammate of Kehr.

McMillan to Meet Zaharoff.

The heavyweight mat attraction announced last night will bring Jim McMillan, former Illini football star, against Andrew Zaharoff, a 235-pound Russian, in a one-fall event with time restrictions of 30 minutes. Zaharoff, a newcomer to local mat circles, is said to have been a consistent winner in Eastern bouts.

Jimmy Londos, who is recognized in New York and Pennsylvania as the world champion of his division, meets Pat O'Shocker, Utah grappler, in a return match, scheduled as the premier attraction on the benefit card. Londos met and defeated O'Shocker in an hour and six minutes in an engagement at the Coliseum on the night of April 8.

Two Pro Fights Planned.

Dick Shikat, German heavyweight, has been paired with Kola Kwariani of Russia, in the semi-windup, limited to 30 minutes.

Present plans call for another heavyweight mat contest and two professional boxing bouts of six rounds each to complete The Arena program. George Zaharias, Colorado Greek, will likely appear as one of the principals in the proposed mat bout.

WESTERN CONFERENCE AND NORTH CENTRAL GROUP TO CO-OPERATE

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 18.—War between the Western Conference and the North Central Conference of Colleges and Secondary Schools over the question of athletic policies, was averted today when Big Ten leaders voted to co-operate with the North Central group.

In a formal resolution, presidents of Western Conference universities decided to appoint a committee to confer with representatives of the North Central at regular intervals to thresh out any problems that might arise.

Dr. Walter Dill Scott, president of Northwestern University, at whose request the meeting was held, was named chairman of the committee, with Dr. Alexander G. Ruthven, president of the University of Michigan, and President Edward C. Elliott of Purdue University, as the other members.

Dr. Ruthven said he would notify Prof. James B. Edmonson, president of the North Central, and dean of the School of Education at the University of Michigan, of the Big Ten's action tomorrow. He said he expected Prof. Edmonson to appoint a similar committee to represent the North Central.

A struggle for the right to direct athletic policies appeared certain two months ago, when a North Central investigating committee visited schools in Minnesota, Illinois and Ohio, among them Northwestern University. Dr. Scott, feeling that the North Central conference had exceeded its authority, which he believed to be purely academic, in delving into athletic affairs, asked that a meeting be called to determine the Big Ten's stand.

Today's meeting was attended by presidents, athletic directors and faculty athletic committee members, each group holding a secret session. They met as a whole this afternoon and after a lengthy discussion voted to appoint the committee.

NEW TALENT BOWLERS ROLL 3030 SCORE IN CITY-WIDE HANDICAP

The New Talent Recreation team last night took the lead in the city-wide handicap tournament being rolled at Heidel's alleys, with a score of 3030. Sam Garafola was high man, with a score of 696.

FOUR BOUTS ARRANGED FOR CROATIAN CARD

Jack C. Tippett is arranging an attractive card for his final indoor boxing show of the season for Tuesday night at Croatian A. C. hall, 1439 Chouteau. Tippett has signed Woodrow Williams and Wop Figuero, Jefferson Barracks' bantam, for one of the supporting battles to the main attraction which will bring together Paul Steadman and Peewee Terry.

In the heavyweight battle, Harold Sonnyboy Hamilton meets Jimmy Conklin of Belleville. Another supporting bout brings together Jackie Poole and Johnny Tomazzi.

MAJOR CITY BOWLING LEAGUE WILL CLOSE ITS SEASON TOMORROW

The Major City League will close its season tomorrow night on the Mid-City Drives after one of the closest races in its history. The Justin T. Flints, who hold a two-game lead over the South Side Chevrolets and Wooster Lamberts, are favored to win the championship, although it is possible for the race to end in a four-cornered tie. If the Flints drop three games and the Chevrolets and Lamberts win two while the Witter Razz are winning three, all four teams will be deadlocked for first place.

The Flints will meet the City Limit Recreation, the Chevrolets the United Bakers, the Lamberts the Schaefers, and the Witter Razz the Rogers five. The standings:

	Won.	Lost.	Av.
Justin T. Flints	61	26	979
S. S. Chevrolets	59	28	974
Wooster Lamberts	59	28	958
Witter Razz	58	29	962

"Cheating the Cheater"

Tom Kearney Relates How Chappie Moran Had a 100 to 1 Shot Wished on Him When He Was Slated for the Cleaner.

Thomas M. Kearney, veteran St. Louis betting commissioner, whose future book quotations are accepted as standard all over the country, has recounted a series of anecdotes of the turf of 30 or more years ago. This is the first, others will follow.

By Thomas M. Kearney.
(As Told to Dick Collins.)

Tom Kearney.

The title of this story is Cheating a Cheater. Only it didn't turn out that way. The cheater cashed in heavily, demonstrating that you never can tell exactly what is going to happen in a horse race.

The racing game always has had its Chappie Morans, wire tappers and first-past-the-post rogues.

The leading character in this yarn is the original Chappie Moran, at least he was the original to my knowledge. I made his acquaintance when the St. Louis merry-go-rounds and night tracks flourished. Later he operated a poolroom near Fourteenth and Broadway, New York.

Put Chappie on Ice.

I met him there, having gone to the metropolis to bet on a good thing, Tayon, from "Dutch Fred" Cook's stable. Tayon went over at a long price, Moran promised to bet on the horse, but when we called on him for a settlement he said he could not get his money on Tayon.

It looked like a plain case of "welshing," so I tabbed Chappie as a cheater and put him on ice, figuring that it is a long lane that has no turning.

Some years later they were racing at Kinloch, St. Louis County. I made book there. One night I received a wire from Chappie, still in Little Old New York. He wanted something worth betting on, suggesting that I get busy and send one that couldn't lose.

My idea, of course, was to send him one that couldn't win. Finally I stumbled onto a "turtle" that figured to run last in a boat race. The horse's name was Watercress. This nag was a mud runner of some merit, but he just simply couldn't beat a snail on a fast track.

"Watercress will be 100-to-1 tomorrow," said my partner, Jack Williams. "Let's wire the 'Mule' to Chappie Moran, who trimmed us on Tayon."

That night we wired Watercress to Chappie from a Western Union branch office at Grand and Easton.

Moran wired back, asking how far he could go. "Go as far as you like," was our response.

And How It Rained.

Watercress was in the first race. The horse opened at 100, 40 and 20 to 1. As the betting opened a terrific downpour of rain broke loose, a regular waterspout flooded the track. The start was delayed 15 or 20 minutes and when the field got off the track resembled a canal. There was no play on Watercress at the track and the horse went to the post at 100, 40 and 20. Watercress led all the way, galloping home 10 lengths to the good. Then followed an uproar.

New York poolrooms wired for protection. They said that Watercress had been backed off the boards, opening at 15-to-1 to win, closing at even money.

The telegraph company took a hand in the investigation, fearing a first-past-the-post job. The delay at the start made the affair look suspicious. The judges and track management turned the race upside down, checked everything and everybody connected with the event. But the race had been run on the level and nothing came of the investigation.

That night Williams and myself received a wired money order for $2000, also "Send me another." signed Chappie Moran.

ST. LOUIS STARS TO PLAY BELLEVILLE ALL STARS HERE TODAY

The St. Louis Stars, National champions of Negro baseball, are scheduled to meet the All-Stars of Belleville, here this afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Stars' Park, Compton avenue and Market street. The Belleville club plays semi-professional baseball and in a recent game defeated the Millstadt Club, 6 to 0. The St. Louisans lost their first series at three games to none to the Homestead Grays of Pittsburg, Pa.

The St. Louis Stars have three new faces in their lineup this season. They are Newton Allen and Young both from the Kansas City Monarchs and Hunter, a youngster from Phoenix, Ariz., who has been added to the staff of hurlers.

PRITCHARD COLT IS VICTOR OVER THISTLE ANN BY LENGTH AND HALF

By the Associated Press.

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 18.—One of the largest and most colorful crowds in history, which gathered at the 100-year-old Kentucky Association track here today, saw E. F. Prichard's Tannery, which the natives backed to beat Gallant Fox in last year's Derby, signalized his return to the races with a smashing triumph in the Ben Ali Handicap, feature attraction. At the conclusion of the futurity course sprint, the chestnut son of Ballot had a length and a half advantage over Thistle Ann, winner of the Inaugural Handicap at Bowie. Manta was a fast-finishing third.

Eight leading representatives of the western handicap division contested the issue. After a delay of seven minutes at the barrier, Starter Hamilton had the field away in perfect alignment. C. V. Whitney's Angry, one of the staunchly supported choices, and a stake winner at Miami last winter, was first to show in front. Tannery assumed command when Angry chucked it and had to be urged but mildly to withstand the late challenge of Thistle Ann. Manta met early interference, but closed gamely, while Angry finished a badly beaten fifth.

The big disappointment of the race was the high-weighted Cayuga, which carried the colors of Racing Commissioner Theodore Mueller. On the strength of several sensational workouts Cayuga was backed into favoritism, but he retired after showing fair speed for a half mile.

Tannery covered the 170 yards less than six furlongs in the excellent time of 1:09 1-5, just two-fifths of a second short of the track record. He was a warm second choice in the mutuels and rewarded his supporters to the extent of $8.00 for each $2.00 ticket.

RIVERSIDE PARK AT KANSAS CITY READY FOR RACE MEETING

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 18.—The Riverside Park meeting, which opens May 9, is expected to be the best that has ever been staged in this vicinity, judging from the class of horses that are already on the ground, and the applications that are pouring in from all points.

Many new features will be added to the track, according to Mr. William P. Kyne, who is staging his initial meeting here. A starting gate will be in operation at Riverside for the first time. This is the Jarvis gate, which was used at Tulsa and Arlington Downs, and has proved successful.

Some of the latest arrivals are the Allen Brothers, from St. John's, with 18 head.

Foreign Relations, winner of four races at New Orleans during the past winter, is here with the G. Bloss Stable.

The stable of Shipp & Macken, local owners, arrived from New Orleans, with Colonel Campus, Gaineswood, Fan Air, Vladimir and Broadway Call.

MISSOURI WINS FROM KANSAS AGGIES, 14-11

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBIA, Mo., April 18.—The Missouri Tigers evened up the two-game series with Kansas Aggies here this afternoon, winning a slugfest, 14 to 11, but only after Norman Wagner had quieted the bats of the visitors.

Missouri took a 10 to 3 lead in the first five innings, but the Aggies pounded Brumm, the Tigers' starting hurler, for five hits, including home runs by Price and Fiser, a double by Shrader and a triple by Nigro, for seven runs in the sixth to tie the count. Fiser also hit for the circuit in the third.

The Tigers came back in the seventh inning with four runs and Wagner held the Aggies hitless throughout the last three stanzas, although a walk and an error allowed one run to be scored against him.

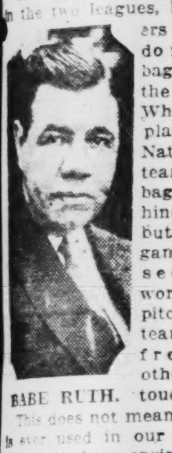
CHIEF DIFFERENCE IN TWO LEAGUES IN HURLING, RUTH SAYS

A. L. PITCHERS USE FAST BALL, WHILE RIVALS RELY ON CURVE

By Babe Ruth.

NEW YORK, April 18.—I often get letters from fans, asking me if there is any difference between the National and the American League. They ask if the same rules are followed by both leagues and if there is any difference in the style of play. I doubt very much that there is any difference worth while.

The playing rules are the same in the two leagues, but the pitchers in our league do not use a resin bag, as they do in the National. Whenever we play against a National League team the resin bag is always behind the pitcher, but in our own games we never see one. In world series the pitchers of one team use the bag frequently, and others do not touch it.



BABE RUTH.

This does not mean that no resin is ever used in our league. Some of the pitchers sprinkle it in the pocket of their uniform and use it just to get a better grip on the ball. All the clubs have resin on the bench for the batters to powder their hands before going to the plate.

Pitching Is Different.

There is one difference between the leagues that has impressed me in our exhibition games. That is the number of curve balls which are thrown by the pitchers in the National League. Sometimes it's curve, curve, curve. In our league I think the pitchers rely a lot more on the fast ball than they do in the National. We have some good curve ball pitchers—that is players who get their best results from curves because they lack great speed—but as a rule there is no such amount of curve ball pitching.

That is the chief difference that I know in the style of play. Neither league goes in very strongly for base stealing any more.

I have heard a lot of arguments about one league being much stronger than the other but I could never see it. Even a string of successes in the world series does not prove anything. It simply means that the winning team of one league is stronger than the pennant winner of the other. It does not mean that each club rates better than one finishing in the same place in the other league.

Dutra, at 31, Has Developed Into Great Golfer, Jones Says

By Bobby Jones.

On Sunday, March 29, Leo Diegel and I played a charity match at Agua Caliente against George Von Elm and Mortie Dutra, and our side came out second best by the margin of one hole. It was the first even semi-serious competition I had had since the national amateur in Philadelphia and it was very enjoyable. Indeed, I have always liked to play exhibition games. They are just serious enough—good four-ball matches, with fine players and fine fellows, where everybody tries hard and the crowd adds its bit to the thrill, yet no one feels badly over losing.

I was particularly interested Sunday in watching Dutra. This boy is really one of the very finest golfers in the game today and one who can go a long way as he gains experience and confidence in himself. I think he is rapidly finding both. Certainly he has the nerve to try any shot and the skill to bring off most of them. Although Von Elm stuck in the deuce at the fifteenth, which gave his team the winning margin, it was Dutra who carried the burden most of the way. He played the long Caliente course in 70 strokes, two better than my score, and he holed a nice putt on the seventeenth for a birdie four and a half when it unquestionably meant the match.

BOBBY JONES.

Plays All Shots Skillfully.

Dutra is unique in one respect—that he is now 31 years old, yet he has only just developed to his full stature as a golfer. Out here on the coast, he has been recognized as a fine player for years—I remember Tommy Armour telling me about a great match he had with Mortie several years ago—but something has always gone wrong when he has gone East. But at Caliente I saw him play every kind of shot from tee, fairway and bunker and I can say that he goes about them all like a golfer.

To give a few examples; at the very first hole he hit a drive and a spoon which both split the pin, and then he dropped a 12-foot putt for a three. At the second hole his drive caught a big bunker on the right side of the fairway, and his second shot, although bravely struck finished in a bunker on the left of the green. That left him with a most difficult third—a vast expanse of sand to play over, the hole quite close to the edge of the bunker, and the green sloping away from the shot. He brought off a beauty, the ball pitching over with a sharp backspin which stopped it about a yard from the hole. When I saw that one shot I knew the man could play golf.

No Disadvantages in Steel Shafts.

Another thing which interested me in this match was the test which I gave a new set of steel-shafted irons which I have just got. When I was playing in tournaments I was a little bit afraid to fool with the steel, but now that I have no more worries of that kind I feel entirely free to do what experimenting I like. These clubs only arrived in time for me to play one round with them on Saturday before the match, so that I was not as familiar with them as I should have liked to be, but even at that I found them very satisfactory. Throughout the round my iron shots were as good as I had any right to expect them to be, and if "Calamity Jane" had been behaving herself everything would have been all right.

On such a short test I am by no means committing myself to steel. I have played the wood too long to be easily won over. But I am beginning to be convinced that there are no real disadvantages to be found in steel shafts, a fact which it is very encouraging to learn, for they are certainly more easily obtained for the mass of golfers. Whether or not they are any better than real good hickory shafts I cannot say. Aside from the fact that the steel may be a bit more uniform, it is hard to see that there is anything in it either way. I rather think that the question is one for the player himself to determine—if he likes steel, by all means let him use it, but if he prefers the feel of the hickory, then let him stick to it. But there is no need for him to look for a shaft that will play the shot for him. Shots can be missed with steel, hickory or anything else that has been, or ever will be put in a golf club.

FALL RIVER AND BRICKIES MEET IN TITLE GAME

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, April 18.—The third game of the series to decide the national soccer championship will be played here tomorrow afternoon, with the Bricklayers, Western title holders, opposing the Fall River club, Eastern winner. Fall River is the present national champion.

In the first contest of the series, played in the East, Fall River routed the Westerners, 6 to 2, but in the second battle, waged here a week ago, the "Brickies" showed a tight defense and held the Sam Mark entry to a 1-to-1 decision.

A victory today will give Fall River its second championship, while a conquest for the Bricklayers will necessitate another battle.

ST. LOUISAN CHOSEN UMPIRE IN THREE-EYE

DECATUR, Ill., April 18.—President L. J. Wylie of the Three-Eye League today gave out the names of the eight umpires who are under contract for the 1931 season. Ira Davis of Brooklyn and Robert Kober of St. Louis are returning while Ivan Van Graflan of Rochester, N. Y., a brother of the major league umpire, is among the new ones. Others are: E. H. Osborn, Covington, Ky.; Al. Wallin, Kansas City, Mo.; N. A. Bartlow, Detroit, Mich.; Robert Corkhill, Huntington, Ind., and William White, Boston, Mass.

GRADE SCHOOLS TO START TITLE PLAY TOMORROW

Play in the Grammar School Baseball League will open tomorrow, when three of the nine groups swing into action. The competition this season has 55 teams, nine more than a year ago. The winner of the championship will gain possession of the Post-Dispatch trophy, now held by the Madison School. The players of the winning team also will receive medals from the Post-Dispatch.

Madison, the present champion, is again entered and will play its first game of the season against the Gardenville School nine on Tuesday.

It will take five weeks to decide the group championships, two weeks will be allowed for the eliminations and another week for the title series of best two out of three games.

THE MAKERS OF A GREAT CIGAR SPONSOR A GREAT PRIZE CONTEST
Don't fail to enter LA PALINA'S
$10,000. SLOGAN CONTEST
Can you write an advertising slogan for La Palina cigars? A few minutes' thought may place you among the winners. You don't, of course, have to buy or smoke a La Palina to enter this contest. But if you're interested in knowing how mild, mellow, fragrant and altogether good a cigar can be — smoke two or three La Palinas today. La Palina cigars are Java-Wrapped to bring out the full richness of the choice blended filler tobaccos. Every La Palina is kept fresh in an individual cellophane humidor. La Palina is America's largest selling high-grade cigar.
[Listen in on the La Palina program broadcast every Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evening over the Columbia Broadcasting System at 7:45 Eastern Standard Time.]
FIRST PRIZE . . $5000
SECOND PRIZE . 1000
THIRD PRIZE . . 500
For the 20 next best slogans $100 each
For the 30 next best slogans $50 each
RULES:
(1) You are allowed to submit as many slogans as you wish, but each slogan and explanation of it must be written on one side of a single sheet of paper with your name and address on it. (2) Each slogan must be accompanied by an explanation of not more than 25 words telling why you think it a good slogan. (3) Entries must bear a postmark not later than midnight, May 1, 1931. (4) In case of ties full amount of the prize will be paid to each of the tying contestants. (5) Contest open to everybody except employees and executives of the Congress Cigar Co. and their families. (6) You don't have to buy a La Palina to enter this contest.
The judges in awarding the prizes will consider the excellence of both the slogan and the written explanation.

Three More Betrothals Announced

Huldah Williams, Richmond (Va.) to Wed B. P. Lambert May 2 — Margery Kimball and Clark McAdams Clifford Engaged.

THREE announcements which will add interest to the already lengthy list of spring betrothals follow:

At Richmond, Va., announcement has been made of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Huldah Justice Williams, daughter of Berkeley Williams of Richmond, to Barron Proctor Lambert, son of Mrs. Helen C. Smith Lambert, 270 Park avenue, New York, and the late Jordan W. Lambert, formerly of St. Louis.

The wedding will take place at 6:30 o'clock Saturday evening, May 2, in Holy Trinity Protestant Episcopal Church, Richmond. Because of a recent death in the family of the bride-elect, only a small reception will be held at Sunny Crest, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis C. Williams.

Mr. Lambert is a nephew of Maj. and Mrs. Albert Bond Lambert, 2 Hortense place, and Girard Lambert of Princeton, N. J. He is a graduate of the University of Michigan, class of 1926.

A romance that had its inception on the River Rhine was culminated yesterday with the announcement of the engagement of Miss Margery Pepperell Kimball, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Gove Carleton Kimball of Glen Farm, Woburn, a suburb of Boston, to Clark McAdams Clifford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Andrew Clifford, 6943 Kingsbury boulevard. The announcement was made at a bridge luncheon given by Mrs. Kimball at their home for 30 of her daughter's friends. An extra card on which was written the news was added to each deck of cards provided for the bridge games.

Miss Kimball was graduated from Miss Harcum's School, Bryn Mawr, and spent a year traveling in Europe. She also studied music at the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston and has appeared as solo pianist with the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra. She made her debut two years ago at a tea at the home of her parents. Mr. and Mrs. Kimball made their home in St. Louis a number of years ago.

Mr. Clifford was graduated from Washington University Law School and is a member of Kappa Alpha Fraternity. His mother, who is national president of the American Association of Story Tellers, was Miss Georgia McAdams, and he is the nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Clark McAdams, 6041 West Cabanne place.

The wedding will take place early in the fall. Miss Kimball recently visited in St. Louis at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford.

The engagement of Miss Mary Louise White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. White, 8 Aberdeen place, to Francis Dean Burnett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Burnett, 5044 Wabada avenue, was recently announced to a few intimate friends at a dinner dance at the Bellerive Country Club.

The wedding will be solemnized in the presence of the immediate members of the families of the bride and bridegroom at noon, May 2, at the home of the bride, the Rev. Dr. Wofford C. Timmons, of the First Congregational Church, officiating.

The bride has attended Hosmer Hall, Kenwood Hall at Los Angeles, Cal., and the Morse School of Expression in St. Louis. Mr. Burnett is a graduate of Rensselaer School of Technology at Troy, N. Y., and represents the Leeds & Northrup Co. of Philadelphia in St. Louis.

Out-of-Town Visitors

SEVERAL out-of-town visitors are being entertained by St. Louis friends and are being feted at parties. Last night Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Wooster Lambert and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene F. Williams Jr. of the St. Louis Country Club grounds gave a dinner together at the Deer Creek Club in honor of Mrs. Ira E. Wight Jr. of Montreal, formerly of St. Louis, sister-in-law of Mrs. Williams, who is her guest.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Wright, 46 Portland place, entertained [illegible] of the younger social set at a dinner at the Bridlespur Hunt Club last night complimenting their niece, Miss Virginia Wright of Pittsburg, who is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Charles Parsons Pettus, 33 Westmoreland place. Miss Wright's father, Thruston Wright, arrived in St. Louis yesterday and will accompany his daughter home today.

Mrs. Robert White of Boston and Mrs. Henry M. Meier of Pasadena

Miss Anne Coxe Is Married to D. D. Hawkins

AN INTERESTING spring wedding, military in its appointments, took place at 6 o'clock last night at Fort Riley, Kan., when Miss Anne Thomson Coxe, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Alexander Bacon Coxe, formerly of St. Louis, became the bride of Ensign David D. Hawkins, U. S. N., son of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Hawkins, Seattle, Wash.

The ceremony was performed in the chapel of the army post by the Right Rev. James B. Wise, Episcopal Bishop of Kansas. The altar decorations were Easter lilies and ferns, combined with spring flowers. Mrs. Rexford E. Willoughby played the wedding march.

The bride was attended by Miss Jane Troxel of Washington, D. C., as maid of honor; her cousins, Miss Elizabeth Cummings Collins and Miss Holmes Tracy of St. Louis; Miss Robin Holland, Miss Ellen Knox, Washington, and Miss Mary Offley and Miss Marcella Palmer, Fort Riley, bridesmaids. Lieut. Dyke Meyer was best man and the ushers were Lieuts. Howard J. John, Louis E. Massie, Macomb Miller, Malcolm D. Jones, Richard W. Mayo, Thomas J. Sands, Wendell Blanchard and Brookner Brady, who crossed their sabers to form an arch over the bridal pair as they left the church. The maid of honor wore sea green taffeta and the bridesmaids green chiffon of the same tint, designed with close-fitting bodices and full skirts held in place by green taffeta sashes. Large natural-colored hair braid hats trimmed with green satin completed their costumes. They carried arm bouquets of spring flowers.

The bride wore the white satin gown in which her mother was married 26 years ago. The gown was fashioned with great puffed sleeves and a full skirt with a heavy satin built-in train and was trimmed with the rose point lace worn by her maternal grandmother at her wedding. She wore a tulle veil edged with rose point on the wedding gown of her father's mother. Her flowers were white roses and lilies of the valley combined with violets, which were her mother's wedding flowers.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Col. and Mrs. Coxe, which was attended by Mrs. William H. Thomson, 4905 Argyle place, grandmother of the bride; her aunt, Miss May Thomson, and her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Glogau of Webster Groves, the latter formerly Miss Mary Virginia Collins.

The bride was educated in the East and was presented to society in St. Louis several years ago by her aunts, Mrs. Eugene M. Funsten of Hampton Park and the late Mrs. Charles Cummings Collins. Her grandfather, the late William H. Thomson, was a founder of the Veiled Prophet organization, and several women in her family, including her mother, the former Susan Larkin Thomson, have been Vealed Prophet queens.

Ensign and Mrs. Hawkins will spend a few days in Colorado Springs, Colo., and will make their home in Long Beach, Cal., where the bridegroom is on duty on the Colorado.

Leschen-Blauner Wedding Plans

MISS LORRAINE LESCHEN, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Leschen, 39 Crestwood drive, announced today the plans for her wedding to Robert A. Blauner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Blauner, 7117 Stamford avenue, University City.

The ceremony will take place at 8:30 o'clock the evening of June 6, at Kingshighway Presbyterian Church, the Rev. Dr. Arnold H. Lowe officiating. It will be followed by a reception.

Miss Emlee Blauner, sister of the bridegroom, will be maid of honor. There will be two matrons of honor, Mrs. Emilio de Lavigne, Beverly Hills, Cal., and Mrs. Charles Rankin, Tulsa, Ok., at whose weddings Miss Leschen was maid of honor. Miss Margaret Webb of Memphis, Tenn., and Miss Jean Lungstras and Miss Alleen Blanke of St. Louis will be bridesmaids.

Curtis Singleton will be best man. Frank Bosse, Humber Burford, James Dazey, Jerome Bernoudy and Elster Copeland will be groomsmen. Arthur and Betty Kerckhoff, small son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kerckhoff, will be ring bearer and flower girl.

The out-of-town guests will arrive about a week before the wedding to participate in the prewedding parties for Miss Leschen and Mr. Blauner. The first party, a smalll bridge luncheon, was given yesterday by Miss Bobby Stoffregen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Stoffregen, 625 Skinker road.

Junior League Children's Theater Gives 'Land of Oz'

THE Junior League Children's Theater gave its first evening performance Friday evening, at the Wednesday Club, with the presentation of "The Land of Oz." Most of the audience was composed of Junior League members, their husbands and escorts, the latter of whom had their first opportunity of seeing Junior League members cast in such parts as "Jack Pumpkin Head," "Saw Horse," "The Tin Woodman," "Mombi, the Witch," "Woggle Bug," "General Jinjur," and "Tip."

Yesterday the children took full possession once more, when "The Land of Oz" was repeated for their benefit. Among those who entertained for their children, and others who comprised Dutch treat parties Friday night, were: Mrs. Hayward Post, Mrs. Robert Holland, Mrs. Rex Brashear, Mrs. Virgil Lewis, Mrs. Archie Lee, Mrs. Charles H. Morrill, Mrs. John Shepley, Mrs. William H. Cunliff and Mrs. William G. Weld.

The fourth and last performance will be presented next Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock, at the Wednesday Club, Taylor and Westminster place.

PARTIES AND OTHER EVENTS

A BENEFIT card party will be given by the Cheer Club, Saturday afternoon, May 2, at Hotel Chase. The proceeds will be devoted to charity.

Activities of the club include monthly visits to the patients of Koch Hospital, Mount St. Rose Sanitarium, the Blind Girls' Home and the Little Sisters of the Poor. Weekly visits are made also by the members to the sick.

Mrs. A. A. Cervantes is president; Miss Laura E. Callahan, secretary, and Mrs. N. Saxton, treasurer. Mrs. Ann Roettger is chairman of the Koch Hospital Committee; Miss Hannah Ayres, chairman of Mt. St. Rose Committee; Mrs. N. Saxton, chairman of the Blind Girls' Home Committee, and Miss Emma Wochner, chairman of the Little Sisters of the Poor.

Miss Iva Lee Hubert has charge of the arrangements.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Schierenberg, 2817 North Nineteenth street, will celebrate their sixtieth wedding anniversary tomorrow. They are 85 and 80 years old, respectively, and have always lived in St. Louis. Mr. Schierenberg retired three years ago from a position with the Northwestern Trust Co. Eight of their 10 children are living and they have two grandchildren.

St. Philomena's Auxiliary will give a benefit card party, at St. Philomena's Technical School, Union and Cabanne avenues, Saturday, April 25, at 2 p. m. A sale of homemade cakes and candies will also be held. Mrs. John Tierney, 3364 Cleveland avenue is chairman of the party.

The Altar Society of St. Stanislaus Seminary will sponsor a card party at the Queen's Daughters' Home, 3730 Lindell boulevard, Saturday afternoon.

The four fundamentals of skin care are condensed into a single, 3-minute application.

A Scientific Discovery that Condenses a Complete Professional Facial Into a Single Application, Taking Less Than 3 Minutes, That Combines the 4 Fundamentals in Skin Care Urged by Experts!

NOW comes a remarkable new development in beauty science. A discovery that experts predict may soon change all previous methods in skin care.

A way that condenses the four fundamentals of scientific skin care into a single, three-minute home application! And that provides the exact and same effect of a complete Professional Facial costing $3 or more.

A way that combats blackheads and enlarged pores; often with almost unbelievable results. That banishes premature age lines, and the lines of strain and worry. For each application works directly on each and all of these conditions.

Hence, a way that completely eliminates the need of costly special creams and lotions. Of old-time cleansing creams, of "skin foods" and astringents. Yet—that is as easy to use as an ordinary cleansing cream.

Do you wonder, then, that largely on expert advice tens of thousands of women are adopting this unique creation?

What It Is

It is called Lady Esther Four-Purpose Cream. And it marks the application of totally new principles in skin care as defined by the most recent scientific findings of ablest specialists in the field of beauty culture.

Each application has four distinct actions on the skin.

Tissue stimulating action that invigorates the deep tissues of the skin. And thus that ends the use of a special "skin food."

Astringent action that eradicates worry, strain and premature age lines, refines pores. And thus that makes the use of youth creams and astringents a folly.

Softening action that forms a perfect base for powder. And thus banishes the need of a powder base. Thus the four fundamentals of skin care are condensed into a single, 3-minute application.

Age lines soon go under this daily care. Flabby tissues strengthen and become firm. The skin is kept clean—for the astringent action of this cream closes the pores after they've been cleaned. And thus closes them against accumulations that foster imperfections.

It is sold under the name of Lady Esther at all drug and department stores at 50 cents and $1.25 a jar. The $1.25 size contains four times the amount in the 50 cent size.

RECIPE TO DARKEN GRAY HAIR

You Can Make a Better Gray Hair Remedy Than You Can Buy.

Gray, streaked or faded hair is not only unbecoming, but unnecessary.

Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will darken gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and ¼ oz, of glycerine.

These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost, or the druggist will put it up for you. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It is easy to use, does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.

SILKS

Conducted by:

Miss Sally Courtright, Cheney's Renowned Fashionist

She Will Explain the "Fabric-Into-Fashion" Service in Detail.

See the 12 Original Paris Models Displayed on Living Mannequins Daily From 11 A. M. to 4 P. M.

The original Paris models are from the house of Patou—Vionnet—Goupy—Martial & Armand—Lelong—Chanel and Jenny. Eleven additional models are made from Pictorial, Butterick and McCall patterns.

Thousands of yards of glorious new Cheney Silks, for every conceivable type of costume, are on display. Nugent sponsored silks have been renowned in St. Louis for more than half a century, but here are some of the most beautiful silks ever put into a Nugent display. Each piece of these marvelous Cheney Silks has been chosen for style, color, design and quality. The prices are so convincing and the silks so inspiring you'll plan anywhere from one to four costumes before you leave!

CHENEY Washable "Fawnkrepe"

A heavenly flat crepe with a dull frosty appearance so much in demand. It tailors divinely, drapes as softly as a bit of lace, and launders with the success of a handker chief. It's pure dye, of course — comes in twenty different shades, and is really an excellent value at $2.25 Yard

CHENEY Crepe Andante

Cheney calls it a "heavy-sheer." It has the texture of chiffon, yet is almost opaque. It's smooth, it's flat —it has a chalky finish. Noted designers choose it for everything from frocks to negligees .... $2.98 Yard

CHENEY Printed Fawnkrepe

Patterns that insist on being made up into pajamas! Prints designed for smart town frocks—bright colors, pastels, brown or black or navy with white—in fact, every kind your fashion sense requires .... $2.98 Yard

CHENEY Crepe de Chine

A beautiful quality—printed in large dramatic patterns and subtle small ones. Some with a feeling for the geometric—others with a flair for florals. Polka dots, too, in different sizes .... $1.98 Yard

CHENEY Printed Chiffon

There are tailored patterns...and ever so many lovely flower treatments. Even plaids are in this group—and there's nothing smarter than a plaid chiffon dance frock! And priced only .... $1.88 Yard

Miss Courtright Will Help You Design Your New Frocks!

Miss Courtright, Cheney's Fashion Representative, will be in the Silk Department every day this week to consult with you in choosing fabrics and patterns that best suit your type. Ask her, too, about accessories to wear with them. She keeps posted on all the new ideas in fashions.

THE VALUE STORE OF ST. LOUIS

"Come and see for Yourself"

EVERYTHING'S DIFFERENT, Now!

TODAY'S merchandise is of different type than that of even recent years. It has better style, more attractiveness—and it costs less.

You can see that in even the simplest things. Even the most inexpensive merchandise today has an interest, an eye-value, an attractiveness that it never had before. Manufacturers lately have outdone themselves in improving the appearance of their products, making them more useful, practical. And reducing their cost to you.

That is why it is such an advantage to buy from a Store whose stocks truly represent today's merchandise. You get more desirable goods, and better values. If, as at Nugents, it is the Store's policy to sell good merchandise at the closest possible margins, you get real money-saving, too. Not just on special occasions, but every day.

And that is the big reason why you should trade at Nugents. The Store is different now from what it was. You will see that. The stocks are new, fresh, complete—bought on today's market. They will interest you. And they will save you money.

But they can't be of benefit if old prejudices keep you away. You really must come in and look around. Come in and see for yourself!

"Just Call Me Lizzie"

Mrs. Coburn as Lysistrata at the Orpheum.

Mrs. Coburn In 'Lysistrata'

Heads Cast of Ribald Comedy at the Orpheum as She Did in the New York Production—Shubert Still Has Jane Cowl's "Twelfth Night" and Earl Carroll's "Sketch Book" to Come Before Season Closes.

AS the regular, more or less, dramatic season prepares to make way for the Municipal Opera in Forest Park, the Shubert Theater, dark this week, announces two, and possibly three, more shows to come before the wind-up. The American has nothing more in sight and Mary Hart begins her final two weeks at the Orpheum tonight with the first showing in St. Louis of the New York success, "Lysistrata," a showing which will bring, in the cast of some 70 persons, Mrs. Charles Coburn and several other leading members of the original production.

The shows still remaining for the Shubert are Jane Cowl's "Twelfth Night," which starts a week from tomorrow night, and Earl Carroll's "Sketch Book." These two may be followed by Helen Hayes in "Petticoat Influence," now running in Chicago.

The season, except for the unbroken run of plays at the Orpheum, has been a most uncertain one, with many dark weeks at both the American and the Shubert The latter house opened on Sept. 21 with the delightful—and entirely unsuccessful—little comedy "Candlelight," and has had 17 weeks of stage entertainment plus three weeks of the motion picture "Trader Horn." There have been 10 dark weeks at the house.

The American did not get under way until a month later, opening on Oct. 20 with "Strictly Dishonorable." It has had 15 weeks of shows, including a German motion picture and the film "Outward Bound." There have been nine dark weeks there.

Only three musical shows have visited here this season—Fred Stone with "Ripples" at the American and "Sons o' Guns" and Ed Wynn at the Shubert. The coming of Earl Carroll's "Sketch Book" will make three for the latter house.

AS she did in the case of her production of "Street Scene," Miss Hart has brought to St. Louis for "Lysistrata," virtually the entire original production, including four of the principal actors, three carloads of settings and lighting effects and costumes. In short she has secured an entire recognized hit production for St. Louis as a final gesture of her showmanship.

And tonight's performance, at least, will be the same as it was when the comedy was presented in New York. What the prosecuting attorney, who will be represented in the audience, will have to say about "Lysistrata" is another matter. In Pittsburg and Cleveland the police interfered, after the opening show, and compelled the Shuberts to cut out several of the scenes for the play, while New York and other cities found it immensely entertaining and very funny, is no Sunday school performance.

Mrs. Coburn, Hope Emerson, Burford Hampden and Dorothea Chard are the members of the New York cast Miss Hart obtained for her presentation here. Members of the resident company will include the popular Pierre Watkin, May B. Hurst, Kenneth Burton and J. J. Downing. Including a ballet and extras the cast will total 75 people, the largest seen in a legitimate play this season in St. Louis.

Miss Hart also brought on Miss Phyllis Loughton, the stage director, and Katherine Reise, ballet director, who have worked with Cyril Raymond, resident director, in whipping the production into shape for presentation at the Orpheum.

AS told in these columns last Sunday "Lysistrata" is no modern comedy. It was approximately 2200 years ago that Aristophanes wrote this farce—a type of play dearly loved by Grecian patrons of the drama at that time. The play deals with men and women and war.

With a hardihood matched only by the extreme radicals during the European war, but with much more humor, he set before the Athenians, at the very moment when their armies were engaged in battle, a friendly conference between the Athenians and their enemies. He made it clear that in Greece, at least, any war was a civil war.

The present version of the play, written by Gilbert Seldes, is ribald but, as said before, very funny.

With the production of "Lysistrata," regular matinee days—Wednesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays—abolished during the run of "Strange Interlude," will be resumed.

WHEN "Twelfth Night" comes to the Shubert on April 27, Miss Cowl, of course, will play Viola, supported by her New York company, which comes intact from a season's run in Maxine Elliott's Theater. Among others it includes Leon Quartermaine, as Malvolio; Walter Kingsford as Sir Toby Belch; Arthur Hohl as Sir Andrew Aguecheek; Lewis Martin as Clown; Harry Sothern as Fabian; Jessie Ralph as Maria and Maren Evensen as Olivia.

Highlands to Open For Summer May 2

Forest Park Highlands will open for the summer season, May 2, according to an announcement by Adrian Ketchum, manager. Unlike other years, the resort will be opened on a Saturday, instead of Sunday.

The park has undergone a complete renovation in the past several months, virtually every amusement device having been rebuilt. A number of new attractions have been added, foremost of which is the "Trainair," an aerial contraption, which provides the same thrill as an airplane flight, although the device never leaves its moorings.

Pupils in a Play.

Pupils of St. Anthony's School will present "Miracle of the Rose" tonight and repeat the performance on Wednesday night in the school building at Meramec and Michigan.

Five Million in Audiences for Municipal Opera

In Only Two of the Twelve Seasons in Forest Park With 747 Performances, Has There Been a Deficit.

MUNICIPAL OPERA in the season of super-productions it has mapped out for the coming summer season in the open air theater in Forest Park will become more than ever before a St. Louis institution, according to the plans of the Municipal Theater Association, which has engaged as general productions manager for 1931, an internationally famed producer of operetta, J. J. Shubert, whose experience in creating entertainment for the lyric stage is greater than that of any other American.

With the engaging of Shubert the Municipal Theater Association changed its interior organization this season. As functioning in 1931 it has effected a smooth-working, efficient organism which comprises the direct and centralized responsibility that was achieved through the Executive Productions Committee of the opera's earlier years, while at the same time providing the flexibility which entered into the working scheme with the adoption of the division directors of 1930.

Under the plan for 1931 all matters concerning the actual productions of the coming season's repertory are in the hands of the Executive Committee of the Board of Directors of the Municipal Theater Association. All co-ordinate mat-

Mary Pickford In "Kiki" At Loew's.

Richard Arlen In "Gun Smoke." Missouri

The Week's New Films

—:— By NIE —:—

MARY PICKFORD needs all of her personal popularity to carry her through "Kiki" down at Loews this week. As a little French wildcat chorus girl Miss Pickford does a lot of rough and tumble acting and looks very pretty and tomboyish but the part is so different from a role expected, or even demanded, by her fans that she suffers tremendously. The play itself makes just another picture. Never very good, to begin with, the movie producers have taken only the first part of Lenore Ulric's old drama and made it over into a version for the cinema star with Miss Pickford as a sort of hard-boiled soubrette who makes love to the manager of a theatre and, by kicking his former wife and sweethearts out of doors and rolling on the floor with the servants, proves to him that she is just the sort of nice little girl he should marry. He does. Mary plays the part well—but it is not much of a part.

But It's Dangerous.

"STRANGERS MAY KISS," at the Fox, seems to show that men may mix up a lot of things but prefer to take their women straight. Norma Shearer, as fine an actress as Hollywood has produced, is the gal who tries to kiss and run away and discovers that it won't work that way with Neil Hamilton—when he kisses them they stay kissed. At the moment Neil had a wife somewhere but he and Norma go off to Mexico together and are pretty happy until his newspaper—Neil is one of those newspaper men who happen only in the movies—sends him to another part of the world and he has to leave Norma flat. Kissing strangers is only the mildest part of Norma's life after that until she meets up with Neil again in Paris. He has been divorced by this time and is ready to make her a good woman but when he finds her wild oats growing on every foot of ground in Europe he backs away. It takes another reel, after that, for him to forget and forgive. "Strangers May Kiss" is really a fine picture, splendidly played and may be one of the 10 best of the year.

Marlene Gets Hers.

ANOTHER fine screen actress, Marie Dietrich, puts herself over in "Dishonored," at the Ambassador and while the war idea of life in the spy service is a bit time worn the film is tense and interesting and the imported Miss Dietrich is lovely and dramatic. In this picture she is a girl of the streets who has nothing to live for and so goes in for a lot of dangerous work as the star operator of the Austrian espionage department. Russia has spies at work in Austria at the same time and Marlene runs them to earth, but, unfortunately for her, falls in love with one of them and allows him to escape. For this she is condemned to be shot at sunrise. While the audience waits for the pardon that surely would not come too late or for the war to end, or something, Marlene is lined up against a wall and shot and the picture ends without the usual cinema finish. It's all very exciting and well done and Miss Dietrich is a knockout.

The King Business.

BERT WHEELER and Robert Woolsey, as rival upstart kings of a little mythical country somewhere, slapstick their way through "Cracked Nuts" at the St. Louis, and with the assistance of Edna May Oliver, keep the customers in continuous rounds of laughter. It is one of those impossible musical comedy plots—with practically no music but lots of wise cracks—made for fun purposes only, a purpose which it accomplishes in a big way.

East Is Not West.

AT the Missouri the cinema moguls have shaken together an Eastern gangster theme with a regulation horse opera and made a pistol pastoral called "Gun Smoke." You see a bunch of tough racketeers found New York getting a little too warm for them and went out to Idaho to let the world cool off. Out in the open spaces they tried to introduce their business methods to the honest cowboys and ran up against a snag in Richard Arlen, the honestest one of the lot. The Western boys came out on top as might have been expected and Mary Brian, the nice little girl who becomes involved in the affair, falls to Dick when the shooting is all over.

'Whiteheaded Boy,' Irish Drama, for The Little Theater

"THE WHITEHEADED BOY," a three-act comdey by Lennox Robinson, the Irish playwright, will open at the Little Theater, 812 North Union boulevard, tomorrow night, and will continue for a week.

In the cast will be Rosalie Fehlig, Bruce McFarlane, Avon Blue, Erma Julier, Katherine Warren, Mary Alice Hart, Howard Day, Eugene Wood, George Wendling, Dorothy Hopkins, Mildred Gorman and Charity Grace. It will be the fifth production of the Little Theater's fourth subscription season.

"Zombie," a three-act mystery play by Charles Dillon, has been awarded the $100 Mr. and Mrs. George C. Mackay prize for the best play written during the 1930-31 season by members of the playwriting group of the Little Theater. It is to be produced next month as the last offering of the season.

Directors Rehearsing Ten Original Dramas

Ten directors of Little Theater groups are rehearsing daily and nightly the 10 original plays which will be produced by the Art League in the Wednesday Club auditorium during the first week in May. Among them is Harry R. McClain, rehearsing in the old courthouse with the cast of the drama "Ice," by D. L. James of Kansas City, the play winning the first prize in the Art League drama competition. This is a man's play having only one woman in the cast. Martha Jane Lenartz, who achieved success recently in "ather Lord's Passion Play.

Hollywood's Newest Siren

Mary Tries Something New

Miss Pickford Goes in for a Different Sort of Role in "Kiki"—How She Climbed Up the Ladder of Fame After a Start in the Lurid Old Mellers—Eddie Cline Was Pushed Into the Director's Chair.

MARY PICKFORD, whose films are getting fewer and fewer, is trying her hand—and her figure—in a type of picture new to her at Loew's this week. It's called "Kiki"—Lenore Ulric did it on the stage, remember?—and Miss Pickford plays a harum-scarum comedy character. Just how she plays it is told elsewhere on this page in the reviews of the week's films. But success or failure on the screen mean little to Miss Pickford now, except what they may mean to her pride, for she is one of the world's wealthiest actresses, with a secure place in the hearts of movie fans the world over.

It was not always that way, however. Once upon a time Mary slept in grimy chair cars, propped up on dusty cushions; rested in tawdry dressing rooms of one-night-stand theaters, and spent uncomfortable nights in cheap boarding houses. Starting with undoubted talent, unflinching determination, and a fine business woman for a mother, she barnstormed her way to phenomenal success.

Having known hardships and struggles from early in childhood, Mary Pickford's formula for screen entertainment has been based on —optimism. The freshness and buoyancy of her spirit for comedy has been apparent in every picture. Mary, born Gladys Smith, made her stage debut at 5, in her native city of Toronto, in "The Silver King," in which she played two roles, a little boy and a little girl.

THE departure of the Smith family from Toronto came as the result of an offer from Hal Reid, father of the later famous "Wally." Reid had graduated from the role of leading man of Col. John D. Hopkins' stock company here in St. Louis and had written a play called "In Convict's Stripes," in which Gladys assumed a role. To obtain her, the company had to engage the whole family, her mother, sister Lottie and brother Jack Thus began several years on the road, during which Gladys was starred in "The Fatal Wedding," and made at least one appearance here at the old Havlin's Theater.

Determined to become a great actress, Gladys Smith managed to see David Belasco and asked him for a chance. He said that he would keep her in mind, and suggested that she take Mary Pickford for her professional name. Mary was her saint's name, and Pickford was a family name. He little thought that he was christening a future star. Months later he sent for her and gave her the role of Betty Warren in "The Warrens of Virginia."

ONE day she went to the old Biograph studios out of curiosity. D. W. Griffith engaged her for her first film appearance, a 500-foot affair called "Her First Biscuits." She remained with Biograph 18 months, going from $40 a week to $5000 a year, a tremendous salary at that time. Later Belasco presented her in "A Good Little Devil." In 1913 she made a film of the play for Famous Players and never again returned to the stage.

The list of pictures in which she has appeared, and which built up an international following, runs into scores. Her rise on the screen was phenomenal. America was looking for a screen sweetheart. The title of "America's Sweetheart" was coined by Sydney Grauman, dean of Pacific Coast showmen.

Miss Pickford was vice president of the Mary Pickford-Famous Players Co. in 1915 with an amazing salary. In 1916 the Mary Pickford Co. was organized; in 1918 she became an independent producer, and in 1919 she became one of the original organizers of the United Artists Corporation.

IN the good old days—good long after Mary Pickford was breaking into pictures—getting in the movies was easier and more romantic than it is now and Eddie Cline, who directed Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey in Radio Pictures' "Cracked Nuts," now showing at the St. Louis Theater, never had a chance to break into the movies—he was literally pushed into them.

In 1913 Cline rented his dilapidated old Ford to Mack Sennett for use in a picture. The director became ill, and Sennett, casting about for a new megaphonist, espied young Cline nodding in his flivver.

"Say," said the king of comedies, "what do you think I pay you for?"

Cline didn't know, and he said so.

"You're pretty wise, aren't you?" Sennett queried sarcastically. "I suppose you think you know enough to be a director?"

And Cline smiled. "Sure," he said. "I can direct your pictures."

"All right," Sennett answered. "You're a director. Get to work and if you don't make good I'll personally kick you out of here."

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, April 18.

FRANK McINTYRE tells of an Irishman in his home town, Ann Arbor, looking at the evening paper while his wife was cooking in the kitchen. "It says here that in a freight wreck 27 Italians and an Irishman were killed."

"Poor man," sighed the wife.

A Hollywood spy tells of Will Rogers being invited to an oil millionaire's home for dinner to a titled Englishman and other nabobs. Rogers did his stuff and next day sent his bill for a "grand." For "professional services." A reply came expressing surprise as the invitation was sent in a social way. Rogers replied: "As Mrs. Rogers was not invited, the affair was not social for me but purely commercial." He got the check at once.

FIVE MILLION PEOPLE HAVE VISITED OPERAS

ters concerning administration and finance, promotion and publicity, concessions and civic welfare, are in the hands of divisional directors of those respective divisions.

A Phenomenal Record.

Municipal Opera in 12 seasons has entertained 4,945,465 people at 747 performances of 82 different operas and operettas. The cost per person entertained at its productions during that period has been 71 cents. In the course of those 12 years, 3,332,859 persons have paid to see its productions and 1,612,606 have seen them without cost, occupying either the 1700 free seats available at every performance or the 30,000 reserved seats set aside each season for the use of the unfortunates of the city.

There have been lean years and fat. In some the seat sales have provided a comfortable surplus. In others the income from the ice cream cone and the plebeian "hot dog" has saved the season from financial loss. Only twice have there been small actual deficits, the first season of the opera's history and last year.

At the same time the Municipal Theater Association has built and equipped for the people of St. Louis the Municipal Theater in Forest Park, which is conservatively valued at $300,000; and at the same time the books of the association show an income of $3,490,282.26, in actual receipts, and expenditures of $3,440,300.90, in the course of the 12 years—a difference of $49,981.46 on the profit side of the ledger; if only Municipal Opera were not barred from making any profit by its charter.

So thoroughly does it have the people's confidence that its list of guarantors for 1931 has increased more than 25 per cent over the list for 1930.

Any guarantor may become a member of the operating organization, the Municipal Theater Association, by being elected by the board of directors and paying an annual membership fee of $10. There are 125 such members.

From the association's membership is chosen a board of 45 directors, each serving three years and 15 of them retiring annually. These men meet weekly giving their time to general direction of the association's affairs, and keeping throughout the year in intimate touch with its problems of production and presentation.

The Executive Committee.

The Executive Committee is composed of former Mayor Kiel, president of the association; Harry L. Salisbury, Director of Public Welfare of the city of St. Louis, and vice president of the association, and Max Koenigsberg, Arthur Siegel, Nelson Cunliff, Charles M. Talbert and Fred W. Pape, who were directors respectively of the Divisions of Cast, Repertory, Stage and Settings, Costumes, and Auditorium and Grounds, last season.

In direct charge of the association's functioning in the other spheres of its activity are Walter B. Weisenburger, Divisional Director of Administration and Finance; M. E. Holderness, Divisional Director of Publicity; O. E. Rugg, Divisional Director of Concessions, and Paul J. Wielandy, Divisional Director of Welfare.

For two weeks improvements in the theater and its auditorium have been under way in Forest Park where the River des Peres, the floods of which so often in other days threatened to overwhelm the opera has itself been put to work, its old channel now being a part of the scenic studios; and the auditorium of the theater itself has been repaired and repainted and made ready to welcome the largest series of summer audiences in Municipal Opera's remarkable history.

Municipal Opera's cycle of productions for 1931 opens in the Municipal Theater Friday, May 29, with "Three Little Girls," for which the original cast will be brought from Chicago, where it has been enjoying a record run of 35 weeks, to be presented with augmented chorus, costumes and settings upon the revolving stage in Forest Park.

"Seven Chances" Tonight.

The Dramatic Club of the Y. M. H. A.-Y. W. H. A. under the direction of Harry R. McClain will present Roi Cooper Megrue's comedy "Seven Chances" in the auditorium tonight. The cast includes Dave Seslin, Ethel Marcus, Rubie Oberman, Ruth Mable, Eli Spielberg, Jean Smolen, Maurice Inger, Rose Trattler, Ed Goldstein, Sylvia Miller, Harry Enger, Ruth Lee Raban, Al Gelfand, Dorothy Weissman and Adele Palant.

Mel-Harmonic Concert.

Mrs. Frederick Nussbaum, musical director of the Mel-Harmonic Club, announces a French program for the club's meeting in the Musical Arts Building tomorrow night.

German Folk Play Tonight.

One of the best-known German folk plays, "Der Herrgottschnitzer von Ammergau," will be given tonight in the auditorium of the German House, 2345 Lafayette avenue, by the German Theater Stock Company. The St. Louis "Schuplattler" Society, dancers and singers of Bavarian folk dances and songs, will participate in the performance.

Students' Chorus Today.

Graham Declares People Weary of Talking About Slump

"The most hopeful sign of returning prosperity that I have encountered is that people generally seem to have become tired of talking about 'the slump,'" said George M. Graham, vice president of Willys-Overland, Inc., during a visit Friday to St. Louis to confer with W. A. Elliot, district sales manager for Willys-Overland, and J. S. Mitchell, vice president and general manager of E. J. Johnson, Inc., distributer.

"For a year and a half," he continued, "the favorite theme of the Pullman smoker club has been 'the slump,' the destruction of values, the descent into the depths of despair. Now, it seems, people are sick of that. They want to talk about more cheerful, more construcitve things. They are turning their minds away from pictures of depression and talking more and more about doing things and getting somewhere.

"I do not want to proclaim a boom. But there is steady gain in business. Willys-Overland made money in March. We will make money this month. We feel distinctly encouraged.

"It is as true now as when I was in St. Louis a while ago—85 per cent of our population has its income intact. If we could bring them and their money into the channels of commerce, we could end the period of depression. The trouble really has not been overproduction; it has rather been underconsumption. There are 7,000,000 more people in the United States than in 1925. Yet figures for the production of commodities in 1925 are about identical with the figures for 1930. Also the standards of living are generally higher than they were five years ago. That all largely tells the story.

"A big factor in the situation is the hesitancy of people with money, and with incomes little, if any, curtailed to spend. Once they begin buying on a normal basis, there will be steady improvement.

"There never has been greater proof of how the automobile has become essential in our daily lives than the way in which people have stuck to their cars, and have continued to use them, despite conditions. Millions of car owners have kept them too long, are running them when it would be economy t purchase new cars. More an more of these old car owners ar coming to realize that, and the e fect is being felt in increasin sales of automobiles.

"Another factor in the growin business for automobile dealers the large roads programs that a being got under way by the Fe eral Government and in every stat Every added mile of good roa develops the need for more aut mobiles."

Graham, who spends at least o week out of three traveling to co fer with distributers and busine men in general, declared th everywhere he had found the pu lic tone growing steadily mo cheerful and confident.

Motorists Pay Highway Costs.

Motorists in the United Stat through the medium of motor v hicle fees and gasoline taxes, pa out directly more than 58 per ce of the total cost of State highwa improved in 1929. A total of $91 485,291 was expended on Sta roads, of which motor vehicle f contributed $278,092,734 and ga line taxes applied to State roa $287,258,416. Graham Declares People Weary of Talking About Slump

"The most hopeful sign of returning prosperity that I have encountered is that people generally seem to have become tired of talking about 'the slump,'" said George M. Graham, vice president of Willys-Overland, Inc., during a visit Friday to St. Louis to confer with W. A. Elliot, district sales manager for Willys-Overland, and J. S. Mitchell, vice president and general manager of E. J. Johnson, Inc., distributer.

"For a year and a half," he continued, "the favorite theme of the Pullman smoker club has been 'the slump,' the destruction of values, the descent into the depths of despair. Now, it seems, people are sick of that. They want to talk about more cheerful, more constructive things. They are turning their minds away from pictures of depression and talking more and more about doing things and getting somewhere.

"I do not want to proclaim a boom. But there is steady gain in business. Willys-Overland made money in March. We will make money this month. We feel distinctly encouraged.

"It is as true now as when I was in St. Louis a while ago—85 per cent of our population has its income intact. If we could bring them and their money into the channels of commerce, we could end the period of depression. The trouble really has not been overproduction; it has rather been underconsumption. There are 7,000,000 more people in the United States than in 1925. Yet figures for the production of commodities in 1925 are about identical with the figures for 1930. Also the standards of living are generally higher than they were five years ago. That all largely tells the story.

"A big factor in the situation is the hesitancy of people with money and with incomes little, if any, curtailed to spend. Once they begin buying on a normal basis, there will be steady improvement.

"There never has been greater proof of how the automobile has become essential in our daily lives than the way in which people have stuck to their cars, and have continued to use them, despite conditions. Millions of car owners have kept them too long, are running them when it would be economy to purchase new cars. More and more of these old car owners are coming to realize that, and the effect is being felt in increasing sales of automobiles.

"Another factor in the growing business for automobile dealers is the large roads programs that are being got under way by the Federal Government and in every state. Every added mile of good roads develops the need for more automobiles."

Graham, who spends at least one week out of three traveling to confer with distributers and business men in general, declared that everywhere he had found the public tone growing steadily more cheerful and confident.

Motorists Pay Highway Costs.

Motorists in the United States, through the medium of motor vehicle fees and gasoline taxes, paid out directly more than 58 per cent of the total cost of State highways improved in 1929. A total of $910,485,291 was expended on State roads, of which motor vehicle fees contributed $278,092,734 and gasoline taxes applied to State roads, $257,258,416. The remaining part of the gasoline taxes was in most cases apportioned by the State to various towns, cities and townships.

Goodrich Silvertown Service Station Will Open Next Saturday

All-Day Program of Entertainment and Other Features Planned for Occasion.

An all-day program of entertainment and features has been arranged for the formal opening next Saturday of the new Goodrich Silvertown, Inc., service station at Twenty-third and Olive streets.

Throughout the day and evening visitors to the station will be presented with souvenir products of the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Co., even to rubber toys and balloons for children. Twelve thousand merchandise certificates good for credit at current prices on purchases of tires, air-containers and batteries have already been distributed. The purchaser of an oil change will be given a coupon for a free chassis lubrication. A portable Silvertown broadcasting station has been erected and will furnish music and announcements from the station throughout the day. "Miss Silvertown" and a corps of St. Louis girls will be on hand all day as hostesses, distributing novelties and souvenirs.

The new L-shaped building and its open and closed service areas front 125 feet on Olive and 107 feet on Twenty-third street. On the 20,000 square feet of space there is every modern facility for servicing 20 to 30 cars at a time.

Special provision has been made for women who desire to wait while their cars are completely serviced. A parlor with comfortable chairs and dressing table may be entered from the outside service court while the cars are turned over to uniformed attendants.

Among the products and services provided are Goodrich tires for passenger cars, trucks, tractors, trailers and airplanes; Goodrich mechanical goods, garden hose, belting, matting, tubing, footwear, waterproof clothing, dress coats, work coats, aprons and hats; Shell gasoline and oil, Quaker State, Mobiloil and Alemite lubricants, and Exide battery service, vulcanizing, car washing and polishing by specialists in spearate departments.

O. L. Rhoads, for 15 years in the retail tire business in St. Louis and recently operating the Standard Tire Co., 2843 Washington avenue, has been appointed manager of the new Goodrich Silvertown station.

E. R. Kenner, Greater St. Louis manager of Goodrich Silvertown, Inc., commenting upon the general sales policy governing the operations of the new station, stated: "In all our buying, selilng and servicing activities, let us concentrate on lowering the customer's cost per mile of motor car and truck operation."

New Ford Town Sedan Longer Than Model It Replaces

A new town sedan has just been introduced by the Ford Motor Co. to replace the model of the same type.

To conform to the new slanting windshield with its inside sun visor, the design of the body has been changed in a number of particulars, resulting in more pleasing lines and increased comfort.

The body is three inches longer, providing increased leg room in the rear compartment and greater thickness in the seat backs. The seats are wider, higher and more restful, and, being low, allow more head room.

A new feature of the town sedan is that the rear quarter windows may be raised or lowered.

Free Wheeling Brings Increased Sales of Marmon "70" Models

The announcement of optional free wheeling on the Marmon 70 a short time ago has resulted in a heavy influx of orders, and shipments of this model with free wheeling are setting a new high record for the year, according to George C. Tenney, general sales director of the Marmon Motor Car Co.

Marmon distributers and dealers throughout the country have advised the factory that sales showed an immediate increase at the time of the announcement of free wheeling. Retail orders have increased to a great extent.

Production of the Marmon Sixteen is well under way and shipments of the new Marmon "Big Eight" have reached a sizeable volume. The Marmon "Big Eight" is a new standard eight of 125 horsepower on wheel bases of 130 inches and 136 inches. It is manufactured in a complete range of standard and deluxe body styles at a base price of $1895 at the factory for the standard five-passenger four-door sedan.

New General Airplane Tire Is Designed to Cut Wind Resistance

Parabolic in shape, a new airplane tire, which was shown at the Detroit Air Show the past week by the General Tire and Rubber Co., is designed to reduce to a minimum the wind resistance due to a plane's tires.

The new tire is mounted on a special wheel, the tire bead being clamped mechanically to the rim, so that the tire can be loosened by sideway or sliding.

Noted Woman Flyer Gets Franklin Coupe

Amelia Earhart, famous aviator, has just bought a Franklin convertible coupe, powered, as are all Franklins, with an air-cooled airplane type engine.

Her car is done in copra tan color, striped in fawn gray. The low, stream-lined top and rear quarters carry out the airplane motif. The top, of course, can be let down.

Auto Tax in Pennsylvania.

The State highway system of Pennsylvania is to be maintained by revenue received from the automobile. In 1906, the first year that motor vehicles were registered in the State, the tax on automobiles was $3.88 per car. In 1920 it increased to $13.24 a car; in 1928, to $29.03, and in 1930, to $36.05 per car.

Miniature Taxis.

Chevrolet Commercial Body Plant Has 16 Types in Production

Production by the new Chevrolet commercial body plant has totaled more than 22,000 bodies since Oct. 15. On that date, when the plant was taken over by Chevrolet, designs for bodies to be built were not in existence.

Sixteen different types are already in volume production, and plans are complete for building three additional types.

Since acquiring the plant, formerly operated by the Martin-Parry Body Corporation, Chevrolet officials have renovated the buildings and grounds, replaced obsolete equipment, schooled workmen in precision methods of manufacture called for in the body designs, and opened and placed in operation 52 body assembly plants at as many zone points.

The project adds over 1,000,000 square feet of floor space to Chevrolet production facilities. It was made during general business slackness. The development at Indianapolis consists of 40 acres of ground, and 700,000 square feet of plant and storage space. The zone assembly plants, all now in operation, add nearly 500,000 square feet of space to the expansion.

High Bus Taxation.

According to figures of the National Association of Motor Bus Operators in the United States, special levies and taxes on a motor bus average about $576 a year.

Auto Row Notes

The Walsh Motor Co. has moved its used car showroom from 4821 Easton avenue to 5127 Delmar boulevard, which is its headquarters for sale of new Ford cars. The firm, of which William Walsh is president, has arranged the second floor of its large building to display used cars in a space of 25,000 square feet. This used car department will be in charge of Gene Lowry.

John J. Dornseif has been appointed secretary of the Rederer-Rengers Buick Co., recently organized by A. H. Rederer and F. H. Rengers to retail Buick cars in Webster Groves and the county. Dornseif for the past 15 years was with the Moon Motor Car Co., becoming general auditor and a director of the company. Dornseif is to take charge of the new dealership's administrative affairs.

W. E. Dunkin, De Soto district manager at St. Louis, attended a conference of district managers from all over the country at Detroit the past week. The meeting was held largely to give Byron C. Foy, the new president of the De Soto factory, a chance to meet the district sales chiefs.

Rex V. Clark, formerly with the Rex Auto Body & Radiator Co., 2818 Locust boulevard, has leased the building at 3336 Washington. As in the past, he will continue to specialize in the complete rebuilding of wreck jobs, especially the exact matching of original colors. Clark guarantees the mechanical performance of wreck jobs repaired.

The firm of Jett & Mautz, formerly at 3326 Olive street, has moved into the 25x150 foot building at 3117 Pine street, joining larger floor space and increased parking facilities. The firm is owned and operated by J. W. Mautz, who for 21 years has specialized in automobile radiator repairing. New departments have been equipped to handle auto body work and gasoline tank and hood repairing.

Carter Will Direct Graham-Paige Used Car Sales Promotion

C. W. Matheson, general sales manager of the Graham-Paige Motors Corporation, announces the appointment of John W. Carter as director of used car sales promotion, a newly organized division of the sales department. Through research, planning and promotional activities, the new division plans to develop efficient methods to be adopted by the used car departments of Graham dealers throughout the country, applying the same highly organized effort to the merchandizing of trade-in cars as is devoted to the selling of new cars.

In 1928, when Matheson was made vice president in charge of sales of the De Soto Motor Corporation, Carter was appointed to direct De Soto used car merchandising, a new service. Carter's work in this new field led to his appointment to organize the central used car department of the Chrysler corporation, serving Chrysler, Dodge, De Soto and Plymouth. He remained with Chrysler Motors until he joined Graham to head its used car sales promotion activities.

Enforces Severe License Laws.

Motor trucks and busses running into New York City from other states must have New York State license plates or their owners are heavily fined. About 300 individuals and companies have been fined since Feb. 4 and about $150,000 in license fees has been collected.

Chrysler Six Does 72 Miles Per Hour Over Measured Mile

Also Goes Over Top of Seventh St. Hill in Alton, at 20 M. P. H. in High Gear.

One of the new Chrysler six sedans was put through a series of tests the past week by L. M. Stewart, president of Midwest Motors Co., local Chrysler distributors. The tests were witnessed by St. Louis newspaper men.

From a standing start in high gear, with four passengers in the car, the Chrysler six made the hairpin turn on Switchback Hill in Chain of Rocks Park at 12 miles per hour and went over the top at 29 miles per hour. With three persons in the car, it made the turn at 12 miles an hour and went over the top at 32.

In acceleration tests, the Chrysler six accelerated from 10 to 30 miles an hour in 7.4 seconds; from 10 to 40 in 11.6 seconds, 10 to 50 in 15.8 seconds and 10 to 60 in 22.6 seconds.

The car did a measured mile in 49.4 seconds, at a speed of 72.87 miles per hour.

The same car was then driven to the foot of Seventh Street Hill, in Alton, between Bell and State streets. The car, with driver and one observer, crossed the intersection of Bell street with a flying start of 35 miles per hour, and went over the top at 20 miles per hour in high gear.

General Motors Truck Co. Adds Heavy Duty Models

Two new heavy-duty models in the four-ton to five and a half ton range, alike except in rear axle design, have been added to the General Motors Truck Co.'s line.

Both rear axles are full floating. In Model T-51, at $2565, the rear axle is spiral bevel gear type, and in Model T-55, at $2690, it is double reduction type. Prices are for base chassis f. o. b. Pontiac.

Primary reduction in the rear axle of Model T-55 is through spiral bevel gears, secondary reduction through herringbone gears. All gears are mounted on antifriction bearings. In both models, axle shafts are of chrome molybdenum steel, two inches in diameter. The housings are malleable iron.

Both trucks have the General Motors truck six-cylinder, 94-horsepower engine.

Frames of the T-51 and T-55 are nine inches deep and there are five or six strong cross members, depending on wheelbase length.

Heavy Insurance Payments.

Automobile insurance companies of the United States paid out about $300,000,000 last year as the result of automobile accidents.

Oakland Sales Chief Optimistic on Ending a 15,000-Mile Tour

The machinery of American business is gradually picking up momentum in a slow but sure climb back toward normal that should continue throughout this year and next," says W. A. Blees, vice president in charge of sales for the Oakland Motor Car Co., on his return from the Pacific Coast where he conducted the last of a series of Oakland-Pontiac dealer meetings which took him in three months to nearly every important city in the United States.

During his 15,000 mile tour, he was convinced by thousands of contacts with business men, bankers, automobile dealers and economists that conditions are showing steadily increasing promise of betterment.

Depression or no depression, we must have automobiles as the public proved last year when it was establishing a new high record in gasoline consumption. If all the automobiles in this country stopped running for just one week we would have a condition of chaos.

"But the automobile is a mechanical device that ultimately wears out. American motorists are operating today approximately 7,000,000 automobiles that are at least six years old. These cars now cost more to maintain and operate than it would cost to replace them. To borrow an insurance term, their normal life expectancy is rapidly approaching zero. Many owners are beginning to realize this fact. More will realize it as we progress through the coming months of good driving weather.

"It is the replacement of these worn out automobiles and replacement of all the countless worn out articles among America's consumer inventory that will bring further improvement in employment."

Temperature of Oil in Car Motor Varies Often by 100 Degrees

One of the greatest automobile engine designers of the day recently estimated that there is a temperature variation of 100 degrees in motor oil when in use in the operation of high speed, high compression engines.

What lubrication experts are doing to provide for this contingency is brought out by Dan Hyland, general manager of the Alemite Co. of St. Louis, 3229 Locust.

"Higher speeds, with a greater number of explosions per minute, cause valves and adjacent parts to run hotter. So it is more essential than ever that the lubricant used have a high resistance to heat and be able to maintain a tough and elastic film regardless of temperature changes," Hyland says.

An exhaustive research of the oil markets of the world failed to reveal any motor oil capable of meeting these exacting requirements, so the Alemite Co. decided it was high time to develop a new type of motor oil suited to the changing trend in engine design.

"Ten years were spent developing a refining process that would preserve the structure of 100 per cent pure Pennsylvania grade crude. A combination of 100 per cent pure Pennsylvania grade crude and the new Alemite process produces Alemite motor oil, an extremely rugged, full-bodied oil which retains its viscosity under the hardest service and has an almost uncanny resistance to heat."

De Vaux Six Models Shown By Dealers Here

New Car Comes in Six Body Types—Prices from $595 to $795.

The new De Vaux six is now on display by the Burgdorf Motor Co., 2727 South Jefferson avenue, distributer, and associated dealers.

Made by the De Vaux-Hall Motors Corporation, Grand Rapids, Mich., the new car has a wheel base of 113 inches, stylish appearance and a powerful engine designed by Col. Elbert J. Hall, noted for his work with the Liberty motor and the Hall-Scott engines. The engine develops more than 70-horsepower.

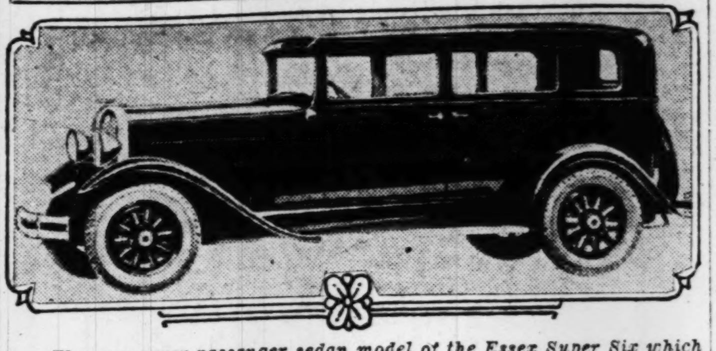
The engine is the first L-head type, passenger car motor with a six-port intake manifold. The intake branch to each cylinder has been used in nearly every racing car built in the past decade. Many racing cars have had individual intake pipes and a carburetor for each cylinder.

While the six-port intake is more expensive, it gives more uniform gas distribution, better moisture content, and equalizes combustion in all cylinders, all of which makes for a balanced engine.

Details of the Engine.

The motor has floating wristpins, heavy crankshaft, supported by four main bearings of the interchangeable type. Connecting rod bearings are two inches in diameter. Wrist pin bushings are bronze. Aluminum alloy pistons, full force-feed lubrication, nondetonating cylinder head, and torsional dampeners are used. Camshaft is driven by silent chain.

A Seven-Passenger Essex



The new seven-passenger sedan model of the Essex Super Six which is being displayed in St. Louis by the Hudson-Frampton Motor Car Co., distributer, and its associated dealers.

The engine has oil filter, large centrifugal water pump, thermostatic water temperature control, automatic fuel pump with fuel filter and double venturi high-power carburetor, with metered accelerating pump. For varying climatic conditions, a hot-spot, with manually adjusted heat regulator is used. The carburetor is a Tillotson, designed for this engine. It has dry manifold and no loading point.

Oil pressure is unusually high—40 to 50 pounds on all bearings.

The latest engineering improvements have been incorporated in the new Hall engine. "Pinging" is said to be prevented by a specially cylinder head, and by a departure from customary location of spark plugs. No special fuels are needed for maximum efficiency.

The new DeVaux has a distinctive V-type radiator and low, roomy body designed by Count Alexis de Sakhnoffsky, European artist and master of coachcraft, winner of last year's Monte Carlo competition. A wide tread of 58 inches permits roomier passenger compartments in the body and better roadability. Front seats and steering column are adjustable. Doors are wide and interiors deeply tufted and upholstered in mohair.

The transmission has quiet second gear. The second speed gears are helical and constantly in mesh, permitting easy shifting back and forth between high and second. Extra long springs are controlled by double acting oversize Houdaille hydraulic shock absorbers. Brakes are steeldraulic four-wheel type, fully inclosed.

Kelly-Springfield Officers Promoted

W. H. Lalley, the new president of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Co., has promoted several executives of the company.

John J. Jordan, formerly general sales manager, has been made assistant to the president. A. W. Barry, manager of the truck and bus tire sales division, has been made general sales manager. Frank B. Byron rises from Eastern district sales manager to assistant general sales manager.

Equalized Brakes, Properly Aligned Wheels, Save Tires

Proper attention to brake equalization and front wheel alignment will go far to aid a motorist in obtaining mileage from his tires, according to A. D. Dahl of the Royal Tire Service, U. S. tire dealer at 3229 Washington avenue.

"Wheels out of alignment cause undue wear on one part instead of bringing the wear evenly on the tread," he says. "Improper alignment of wheels or faulty brake adjustment also is highly dangerous and this condition is likely to cause a needless skid which the safety tread configuration of the tire is powerless to control simply because the faulty mechanism of the car is working at cross purposes to the non-skid surface of the tire. This is particularly true on wet roads."

Dahl advised periodic checking of the wheel alignment and brake adjustment of a car, not only for safety, but to obtain the maximum value from a tire.

Why Car Oil Filter Should Be Replaced at Every 10,000 Miles

An oil filter delays wear by preventing dust, carbon, grit and sand from mixing with auto engine oil, according to C. W. Jacobs, general service manager of the Buick Motor Co.

The oil filter consists of a rectangular bag, made from special flannel, with the nap side forming the inner wall of the bag," he says. "The bag has an inlet channel which connects with a series of other channels running the length of the bag. The oil is thus filtered through the channels in the bag, the dirt remaining on the inside of the channels and the clean oil feeding back to the engine.

"This filtering bag is rolled up and fits into a metal screen, which is placed in a cylindrical metal container having inlet and outlet connections to the oil supply.

"As much as two pounds of sludge, including much abrasive matter, is removed from the crankcase oil by the oil filter in 10,000 miles of average driving. The removal of this foreign matter from the oil saves wear and thus minimizes need for replacement of various working parts of the engine. Use of the oil filter enables Buick to recommend changing the oil only four times a year.

The filter functions at high efficiency until every inch of the filtering area has been filled with residue, which occurs about every 10,000 miles of driving. Then the oil filter cartridge should be replaced, which will make the oil filter as good as new again."

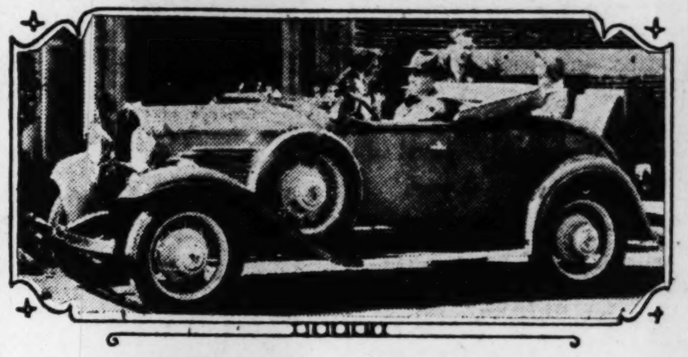
7-Passenger Sedan On Long Wheelbase Added to Essex Line

A seven-passenger sedan on 119-inch wheelbase has been added to the Essex Super Six line, and is being shown by the Hudson-Frampton Motor Co., distributer, and its dealers. The new model has the regular Essex chassis, except for the greater length, a heavier frame and necessary changes in springs and gear ratios.

The body is similar to the sedan of the same type on the Hudson eight chassis. The exterior finish is in combinations based on black, blue and green, some in two-toned effects.

The seven-passenger sedan lists at $895 factory. It was produced to meet a demand for a sedan of large carrying capacity which was indicated by inquiries and by a trend discovered in the used-car market.

New Willys Six Sport Model



New Willys Six de luxe sport roadster, with body in three shades of green and green leather upholstery.

A Century-Old Motorist

Mrs. Susan Brown, Peoria, Ill., who is 100 years old, inspecting the new Reo Royale. At the left, is her old car which was bought eight years ago, and since has been driven 8000 miles at a speed never exceeding 15 miles per hour. The old car still has the original battery and tires. The two cars cost the same—$2700.

De Luxe Roadster Of Sport Type Added To Willys Six Line

The exterior color scheme is three shades of light green, the color being extended to the fenders, splashers, gas tank. These colors harmonize with upholstery of special green leather.

Special standard equipment and accessories include two spare tire wheels mounted in forward fender wells and equipped with metal tire covers, chrome plated on the outer band and lacquered on the inner band; rear-view mirrors on each spare wheel; head lamps, tie bar and fender lamps of chrome plate. The tail light is lacquered in green to match the body color.

Two horns, mounted in front, also are included in the standard equipment. The trunk rack is lacquered in the body color with walnut finish strips.

Windshield wings of safety glass are standard equipment, with the same type of glass in the windshield at slight extra cost.

Roominess in both front and rear compartments is a feature. The top, of the collapsible type, is of a heavy double texture and rubber interlined with cloth. A top cover is included in the equipment. Bows are lacquered and all metal parts chrome plated.

Keeping Spring Clips Tight.

Nash Sales Increase Of 61 Per Cent Over 1930 Recorded Locally

"It is my opinion that retail conditions in the automobile industry in St. Louis are on a definite up-turn as far as actual sales are concerned," Frank McDonald, president of the Southwest Nash Co., local Nash distributer, said yesterday.

"I believe that this improved condition, together with widespread acceptance of the new Nash line, is accountable for the fact that our actual retail sales in the first three months of 1931 show an increase of 61 per cent over the corresponding period in 1930."

At a directors' meeting of the Nash Motors Co. a dividend of $1 per share was declared.

The balance sheet and earnings statement for the first quarter, which includes December, 1930, and January and February, 1931, showed cash and Government securities in the company's treasury amounting to $35,747,486. The company earned during the quarter $1,099,193, after deducting all expenses of manufacturing, selling and administration, and providing for depreciation and both State and Federal taxes.

C. H. Bliss, who has long been identified with the company as sales manager, was elected a vice president and director of sales.

'Free Roller' Device For Driving a Ford

The Scotch Free-Roller, a mechanical unit to be added to the drive shaft just forward of the differential, providing positive controlled free wheeling for Model A Fords, is being introduced locally by F. S. Wiemeyer Co., Inc., 2625 Locust street. It was invented by C. E. Starr, who also invented the Ruckstell axle and is manufactured by the Trojan Auto Products Co., Los Angeles.

The use of the Scotch Free Roller, by a mere shift of a lever, instantly provides choice of "free wheeling" (coasting) or "positive drive" with the engine acting as a brake, as though no free-wheeler were installed.

Fuel and motor economies effected by the Scotch Free Roller account for the "Scotch" in the name.

U. S.-Panama Highway.

Plans are being made for completion of a $100,000,000 highway through Central America from the United States border to Panama. The road will run through the United States, Panama, Costa Rica, Guatemala, El Salvador, Honduras, Nicaragua and Mexico.

The GREATEST VALUE IN OLDSMOBILE HISTORY

NEW LOWER PRICE

$845

The new Oldsmobile for 1931 offers you the greatest value in Oldsmobile history—and Oldsmobile cars of past years have earned a nationwide reputation for sound value.

This statement is based on provable facts, which you can check to your satisfaction.

For example, the new Oldsmobile is equipped with the famous Syncro-Mesh transmission—a feature heretofore found only in higher priced cars. It permits silent shifting through all gears . . . from low into second, from second to high, and from high back to second, as desired. In addition, a new Quiet Second Gear, added to Oldsmobile's Syncro-Mesh transmission, assures smooth, swift acceleration which rivals high gear performance in quietness.

Performance, too, is even more pleasing than in the past. A new down-draft carburetion system brings increased power—with higher speed, faster acceleration, and greater smoothness. It also makes starting in cold weather quicker and easier. And a new carburetor-silencer contributes to quieter operation at all driving speeds.

Further, the new Oldsmobile offers finer coachwork. Body lines are long, low, and smart. Fundamental advancements in engineering and construction make the new insulated Fisher bodies strong, quiet, and serviceable. And new appointments, together with smartly tailored upholstery . . . optional in mohair or whipcord . . . add to the luxury of body interiors.

An additional contribution to distinctive appearance is Oldsmobile's new wheel equipment. Five modish wire wheels or five demountable wood wheels are offered optionally—and at no extra charge.

These features, and others which you will see when you examine the new Oldsmobile, add to the quality and dependability of a car which has proved its merit in the hands of nearly a quarter of a million owners during the past three years.

THE NEW DeVaux 6-75 IS HERE . . .

70 TO 80 MILES AN HOUR

Demonstrating its Superiority with PERFORMANCE Never Thought Possible In A Low-Priced Car

A brand-new motoring thrill awaits you today—when you drive the new De Vaux 6-75, powered by the famous six-cylinder Hall Motor. You will find different, marvelously-better performance in this, the first low-priced car offering the exclusive advantages of Col. Elbert J. Hall's engineering genius.

You have never known a car so eager, so flexible, so alive with strength.

The exceptional motor—developing more than 70 horsepower—produces a constant, even flow of smooth, dynamic power at speeds ranging from 5 to 75 miles an hour.

With flashing get-away and rapid acceleration, you can boost the De Vaux to high speeds in a matter of seconds. By an easy flip of the lever, you can shift back and forth between second and high at fast speeds. The helical gears of Quiet Second are constantly in mesh.

Right now—the new De Vaux is changing prevailing opinions regarding the performance of low-cost cars. Take the wheel today—the new De Vaux is its own best salesman.

The New Standard of Motor Car Value

DE VAUX BEAUTY is original and distinctive. M. Comte Alexis de Sakhnoffsky, Parisian artist and master of coachcraft, designed the graceful body.

DE VAUX COMFORT is exceptional. Extra long springs, with double-acting, oversize Houdaille Hydraulic Shock Absorbers, insure smooth, easy riding.

Creators of An Exceptional Motor Car

Two distinguished pioneers of the Automobile Industry combined their invaluable experience in engineering and manufacturing to produce the new De Vaux 6-75—THE NEW STANDARD OF MOTOR CAR VALUE.

Norman de Vaux — Manufacturer
Formerly president and general manager, and half-owner of the Pacific Coast factory of Chevrolet Motor Co.; famed for building extra value into his motor cars.

Col. Elbert J. Hall — Engineer
Co-designer of the Liberty Motor; formerly a consulting engineer to General Motors Corporation, Ford Motor Co., and other leaders; founder of Hall-Scott Motor Co.

St. Louis Radio Trades Broadcasting Libel Law in Fight on 50,000 Wat WCCO—Tito Schipa Si —Television Broadcast Begin Soon in New Yo

The St. Louis Radio Trades Association is backing a bill, defining and providing a penalty for the publishing of libelous or slanderous matter through broadcasting, and is endeavoring to have it introduced in the Missouri Legislature and enacted into a law. The proposed law reads as follows: "Section 1. Whoever utters, or knowingly permits or causes to be uttered, transmitted or published, any false or malicious libel or slander of or concerning other living or deceased persons or person, by means of radio transmission, shall be fined not more than $500 or imprisoned for not more than six months, or both. Section 2. In prosecutions under this act there shall be a prima facie presumtion of malice if other elements of the offense are established."

Tom A. Terry of St. Louis has asked the Radio Commission for a permit to build a 100-watt station in this city and operate it on 1420 kilycycles. It is understood that he proposed to erect the station on the Hotel Jefferson, at Locust boulevard and Twelfth street, if he could get the license.

WMAQ, WBBM, Chicago; WTMJ, Milwaukee, and WHO-WOC, Davenport, Ia., joined Thursday in an attack on the recommendation of Chief Examiner Ellis Yost that the Radio Commission grant 50,000 watt permits in this zone to WGN, Chicago, and WCCO, Minneapolis. A special point was made by counsel for WMAQ, that its programs were designed for a "great minority" of listeners who did not care for the "vaudeville type" of broadcasting. Little, if any, time was given by WGN to such programs as WMAQ features, it was asserted. Lawyers for the combined Iowa stations told of plans to erect a 50,000-watt station that would give Iowa real reception. Those for the Milwaukee station declared that Wisconsin was entitled to a cleared channel, whereas Illinois had more than 100 per cent more stations than its legal quota.

Tom A. Terry of St. Louis has asked the Radio Commission for a permit to build a 100-watt station in this city and operate it on 1420 kilycycles. It is understood that he proposed to erect the station on the Hotel Jefferson, at Locust boulevard and Twelfth street, if he could get the license.

WMAQ, WBBM, Chicago; WTMJ, Milwaukee, and WHO-WOC, Davenport, Ia., joined Thursday in an attack on the recommendation of Chief Examiner Ellis Yost that the Radio Commission grant 50,000 watt permits in this zone to WGN, Chicago, and WCCO, Minneapolis. A special point was made by counsel for WMAQ, that its programs were designed for a "great minority" of listeners who did not care for the "vaudeville type" of broadcasting. Little, if any, time was given by WGN to such programs as WMAQ features, it was asserted. Lawyers for the combined Iowa stations told of plans to erect a 50,000-watt station that would give Iowa real reception. Those for the Milwaukee station declared that Wisconsin was entitled to a cleared channel, whereas Illinois had more than 100 per cent more stations than its legal quota.

Dr. John R. Brinkley, the "goat gland" specialist of Milford, Kan., who sold his radio station, KFKB, when the Radio Commission refused to renew its license, says he has signed a contract for erection of a 50,000-watt station at Villa Acuna, Mexico, across the Rio Grande River from Del Rio, Tex., according to the Associated Press. If Mexico allows him to build the station, as he declares he has been officially assured he may do, he will have to use a channel occupied by some United States station or by a group of Canadian stations, which will result in serious interference.

Television broadcasting in New York City is to begin next Sunday, when the 5000-watt transmitter, W2XCR, will begin sending pictures of entertainers from 5 to 7:30. W2XCR will use the 147.5 meter wavelength. At the same time WGBS will transmit sound programs synchronized with the television pictures. Listeners will have to use two receivers.

The Columbia System plans to begin television broadcasting June 1 on 2750 kilocycles from a transmitter in New York using the call letters W2XAB. Some of the television broadcasts will be in conjunction with sound broadcasts by WABC, key station of the Columbia chain. But none of the television programs will go to network stations.

WMAQ, Chicago, already is broadcasting television and sound programs in conjunction with its short wave transmitter. KMOX, St. Louis, has applied to the Radio Commission for a television broadcasting permit and plans, if the license be granted, to erect a special television station.

The broadcast of Stravinsky's "Oedipus Rex," which will be the first music drama to be heard by radio from the stage of the Metropolitan Opera House, will begin at 7:30 Tuesday night. Stations listed to carry this broadcast include KWK, WGN, KDKA, WJR and WREN. Leopold Stokowski, conductor of the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra, will conduct the performance. Singers will include Margerete Mitzenauer, Paul Althouse and Sigurn Nilssen.

Beatrice Belkin, who won radio fame as a soprano with Roxy's Gang and was engaged for the Metropolitan Opera, has given up her operatic ambitions to devote herself to radio and concert singing.

The radio concerts by the New York Philharmonic Orchestra, which will conclude this afternoon, will be broadcast again next fall and winter by the Columbia chain.

WLW will broadcast a special Cuban program at 8:30 tonight. Cincinnati's May Festival Chorus will sing over WLW at 9:30 Thursday night and again at 9:30 Wednesday night, April 29.

Several years of experiments with short wave communication between engine and caboose of freight trains have developed a system that the telegraph and telephone section of the American Railway Association regards as practicable.

A further practical use for this innovation has been found at the "hump" yards, where cars are classified and made up into trains.

CHRYSLER
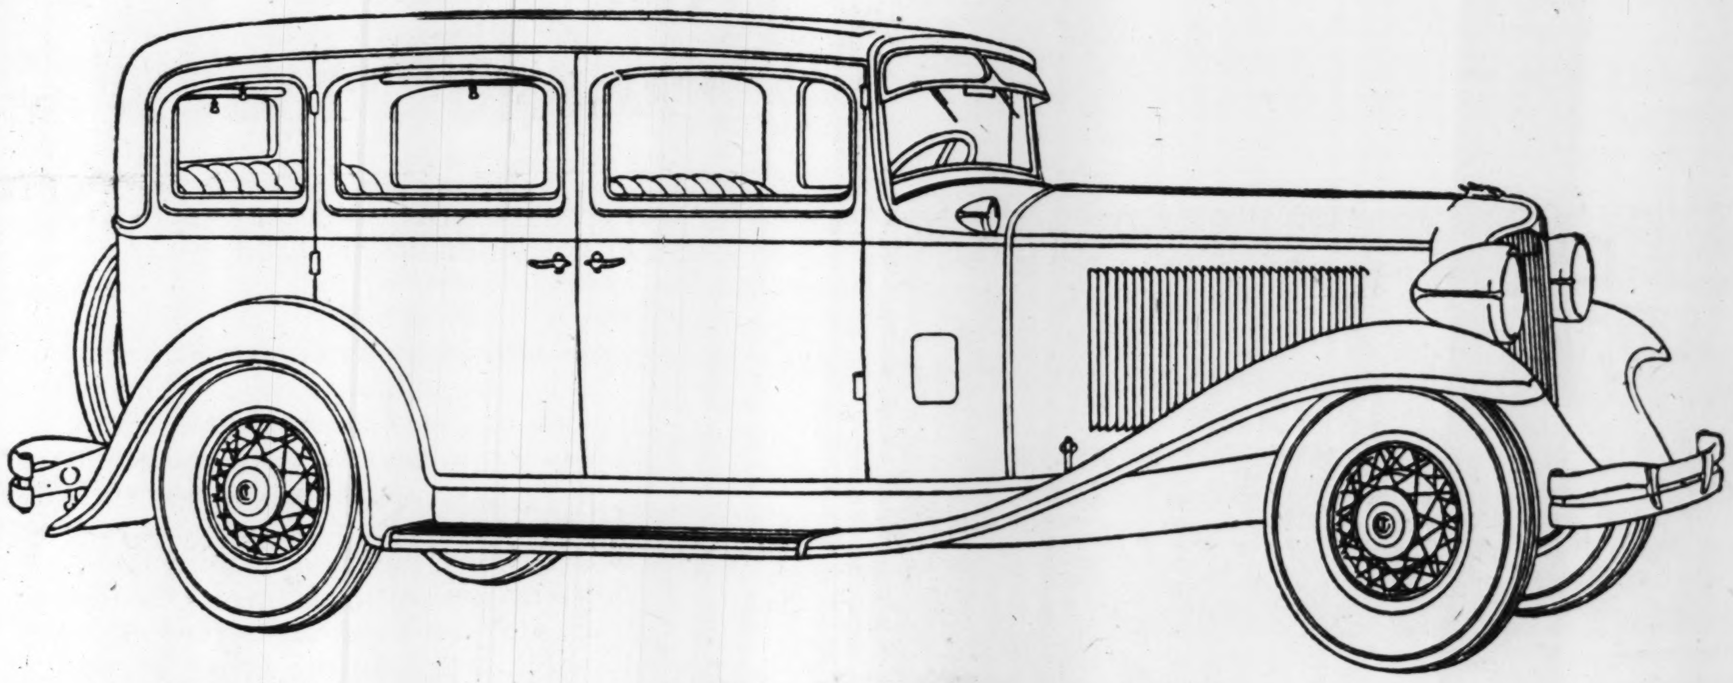
DUAL HIGH GEARS



Enjoy the Difference

There certainly is a difference, a vital and thrilling difference, between Chrysler cars and other cars.

For one thing, design is different—and smarter. The Chrysler Eights have an extremely low center of gravity. Low-swung lines create refreshing grace and beauty—low-swung weight gives perfect balance and greater safety.

Engineering is different—more advanced. The Chrysler Eights have the exclusive Multi-Range 4-speed transmission with Dual High gears and a quick, quiet gear shift. One high gear for flashing pick-up in traffic sprints—another high gear for the open road—both internal-mesh type gears.

Performance is different—more fascinating. Only a Chrysler will give you Chrysler speed, Chrysler acceleration and Chrysler smoothness.

Chrysler performance speaks for itself. The Chrysler Imperial Eight, for instance, now holds twelve A. A. A. Contest Board stock car speed records for one to five miles.

Drive a Chrysler—any Chrysler—and learn for yourself the differences that make Chrysler cars so completely outstanding on the road, the masters of every situation.

What's New In Radio Industry

N. S. Brown and Fred Wiebe to Distribute Atwater Kent Sets in Oklahoma City Also—Columbia Phonograph Co. Wins Exclusive Right to Use Name—New Clarion Set Put Through Test.

Brown and Wiebe Take Over Oklahoma City for A-K.

Following a conference at the Atwater Kent factory in Philadelphia, Norman S. Brown, president, and Fred A. Wiebe, vice president of the Brown & Hall Supply Co. of St. Louis, have organized the Brown Electric Co., to take over distribution of Atwater Kent receivers in Oklahoma City, Ok. Brown is president of the new company, which is incorporated for $500,000, and Wiebe is vice president. Brown and Wiebe have been in business together here for 18 years. As local distributer of Atwater Kent sets the Brown & Hall Supply Co. has a national reputation. Wiebe was recently re-elected president of the St. Louis Radio Trades Association.

A. Atwater Kent, commenting on the formation of the new firm, said that when the change in the Oklahoma City distributership was considered, the first thought of his factory officials and himself was to request the Brown & Hall Supply Co. to form a company to add the territory to their St. Louis distributership.

Goes to "House of Magic."

Wins Use of Name "Columbia."

The Columbia Phonograph Co. announces settlement of litigation over the use of the name "Columbia." Under terms of the settlement, effective soon, the Columbia Phonograph Co., Inc., retains exclusive use of the name, "Columbia," for radio, phonographs, records and pictorial and sound-reproducing apparatus. So, hereafter all instruments of the foregoing character bearing the Columbia name will be the products of the Columbia Phonograph Co. This is all in line with plans for extensive developments in sound production. Just what developments in television are indicated was not disclosed.

Test of New Clarion Set.

One of the new Clarion superheterodyne mantel type sets, which was tested the past week in a locality on the East Side eight miles east of the Mississippi River, tuned in WOR, Newark, N. J., between WLW and WGN, with powerful signal and no interference from either of those powerful transmitters. It tuned in WTAM, Cleveland, in the daytime whenever static was not too strong and separated that station completely from KMOX. On three evenings it tuned in WRVA, Richmond, Va., on 1110-kc., and WBT, Charlotte, N. C., on 1080-kc and much of the time held them without interference from the 50,000-watt St. Louis station. As WBT is adjacent to KMOX and WRVA is only one more channel distant, this was about as good a test of selectivity as could be asked. The Clarion also tuned in Pacfic Coast and Atlantic Coast stations with exceptional distance range and selectivity. Tone was excellent.

Report on Number Of Receivers Owned In Fifteen States

By MARTIN CODEL.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—New England and Western states lead by far in the number of families reporting that they had radio sets to enumerators of the United States Census Bureau as of April 1, 1930, according to the figures for 15 states and the District of Columbia, thus far compiled by Census officials.

Considered as a whole, in this group of slightly less than one-third of the states in the Union, only a few of them thickly populated, less than 33 per cent of the families had radios. In fact, there ewre fewer than 1,200,000 homes with radios in all. With the average number of persons per family in these states, 4.1, there were considerably fewer than 5,000,000 home listeners in all the states reported.

Though this aggregate is surprisingly small, and might tend to indicate that the country has far fewer than the 12,000,000 to 15,000,000 sets estimated, the most thickly populated states remain to be reported. Conspicuous by their absence as yet are reports for New York, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, California and many other states.

A tabulation for the states reported on follows:

State.	No. of Families With Sets.	Pct.
New Hampshire	53,111	44.4
Delaware	27,183	45.8
Vermont	39,913	44.6
Alabama	56,491	9.5
Arizona	19,295	18.1
Arkansas	40,248	9.2
Colorado	101,373	37.8
District of Columbia	67,880	53.9
Florida	58,446	15.5
Utah	47,729	41.1
Iowa	309,327	48.6
Connecticut	213,821	54.9
North Dakota	59,352	40.8
Nevada	7,869	30.6
Georgia	64,908	9.9
New Mexico	11,404	11.5

William H. Woodin, who is a composer of excellent songs and other music, as well as president of a great car and foundry company and a director of many corporations, will speak in a Gems of Melody broadcast over KWK at 8:45 tonight.

Post-Dispatch Highway Maps

THE Resort and Travel Bureau of the Post-Dispatch has for distribution an excellent 50-page auto trails atlas of the United States and Eastern Canada, showing the condition and numbers of highways and mileage between towns. The price is 50 cents, or 60 cents if mailed.

W2XAF, one of the short wave stations operated with WGY, Schenectady, N. Y., is so built that three musical programs can be broadcast from it simultaneously without interference. Six addresses by as many different persons can be broadcast at the same time. It may be used for broadcasting television and voice at the same time, or can send out eight still facsimile pictures simultaneously. It is licensed to use 40,000 watts on short waves.

A new type of vacuum tube, so sensitive that it will measure a hundredth of a millionth of a billionth of an ampere of current, has been developed by the General Electric scientists. Such a current is to the usual flow of current through a 50-watt ordinary house lamp is as two drops of water to the enormous flow over Niagara Falls. Astronomers will be able to use it with photo-electric tubes to measure the amount of heat radiated by stars millions of light years distant.

De Soto Car Sales Increase 61 Per Cent in New York City

An increase of 61 per cent in retail deliveries of De Soto cars in March, as compared with March a year ago, has just been reported by Kilbourn Motors for the New York metropolitan area.

One effect of this marked increase in New York De Soto sales was the shipment of two trainloads of cars to Kilbourn Motors and associate metropolitan dealers in the past few weeks. The first trainload, consisting of 131 cars, left the Detroit factory March 14. The second trainload of 136 cars left April 2.

Addressing the dealers in New York on the outlook, Byron C. Foy, recently elected president of the De Soto Motor Corporation, declared that reports from various parts of the country indicated that the attitude of the general public had changed decidedly and prospects for further improvement in the next few months were much brighter.

Five States Plan Auto Code.

Five Western States, California, Nevada, Arizona, Oregon and Washington, are to form a permanent organization know as the Western States Motor Vehicle Conference. The purpose of the conference is to adopt a uniform code for vehicular traffic.

First Aid for Motorists.

The first permanent roadside aid station stands on the main Birmingham-Evesham road, at Bransons Cross, Warwickshire, scene of more motor accidents than any other spot in Central England. The nearest village is two miles away. A stretcher on wheels is ready to carry the injured and a nurse is in attendance.

AUBURN
Introduces Two New Convertible Custom Models with Free Wheeling

Again Auburn introduces an entirely new originality in design. Entirely closed—or entirely open—or tops up and windows down! Those are highly desirable advantages of these two new Auburn Straight Eight convertible models. The windshields on the Custom Models may be folded down. Both Custom and Standard Models have improved rattle-proof windows; re-enforced and insulated bodies; ample room; unusually comfortable upholstery, scientific seating arrangement and many new features never before obtainable even in the most expensive made-to-order cars. In addition to 98 horsepower; 127" wheelbase; strongest of frames, X-type; automatic chassis lubrication; silent-constant mesh and about one hundred other betterments that make these cars the greatest values on the market, the Custom Models have the new improved L. G. S. Free Wheeling. An exclusive Auburn advantage is a control lever that enables you to have Free Wheeling completely, or positive gear completely, as you wish. We invite you to inspect, compare and drive these most attractive convertible models, confident you will find they offer the most for the least cost. Phone us for demonstration.

BUYS TRACT ON WASHINGTON BL. FOR INVESTMENT

St. Louis Mutual Life Insurance Co. Acquires 150 by 150 Feet on North Side at Numbers 3847-57.

REFLECTS WIDENING OF VANDEVENTER

Cinema Service Co. to Build on Duncan Av., Joining Other Industries to Facilitate Distribution

By Berry Moore

As an investment involving speculative possibilities, the St. Louis Mutual Life Insurance Co. has purchased 150x150 feet of ground on the north side of Washington boulevard between Vandeventer and Spring avenues. Negotiations were handled by the Mercantile-Commerce Bank & Trust Co.

While the ground is improved with six houses, known as 3847-49-51-53-55 and 57 Washington boulevard, the purchase was predicated primarily on the future of this block, which is destined ultimately to be absorbed for business purposes. The purchase p [illegible] was not made public; but it is said to have been relatively low with ample margin for profit. The transaction is pointed to as reflecting the wholesome effect on Washington boulevard of the widening of Vandeventer avenue, which has taken on new importance as a midtown business center. Joseph Jaffe was the owner of record.

National Cinema Purchase.

Another feature of the week was the purchase by National Cinema Service, Inc., of the fireproof building at 4327 Duncan avenue, formerly occupied by the Presstile Engineering Co., which was the grantor in the transaction. The transaction was handled by the Isaac T. Cook Co., which declined to disclose the consideration.

National Cinema will occupy the building in the production of religious and educational motion pictures and motion picture equipment, for which it will be made available. The building, 40x150 feet in dimensions, occupies a lot 50x190 feet, extending to an alley.

The building is opposite the new auxiliary plant of the Post-Dispatch on the south side of Duncan avenue, west of Boyle, representing an investment of more than $550,000, and placed in operation last week. The new Post-Dispatch auxiliary plant, comprising three floors and basement, constructed of steel and concrete, has a frontage of 123 feet on Duncan, besides a 25-foot concrete private alley and a 17-foot track space, with a depth of 150 feet. It has a total floor area of 55,350 square feet, besides the basement, which extends under the northeast corner of the building. A special switch track of the Wabash Railway is available for delivery of roll paper at the first-floor level. The site of the plant was chosen because of its geographical advantages with regard to population centers of the city and suburbs, as well as shipping facilities. A recent survey conducted by the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co. covering a period of two months, showed this section to be the distribution center for retail stores, according to real estate men.

New Building on Duncan.

The Od Peacock Sullivan Co., forming a consolidation of the Od Chemical Co. of New York, the Peacock Chemical Co. and the Sullivan Drug Co. of St. Louis, has purchased a site at the southwest corner of Duncan and Taylor avenues, through the Giraldin Bros. Real Estate Co. The new big concern has announced plans for a modern four-story fireproof building for the manufacture of pharmaceutical properties. It is scheduled for completion Aug. 1. The site has a frontage of 50 feet on Duncan with a depth of 298 feet on Taylor.

Within the last five years, many industrial concerns, including a number of national importance, have established plants on Duncan avenue. There include, among others, N. O. Nelson Manufacturing Co., 4300 Duncan avenue; The Multiplex Faucet Co., 4325 Duncan; Baldor Electric Co., 4351-53 Duncan; Thermo Electric Co., 4327 Duncan; Neat, Inc., 4330 Duncan; The Stange Co., 4377 Duncan avenue; American Radiator Co., 4201 Duncan avenue; Ames Shovel and Tool Co., 4038 Duncan avenue; Presto-O-Lite Co., 4018 Duncan avenue; Fuel Oil Co. of St. Louis, 4470 Duncan; Hunkins-Willis L. & C. Co., 4480 Duncan avenue; Philip Carey & Co., roofing products, 4125 Duncan avenue; Iten Biscuit Co., 4481 Duncan avenue; Ward Baking Co., 4510 Parkview place (Duncan avenue); Wolff & Co., plumbing supplies, 4165 Duncan; F. W. & J. SLOANE LEASES WAREHOUSE SPACE

Company Dealing in Floor Coverings to Use Part of Cupples Station Terminals.

W. & J. Sloane, which recently established quarters in St. Louis, has leased a large block of warehouse space in Cupples Station Terminals. In making the lease, the Cupples company was represented by Isaac Hedges, and W. & J. Sloane by Clarence M. Turley.

W. & J. Sloane is the sole selling agency for four of the most important manufacturers in the floor covering industry: Alexander Smith & Sons Carpet Co. of Yonkers, N. Y., the largest manufacturer of rugs and carpets in the world; C. H. Masland & Sons, Inc., whose rugs are noted for long wear and are used in many automobiles; the Barrymore Seamless Wiltons, Inc., prominent in the domestic Oriental field, and the W. & J. Sloane Manufacturing Co., Trenton, N. J., the linoleum manufacturing unit which rounds out the Sloane lines.

MADISON'S HOME, MONTPELIER, COPIED IN COLONIAL HILLS

The Spoede Road Improvement Co. has just completed Montpelier, a modern reproduction of the famous home of James Madison, fourth President of the United States. The new house is in Colonial Hills on the Spoede road, a short distance north of the Ladue road. It overlooks Mary Institute, St. Louis Country Club and Villa Duchesne, and Kirkwood and the Manchester Hills can also be seen from its windows. La Beaume and Klein, the architects, have adhered to the Colonial type of architecture inside and out, but have incorporated modern ideas in interior arrangements of the structure. The house is of brick, painted white, as is the original Montpelier, near Orange, N. J. It has 12 rooms and five baths. Its five acres of ground are landscaped with spruce, pine, hemlocks, cedars and other shrubs associated with homes of this type. This is the first of 15 houses to be erected by the Eggers Realty & Investment Co., agent for the owners of Colonial Hills, each residence to be a reproduction of a famous Colonial home.

HAASE REALTY CO. REPORTS INDUSTRIAL BUILDING SALE

The Haase Realty Co. reports the sale of the manufacturing building on Pennsylvania avenue and Blow street, from the Johnson-Randall Industries, Inc., to the Elder Manufacturing Co. The building contains 25,000 square feet of floor space, and the size of the lot is 95 feet 5 inches by 130 feet. Isaac Cook & Co. represented the Johnson-Randall Industries, Inc.

MARCH RESIDENCE CONTRACTS INCREASE OVER MARCH, 1930

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 18.—Contracts awarded for building, as recorded by the F. W. Dodge Corporation, showed a sharp increase in March as compared with February because of seasonal influences.

Excluding public works, the totals awarded for residential and nonresidential building in March in 37 states east of the Rocky Mountains represented 37,542,000 square feet of floor space as compared with 28,092,000 in February, 52,989,000 in March of last year, and 87,633,000 in the peak month of 1928. March contracts were 40.8 per cent higher than the total of the previous month.

Nonresidential building was responsible for the failure of work in March to make a more satisfactory showing. Residential contracts were larger than they were a year ago, totaling 22,150,000 square feet, against 20,713,000, an increase of 7.2 per cent.

As residential work is the backbone of building, the March gain is held to be encouraging.

EDWARD M. QUEENY BUYS TILTON HOME

$200,000 Reported Paid — 300-Acre Farm on Which House Stands Included.

The record sale of the week was that of the Webster Tilton home on the west side of Mason road north of the Manchester road, to Edward M. Queeney, president of the Monsanto Chemical Co. The purchase included the 300-acre farm on which the house stands. The reported consideration was $200,000. Negotiations were handled by Edward L. Bakewell, real estate agent.

The house was built about 90 years ago but was remodeled for Tilton along colonial lines. There are 11 rooms, three baths and various outbuildings. The place is one of the most attractive in St. Louis County.

LAFAYETTE BUILDING ASSN. OFFICERS FOR YEAR CHOSEN

At the annual meeting of stockholders of the Lafayette Mutual Building Association, held April 13, the following officers were elected: George Oliver Carpenter Jr., president; E: Glion Curtis, first vice president; Clifford B. Allen, second vice president, and S. A. Koster, secretary.

This association, the oldest in St. Louis, has been in business for more than 58 years, making monthly payment loans on homes. The assets of the association increased $160,000 during the year ending March 1, 1931, and are now in excess of $1,090,000.

PASADENA HILLS HOUSE TO BE INSPECTED TODAY

"Belmont Mansion" Has Been Furnished by the Lammert Furniture Co.

The Pasadena Realty Co., of which Henry Carter is president, is the developer of Pasadena Hills. It has recently completed a large Colonial House, "Belmont Mansion," which will be open, beginning today, for inspection. Lammert Furniture Co. executed the furnishings, which are for the most part in the Georgian period. Some of the bedrooms are in Colonial maple and French styles.

Pasadena Hills is immediately north of the Natural Bridge road between the Lucas and Hunt, and Florissant roads. Many residences have already been completed and occupied, and others are in course of construction. Carter states that the spring season in realty is opening up in promising fashion, and he points to several factors that will tend to favorably affect property values.

PATENT MEDICINE COMPANY MOVES HERE FROM DENVER

The Wolf-Pollack Real Estate Co. reports the signing of a lease by the Remlock Hills Laboratory, formerly of Denver, Colo.

This firm, just moved to St. Louis, has taken corner office space in the Wolf-Pollack Building, 210-12 Olive street. The company is manufacturer and distributer for patent medicines. The president is G. E. Remick.

HISTORIC 'GAY VILLA' SITE IS PURCHASED

Lawrence C. Kingsland to Construct New Home in Lake Forest District.

The site of "Gay Villa," one of the historic mansions of old St. Louis, was purchased this week by Lawrence C. Kingsland. Kingsland plans to construct a modern home on the ground occupied by the old house.

The lot is now a part of Lake Forest, Clayton and Hanley roads, residence district being developed on the estate of Edward J. Gay, former Congressman and millionaire Louisiana sugar planter of Civil War days. The sale was made by Shaw & Francis, sales agents for the Lake Forest Development Co., which purchased the tract from the late Mrs. Sophie Mitchell Crow, a daughter of Gay.

The location is rich in color and tradition. When Gay purchased the estate of which Lake Forest tract was a part, he chose one of the highest spots there as the site of his home—a rolling ridge covered by great trees and commanding a sweeping view of surrounding country.

Negroes from his plantation built the great three-story brick mansion that became Gay's summer home. And there, in the years following the war, Gay and his family took a leading part in the social life of the city.

Even the trip up the river from the Louisiana plantations was handled in lavish scale. An entire steamer was chartered, loaded with servants, coaches, fine horses, with the family installed in the staterooms on the upper deck.

Today, crumbling foundation stones are all that remains of the old house. And they, too, will soon be cleared away, to make way for construction of the new Kingsland home.

PHOENIX MUTUAL LEASES ARCADE BUILDING QUARTERS

The Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance Co. of Hartford, Conn., has taken a lease on rooms 1634 to 1644 in the Arcade Building.

Architects, in arranging the new quarters, have provided many new ideas for insurance agency offices and, when alterations are completed and the agency has moved into its new quarters, which will be about June 1, the public will be invited to inspect the offices.

Manager E. J. Burkley said more space and modern quarters were needed for his rapidly growing agency.

The Phoenix Mutual is one of the oldest and strongest legal reserve mutual life insurance companies in the United States, having been established in 1851, and now has $600,000,000 of insurance in force with assets of $150,000,000. In 1891 this company established its St. Louis office.

WOODLAND PARK BUNGALOWS OPEN FOR INSPECTION TODAY

The Federer Realty Co. announces the completion of several new bungalows in Woodland Park, on the South Side. They will be open for inspection today with representatives of the builders in attendance. The homes and their builders: 5639 Finkman street, Vincil R. Stamm; 5525-35 Gresham street, Fred and Arthur Darr; 5619-35 Gresham street, John P. Fendler, and a group in Woodbine Court, Federer Development Co. The houses are of five and six rooms and embody modern ideas of home construction such as vitrolite kitchens, baths with showers, and colored walls. Six of these homes have already been sold.

MANY STATES PASS INCOME TAX LAWS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, April 18.—New income tax laws or amendments to existing income tax laws are progressing favorably in 14 states, reports the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

The association pointed out a few weeks ago that many legislatures would consider new sources of revenues and said that this was a hopeful sign, for owners of real property who would be relieved of some of the tax burden if proposed income tax laws were enacted.

Three states have enacted new income tax laws. New income tax laws or amendments favorable to realty have been passed by both the House and Senate in six other states and by the House in four states. Income tax laws and amendments have been defeated in five states, rejected by the Senate in two states and withdrawn in one state.

The Governor of Oklahoma has signed a new income tax law and the Georgia Legislature has passed one. Both had income tax laws before. Idaho and Vermont have income tax laws for the first time; income tax laws have been passed in Iowa, Utah and Indiana for the first time, though in Indiana the law is questioned because it was passed after the final hour of the sessions. Amendments to existing income tax laws have been passed in North Dakota and Missouri.

West Virginia and South Dakota, states that have never had income taxes before, have passed such laws through the House, but the West Virginia Senate has rejected the bill. Amendments to the income tax law have been passed by the House in Wisconsin.

The Arizona Senate has passed an income tax law, and a graduated income tax has been passed by the House in Colorado. Income tax laws or amendments have been defeated or withdrawn in Arkansas, Massachusetts, Maine, Montana, North Dakota, New Hampshire, and were vetoed by the Governor in Washington.

THREE-FOURTHS OF LOTS ARE SOLD IN TESLA PLACE

James C. Morfit Real Estate Agency reports the sale of about three-fourths of the lots in Tesla Place. Eleven homes have been built and plans for two more are being made.

REAL ESTATE DEALERS GOING TO BAGNELL DAM

Exchange Members Invited by Union Electric to Make Trip Wednesday.

Members of the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange have been invited by the Union Electric Light and Power Co. to inpect the new Bagnell Dam, in Central Missouri, Wednesday. A special Missouri Pacific train will leave Union Station at 8 a. m., stopping at the Tower Grove, Maplewood, Webster Groves and Kirkwood stations and reaching Bagnell Dam at 1 p. m.

The visitors will spend the afternoon at the damm and will leave on the special train at 5:30 p. m., reaching St. Louis about 10:30 p. m. The real estate men will pay their railroad fare, at a reduced rate of $5.50 each, and will be the guests of the Union Electric at a luncheon at Bagnell and refreshments on the train. Edward M. Thornhill, chairman of the Entertainment Committee of the exchange, is in charge of reservations, which are limited to 200.

FARM MORTGAGE LOANS GAIN IN FIRST QUARTER OF 1931

The Franciscus Realty Co. reports that in the first three months of this year mortgage loans amounting to $37,163,187 were made by the Prudential Insurance Co. of America for which it is loan correspondent.

Of the loans 3628 were on individual dwellings, 204 on apartments, 71 on mercantile structures, three on public institutions and 1715 on farm properties, a total of 5621.

While the total of loans in the first quarter this year was less than in a similar period in 1930, farm loans showed an increase. They totaled $7,838,314, compared with $6,254,079.

WOMEN'S HOTEL FORECLOSURE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 18.—Foreclosure proceedings were instituted today against the Barbizon, apartment and studio hotel for women. Proceedings were for the Chase National Bank, as trustee for the $3,000,000 issue of 6 per cent mortgage bonds on which interest was defaulted Wednesday. Attorneys said the Barbizon had been unable to pay its taxes.

The 22-story hotel, which is at Sixty-third street and Lexington avenue, is the headquarters of the National Junior League, and contains the Wellesley College Club, the Cornell Women's Club, Barnard College Club and the Mount Holyoke College Club. The Barbizon bonds were sold in 1927 by Greenbaum Sons Investment Co. of Chicago and Ames Emerick & Co. These banking houses are forming a bondholders' protective committee.

BOOK SAYS REAL ESTATE IS WORTH WHAT IT WILL EARN

In the present real estate market throughout America, devoid almost entirely of speculative interest, what is property worth?

A complete and decisive answer to this puzzling question is given in "McMichael's Appraising Manual," just off the press. The answer is, briefly, that real estate of an investment character "is worth what it will earn."

This book is the first volume accurately yet concisely to explain the valuation of real estate on a basis of income analysis. In former days the value of an investment property was determined, usually, by ascertaining the value of the ground and adding to it the reproduction cost of building, less depreciation. This cut-and-dried method entirely disregarded the earning capacity of the property or its potential usefulness in the future to produce revenue. In most instances the value arrived at permitted the property to earn an investment return which today will not attract investors. The appraising Manual carefully explains the processes for fixing value on an earning basis and for the first time reveals to appraisers and realtors the way to proceed according to the standards of practice of the appraisal division of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

"McMichael's Appraising Manual" is published by Prentice-Hall, Inc., 70 Fifth avenue, New York, and sells at $5.

BAGNELL DAM LANDS

ACREAGE TRACTS IN THE AREA OF

THE LAKE OF THE OZARKS

BEING OFFERED ON THE BASIS OF CURRENT VALUE.

The receiver of the Kansas City Land Bank is offering NOW acreage tracts in the area of the Lake of the Ozarks (formed by Bagnell Dam). These lands provide an unusual opportunity for investment. Inasmuch as they can be bought NOW on the basis of current values, and inasmuch as this is probably the first public offering of land of considerable acreage in the area of what will become one of the greatest inland lakes in America, the investment possibilities are obvious.

Think of it! We are offering choice sites overlooking this enormous lake, which will wind its way up a beautiful Ozark valley for more than one hundred miles, at prices which are little, if any, greater than the actual value of the land itself.

Predictions are being made freely that, due to our inland lack of water recreation advantages, the Lake of the Ozarks will supply the one great need for completely happy living conditions in the Southwest. Surrounded, as it will be, by the magnificent hills of the Ozarks, the area about it certainly will develop rapidly. People who have been accustomed to find their summer rest and recreation in remote regions will be able to obtain every summer advantage among cool, picturesque surroundings, convenient and accessible.

The scenicly magnificent Niangua River flowing into the lake, the impressive beauty of the Ozarks, with the best highway facilities, the lure for the fisherman and the hunter, the attractions for the seeker of rest and recreation, the advantages for boating and bathing, the cool refreshing breezes sweeping from the lake to the hilltops—surely the area surrounding this great lake will rapidly enhance in value for it will form one of the foremost playgrounds of America.

The receiver of the Kansas City Joint Land Bank is able to offer acreage tracts in this area at remarkably low prices. The lands include large tracts suitable for resort development—particularly choice sites that are now MOST attractive because they are available in their undeveloped state at actual present values, a recent appraisal having been made.

No tracts will be sold comprising less than 15 acres, and the average include considerably more acreage. Among these you will find marvelously picturesque sites for your long-planned summer castle, or for a group of homes where a few of your friends can build an ideal colony for summer rest and recreation. Why not plan a motor trip immediately to this wonderful Ozark area. See the lake development yourself and visualize the possibilities of development. We will provide you a map of our holdings on which the different tracts will be plainly located. Be one of the first to select your location in this NEW PLAYGROUNDS OF AMERICA. Write us today for your map. Sales representative at the Martin Hotel, Versailles, Mo.

STOCK MARKET FOR FOURTH SUCCESSIVE WEEK IS OFF

General Level of Prices Is Now in the Area in Which the First of the Year Found Them — Several Factors Are Mentioned.

AUBURN AUTO IN 41-POINT PLUNGE

Market Refuses to Be Seriously Upset by the Wild Career of This Motor Issue—U. S. Steel as Low as 130 During Session.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 18.—The stock market has been in reverse for the fourth successive week, and Wall street has pretty thoroughly recovered from the speculative fever which appeared in February and carried well into March.

Share prices rallied on Monday, then went into a four-day decline, only to tilt upward again on Saturday, as bears covered their sport commitments and took their profits. The price index of 90 representative issues shows a decline for the week of 4½ points.

The general level of prices is now in the area in which the first of the year found them. The price index of 90 issues is 11½ points above the bottom of the bear market reached in December, but the index of 20 rails is hovering around the December bottom, and several individual issues have dropped well below, including U. S. Steel common, which has sold at the lowest level since 1927.

Shrinkage in Dividends.

The continued shrinkage of dividend payments, and fresh heaviness of commodity prices, particularly in metals, together with the seasonal slackening of industrial output which normally sets in during April and continues to midsummer, have combined as depressing influences in the stock market.

Continued Government withdrawals of funds on deposit with banks has tended to tighten the money market a little, but only once during the week, late Thursday, did call money rise from 1½ to 2 per cent.

The stock market is evidently trying rather confusedly to adjust itself to the lower level of corporate profits, which in turn is resulting in considerable whittling down of dividend payments. Early estimates of first quarter profits indicate little if any improvement over the last quarter of last year, and the current trend promises no improvement in the second quarter.

In times like these, however, temperamental Wall street is apt to go to extremes of pessimism. Rumors of a few weeks ago that Pennsylvania Railroad might reduce its payments proved baseless.

Auburn Plunges 41 Points.

The stock market refused to be seriously upset by the wild career of Auburn Auto today and ended a dispirited week with a ripple of short covering.

Pivotal shares, although heavy during the first hour and a half, paid comparatively little attention to Auburn's 41 point plunge, limiting their losses to fractions in most instances. Bears, perhaps because they heard nebulous rumors of an attempted short squeeze next week, but more likely because they decided the market was getting [illegible] accepted profits in the [illegible] trading and gave a strong tone to the final dealings. Sales approximated 1,200,000 shares, just double last Saturday's turnover.

U. S. Steel advanced in the first few minutes, but then was struck by [illegible] selling orders which put it [illegible] to the new bear market low [illegible] off half a point. Late recovery by the industrial leader was [illegible] and it closed at 132¾, up [illegible] net; American Can, General Electric, Westinghouse, General Motors and American Telephone, where extreme declines had not been alarming, finished with gains ranging from a fraction to more than a point. Case recovered most of a three point drop. International Telephone, firm all day, closed 1½ up, which was about the extent of the advance in other utility favorites.

Auburn's break carried it to 195, a hundred points below the Tuesday high. It rebounded to 208 and sagged again to close at 203, where it was 33 points lower. Industrial Rayon cut in two an extreme loss of more than 16 and Ingersoll Rand reduced a drop of seven points. McKeesport was persistently heavy; so were some of the rails, notably Southern railway preferred and Illinois Central.

LOCAL STOCK CHANGES FOR WEEK SMALL

National Candy, International Shoe and Wagner Electric Show Recessions—McQuay-Norris Higher

Trading on the St. Louis Stock Exchange the last week was about on par with that of previous week as far as activity, with about an equal number of issues showing gains, losses and unchanged price levels. Changes were mainly fractional. There was a fair turnover yesterday for a week end session with National Candy and Missouri Portland slightly off.

On the lower side of the market for the week were National Candy, International Shoe, Wagner Electric and Hydraulic Brick preferred among others.

McQuay-Norris, Rice-Stix, Landis Machine and Ely-Walker were better for the period.

CONTINUED STEADINESS IS SHOWN BY COTTON

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 18.—Cotton showed continued steadiness today on a renewal of trade buying and covering which may have been coupled with a little commission house demand. No special feature in the week-end news was mentioned in connection with the advance, but the recent steadiness of the market was supposed to have unsettled the confidence of sellers, and led to considerable covering or rebuying. July contracts sold up to 10.56c, or 13 points net higher, and closed at 10.55 with the general market closing very steady at net advances of 11 to 14 points. Spot steady; middling, 10.30c.

The opening was steady, unchanged to 4 points higher on overnight buying orders. There may have been a little selling on the relatively easy showing of Liverpool, but it was readily absorbed and the market advanced on a moderate demand which was supposed to include some trade and commission house buying as well as covering. May contracts sold up to 10.30c and October to 10.90c, with active months generally showing net gains of 12 to 15 points, and closing quotations were within a point or two of the best. May liquidation was said to have been somewhat less active than recently and the offerings for that month were readily absorbed against sales of later deliveries without much change in the differences.

Th opinion was expressed in one quarter here that the advance toward the end of this week was due largely to the appearance of trade buying on the declines and reports of small spot offerings with a steady basis in the South. The steadiness of the futures market in the face of recent declines in securities is also supposed to have made some impression on sentiment and there has probably been some buying for a rally as well as covering by shorts.

Liverpool cable reported continental liquidation absorbed by trade calling in that market. Egyptian futures in Alexandria were unchanged to 8 points higher. The amount of cotton on shipboard at United States ports at the end of the week was estimated at 58,000 bales, against 107,000 last year.

STOCK MARKET FOR FOURTH SUCCESSIVE WEEK IS OFF

Carriers as a whole, however, showed moderate net advances, led by New York Central which gained two points.

Commission houses pointed out that the pickup in activity during Friday's late selling suggested the approach of the long-awaited technical climax to four weeks of declining prices and that the resultant rally, although it might be only temporary in view of uninspiring business conditions, could easily be rather impressive. The short interest has increased substantially in the last month and much of it is said to be of the amateur variety which quickly scrambles out when pressed.

Week-end news from copper was unfavorable. Not only did a custom smelter offer the metal at 9½ cents a pound, the old low, but March output was up.

Steel mill activity next week in the Youngstown district is expected to be off about one point to 40 per cent of capacity, although two will be about unchanged, according to available estimate.

Bonds were steady and dull, Australians providing the weakest section. Grains firmed, wheat closing unchanged to 1⅝ higher. Large European export sales and bullish weather influenced the tone. Corn was aided by light country offerings and firm cables, showing a maximum net advance of half a cent. Cotton profited by week-end covering and closed 11 to 14 points up.

Spanish and Argentine exchanges continued their recovery. Others were narrowly irregular, with nominal dips in sterling and the French franc.

New York Sugar.

NEW YORK, April 18.—Raw sugar was quiet today and, in absence of business, prices were unchanged, with duty frees offered at 3.28c, but no buying interest above 3.25c.

Futures were quiet, with trading mostly in the way of evening-up for over the week-end adjournment. Prices moved within narrow limits and after opening unchanged to 1 point higher on covering and a little commission house buying, that appeared to be promoted by the steadiness of London, the market reacted under liquidation and a little selling by houses with Cuban connections. Final prices were unchanged to 1 point lower on active positions, with sales of only 4800 tons. May closed 1.24c; July, 1.32c; Sept., 1.40c; Dec., 1.48c; Jan., 1.50c; March, 1.56c.

There was no change in refined, with refiners listing at 4.50c, while second hands are available at from 4.42½c to 4.45c. Withdrawals on old contracts were of fair proportions, but there was little new business, even in second hand quarters.

Sugar futures closed steady; approximated sales, 4800 tons: May, 1.24; July, 1.32; September, 1.40; December, 1.48; January, 1.50; March, 1.56.

WEEKLY METAL REVIEW

NEW YORK, April 18.—Improved foreign buying of copper was not sustained on the basis of 10 cents for electrolytic delivered in the Connecticut Valley and when this demand failed to absorb smelter output, metal again appeared at concessions late in the week. Domestic consumers continued to restrict purchases, with the easier trend in securities markets making buyers cautious, although it was reported that copper was sold at 9½ cents, the low price at which metal was previously available this year. Larger producers, however, held firm at 10 cents.

Partial rallies in tin occurred at the close of the week when consumers reentered the market at levels 2½ cents below the peak of March. Recent declines reflected report heard that curtailment under the international agreement still left production above restricted consumption, but cable advices indicated that efforts would be made to rectify this.

Lead remained dull and unchanged. Buying is restricted to carload lots for prompt shipment. Unfavorable features in March statistics were said to have been discounted.

Declines in zinc to new lows under selling pressure promoted by low ore prices failed to broaden demand materially.

OREIGN BONDS FORM MUCH OF DAY'S TRADE

ustralian Issues Are Lower—Market Generally Is Without Significant Change.

y the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 18.—Bonds oved back and forth today and he majority of all issues closed ithout significant changes. With few conspicuous exceptions the arket was such as might be exected in any short session. Sales otaled only $4,454,000 par value, he smallest aggregate for a short ession this year, wtih the exception of Feb. 28 when the turnover as $3,400,000.

Trading in foreign obligations rovided a substantial portion of his total. Australian issues again ere a focus of attention follow g confirmation of the withrawal of credit from the Federal overnment by the Commonwealth ank, which reported that the overnment's overdraft at home nd abroad totaled $250,000,000. he issues of the Commonwealth overnment, City of Brisbane, New outh Wales and Queensland made et losses ranging from fractions o more than two points.

Early uncertainty in Argentine onds disappeared as time adanced and they closed firm. Braılian issues had a further sinking pell, although no bearish news deeloped. Trading in most other oreign bonds was quiet and hanges were narrow.

United States Government loans ere firm but quiet, the total turnver of the group being less than 100,000. No sales of any kind ere reported for some of them.

The tone of domestic corporate onds was generally firm, but tradng in most of them was limited. Armour 5½s rose sharply but the 4½s receded. Baltimore & Ohio irst 5s, Chesapeake & Ohio general 4½s, Inland Steel series A 4½s, and Wabash second 5s made good gains. Southern Pacific 4s of 1950, New York Steam 5s, Pure Oil 5½s of 1937, Missouri-Kansas-Texas first 4s and Goodrich 6s receded.

UTILITIES LEAD A LATE RALLY ON CURB

Confused Mixture of Plus and Minus Signs at Finish of Moderate Trade.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 18.—The curb market continued its decline well into today's week-end session, but rallied in the final transactions under leadership of the utilities.

The result was a confused mixture of plus and minus signs at the finish. Trading was moderately active, the turnover for the two-hour session aggregating 286,000 shares.

American Gas and Electric sold up 2⅝ points, then lost a point of its gain. United Light and Power "A" gained a point, and Electric Bond and Share and American Superpower closed up fractionally. Oils held about steady. Cities Service and Indiana were unchanged at the finish, while Gulf was off one-half, recording another new low.

Several industrials and specialties broke into new low ground. Deere declined nearly three to a new minimum, and other issues off a point or two to new bottom prices for movement were American Laundry Machinery, Columbia Pictures, Gramophone and Johnson Motor. Driver Harris preferred dropped eight points.

Aluminum Co. of America, however, recovered nearly seven points in a few transactions. Parker Rust Proof gained more than three, and Mead Johnson, Lone Star Gas and Pilot Radio sold up a point or two.

In the investment trusts, the Continental Shares preferred issues broke to new low ground for this movement. The "B" shares losing five points.

Dry Goods Market Review.

NEW YORK, April 18.—Cotton goods were quiet today and prices continued easy in print cloth and narrow sheeting markets. Finished goods were moving freely on past orders. Dress goods openings in the woolen and worsted houses begin Monday. Burlaps were firm. Rayon continued to sell freely. Raw silk was unchanged and dull. Silk goods production was being curtailed.

FOREIGN BONDS FORM MUCH OF DAY'S TRADE

Australian Issues Are Lower—Market Generally Is Without Significant Change.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 18.—Bonds moved back and forth today and the majority of all issues closed without significant changes. With a few conspicuous exceptions the market was such as might be expected in any short session. Sales totaled only $4,454,000 par value, the smallest aggregate for a short session this year, with the exception of Feb. 28 when the turnover was $3,400,000.

Trading in foreign obligations provided a substantial portion of this total. Australian issues again were a focus of attention following confirmation of the withdrawal of credit from the Federal Government by the Commonwealth Bank, which reported that the Government's overdraft at home and abroad totaled $250,000,000. The issues of the Commonwealth Government, City of Brisbane, New South Wales and Queensland made net losses ranging from fractions to more than two points.

Early uncertainty in Argentine bonds disappeared as time advanced and they closed firm. Brazilian issues had a further sinking spell, although no bearish news developed. Trading in most other foreign bonds was quiet and changes were narrow.

United States Government loans were firm but quiet, the total turnover of the group being less than $100,000. No sales of any kind were reported for some of them.

The tone of domestic corporate bonds was generally firm, but trading in most of them was limited. Armour 5½s rose sharply but the 4½s receded. Baltimore & Ohio first 5s, Chesapeake & Ohio general 4½s, Inland Steel series A 4½s, and Wabash second 5s made good gains. Southern Pacific 4s of 1950, New York Steam 5s, Pure Oil 5½s of 1937, Missouri-Kansas-Texas first 4s and Goodrich 6s receded.

UTILITIES LEAD A LATE RALLY ON CURB

Confused Mixture of Plus and Minus Signs at Finish of Moderate Trade.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 18. — The curb market continued its decline well into today's week-end session, but rallied in the final transactions under leadership of the utilities.

The result was a confused mixture of plus and minus signs at the finish. Trading was moderately active, the turnover for the two-hour session aggregating 286,000 shares.

American Gas and Electric sold up 2⅝ points, then lost a point of its gain. United Light and Power "A" gained a point, and Electric Bond and Share and American Superpower closed up fractionally. Oils held about steady. Cities Service and Indiana were unchanged at the finish, while Gulf was off one-half, recording another new low.

Several industrials and specialties broke into new low ground. Deere declined nearly three to a new minimum, and other issues off a point or two to new bottom prices for movement were American Laundry Machinery, Columbia Pictures, Gramophone and Johnson Motor. Driver Harris preferred dropped eight points.

Aluminum Co. of America, however, recovered nearly seven points in a few transactions. Parker Rust Proof gained more than three, and Mead Johnson, Lone Star Gas and Pilot Radio sold up a point or two.

In the investment trusts, the Continental Shares preferred issues broke to new low ground for this movement. The "B" shares losing five points.

Dry Goods Market Review.

NEW YORK, April 18.—Cotton goods were quiet today and prices continued easy in print cloth and narrow sheeting markets. Finished goods were moving freely on past orders. Dress goods openings in the woolen and worsted houses begin Monday. Burlaps were firm. Rayon continued to sell freely. Raw silk was unchanged and dull. Silk goods production was being curtailed.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 18.—Bond sales on the New York Stock Exchange today were $4,160,000; compared with $8,826,000 yesterday; $4,700,000 a week ago and holiday a year ago. Total sales from Jan. 1 to date were $845,604,000, compared with $948,456,000 a year ago and $790,246,000 two years ago.

Quotations on all Liberty bonds are in dollars and thirty-seconds of a dollar. That is, for instance, a sale printed 99—24 means $99 and 24 thirty-seconds of a dollar, and not $99.24.

Following is a complete list of bonds traded in on the New York Stock Exchange today, giving sales, highest, lowest and closing prices. In sales, 000 omitted:

Why We Recommend Institutional Notes

(1) "National Headquarters for Institutional Loans"

(2) Time Proved

(3) Prompt Payment

(4) Increasing Security

(5) Condition of Property

(6) Moral Obligation

"NATIONAL HEADQUARTERS ~FOR~ INSTITUTIONAL LOANS"

We have lent more than fifty million dollars secured by first mortgages on more than four hundred churches, hospitals, and other institutional buildings; we have divided these loans into $500 and $1,000 denominations; we have sold these first mortgage notes to thousands of investors; we have been doing this for thirty years;—therefore, out of the real experience gained in earning the slogan, "National Headquarters for Institutional Loans," comes our recommendation of these notes for your investment.

Typical of our offerings in this class are the First Mortgage 5% Real Estate Gold Notes of the Sisters of Charity of the Blessed Virgin Mary. The properties securing this loan are in Chicago, Davenport, Des Moines and Wichita. A descriptive circular will be sent on your request.

WHEAT MARKET SCORES GAIN IN WEEK-END TRADE

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, April 18.—Wheat futures closed higher at the final session of the week under influence of foreign buying of wheat estimated at 2,500,000 bushels, announcement that France is to permit millers to use more foreign wheat and by comment on Northwest moisture situation. Little moisture was indicated for next week. Increased receipts were factor in corn market.

Liverpool wheat closed ⅞d to 1d higher.

Winnipeg closed 1⅜@1⅞c higher.

July wheat opened at 62⅛, September wheat 62c, May corn 60¾c, and September corn 62⅞c.

Local wheat receipts, which were 77,000 bushels, compared with 49,000 last week and 148,400 last year, included 29 cars local and 26 through; corn receipts, which were 116,200 bushels, compared with 78,400 last week and 152,600 last year, included 71 cars local and 12 through; oats receipts, which were 81,400 bushels, compared with 94,600 last week and 184,800 last year, included 29 cars local and eight through. Hay receipts were 20 cars local and 14 through.

In the cash grain market Saturday, soft wheat was steady to 1c lower, with straight grades selling at ½c lower prices, while garlicky grain moved at steady to 1c lower levels. Offerings were light and cleared closely. There was a fair local demand. Light inquiry was also reported by mill order buyers. Sales of No. 1 were on a basis 1c below the Chicago old May figure. Hard wheat was nominally unchanged. There were no milling grades on sale. The demand was generally quiet. No. 1 was nominally 81@81½c and No. 2 80@80½c. Corn was steady to 1c lower. Offerings were liberal. A pretty fair volume was taken by industries and elevators. Oats were steady to ½c lower. There was scattered local and outside demand.

WHEAT GOES ABOVE SEASON'S PREVIOUS TOP LEVELS

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 18.—Despite a handicap from weakness shown at times in stocks, wheat soared today to above the season's previous top price level. Active buying of wheat for Europe, about 2,500,000 bushels from North America including some United States wheat, acted as a stimulus, and so too did announcement that France had enlarged the quota of foreign wheat that millers would be permitted to use. In addition, drouth continued over the spring wheat belt both of this country and Canada, with dust storms in Canada reported.

Wheat closed strong, ⅜ cent off to 1⅞ cents up, corn ⅛c lower to ⅝c higher, oats unchanged to ⅛c advance, and provisions unchanged to 5 cents decline.

Increasing the ardor of speculative buyers of wheat was the fact that the official weather forecast gave little hope of important moisture next week in United States grain territory.

Highest prices of the day were reached in wheat just at the close. At no time were setbacks more than fractional, and the majority of fluctuations were in a range well above yesterday's finish. Deferred deliveries were the strongest, influenced by moisture conditions northwest. Houses with connections southwest were at times sellers of July notwithstanding Hessian fly and cutworm reports from Northern Kansas and Southern Nebraska.

Increasing receipts of corn made feed grains relatively weak. Corn primary arrivals aggregated 1,020,000 bushels, against 475,000 a week ago. Auspicious weather for field work prevailed over the corn belt.

Provisions were easy, affected by downturns in hog values.

An increase to 20 per cent in the amount of imported wheat allowed for mixture with native wheat in France was promptly interpreted as foreshadowing enlarged demand for shipments from North America. The increase of the import quota was 5 per cent, and was generally taken here to mean that French homegrown supplies had been worked down to a point where necessity forced foreign buying. Counting further as a price strengthening influence was a cable from a British trade source that European wheat seeding had been delayed by the cold spring, that stocks on hand were generally small, and that consuming countries were expected to purchase heavily during the next two months.

NEW YORK, April 18.—Magor Car Corporation has received an order for 60 air-dump cars from Amtorg Trading Corporation, commercial organization for Soviet Russia. The American Car & Foundry Co. has received an order for 15 tank cars from General Chemical Co.

The plan of reorganizing Punta Alegre Sugar Co., under which stockholders deposited their shares a year ago, has been abandoned. The company plans to continue operations pending the drafting of a new reorganization program.

The board of managers of the New York Cocoa Exchange have voted to close the exchange for trading purposes Saturday, April 25, to facilitate the moving of the exchange. Trading will begin at the new quarters at 92 Beaver street, Monday, April 27.

No little interest will be centered over the next week in the meetings of the steel corporation which are scheduled to take place in that interval. Monday stockholders will gather in Hoboken, N. J., for the annual meeting. Some time later in the week the finance committee will hold its meeting for discussion of the quarterly earning statement and to decide on the matter of dividends, and a week from next Tuesday, directors will meet after the close of the market to make public the March quarter results and to declare dividends.

Daily average crude oil production in California in March was 527,898 barrels, compared with 533,248 barrels for February, the American Petroleum Institute reports. Stock figures, covering all products held by the principal marketing companies at all points in the Pacific Coast territory, including British Columbia, Alaska and Hawaii, at the end of March totaled 177,611,522 barrels, a decrease of 1,328,316 barrels during the month.

BUSINESS NOTES

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 18.—Despite the belief that current economic conditions have made for lower asking figures on stores which are available for merger purposes, the president of one leading group of department stores said he had not found this the case. "For some time," he said, "our financial position has been such as to warrant the purchase of additional stores of a type similar to those now in our group. We have not expanded, however, because the prices asked we believed to be too high."

CUSTOM SMELTER REPORTED HAVING SOLD COPPER AT 9 1-2C

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 18.—Trade circles today reported that a sale of copper has been made by a custom smelter at 9½ cents a pound, a concession of a quarter of a cent from the ruling quotation yesterday and equal to the low figure reached in the price slump last fall.

Other custom smelters were said to be open to bids at 9½ cents a pound. Producers continued to hold their metal at 10 cents, delivered, and the export price remained at 10.30 cents.

Meanwhile, the American Bureau of Metal Statistics reported an increase in production for March, a development interpreted in the trade as bearish. World output last month was placed at 136,655 tons, against 128,685 tons in February and 129,390 tons in January.

Production in the United States last month likewise showed an increase, totaling 57,922 tons, against 55,229 tons in February and 53,429 tons in January.

GEN. PERSHING PLEADS FOR SUPPORT OF CHRISTIANITY

Calls on Fellow Churchmen to Join Him in Fighting Attacks on Religion.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Gen. Pershing believes Christianity is on the defensive and he has called on fellow churchmen to join him in withstanding the onslaughts. His views were expressed today in a quarterly magazine published by the Washington Cathedral Association.

"The strength of the obligation of citizenship is dependent on the teaching of Christianity," Pershing said. "That is the bulwark of our whole Governmental structure." Drawing on his World War experience, the General told of seeing on the walls of the Verdun citadel Petain's famous phrase. "They shall not pass."

"Christianity is on the defensive," he said. "I fear that we are unprepared at present to withstand the onslaughts that are being made against us. We must unite in our efforts to strengthen our lines without delay. The attacks are increasingly dangerous and we must unite in our efforts and we polish up our armor and defend ourselves with all our might. If we stand firm, it is certain that 'they shall not pass.'

"When their attacks are repulsed, it will be our turn to assume the offensive and carry the teachings of Christianity into the enemy's territory."

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR BOLTS SHERWOOD EDDY MEETING

Sends Out Letter Explaining It Does Not Want to Become Mixed in Socialism.

The Executive Committee of the St. Louis Christian Endeavor Union has sent a letter to more than 100 societies of the organization and 50 pastors explaining its reason for not participating in an Inter-Church young peoples' meeting which will be addressed by Sherwood Eddy at Second Baptist Church, Kingshighway and Washington boulevard, at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

The committee bases its objection on the belief that he is unwilling to accept the tenets of the Christian faith; and that "we do not believe it is our duty to become mixed in a political enterprise—Socialism—such as that in which Eddy is now engaged."

Eddy's topic will be "Can We Still Believe in Religion?" He will speak at the convocation at Washington University tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock on "The Present World Situation" and at a dinner that night for faculty members and West End ministers on "Present Day Problems As They Relate to the University."

His other speaking engagements include an address at the University convocation Tuesday morning on "Relations of Men and Women In the World Today" and a talk on "The Challenge of Russia" at an open forum at the law school at 4 p. m. At night, he will speak at United Hebrew Temple on "Danger Zones of The World."

C. P. WHITEHEAD AGAIN SUED FOR BREACH OF PROMISE

Millionaire Sportsman Named in $100,000 Action Filed by New York Woman.

By the Associated Press.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., April 18.—C. P. (Conkey) Whitehead, New York and Atlanta millionaire sportsman, was served with summons late today in a $100,000 breach of promise suit brought by Miss Selina R. Miller of New York.

No declaration has been filed in the suit, but E. B. Donnell, Miss Miller's attorney, said his client told him she met Whitehead in Florida two winters ago and had been in his company much during the last season at Miami, Key West and Havana, being at first under the impression that he was unmarried.

In January, 1930, a $250,000 damage suit was filed here against the yachtsman by Frances Porter, Atlanta and New York dancer. Attempts to reach Whitehead at that time serve a summons were futile. News dispatches said, however, the Porter suit had been sttled out of court last June.

Whitehead was divorced by Mrs. Julia Murphy Whitehead in Atlanta. Later he married Marion Dean Hughes of New York, daughter of Walker A. Hughes, broker and sportsman.

CALLS MIDWEST GOVERNORS TO CONFER IN KANSAS MAY 19

Gov. Woodring Seeks "Parity of Federal Legislation" With the East.

By the Associated Press.

TOPEKA, Kans., April 18.—Gov. Woodring today called a conference of governors of nine states in the mid-continent area to be held May 19 in Wichita to consider his proposal to establish an economic compact designed to obtain parity with other sections in national legislation.

He sent invitations to the governors of Colorado, Missouri, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Nebraska, Wyoming, Texas and New Mexico.

"It cannot be denied that the benefits of federal laws since the World War have accrued to the east through the political subsidizing of industry, and that this sectional legislation has been detrimental to the agricultural west and south," Gov. Woodring says in his letter of invitation. "This sectionalism is resulting in a serious crisis in our great basic industries —agriculture and oil."

Gov. Woodring pointed out the proposed Wichita conference would precede the annual conference of governors to be held at French Lick Springs, Ind., in June.

THREE OF 5 TRIED FOR FELONIES CONVICTED

35 Years for Beating Woman to Death Heaviest Criminal Penalty of Week.

Five persons were tried on felony charges in the criminal divisions of Circuit Court last week, three of whom were convicted and two acquitted.

Harry Filcher, 36-year-old shoeworker, was convicted of murder in the second degree for the killing of Mrs. Osia Gott, 49, of 1416A Cass avenue, whom he beat fatally last Dec. 2, and was sentenced to 35 years in the penitentiary. Others convicted were John Ball, for stealing an automobile, and Henry Morgan, a Negro, for disposing of mortgaged chattels. Ball received a sentence of five years in the penitentiary and Morgan six months in the workhouse.

Those acquitted by juries were John M. Matthews, a maintenance man, formerly of 3731 Lee avenue, who was charged with bigamy, and William Olden, who was charged with grand larceny. Matthews was acquitted by instructed verdict of the Court, when the State was unable to show he had ever lived with his second wife in Missouri, a necessary element to gain conviction for bigamy in this State. After his acquittal he was taken into custody for Illinois authorities. Matthews, through counsel, had admitted two marriages, the first to Mrs. Harriet Matthews of 3731 Lee avenue in 1920, and the second to Mrs. Myrtle Donjon Matthews of 3170 Hampton avenue last Jan. 2, in Evansville, Ill.

Charles Kelly, 21, received three concurrent penitentiary sentences of 15 years each for robbery. Kelly admitted he robbed 75 persons since he lost his position as ironworker last November. Charles Murrell, 21, was sentenced to 10 years in Boonville for his part in robbing two filling stations. Others sentenced for robbery are: Clifford Walker, five years in penitentiary; Edward Wright, two years in Boonville; Delmas Mulcahy, three years in Boonville, and Delbert Razor, three years in Boonville.

Persons receiving penitentiary or reformatory terms on their pleas of guilty were: Harry Drennen, larceny from a dwelling house, two years in Boonville; John Howard, carrying a concealed weapon, two years in penitentiary; Otto McCauley, burglary, two years in Boonville; William Stender, burglary and larceny, five years in penitentiary; Robert Pierce, rape, five years in penitentiary, and William Archie, larceny of motor vehicle, two years in penitentiary.

Those charged with felonies who entered pleas of guilty to crimes of lesser degree and who got less than penitentiary punishment were: Harry Burrell, manslaughter, $100 and costs; Raymond Newman, carrying a concealed weapon, 80 days in jail; Myrtle Fullbright, contributing to delinquency of minor, six months in the workhouse; Ralph Pearson, larceny of a motor vehicle, one year in the workhouse; Edward Williams, malicious destruction of property, one year; Stephen Barnes, carrying a concealed weapon, 50 days in jail; William Killoughy, driving motor vehicle when intoxicated, $100 and costs; Sylvester Adams, carrying a concealed weapon, 50 days; Elsie Johnson, larceny from the person, six months workhouse; Tribble McGregor, larceny of motor vehicle, three months workhouse; John H. Whitfield, larceny of motor vehicle, six months; Theodore Stankiewicz, assault to kill without malice, three months, and George Higgins, driving motor vehicle when intoxicated, 30 days.

Charges of robbery against David Landrignam and Harry Parmeless and charges of burglary against Edward Scheibke and Arthur Cozart were dismissed because the evidence was insufficient.

F. F. SHEDD AGAIN HEADS AMERICAN EDITORS' SOCIETY

W. J. Donovan Urges Press to Develop Government News; "Not for Publication" Banquet.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Fred Fuller Shedd of the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin today was re-elected president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors. All other officers also were re-elected except Marvin H. Creager of the Milwaukee Journal, the secretary for the last five years, who declined another term. He was succeeded by A. H. Kirchhofer of the Buffalo Evening News.

Roy A. Roberts of the Kansas City Star, Creager, Shedd and Willis J. Abbot of the Boston Christian Science Monitor were named members of the board of directors.

The annual convention closed tonight with a "not for publication" banquet. Nothing was written concerning the addresses which were made by Arthur Woods, director of the President's emergency committee for employment; Dr. Julius Klein, Assistant Secretary of Commerce; Senator Bulow of South Dakota and Senator Hastings of Delaware.

Previously William J. Donovan, a former Assistant Attorney-General, had told the editors it was the duty of the press to keep the people informed of what the Government was doing and not only report the news but to interpret it.

Robert R. McCormick, editor of the Chicago Tribune, in a speech said the modern newspaper to keep pace with progress must overcome growing competition from radio, billboards and television to avoid possible failure.

BOY SCOUTS SEE HOW ARMY FIGHTS IN AIR

Several Thousand Visit Scott Field and Get Sample of Soldiers' Chow.

Several thousand Boy Scouts from St. Louis and adjacent Illinois cities were the guests yesterday of Lieutenant-Colonel John A. Paegelow and officers of Scott Field.

Eighteen hundred St. Louis Scouts left Union Station at 9 a. m. on two special trains, joining their Illinois comrades at the flying field. The boys were divided into groups and escorted by soldiers through the immense dirigible hangar, the helium gas refinery, meteorological department and other places of interest.

After a luncheon of army chow the boys were treated to a combination dirigible and airplane exhibition. Starting at 1 o'clock with a formation of observation planes, the show continued through two hours of sham attacks on other aircraft and on ground troops, bombing, parachute jumps, a stunting exhibition by Lieut. James Doolittle, Reserve, and a demonstration of the transfer of mail pouches from a plane to a dirigible.

The boys showed an unusual knowledge of aircraft, gained from experience in building model ships, and surprised their hosts with their store of aeronautical lore. The boys started for home at 3:30 p. m. after giving three Scout cheers for Col. Paegelow and his men.

JUDGE TO DECIDE CLAIM OF LILLIAN RUSSELL'S DAUGHTER

Declares Her Demand for Half of A. P. Moore Estate Is "Cold Matter of Law."

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURG, Pa., April 18.—The validity of an agreement Alexander P. Moore, former Ambassador to Spain is alleged to have made with his wife, the late Lillian Russell, actress, was the only matter to be decided in the contest of Moore's will, Orphans' Court Judge Thomas P. Trimble said today.

Judge Trimble heard the last of the testimony to be offered concerning the claim of Miss Russell's daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Russell Calvit to half of Moore's estate, and tonight the decision as to the validity of the claim rested with him.

"I intend to pass upon this as a cold matter of law," Judge Trimble told counsel for Mrs. Calvit. "If you have an enforceable contract you will win. If you have not, you will lose."

Mrs. Calvit's claim is based on an oral promise she alleges Moore made to her mother before their marriage in 1917. Bessie Clayton a retired actress of New York, testified that she knew of the prenuptial agreement. When Attorney John O. Wicks, representing the Moore estate, questioned the veracity of the witness, Judge Trimble said: "I said I believed her story and I say now that I still believe it. Whether it is sufficient to support a valid contract, I am not now prepared to say."

CHRISTIAN-CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH MERGER, JUNE 25

Two Organizations With 1,052,924 Members to Unite Formally at Seattle, Wash.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 18. — The Congregational and Christian denominations will be merged, June 25, at Seattle, Wash., a joint announcement of the Rev. Dr. Charles E. Burton, general secretary of the National Council of Congregational Churches, and the Rev. Dr. Warren H. Denison, executive secretary of the General Convention of Christian Churches, disclosed today.

A united convention of the two church bodies will open on that date and a constitution will be offered for adoption. Following its ratification officers will be elected. The merger was approved by separate conventions in 1929 and a provisional committee has been functioning since that time.

The united membership is 1,052,924 and the churches number 6670. Churches in every state will be included in the merger, which is the largest in religious history, the announcement says.

Three thousand delegates are expected to attend the convention.

ENGINEER STRICKEN IN CAB

CLEVELAND, O., April 18.—The Lake Shore Limited, New York Central train, arrived today from New York, with the engineer dying in its cab, and with James Burns, the fireman, at the throttle. J. C. De Foe, 65 years old, the engineer, died in an ambulance shortly after the train arrived.

Burns said De Foe slumped in his seat while the train was speeding through Willoughby. Burns lifted De Foe into the fireman's seat and then took command of the cab. Coroner A. J. Pearse said De Foe died of a cerebral hemorrhage. De Foe and Burns began the run in Buffalo, N. Y., where they made their homes. De Foe was a veteran of 36 years' service.

"Back to Nature" Bathing Legal.

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., April 18.—Chief of Police George Sloan said today he would ask the City Council next week to write an entirely new ordinance covering beach bathing rules, in an effort to halt a back-to-nature move. Chief Sloan explained women bathers were taking advantage of an 1881 ordinance provision permitting nude bathing between 8 p. m. and 6 a. m.

BOY SCOUTS SEE HOW ARMY FIGHTS IN AIR

Several thousand Boy Scouts from St. Louis and adjacent Illinois cities were the guests yesterday of Lieutenant-Colonel John A. Paegelow and officers of Scott Field.

Eighteen hundred St. Louis Scouts left Union Station at 9 a. m. on two special trains, joining their Illinois comrades at the flying field. The boys were divided into groups and escorted by soldiers through the immense dirigible hangar, the helium gas refinery, meteorological department and other places of interest.

After a luncheon of army chow the boys were treated to a combination dirigible and airplane exhibition. Starting at 1 o'clock with a formation of observation planes, the show continued through two hours of sham attacks on other aircraft and on ground troops, bombing, parachute jumps, a stunting exhibition by Lieut. James Doolittle, Reserve, and a demonstration of the transfer of mail pouches from a plane to a dirigible.

The boys showed an unusual knowledge of aircraft, gained from experience in building model ships, and surprised their hosts with their store of aeronautical lore. The boys started for home at 3:30 p. m. after giving three Scout cheers for Col. Paegelow and his men.

JUDGE TO DECIDE CLAIM OF LILLIAN RUSSELL'S DAUGHTER

Declares Her Demand for Half of A. P. Moore Estate Is "Cold Matter of Law."

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURG, Pa., April 18.—The validity of an agreement Alexander P. Moore, former Ambassador to Spain is alleged to have made with his wife, the late Lillian Russell, actress, was the only matter to be decided in the contest of Moore's will, Orphans' Court Judge Thomas P. Trimble said today.

Judge Trimble heard the last of the testimony to be offered concerning the claim of Miss Russell's daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Russell Calvit to half of Moore's estate, and tonight the decision as to the validity of the claim rested with him.

"I intend to pass upon this as a cold matter of law," Judge Trimble told counsel for Mrs. Calvit. "If you have an enforceable contract you will win. If you have not, you will lose."

Mrs. Calvit's claim is based on an oral promise she alleges Moore made to her mother before their marriage in 1917. Bessie Olayton, retired actress of New York, testified that she knew of the prenuptial agreement. When Attorney John O. Wicks, representing the Moore estate, questioned the verity of the witness, Judge Trimble said: "I said I believed her story and I say now that I still believe it. Whether it is sufficient to support a valid contract, I am not now prepared to say."

IN MEMORIAM

CAIN—In loving memory of my dear husband, John T. Cain, who passed away two years ago, April 20, 1929.
More and more each day we miss him
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But little they know the sorrow lies
Within our hearts concealed.
Sadly missed by
MRS. VIVIAN E. CAIN AND FAMILY.

DUNBECK—In loving remembrance of my dear husband, Bert Dunbeck, who passed away one year ago.
Sadly missed by his WIFE AND CHILDREN. (c)

FAHL—In loving memory of our dear mother, Anna Fahl, passed away April 21, 1930.
There is a sad but sweet remembrance,
There is a memory fond and true,
There is a token of affection, mother,
And a heartache still for you.
Sadly missed by CHILDREN.

HAILE—In memory of my dear father, Herbert G. Haile, who passed away April 16, 1930:
There is a sad but sweet remembrance,
There is a memory fond and true;
There is a token of affection, Father dear,
And a heartache still for you.
Sadly missed by his daughter
MRS. MARGUERITE JUENGLING.

HAILE—Herbert G., entered into rest April 16, 1930.
One year has passed since that sad day,
The one we loved was called away,
God took him home, it was His will.

HASSELBUSCH—In loving memory of Herman Hasselbusch, who died April 9, 1929. Sadly missed by WIFE AND CHILDREN.

HOELSCHER—In memory of our darling mother, Laura Hoelscher, who God called April 17, 1928, and our dear father, August Hoelscher Sr., who passed away April 19, 1921.
Sadly missed by
THEIR CHILDREN.

EIFFERT—In memory of red Eiffert Sr., our dear husband and father, who departed this life April 20, 1926.
Deep in our hearts you are fondly remembered;
Sweet, happy memories cling 'round your name;
True hearts that loved you with deepest affection,
Always will love you in death just the same.
Sadly missed by
WIFE, CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN.

KRUEGER—In memory of Mrs. Jessie Eva Krueger (nee Huber), who passed away April 22, 1930.
What would we give, her hand to clasp,
Her patient face to see;
To hear her voice, to see her smile,
As in the days that used to be.
But some sweet day we'll meet again,
Beyond the toil and strife,
And clasp each other's hand once again,
In heaven, that happy life.
Sadly missed by her
HUSBAND, SISTERS, BROTHERS, NIECE AND OTHERS WHO LOVED HER.

LESSER—In loving memory of our dear brother, Arthur Lesser, who departed this life April 20, 1930:
Nothing can ever take away
The love a heart holds dear,
Fond memories linger every day
Remembrance keeps him near.
Sadly missed by
SISTER, BROTHERS AND ALL WHO LOVED HIM. (c)

MATUSCHEK—In loving memory of my dear husband and father, Frank Matuschek, who passed away five years ago, April 21.
Sadly missed by his wife,
ALMA MATUSCHEK AND HIS SON AND DAUGHTER.

PLACKE—In loving memory of my dear daughter, Louisa Placke, who departed this life April 24, 1927.
Absent, but not forgotten.
Sadly missed by her
Mother, Mary Rupp; her daughter and son and brothers, and all who loved her.

ROHS—In loving memory of our dear daughter, mother and sister, Mary E. Rohs (nee Rogers), who departed this life two years ago, April 19, 1929.
The month of April again is here,
To us the saddest of the year,
Because it took from us away
A dear one, just two years ago today.
We miss her coming footsteps;
We miss her everywhere;
Home is not what it used to be,
Since Mary is not there.
Sadly missed by MOTHER, FATHER, SON, SISTERS AND BROTHERS. (c)

SAUERWEIN—In loving memory of our darling son, Orville Sauerwein, who passed away one year ago, April 20, 1930.
A loved one from us has gone,
A voice we loved is still;
A place is vacant in our home
Which never can be filled.
Sadly missed by PARENTS, and all who loved him.

IN MEMORIAM

SCHERR—In memory of our dear wife, Dessie J. Scherr, who died April 17, 1930.
One year it will be since we laid you to rest,
And placed your cold hands upon your breast;
In silence you suffered, with patience you bore,
Till God called you home to suffer no more.
Your Husband, GEORGE SCHERR.

SCHUMACHER—In loving memory of my dear beloved wife, Caroline Schumacher, who departed this life on Easter Sunday, April 20, 1930.
I have lost my soul's companion,
A life linked with my own;
And day by day I miss her more,
As I walk through life alone.
Sadly missed by
HUSBAND, RELATIVES AND ALL WHO KNEW HER.

SCHWENK—Smilie (nee Luchwesmann) who departed this life eight years ago, April 19, 1923.
Just eight years today we parted
In the way God thought best;
But our love for you still lingers,
And will until we are laid to rest.
Sadly missed by
PARENTS, SISTER AND ALL WHO LOVED HER—

STOP WASTING MONEY!

Why "Clean" Wall Paper When "New" Costs So Little?

Would you waste money cleaning a worn suit of clothes if, for a few cents more, you could get a new suit? Then, for goodness sake, why be satisfied with secondhanded "cleaned" walls, which are never as bright and fresh as new? Webster's Wall Paper is the cheapest and best in town!

WALL PAPER

1 Cent A Roll 3 Cents A Roll 5 Cents A Roll 7 Cents A Roll 10 Cents A Roll

We are the largest dealers in the Middle West! Values worth up to 75c a roll included in these low prices! Sold with borders to match, priced as low as 3c a yard. See Webster's first!

MEN, BOYS

I OFFER YOU
GROCERIES
AT WHOLESALE and a Wonderful Chance to Make $15 A DAY
Besides

Yes, I'll give you Groceries at rock-bottom, wholesale prices and a chance to pocket $15 in a day besides! Just send me your name and I'll give you some money-making, money-saving facts that will amaze you. I'll show you how L. C. Van Allen, of Illinois, quit a $23-a-week job, took hold of my proposition and shortly afterward reported earning $125 in a single week. Gustav Karnath, of Minnesota—farm laborer—made $20.35 the first 5 hours. And Mrs. B. L. Hodges, of New York, says: "Making more money than ever before—from $18 to $20 a day." Of course some people make more than others. But these big earnings of a few of my Representatives prove the wonderful opportunities. And today I offer you a proposition even better than I gave these people.

No Experience Necessary

With Groceries at wholesale and $15 a day in your pocket, you would have cash to pay your bills, to buy new clothes, a radio, house furnishings, or take pleasure trips. You positively don't need any capital. You don't need any experience. You don't have to take any course of training. You can start right in making good money the very first day.

$15 a Day for Pleasant Work

All you do is call on your friends and my established customers in your locality and take care of their orders for my line of Groceries and other Household Necessities. This is very pleasant work. Your own home will be your headquarters. You set your own hours and work as you please. All orders from my customers must go through your hands because I never sell through stores. You alone get all the profits. In addition, I will supply you with Groceries, Toilet Goods and Household Necessities at our lowest, rock-bottom, wholesale prices. Thus you have a wonderful opportunity to save big money as well as to make big money.

Send No Money

If you want to, you can keep your present job and start in spare time. Oscar Stuart, of West Virginia, reports $18 profit in two and one-half hours' spare time. This shows the wonderful possibilities. So get the facts at once. You have everything to gain. It costs nothing to investigate. In addition to giving you Groceries at Wholesale and a chance to clear $10 to $15 in a day, I also offer you a brand-new Ford Tudor Sedan as an extra bonus—in addition to your large cash profits. Here's a chance you can't afford to miss. Mail coupon now for these amazing new facts.

MAIL THIS

Albert Mills, Pres., American Products Co.
7595 Monmouth Ave., Cincinnati, Ohio.

Send me, without cost or obligation, all the facts about your new proposition that offers Groceries at Wholesale and a chance to make $15 in a day besides. Also explain your generous Ford Sedan offer.

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES

Have You $50,000?

A going manufacturing business can use you and your money to great mutual advantage. Personal services welcome but not necessary. Our products are now used by many large corporations. Expansion and distribution of a product for which the market is unlimited makes this your opportunity. We can qualify—do not answer unless you can. Brokers and promoters not considered. Box No. B-59, Post-Dispatch.

AN UNUSUAL BUSINESS OPPORTUNITY

The United States Cast Magnet Steel Corporation, a highly rated corporation, has opening in St. Louis and Illinois and Denver, Texas, Oklahoma or California territory for business man or established company as our exclusive distributor.

We are America's licensee to manufacture under European patents a product (not steel) that is in big demand by all retailers, large and small, railroads, hotels, public buildings, schools, banks, city and state governments.

This product is one of the outstanding successes of the day and will revolutionize an old industry, saving thousands of dollars annually for customers. It is a big seller in Europe, fully covered with patents, no competition, and among our customers are some of the largest institutions in America. The man we select must have background of successful business experience, with ability to manage and with sufficient finance to run his business. For conference write Box A-81, Post-Dispatch.

UNUSUAL opportunity; exclusive franchise agency, selling well established article, direct to public; no competition; handsomely furnished offices and complete sales organization; over $10,000 spent in St. Louis in advertising; this office has enjoyed a steady consistent business for over 2 years, net earnings having been as high as $1700 per month; a high-class dignified proposition that can be handled by one man with executive ability; will bear strict investigation; good reason for selling; price $6000 cash; if you have this amount available write, giving phone number and interview will be arranged. Box N-285, Post-Dis. (c1)

NEGRO WHO ESCAPED 4 YEARS AGO FROM MOB, RE-ARRESTED

Andrew Jones, Caught at Hickman, Ky., Accused of Attacking Women.

By the Associated Press.

HICKMAN, Ky., April 18.—Andrew Jones, alias Newberry, Negro, who escaped from a mob near Dresden, Tenn., four years ago, was taken to jail at Paducah, Ky., tonight for safekeeping, after he had been identified by Mrs. Charles King as the man who attempted to attack her last week.

Sheriff Goalder Johnson said Jones was suspected of attacking a girl in Mississippi County, Missouri, Thursday night. He was arrested by Deputy Joe Walls on a ferry when it arrived here from Charleston, Mo. The girl was brought here today to identify him, but was not certain he was the man.

Chief of Police Colley Warren of Martin, Tenn., identified Jones as the Negro who escaped from a mob between Martin and Dresden four years ago when he was being taken to jail at Dresden. Warren, a Deputy Sheriff at the time, said the men took the Negro from him and other officers and began beating him, but Jones escaped.

Jones admitted tonight he was the one wanted at Martin, Tenn., where he was charged with attacking a school teacher, but denied the crimes in Missouri and Hickman.

225 HORSES DISPOSED OF AT SPRING AUCTION SALE

WOMAN OFFICIAL, DEFEATED, REFUSES TO GIVE UP OFFI

Mrs. Butenhoff, Collector at Ric mond Heights, Lost in Election a Year Ago.

Although the Richmond Heigh Board of Aldermen issued a ce tificate of election last week Miss Agnes Ibbetson as City C lector, her predecessor and poli cal rival, Mrs. Celeste Tripp Bute hoff, has refused to surrender t office. Miss Ibbetson's attorn has not decided what to advise h to do next, following Mrs. Bute hoff's refusal last Friday. A plan make a new and formal dema for the office yesterday was aba doned.

Mrs. Butenhoff and her lawy will not discuss the case, and M Butenhoff will not say why she unwilling to give up the office.

Miss Ibbetson was elected a yea ago to a two-year term by the Pr gressive party of Richmon Heights, but the Citizens' part which supported Mrs. Butenhof controlled the Board of Aldermen In this month's election the Pro gressive party gained control of th board, and caused issuance of Mis Ibbetson's certificate, which t board previously had withheld the ground that her proffered su ety bond was not satisfactory. Al though defeated in the electio Mrs. Butenhoff, who had held th office previously, remained in and has continued to exercise duties.

Verne R. C. Lacy, Miss Ibbet son's attorney, asserted yesterday that there was some question as t whether the law entitled the Col lector to take 4 per cent of collec tions as remuneration in additio to the salary of $1 a year. Unt about a year ago the city paid Mr Butenhoff $100 a month as assis ant city clerk.

SISTER SETTLES WILL CONTES AGAINST W. C. TAYLOR ESTAT

Countess de Noue of Paris Ha Been Left $1000 of Drug Dealer's $477,000.

A settlement in the contest the will of Walter Cerre Taylo president of the Mellier Dru Co., who died July 17, 1929, ha been reached out of court, it wa learned yesterday. The case is on Circuit Judge Hamilton's docke for trial tomorrow, but it was sai that due to the compromise there would be no objection to the wi being formally approved.

Taylor's sister, Countess There de Noue of Paris, France, is plain tiff in the suit. She received $100 under the will, but in her su claimed a one-fourth interest as an heir-at-law in the absence of a will. She alleged that her brother was not of sound mind when he drew the will. The document placed the bulk of his $477,000 estate in trust for the benefit of four nieces. Ultimately the principal shall be turned over to St Louis Children's Hospital, the wi provides.

Counsel in the case would not discuss terms of the settlement. However, it was reported that Countess de Noue will receive a sum amounting to approximately $350 a month from the trust estate during her life. The Franklin-American Trust Co. was named as trustee.

JAPANESE ROYAL PAIR GO SIGHTSEEING IN WASHINGTON

Prince and Princess Visit Capitol, Congressional Library and Lincoln Museum.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—The official program dispensed with, the youthful Prince and Princess Takamatsu of Japan spent today enjoying Washington on a sightseeing tour. The Prince and Princess, accompanied by their staff, visited the capitol, library of Congress and the Lincoln Museum.

They were the first members of the Japanese imperial family to visit the house where Lincoln died. They carefully inspected all manuscripts and relics and listened attentively to the story of Lincoln's death. The afternoon was devoted to a drive through Rock Creek Park, an inspection of the new Japanese Embassy site and a call on Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, who visited Japan last year.

The pair returned to their hotel to dress for a dinner given in their honor by Secretary and Mrs. Adams to meet high officers and officials of the navy. The Prince is the imperial family's representative in the Japanese navy.

POLICEMAN FIRES AT STOLEN AUTO WHEN IT HITS ANOTHER

Ralph Reifschneider, 2215 Howard street, was seated in his parked automobile at Natural Bridge and Glasgow avenues last night talking to Patrolman Walter Meyer when his car was struck from behind by another machine, which was backed off and driven away.

Meyer gave chase in a third car, firing three shots at the fleeing machine before it was lost to view. He obtained the license number and found the car had been stolen 15 minutes earlier. Reifschneider was treated for minor injuries at City Hospital.

U. S. Mine Boat Overdue.

By the Associated Press.

NORFOLK, Va., April 18.—The United States army mine planter Graham, en route from the Canal Zone to Fortress Monroe, is overdue and has not officially reported by wireless since Tuesday noon. When last reported the Graham was off the coast of Florida. On Wednesday an alarm was sounded and the S. S. Virginia reported intercepting a message from the Graham to the army transport Grant at 6 p. m. Wednesday. The Virginia reported there was no indication of trouble on the Graham.

When the Mysterious Lemming Swims Out to Sea

Carveth Wells, Author and Explorer Who Visited the Mountains of the Moon, Gives an Eye-Witness Account of a Strange Migration.

AND THEN," said Carveth Wells, "there are lemmings: You find their bones in the caves of prehistoric man. They live today, but no naturalist has been able to find even one, except during migrations. Then they appear, oh, millions of them, moving slowly to the sea and laying waste to the land they traverse.

"They move through fire and water, down precipices, over almost impassible obstacles until they reach the ocean. Once there, they swim straight out and disappear. And until the next migration, which may be 18 or 20 years later, not a lemming can be found in the land."

The explorer and author, in St. Louis recently for a lecture at an educational institution, leaned back in his chair, recalling the lemming migration he witnessed in Lapland in 1924.

There was a far-away look in his extraordinarily bright blue eyes. Reflectively, a strong, sun-tanned thumb alternately tapped the ball of each finger of his left hand. Considering that since 1924 he has been in many far corners of the world, the facts came readily to mind.

Exploring, hunting, studying and writing books, the last six years of Carveth Wells' life have indeed been full. Probably one of the most important of his trips was to the upper altitudes of the Mountains of the Moon in Africa, a glacier-covered "prehistoric" region where few white men have ventured. On that trip he saw vegetation that exists nowhere else in the world today, yet which grew in America millions of years ago, before man had appeared on this continent.

Tall, clean-shaven, muscular, lean of body, his complexion ruddy, he seemed out of place indoors. He appears to be about 35 years old, but the fact that he was a civil engineer in Malaysia when the World War broke out in 1914 indicates that he must be older.

Though born in England, and a graduate of the University of London, Wells has become an American citizen. His accent, however, is that of the cultured Englishman, modified by the American lecture platform.

"A lemming," he said, "is about the size of a rat. They're not as large as this glass tumbler. They're rodents, short-haired, brown in color, ranging through gray on the flanks to white on the stomach. They appear in the mountains every 18 or 20 years, particularly in Lapland."

He ran a hand through his heavy, wavy black hair, thickly interspersed with gray, he hitched one knee over the other.

"The legend is that they're from Heaven and they're looking for the lost continent of Atlantis. And, in the latter part of the legend, there seems to be some measure of truth.

"PSYCHOLOGISTS maintain that the swimming out to sea is a case of inherited instinct, that they're looking for land that once was there, but has sunk beneath the water.

"Julian Huxley, the biologist, the man who has just collaborated with H. G. Wells and Wells' son on their books, 'The Science of Life,' has checked lemming migrations as far back as there is any record. He advances the theory that there is some connection between the migrations and sun-spots. Every year there has been a lemming migration he has found there has been unusual activity in the sun. And it very well may be that their propagation is affected by certain rays."

Now a cautious listener who has been thumbing the pages of the Encyclopedia Brittanica interrupts: "The encyclopedia, he announces, lists the lemming as a small Scandinavian rodent, Lemmus lemmus, belonging to the mouse tribe. Restless, courageous, pugnacious . . . And it suggests that this line of march is a survival of the old times when there was dry land over the Baltic and North seas."

"Ah, yes," Wells smiled. "In the migration that I saw, they were moving slowly, some miles from the sea. Not in groups, but about 10 feet apart. If they were confined to this room, say, there would be one over on that mat, one on this rug and one beside the fireplace. They would not maintain an even line.

"If it takes two weeks or two years, they advance undeviatingly toward the sea. The length of time varies, of course, depending upon where they start. And they eat, oh, prodigiously. I'll never forget the time I tried to keep a lemming."

"Apparently they're like the duck-billed platypus of Australia," one of his listeners interrupted. "As you know, they eat about half their own weight a day."

"Oh, more," said Wells. "Much more. Five or six times their weight. Most extraordinary. That was the point of trying to keep this one. I put him at first in a leather camera case. In half an hour he was out, and he'd eaten all the velvet lining. Then I put him in a box lined with zinc and piled grass and moss into it until he was covered. In a short time, do you know, he'd eaten every bit of it? At last I released him. Lemmings can't be kept in captivity.

"In Lapland they're a great scourge. The natives build huge fires and thousands of the little beasts die, but the rest move right on. On land they're remarkably tenacious of life and they're so prolific that nothing can stop them. They'll have two or three litters of young a season, with from five to seven in a litter, and the young will breed the same season, so you see it doesn't take long for a pair of lemmings to raise quite a family.

"AND when I say they march undeviatingly, I mean just that. If you should put a large packing case in front of one, say a case two or three feet high, he would not go around it. He would scramble over it, tumble down on the other side and go on."

"Do they bite?" he was asked.

"Oh, like anything, but only the married ones. That's another strange thing. Before they have bred you can handle them safely. But afterward, they'll make right for you and attack you. Fancy. They'll attach themselves to your leg and inflict a nasty bite.

"And you can't conceive the damage they do to the country. They eat the same food that the reindeer do and they make the reindeer carnivorous. The deer actually step on the lemmings and bite their heads off and eat them."

"Do they eat the bodies too?"

"No, strangely enough, just the heads. In a lemming migration you'll see hundreds and hundreds of the headless bodies and if you watch you'll see the reindeer decapitating them.

"Oh, they upset all nature. Other animals and birds that prey on the lemmings seem to know when there is a migration. They come in droves from the other countries and when the migration is at an end, they're left stranded without any food. The great snowy owls are an example. After the 1924 migration, when they were left without food, hundreds of them flew across the sea to Canada, where they were almost unknown.

"IN Lapland there is a very definite disease caused by the little beasts. They're very poor swimmers, you know, and thousands of them drown in lakes and ponds and rivers and the people drink the water and get 'lemming fever.'

"I know it's strange that they should swim out to sea when they swim so poorly, but they do. They do not have webbed feet, and they're the only animal in the world that has hair on the bottom of the feet.

"Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell, the medical missionary of Newfoundland and Labrador, who has observed lemming migrations, discovered that the splash of an oar will drown one of them when it is swimming, and a heavy sea will do the same. Yet, some of them must survive, because they continue to migrate, but where, and how, no one knows.

"The mystery of the lemming is that no naturalist has found where they propagate or where they stay when they are not on migration."

Wells reached for a cigarette, lit it, took a puff and, after a moment or two, mentioned Africa and the Mountains of the Moon.

"Why, someone asked him, "did you call your book 'In Coldest Africa'?"

"It was cold," Wells replied. "It was jolly cold. You know, the idea that Africa is a hot, tropical country, is all wrong. So is the idea that it is a jungle country. It's not. It's a plains country, very much like America, and in the mountains, it's cold.

"The Mountains of the Moon, which are the least-explored part of the continent, contain the remains of the original African ice cap. But the

THE WHOLE FRENCH EMPIRE IN MINIATURE

Overseas Colonial Assembly, Which Begins at Paris in May, Will Reveal the Tribal Dances, Food, Music and Architecture of Many Far-Flung Possessions—Other Nations Will Also Participate.

PARIS.

JUST on the outskirts of this most urbane and civilized of capitals there will be heard this summer the wild throb of tom-toms, the beat of naked feet in a circle. The night will glow with the fires of savage tribes. And through the beeches of the Wood of Vincennes there will be visible the delicate tracery of the architecture of Cambodia, the sudden thrust of a native Senegalese shrine, the white, glistening dome of a mosque.

In short, France is showing off to the world. There has been created in the Wood of Vincennes a colonial exposition called the Overseas Colonial Assembly, and though other nations are participating, at the invitation of the French, it is France that is putting on the main show. Her far-flung empire is seen in miniature, all the strange, barbarous worlds that the French in their zeal for colonies have conquered. The exposition has cost France 300,000,000 francs, but the total expense to all other nations combined has been only half of this.

It is significant that the man who has dreamed and planned and worked for this exposition for 15 years or more, Marshal Hubert Lyautey, should be given the popular nickname of "Lyautey Africanus," in the manner of the ancient Romans, who were in their time such amazing colonizers. "Lyautey Africanus," who is given credit for building up France's empire during the past 40 years, has had the pleasure of seeing his dream realized. It will be possible for visitors to the Colonial Assembly, which opens in May, to round the world in a day, and most of the ports of call in this kaleidoscopic tour will be bits lifted from French colonies, with the colder climes supplied by other nations.

The United States is participating in this exposition, but the American newspaper correspondents and the other permanent residents of Paris haven't much to say about the American section. The other day the correspondents were taken on an official preliminary tour of the exposition grounds. They drove past the magnificent Cambodian temple that has been recreated here, stone for stone; past the central building that is to be permanent, with its lengthy frieze illustrating the history of French colonization; past Holland's fantastic principal pavilion, with tiers of roofs of diminishing size, pagoda fashion, a reminder that the Dutch are still a colonial power; past the weird building designed after the motifs of the huts of the natives of the Belgian Congo.

AND then the bus reached the American section.

The correspondents were silent. Facing the roadway is the replica of Mount Vernon, a graceful and charming little building. But crowded close to it, robbing it of whatever effect it might have, as one correspondent wrote in a dispatch to his paper, are two flanking lines of undistinguished, box-like buildings. The whole looks crowded, skimpy and cheap. The correspondents didn't even bother to get out of the bus. It is the concensus of opinion among them that the lamentable showing is the result of a stupid mistake on the part of some American official, who heard that it was to be a colonial exposition and immediately thought that this could mean nothing else than what the term commonly means in the United States—a period in American history. So we have a replica of Mount Vernon—we are still shown as a colony. Someone has ironically suggested that perhaps we intended to supply an exhibit for the British, who declined to take part, giving as the reason the fact that the Government could not afford to do a really first-class exhibit and would not be satisfied with anything less than that.

The assembly's exhibition will reach from the ice of Greenland to the warm lagoons of the Marquesas. Four hundred palaces, pagodas, and pavilions represent 14 distinct nations. A hundred distinct tribes, their foods, songs, instruments of music, war and livelihood, have been assembled. Three thousand natives, the majority brought by airplane, have come from overseas colonies, assembling from the foreign protectorates of the United States: Porto Rico, the Philippines, Panama, Alaska, Samoa, and the Virgin Islands; from Denmark, the Dutch East Indies; from the colonies of Italy and Belgium and from all the far-flung colorful foreign regions colonized by France; from Indo-China to savage Senegal, brooding mysterious Madagascar; happy Martinique; the romantic Marquesas, and historic Morocco, Tunis and Algiers.

ALONG the shores of the great oval lake in Vincennes, on either side of wide driveways, cut specially through the national forest, stands a marvelous collection of vividly contrasting structures. The "La cite des Informations" is typically one of the twentieth century. It is a mammoth fact library where, besides France, and all her overseas possessions, are represented Argentina, Italy, Belgium, Holland, Portugal, Greece, the Union of South Africa, Canada, Denmark, Persia, the United States and Haiti. Here all information pertaining to these countries is supplied. There is a large theater for conferences and the presentation of documentary films. Here will meet a dozen international conferences of world-wide importance. In addition to this general building of information, Holland, Denmark and Italy have erected distinctive pavilions. A Hindustan section, a fairy-like copy of the Palace of Agra, has been built by the subscription of an Indian Princess.

As a complete tale of colonization the Colonial Museum, an oblong building of solid stone, is probably the most important structure, because it will continue as a permanent home to house the history of France's success in various corners of the world.

THE building is 264 feet by 180. Upon its outer surface is carved a tremendous fresco, so that men 1000 years from now can read the story of the colonial effort in the nineteenth century, just as we today read the monuments of Egypt. This colossal tapestry in stone is the work of a French sculptor, M. A. Janniot. Hewn in white anjou stone, it covers 3700 square feet and depicts in pictorial fashion the story of France's colonial endeavor, the symbolism of a score of native tribes, and presents imaginatively the material contributions made by each colony to the mother land. In the center stands the Goddess of Abundance, accompanied by Peace and Prosperity, receiving gifts from the far-off possessions: rubber, phosphates, cotton, fruits, rice and wheat. The principal French ports which receive them, Marseilles, Bordeaux, Havre, the airport of Le Bourget are represented allegorically.

The whole assembly presents an amazing clash of forms and color: the dark red of a temple in Senegal bristling with long stakes on the ends of which the heads of the enemy taken in battle were hung, the gleaming white of Mosques from Tunis, the sombre hues of Angkor-Vat, the browns of the thatch of the South Sea Islands, all stand out the more clearly against the green leaves of chestnut, oak, beech and poplar.

Here looms an Icelandic fisher hut, beside an artificial iceberg. Here is a Congo chief's palace, 90 feet in diameter, like a gigantic artillery shell. Madagascar proclaims itself in a giant tower, surmounted by four bulls' heads which play such a role in the folklore of the "Great Red Island."

"I'M the WORLD'S BIGGEST HICK," Says SINCLAIR LEWIS

By ARTHUR STRAWN

Sinclair Lewis.

Theodore Dreiser.

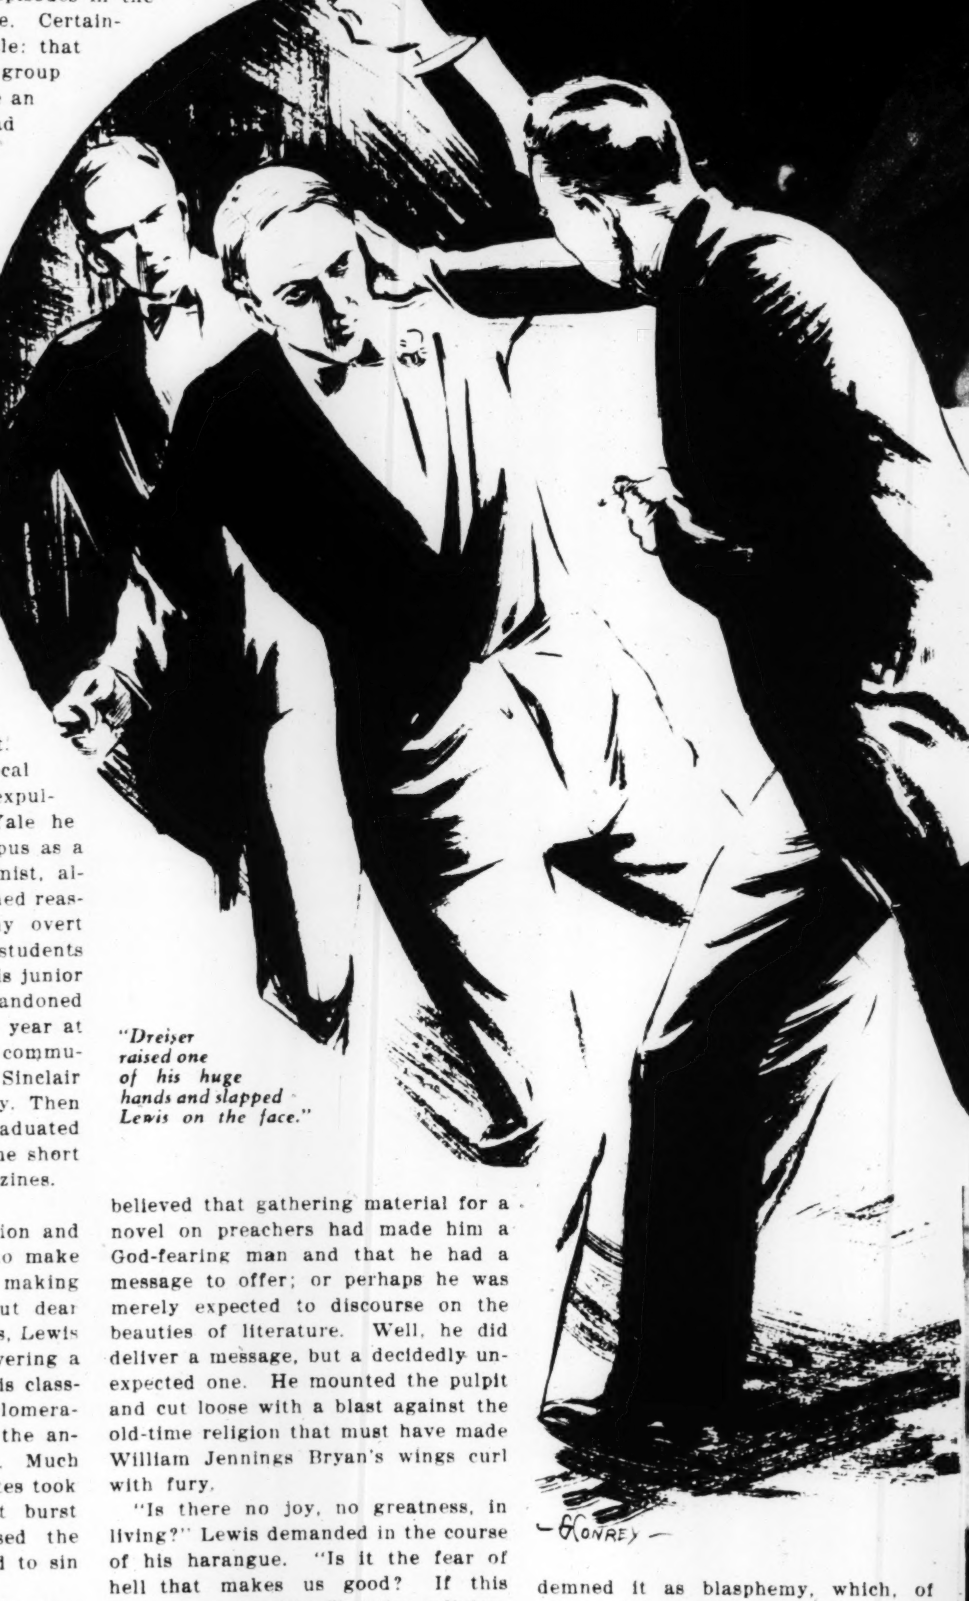
NEW YORK.

"I'M the world's biggest hick; every time I leave my farm I get into trouble."

Those words were recently uttered by the man who lately received the Nobel Award for Literature, the bumptious, red-headed Sinclair Lewis. And in all justice to him it must be acknowledged that no author ever described himself more frankly and accurately. His severest critics may deny that Lewis has genius as a novelist, but even his best friends are compelled to admit his superlative talent for provoking a row.

His latest scrap is still a subject of heated discussion, for it is probably destined to become known as one of the most scandalous episodes in the history of American literature. Certainly it presented a rare spectacle: that of Lewis getting up before a group of writers and critics to make an after-dinner speech and instead using the opportunity to accuse Theodore Dreiser of being a plagiarist, for which he received from Dreiser two sharp slaps on the face. That was the incident that inspired Lewis' remark, quoted above, although it wasn't the first time Lewis talked himself into trouble, and it probably won't be the last.

Many years ago, while still a youngster in Wisconsin, Lewis started his first row by boldly declaring to his classmates and teacher in Sunday school that the story about Jonah swallowing the whale was a plain lie and he wouldn't believe it. This gained him some slight local notoriety, in addition to his expulsion from the school. At Yale he became known about the campus as a rather belligerent non-conformist, although for some still unexplained reason he managed to avoid any overt fracases with either his fellow students or the faculty. At the end of his junior year at Yale, however, he abandoned college and went to live for a year at Helicon Hall, the co-operative community of radicals which Upton Sinclair had established in New Jersey. Then he went back to Yale, was graduated and a few years later had some short stories published in the magazines.



"Dreiser raised one of his huge hands and slapped Lewis on the face."

THERE was a class reunion and Lewis was called upon to make a speech. Instead of making the usual polite remarks about dear old Yale and her infallible sons, Lewis improved the occasion by delivering a sermon in which he accused his classmates of being a hopeless agglomeration of conceited snobs. But the anticipated row failed to develop. Much to Lewis' surprise, his classmates took the lecture to heart, all but burst into tears, contritely confessed the error of their ways and vowed to sin no more.

In due time Lewis achieved fame with his "Main Street" and "Babbitt," and though he gained in the process a reputation for producing books that annoyed vast sections of the American people, he made few personal sallies in the same direction. It was not until he began work on "Elmer Gantry," his portrayal of a preacher who was also a charlatan, that Lewis again stepped into the limelight as a novelist who could be annoying without the aid of his books.

On the night of April 19, 1926, he was invited to speak from the pulpit of the Linwood Boulevard Christian Church in Kansas City. Why he was invited to speak there in the first place isn't entirely clear, for his writings were not such as would be likely to please the taste of any ordinary body of church-goers. Perhaps it was naively believed that gathering material for a novel on preachers had made him a God-fearing man and that he had a message to offer; or perhaps he was merely expected to discourse on the beauties of literature. Well, he did deliver a message, but a decidedly unexpected one. He mounted the pulpit and cut loose with a blast against the old-time religion that must have made William Jennings Bryan's wings curl with fury.

"Is there no joy, no greatness, in living?" Lewis demanded in the course of his harangue. "Is it the fear of hell that makes us good? If this theory is part of the Christian religion, then damn your Christian religion!"

AND then Lewis performed an experiment to demonstrate to his audience that if there was a God in heaven, He was really a good scout and very sparing of His thunderbolts. Lewis took out his watch, defied God to strike him dead, and gave God 10 minutes in which to make up His mind about the matter.

"Here is a lovely chance," declared the future winner of the Noble Prize for literature, "for God to show what He can do."

As everyone knows, God did not strike Lewis, probably foreseeing the day when the job would be handled by Theodore Dreiser. Nevertheless, the affair provoked considerable comment. The pious, of course, wrathfully condemned it as blasphemy, which, of course it was, but even those who shared Lewis' atheistic convictions were inclined to regard the demonstration as a display of childishness, and one in very poor taste.

It was in 1926, too, that Lewis refused to accept the Pulitzer Prize for his novel "Arrowsmith," delivering himself of a sharp denunciation of literary awards in general and, by implication, taking at the same time a crack at his fellow authors who had accepted the award on other occasions.

Lewis continued to write books, but he didn't erupt again in person until he received the Nobel Prize last year. There were, of course, a number of American critics who publicly declared that the selection of Lewis for the honor was a dubious compliment to American literature, and this evoked a number of retaliatory statements from Lewis. On the whole, however, he restrained himself admirably, and in his speech of acceptance at Stockholm he paid many of his fellow writers in America handsome compliments, and particularly laudatory was he of Theodore Dreiser. At this there was some rejoicing in the United States, for there had existed a sort of feud between Dreiser and Lewis and everyone now thought that the hatchet had been buried.

The feud began in 1928 when Dorothy Thompson, who is Mrs. Sinclair Lewis, published a book, "The New Russia," which was a collection of a series of newspaper articles she had written about Russia. Two months later Dreiser published a book, "Dreiser Looks at Russia." It was immediately seen that a number of passages in Dreiser's book were almost word for word identical to passages in Dorothy Thompson's book. She immediately demanded an explanation from Dreiser and declared that he should have called his book "Dreiser Looks at the Evening Post" — which was the newspaper in which her articles had originally appeared. Dreiser said the similarities were due to their having used the same source materials in Russia, which Miss Thompson promptly denied. She threatened to sue Dreiser for plagiarism and he threatened to sue her for libel, but neither of them did anything about it and the matter was dropped. Up to this time Lewis and Dreiser had been on very friendly terms, but Lewis came to his wife's defense and pointed out to newspapermen that on two former occasions Dreiser had published writings remarkable for their likeness to the previously published works of other authors. That, naturally, marked the end of a beautiful friendship between the two authors, but when Lewis praised Dreiser so earnestly at Stockholm everyone assumed that the feud was over.

AT LEAST that seems to have been the assumption of Ray Long, editor of Cosmopolitan, for when he decided to give a dinner at the Metropolitan Club in honor of Boris Pilnyak, a Russian novelist, he included Lewis and Dreiser among the 22 writers and critics who were invited. The dinner took place on March 19. Lewis had previously been asked if he would make a short speech and he had said he would be glad to do so.

The dinner came off in grand style, and though Mr. Boris Pilnyak doesn't understand English, he was seated between two men who speak Russian and he seemed to be enjoying himself as much as the others. After the dinner came the speech making. The guests included Irvin Cobb, Heywood Broun, Rupert Hughes and others. The first speaker called on by Ray Long was Lewis. Lewis got up, looked over the guests, and out of a clear sky, remarked:

"I don't see why I should be called on to make a speech to a company which contains a man who stole 2000 words from my wife's book on Russia and which also contains two sage critics who have constantly attacked my work."

Needless to say, this remark caused some surprise. Dreiser flushed but said nothing. And Ray Long quickly arose, and as if Lewis had said nothing at all out of the ordinary, suavely introduced Irvin Cobb. Cobb then told Pilnyak how glad they all were to be with him and concluded by saying, "You see, we don't know your work well enough yet to be jealous." And the speech-making continued as though no bomb had been exploded.

Mr. and Mrs. Sinclair Lewis.

BUT as soon as the amenities were concluded, Dreiser invited Lewis into an adjoining room to have the matter out. Their voices grew steadily louder, a table was pounded and other guests dropped in to see how the two famous men were getting along. They came in just in time to see Dreiser raise one of his huge hands and slap Lewis on the face, and then raise the other hand and slap him on the other cheek. Friends rushed between them. Apparently more amazed than hurt, Lewis walked into the larger room and to those who had not witnessed the affair calmly announced: "Dreiser just slapped me twice."

This incident, however, didn't break up the jolly party in Boris Pilnyak's honor; perhaps it even made him feel more at home. Nevertheless, Lewis and Dreiser were kept apart the rest of the evening. A few days later the story leaked out and both Dreiser and Lewis were interviewed. Dreiser, who is 59 years old, defended his action by saying that any man would have done the same thing under the circumstances, and said that he would do it again if insulted, although he expressed surprise that Lewis, who is 13 years his junior, didn't strike him back. Lewis, when interviewed, described the incident as "outrageous and scandalous." Oddly enough, all through the interview Lewis referred to Dreiser as "Theodore," and a few days later, while making a speech on American literature in Toledo, he extolled Dreiser's writing and made no reference to the plagiarism charge or the slapping.

It is barely possible that this affair will incline the Nobel Prize winner to restrain his impetuousness in the future. He may resolve to keep out of trouble by sticking to his farm and devoting himself exclusively to writing. Some say that it would be a great gain for literature, but there are others who insist that Lewis' personal scraps are more interesting than his books. Chances are that Lewis, having red hair and a literary talent, too, will continue to satisfy both groups.

What the Wilkins' Submarine Polar Adventure Owes to Jules Verne's Fancy

Many Particulars in Which the Craft Which Will Battle the Ice From the Bottom of the Ocean Resembles the Fantastic "Nautilus" in the Famous Novel.

A PROPHECY of 60 years ago, regarded at the time as an extravagant dream of the fantastic, utterly beyond all possibility of realization, will be fulfilled in substance this summer if Sir Hubert Wilkins and his crew emerge successfully from their attempt to cruise under the ice fields of the North Polar seas in a submarine.

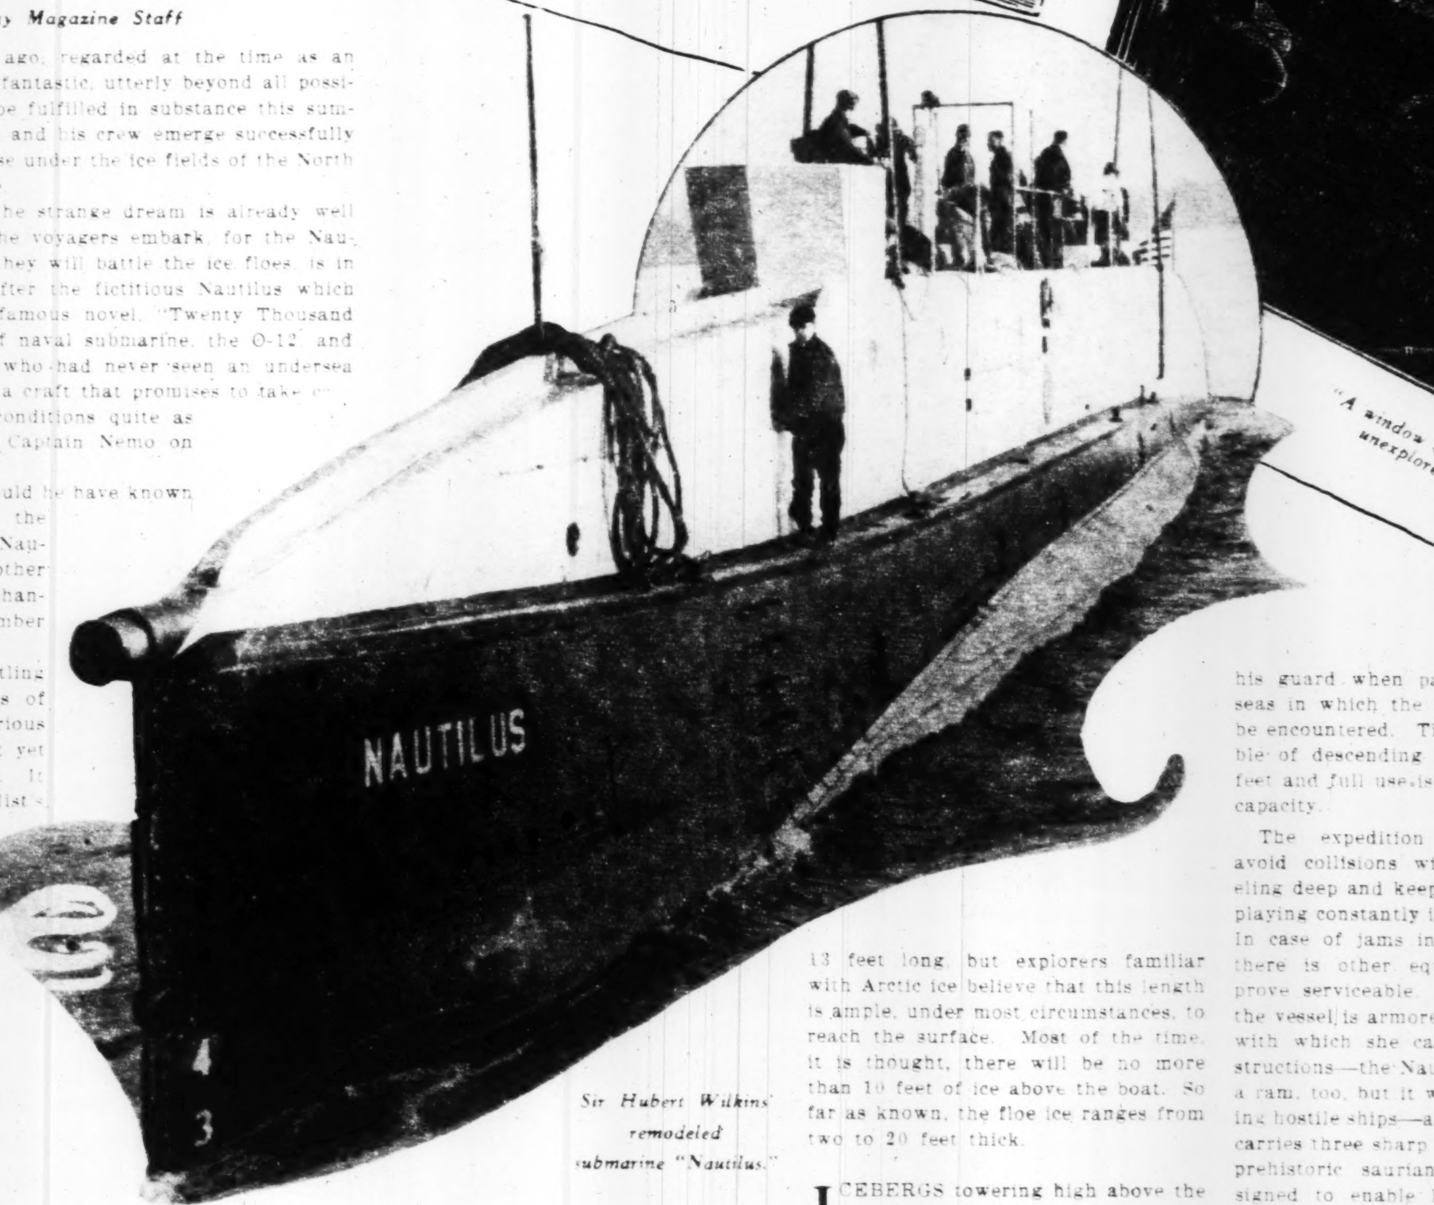
Indeed, fulfillment of the strange dream is already well under way, even before the voyagers embark, for the Nautilus, the craft in which they will battle the ice floes, is in many respects modeled after the fictitious Nautilus which roved the ocean bottoms in Jules Verne's famous novel, "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea." Utilizing a cast-off naval submarine, the O-12, and borrowing ideas liberally from the novelist who had never seen an undersea boat, the Wilkins engineers have turned out a craft that promises to take care of itself and its intrepid occupants under conditions quite as trying as those which beset the imaginary Captain Nemo on his voyage under the South Polar ice.

It would have delighted Verne, probably, could he have known that his grandson would one day traverse the ocean depths in a ship modeled after his own Nautilus. This circumstance, it happens, is another bond linking the modern Nautilus with its phantom original. Jean Jules Verne will be a member of the Wilkins expedition.

It was in 1869 that Verne wrote his startling novel, in which he depicted the adventures of Professor Aronnax on Captain Nemo's mysterious vessel. At that time the submarine had not yet emerged from its prolonged stage of infancy. It had never been employed, except in the novelist's imagination, for an extended cruise. It was a clumsy affair, capable of remaining under water for only a few hours at a time, and its sum total of accomplishment to date was the sinking of one ship in the American Civil War, a feat achieved at the price of sinking itself in the bargain.

BUT the submarine evolved in Verne's mind was a magnificent, powerful and self-sufficient craft—a gigantic, iron-clad, double-walled monster of the deep, propelled at 50 miles an hour by electricity. Water ballast tanks enabled it to dive to the sea bottom or rise to the surface at its master's will. Huge electric searchlights illuminated the sea floor for half a mile in any direction. The ends of its cigar-shaped hull provided great storage tanks for reserve oxygen. In its 232 feet of length and 26 of breadth were contained living quarters for captain and crew of 20 or more, kitchen, dining rooms, library, even a museum for collection of specimens of deep sea life. Glass wall sections, protected by sliding panels, permitted view of enchanting submarine gardens and grotesque denizens of ocean grottos. And there was a compartment from which the adventurers, clad in divers' suits, might leave the boat and explore the sea bottom on foot.

Its namesake even at this date, 62 years after the model was conceived, can scarcely hope to be such a boat as was the Nautilus of fiction. It is neither so large nor so swift. It measures only 175 feet in length and must content itself with a maximum surface speed of 14 miles an hour, and an under-water speed of nine or so. Laden with enormous stores of provisions for its crew and oil for its two engines, it cannot afford such commodious and luxurious living quarters as Captain Nemo seems to have required. Sir Hubert will have to get along without a pipe organ, without a room full of old masters and a fair-sized city library. He won't even have a smoking room. But there will be quarters more comfortable probably than any heretofore enjoyed by Arctic explorers. There will be the diving compartment to permit forays on the sea floor. There will be the observation window of fused quartz, through which strange sights of the deep may be seen and there will be a powerful searchlight to illuminate the dark, green depths for many yards around. In the matter of safety devices for combatting the rigors of Arctic travel the modern edition of the Nautilus will quite surpass its model. To guard against the possibility that wide fields of unbroken ice may keep the craft below the surface indefinitely, special conduit-like drills have been installed to permit the occupants, in time of need, to bore upward through 60 feet of ice for air. The largest of these is two feet in diameter and hollow. Through this, after it has bored its way to the surface, the men will be able to leave and ascend to the top of the ice pack, either for scientific study or, in emergency, to escape from a submarine prison. The "escape" tube and drill is only 13 feet long, but explorers familiar with Arctic ice believe that this length is ample, under most circumstances, to reach the surface. Most of the time, it is thought, there will be no more than 10 feet of ice above the boat. So far as known, the floe ice ranges from two to 20 feet thick.



Sir Hubert Wilkins' remodeled submarine "Nautilus."

ICEBERGS towering high above the water and extending hundreds of feet below the surface, are never encountered in the Arctic Ocean. They are born of glaciers on land. Those found in the North Atlantic slip off the coast of Greenland and are carried southward by the Labrador current.

Wilkins expects little trouble from the icebergs, but he means to be on his guard when passing through the seas in which the bergs are likely to be encountered. The Nautilus is capable of descending to a depth of 250 feet and full use is to be made of this capacity.

The expedition will attempt to avoid collisions with bergs by traveling deep and keeping the searchlight playing constantly in the waters ahead. In case of jams in ordinary floe ice, there is other equipment that may prove serviceable. The snub nose of the vessel is armored with a long ram, with which she can batter down obstructions—the Nautilus of fiction had a ram, too, but it was used for battering hostile ships—and on her back she carries three sharp fins like the fins of prehistoric saurians. These are designed to enable her to cut a path through the ice if caught from below. Her periscope stem is flexible, like the trolley pole on a street car, so that when it strikes an obstruction it will simply fold back in the manner of a jack-knife blade, thus guarding against loss of the vessel's "eye."

Observers are not everywhere optimistic about the success of this strange voyage. In spite of the fact that more than 1200 applications have been received, begging for passage on a craft which can accommodate a crew of only about 20, the average citizen, accustomed to the reassuring presence of solid ground below and open air above, stands appalled at the thought of a 3000-mile journey with deep sea below and ice above. In the popular mind, it may be safely said, the venture seems more hazardous than any polar undertaking since the ill-fated voyage of Andree's ballon. What unknown perils may lurk in those mysterious Arctic depths? What formidable deep sea monsters may be encountered in waters teeming with more life than abounds in any other ocean? What accidents may happen to mechanical apparatus during the long, dark crawl beneath the pole? What if the power should fail or the drills be found incapable of driving to the surface? In the event of such emergencies, replies Sir Hubert, much of the apparatus can be operated by hand, and since the vessel will have positive buoyancy at all times, it will rise against the bottom of the ice at once when not under power, thus allowing the men to cut their way to the surface in case of need. Another factor of safety, he points out, is the diving compartment, through which a man in diver's dress can step into the water beside the ship.

THIS will enable the crew to get out and make repairs outside the vessel, just as though it were a stalled bus on a high and dry roadside. If disaster overtakes the Nautilus when under water all the men might escape through this compartment and reach the surface with the aid of that new "artificial lung" recently perfected by the United States Navy. And besides these safeguards there will be powerful radio equipment to permit two-way communication with civilization even from beneath the ice. With all its amazing electrical paraphernalia (existing at the time only in Verne's imagination), the Nautilus of fiction had nothing like radio, although it was possible for a diver to keep in touch with his ship by telegraph while off on a hunt on the ocean bottom.

Wilkins appears to have full confidence in his vessel's ability to cope with any situation that may arise. Indeed, he is so sure of success that he is planning to take Lady Wilkins along on the journey. She will be the only woman on board and the first woman to go on a lengthy cruise in a submarine. The perils ahead disturb her not at all. Says she: "I will be able to live on a submarine much as I would on an ocean liner. Of course, if the voyage takes months it may prove tedious, but at any rate I shall be comfortable."

THE STRANGE LOVE AFFAIR OF A "SAVAGE MESSIAH"

A Record of the Mystic Attachment Between Henri Gaudier, Whose Sculpture Was to Become World Famous, and Sophie Brzeska, Who Was Twenty Years His Senior.

Henri Gaudier.

Sophie Brzeska.

By M. W. CHILDS

Of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine Staff

IT IS difficult to believe that it happened in the twentieth century, this strange love, this passionate selfless devotion of Henri Gaudier for Sophie Brzeska—of the young boy, who looked like a cross between a saint and a satyr, for the sad-looking woman, touched by the beginning of age and the first intimations of madness. To detached onlookers it had—with its privation and hardship and long separation—a mystic and medieval flavor.

The story of this love is told in "Savage Messiah," by H. S. Ede (Alfred Knopf, Inc.). It is written in tribute to Gaudier's genius and it is illustrated by photographs of his sculpture which now commands fabulous prices from museums and private collectors. But it is possible that Gaudier may go down to posterity not for the stone that he carved but for the legend of this love, by the tragic and deathless vibration of his life as it touched that of Miss Brzeska.

They met for the first time in the reading room of the St. Genevieve Library in Paris during the early spring of 1910. Miss Brzeska was 38 years old, small, flat-chested, with a pointed chin, thin lips, tilted nose, sensitive nostrils and high cheek bones which rose up to meet the large eyelids sheltering strange, tired eyes, eyes that then stared big and vacant and then of a sudden melted into roguish intimacy. If she were already markedly eccentric it could not be wondered at, for her life had been a succession of incredible disillusionments. From her earliest childhood in Cracow, Poland, her life had been a succession of mean, embittering tragedies, recurring in an almost monotonous pattern, as though she was cursed or bewitched. She was angry, queer, given to brooding over imaginary terrors, forebodings of madness, but proud, inordinately proud. She was proud because she believed she would become one of the world's greatest writers.

From the first she was attracted to Gaudier. She looked across at the boy's face under the reading light. He looked poor and tired and gentle—to [illegible] and at the same time alert and alive like a panther. It was an incongruity which fascinated her, Ede writes, because it reminded her of her own violently contrasting moods. He was then one of thousands of struggling, poverty-ridden artists in Paris. Each night he came to the St. Genevieve Library to study anatomical drawings.

Gaudier was drawn to her, too. He made persistent and successful attempts to sit next to her, despite the fact that she was carrying on a flirtation with a Russian nearer her own age who also came each night to the library. She had decided, coldly and deliberately, to have a love affair with this Russian, in the hope that she might thus resolve, for a while at any rate, the unrest and unhappiness at the center of her being. But Gaudier was persistent. He diverted her attention from the Russian.

One night she let him walk as far as the door of her hotel with her. They discovered they were both alone, that they both had overwhelming ambitions. Gaudier was fascinated by her. And Sophie in her turn felt that this must be the understanding friend for whom she had always searched. "I am too old for you, really," she said, "but I will be a mother to you, if you agree."

FOR a short time they were marvelously happy together. He was content with her motherly love. They took long walks, they visited the Louvre. Usually it was Gaudier who talked, of his schemes, his plans, his hopes, his views on art and life. And Sophie listened, happy beyond belief at having found this perfect friend. Ede says that it may very well have been the happiest period in the lives of both.

They were both on the verge of starving. Miss Brzeska was ill from over-anxiety and under-nourishment. Gaudier was weakened from lack of food, his hands always moist, his cheeks hollow. His family in the provinces was chagrined at the way he lived. He had been such a bright boy, he had won scholarships, he had studied in England and Germany with the aid of these scholarships, he was destined for a successful business career. And now this! But nevertheless they sent him a little money when it was possible.

Of Miss Brzeska and his love for her he wrote to a friend in Germany at this time:

"She is a poet, and her ideas on the family, society and Western civilization are the same as ours; she has an entirely independent nature, is an anarchist—simple and naturally, has a beauty a la Baudelaire—and might have stepped out of Fleurs du Mal. She is lithe and simple, with a feline carriage and enigmatic face, the fine character of which reflects her most intimate thought—planes combining, in the most surprising manner, impressions of age and of youth in alarming contrast. In a word, we are both as mad as hatters.

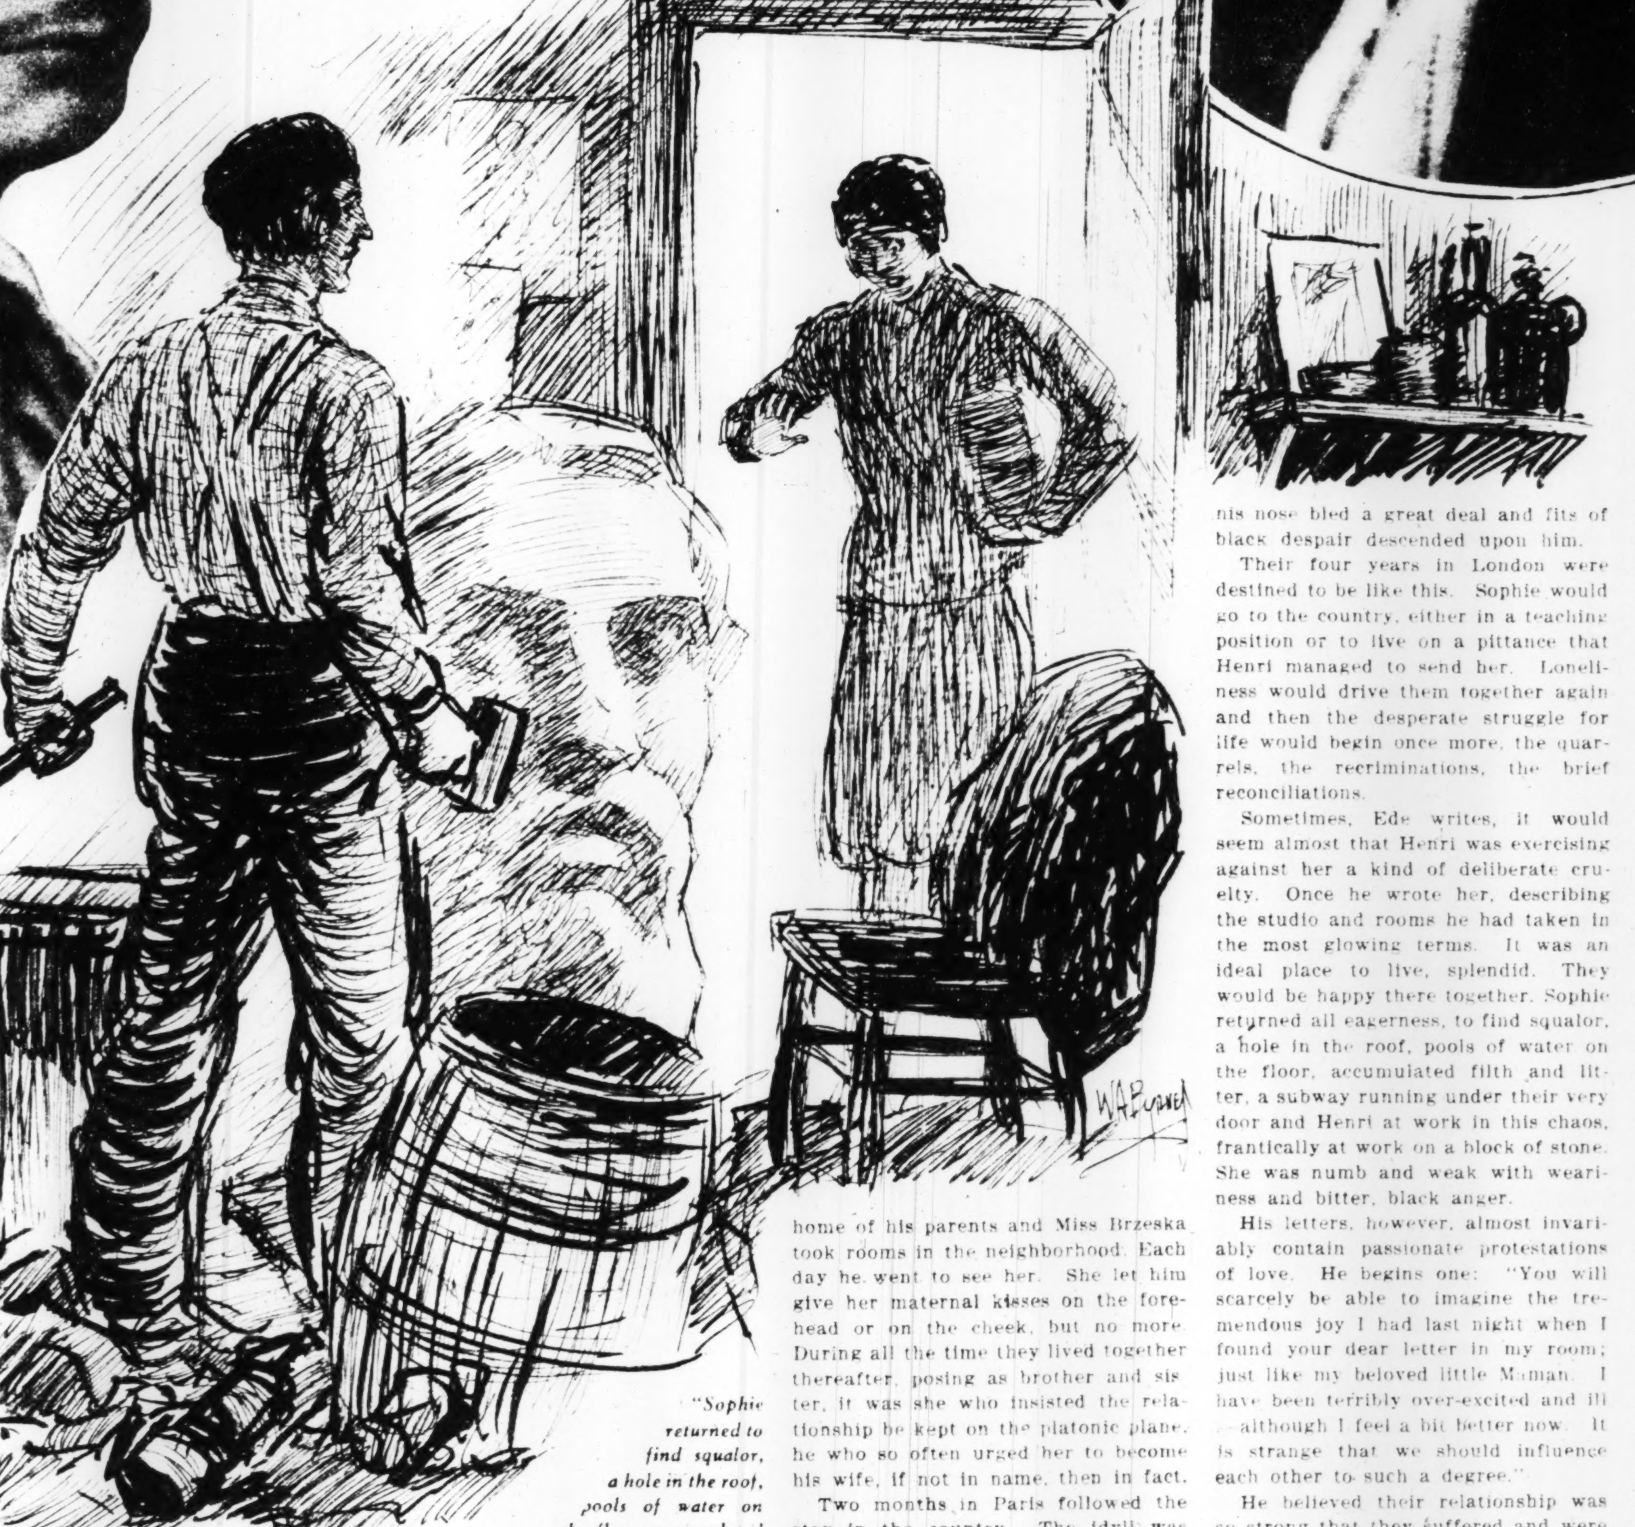
"Would you believe it, last Sunday we talked from 8 in the morning until 3 in the afternoon without noticing how the time had passed. I told her of my ideas about art for art's sake, and she explained hers on the basis of a society founded on motherhood undertaken freely and with open eyes. We parted about 4 o'clock, and I came home at once and set to work. I was so thrilled that I did a great bust that evening to give her next morning, as she had asked me for a bit of sculpture. Since then I have been like bewitched, and I would work like a machine, only that I have forced myself, with some success, to be reasonable."

Shortly they both became really ill. Gaudier went into the country to the home of his parents and Miss Brzeska took rooms in the neighborhood. Each day he went to see her. She let him give her maternal kisses on the forehead or on the cheek, but no more. During all the time they lived together thereafter, posing as brother and sister, it was she who insisted the relationship be kept on the platonic plane, he who so often urged her to become his wife, if not in name, then in fact.

Two months in Paris followed the stay in the country. The idyll was ended. They were happy now only at rare moments. At other times they quarreled violently, as was inevitable from the first with two persons of such positive temperament. He was nervous and irritable, she was terrified at seeing her slight savings melt away. London seemed to offer hope. Gaudier had lived there two years. Before they left for England they agreed to join their names and live as brother and sister, Sophie Gaudfer-Brzeska and Henri Gaudier-Brzeska.

It took Gaudier two desperate months to find work. At one time they were reduced to such poverty that Sophie made a doll from rags and a shawl and with this "baby" under her arm went into the streets to beg. She got 12 cents, and with it she bought tea, bread, oleomargarine and, because Henri was so fond of cakes, one small cake. But he was furious with her when he discovered what she had done. To get a little money he went to the public houses of the neighborhood and did drawings of the customers for a few cents.

AT LAST he got a job as typist and foreign correspondent—because of his knowledge of languages—with a Norwegian for $30 a month. A month later Sophie got a post as governess in exchange for board and lodging with a family living in the country. Even though bitter poverty had caused them often to hate each other, they were lonely apart. He wrote her voluminous letters, in between the time he gave to his job, his studying and his drawing at night and the periods of illness, during which his nose bled a great deal and fits of black despair descended upon him.



"Sophie returned to find squalor, a hole in the roof, pools of water on the floor, accumulated filth and litter."

Their four years in London were destined to be like this. Sophie would go to the country, either in a teaching position or to live on a pittance that Henri managed to send her. Loneliness would drive them together again and then the desperate struggle for life would begin once more, the quarrels, the recriminations, the brief reconciliations.

Sometimes, Ede writes, it would seem almost that Henri was exercising against her a kind of deliberate cruelty. Once he wrote her, describing the studio and rooms he had taken in the most glowing terms. It was an ideal place to live, splendid. They would be happy there together. Sophie returned all eagerness, to find squalor, a hole in the roof, pools of water on the floor, accumulated filth and litter, a subway running under their very door and Henri at work in this chaos, frantically at work on a block of stone. She was numb and weak with weariness and bitter, black anger.

His letters, however, almost invariably contain passionate protestations of love. He begins one: "You will scarcely be able to imagine the tremendous joy I had last night when I found your dear letter in my room; just like my beloved little Maman. I have been terribly over-excited and ill—although I feel a bit better now. It is strange that we should influence each other to such a degree."

He believed their relationship was so strong that they suffered and were happy together when separated by great distances. In each letter there is apparent anxiety for her work, her writing. Why does she not give more time to it, it is all-important, she must write the great novels that it is in her power to write.

ONLY on rare excursions together into the country did they recapture the warmth and joy they had kindled upon first meeting. Two or three times this happened, on a day's outing, or a week-end. Care and poverty and bitterness would be forgotten. In this mood they would swear never to quarrel again, and on the train going back to town would come almost to blows.

After nearly two years in London Gaudier succeeded in interesting some Englishmen in his sculpture and his drawings. Haldane McFall, art critic, was the first. The bust Gaudier did of McFall attracted others, among them Frank Harris, editor and widely known author; Jacob Epstein, the sculptor; Ezra Pound, the poet, and Paul Morand, French author, then a secretary in the French embassy.

But the financial reward remained always pathetically slight. The most he ever received for a single work was $100, this for pieces that have since brought as high as $50,000 and $75,000, the center of collectors' battles.

Henri expected his new friends to accord to Sophie the same marks of esteem that they showed him, and this often made for trouble. It broke up a brief friendship they enjoyed with J. Middleton Murry, the editor, and his wife, the late Katherine Mansfield. Sophie's eccentricities came out most frequently when she was in company. People thought her impossibly queer and violent.

Out of the small sums which he received for his work Gaudier had to buy clay and stone. When he gave up his job, so that he might give his entire time to sculpture their existence became more precarious than ever and the little sum of money that Sophie had desperately hoarded disappeared altogether. But throughout, Gaudier's confidence in himself never waned. He knew that he was a great sculptor. He did not hesitate to compare his work to that of the sculptor whom he admired above all others, Rodin.

It was 1914. At a modern exhibit in March a number of Gaudier's things were shown and received high praise from the critics. But nothing was sold. For the past three years Henri had been a fugitive from France, refusing to return to do his military service. War was declared.

Gaudier left at once for France. His friends begged and pleaded with him. He would not listen. After a vain attempt to say good-by to Sopie, who, following a particularly violent quarrel, had taken a room by herself, he departed to fight for his country. It was his destiny, he felt, to be killed in war. Both he and Sophie had dreamed that he would die in battle.

IMMEDIATELY on landing, however, it developed France did not want him as a soldier. He was imprisoned for a deserter. By some miracle—no one has ever known quite how it was brought about—he escaped from the military prison and in four days was back in London.

A month later, having obtained a satisfactory passport, he went back to his native country. "I'm going," he said to his friends. "I absolutely must; there's no more to be said about it, and nothing else to do." By October 1 he had seen active fighting. By the new year he had been made a corporal and a few weeks later a sergeant. His officers said that he was very courageous and a splendid soldier. At every opportunity he wrote to Sophie, letters which were lost.

On June 5, 1915, at about 1 o'clock in the afternoon, Gaudier was killed in the attack on Neuville St. Vaast. He had written the week before to Sophie, saying that he longed to return, and that when he did he wanted her to be his wife. She spent a number of days composing a letter full of hope for their future happiness, but before she could mail it she received word of his death. Friends sought to protect her in this crisis, but she escaped from them and was found by the London police wandering in the streets in a dazed condition, clasping in her hand four gold sovereigns that Henri had given her two years before.

In the periods of madness that followed the theme of remorse constantly recurred. She was haunted by the thought that she might have been a better companion to Henri, that she might have been more sympathetic, more kindly, and, finally, that she might have yielded to his wishes and have become his wife or his mistress. She felt, too, that a complaining letter she wrote to him in the trenches might have driven him into danger and the torture of this thought constantly crops out in the diary which she kept at intervals during the seven years that followed before her death.

"Henri Gaudier, on the other hand," Ede writes, "had regretted nothing, always using his energy to the full and feeling sure of ultimate success."

MITHERLESS

By PETER B. KYNE

MR. JOHN P. GRIMES, multimillionaire owner of Sunnyvale Farm, had just incurred the displeasure of old Dad Hannigan, his manager. Without consulting Dad, Grimes had purchased the out-standing three-year-old stallion of the year, paying therefore the sum of two hundred thousand dollars. Dad was scandalized. He said:

"The trouble with you Mr. Grimes, is that you're suffering from a rush of money to the brain. Just because Anselmo won the Futurity, the Derby and the Oaks, and some lesser stakes, you had to go crazy and buy him for breeding purposes."

"He's the out-standing racehorse of the American turf—" Grimes began, but Dad Hannigan waved him into silence.

"He's a throwback to an ancestor that would have amounted to something if she'd been trained and raced—"

"How do you know that ancestor was a mare?"

"Here comes Exhibit A. He'll tell you," Dad replied, and pointed to a small boy riding an ugly fiddle-headed little cayuse down the avenue leading to the colt barn.

"The pony or the boy—which?"

"The boy. His name is Bobby Jarvis, and he lives with his invalid mother on a little five-acre place about a mile down the river. On his mother's side he has a pedigree that runs back to William the Conqueror. His grandfather had one of the finest racing stables in England. Love of a horse and an instinctive way about him with horses is that boy's out-standing heritage. It comes to him direct from his mother, because his father was a timid little man who feared horses. He'd give a wide berth to a Percheron, and I've never heard of a mean or unruly Percheron. Bobby's father's interest lay in chickens, but he didn't know how to breed good chickens. Well, he died three years ago, and if it hadn't been for a small income from Mrs. Jarvis' father's estate, she and Bobby would have been hard put to it to get enough to eat. However, despite the strain of chickens' blood in him, Bobby is a born horseman. Yes sir," Dad continued, "in the matter of horses, that's a most knowledgeable boy. He's been down in the meadow looking over the brood mares."

"What's his job?"

"Exercise boy. I give him twenty dollars a month to report here at six o'clock every morning and ride horse until eight-thirty. Then he beats it three miles to school on that little cayuse of his. Bobby's a trifle ashamed of the cayuse, but it's the only horse he can afford. Hello, he's coming over here."

The boy came to the edge of the veranda.. "Where's the new stallion Anselmo, Dad?" he piped. "I want to give him the once-over."

"Number 8 box, sonny. After you've looked him over from the outside, come back and tell me what you think of him, Bobby."

In about thirty minutes Bobby came back. "He's a grand looking big horse, Dad, and I could only fault him in front. He points his fore ever so little. Where did he get his speed? There's only one outstanding performer in his pedigree. I've run the mares down for fifty years and Maid o' the Mist was the only distance horse in the lot. My grandfather bred her, and she won him some big stakes."

Dad Hannigan glanced slyly at his employer.

BOBBY shrugged. "Maybe. I wouldn't want any of that expensive baby myself. I'd figure I was taking chances breeding for another Anselmo." The boy turned to Dad. "Lass 'o the Glen's in foal, Dad."

"She quit racing at five, and she's eight now. And if she does give us a colt it'll be a late foal, and I'll bet it will be a runt."

"By the way," said the boy, "that brown colt, the Roman, is beginning to know what it's all about, Dad. I set him down for a quarter this morning, and if he didn't do it in twenty-two he must have done it in twenty-one."

"Well, we'll clock him tomorrow morning if you insist, and provided the trainer is agreeable. I'm just a bit curious about the Roman myself."

"How old is that boy?" Grimes asked, when he and Dad were alone together.

"Rising thirteen."

"Hang on to him," Grimes suggested. "He's a runty little chap, and we may have the makings of a great jockey in him."

Lass o' the Glen was classically bred, and so was Scottish Chief. Both sire and dam had made race-track history, not once but often, during their racing careers, and Dad's faith in Mendel's law was the sort of faith that is supposed to move mountains.

In May, Dad enjoined the night watchman at the brood-mare barn to keep a sharp eye on Lass o' the Glen and look in on her three or four times nightly. The night watchman dropped in at the quarters of one of the stable swipes and accepted a long swallow from a quart of moonshine whisky the latter had in his possession. Both were garrulous fellows, and one word led to another; while the bottle lasted, they wet their whistles frequently, with the result that about ten o'clock the night watchman rolled into a vacant stall, stretched out in the sweet fresh straw and fell into a sound alcholic slumber.

At a quarter past six next morning he was awakened by a series of vigorous kicks in the ribs and discovered he was being attacked by a demon, albeit a very small demon—Bobby Jarvis, no less. And Bobby was screaming anathema upon him, calling him a faithless, lazy, drunken brute, bidding him begone. A vigorous slap from the amazed and indignant night watchman sent the boy sprawling. With tears streaming down his cheeks, Bobby picked himself up, ran for a pitchfork. The night watchman fled, with Bobby pursuing him down the road.

Dad Hannigan, emerging from his cottage, beheld the rout. "What do you mean by running my night watchman off the job?" he demanded, as the boy came back.

"The dirty animal got drunk with that swipe Henry, and never looked in on the Lass. And she's had her foal and she's dead!"

Dad cursed under his breath and ran to the barn. Outstretched in the bedding lay a tiny mare foal, wet and chilled, scarcely alive. It was about an hour old, and had not had strength enough to get to its feet. Lass o' the Glen lay dead beside the foal.

Dad and Bobby gazed upon the sad scene in silence a minute; then Dad went out and telephoned John P. Grimes the doleful tidings. In about five minutes Grimes came out in dressing-gown and slippers.

"What happened?" he demanded, and Dad explained: "She was raced hard for three years. While I feel badly at losing the Lass, still she isn't much of a loss. Her racing days ended when she bowed a tendon, and as a brood mare she was a washout. Look at that rat she's left us. Not worth bothering with, eh?"

"Unfortunately, no. Born on June 7th, racing rules make her a year old on January first. She can never race as a two-year-old, and I'm confident that even if she lives, she'll be a little bit of a thing without any constitution.

"I think you're right, Hannigan," said John P. Grimes. "Knock her on the head."

"Oh, no! Please, please don't do that," Bobby Jarvis quavered. "If you don't want this filly, give her to me."

Grimes and Hannegan exchanged swift glances. Hannigan had ruthlessly sacrificed many a runt throughbred rather than rear it and sell it for a park riding back, even at a profit, for it is a poor advertisement for a thoroughbred stock-farm to have somebody riding one of its classically bred animals, but weedy-looking and incapable.

"Ordinarily," said Dad Hannigan, "I'd knock this filly on the head; but in this case. Mr. Grimes, I don't think the advertising will affect us."

"VERY well, son, you may have her," Grimes assented. "And now that she's yours, what are you going to do with her?"

"I'm going to take her home and raise her on a bottle, sir."

He disappeared with the alacrity of a tin-canned dog. Dad Hannigan sighed. "That boy has always wanted a thoroughbred horse. It's been the dream of his young life."

Dad Hannigan carried the foal into the living-room of the Jarvis cottage and stretched it out on some old quilts before the open fireplace.

Bobby turned big eyes on his mother. "She's by Scottish Chief out of Lass o' the Glen, Mother," he said. "And she's got to have a Scottish name."

"We'll call her Mitherless, Bobby. The Scotch say mither instead of mother, and this filly has lost her mither, so she's Mitherless."

Mitherless lived. She was a thoroughbred, endowed with the courage of one of the great Arabian stallions from which the thoroughbred has sprung. When they got her on her feet, she slumped to the floor; but when they stood her up again, she leaned against Bobby and trembled but did not fall. "Foals are born blind, you know," Dad explained. "Their eyes admit light, but they cannot make out objects around them for a few days after birth. That's why they are so clumsy and go blundering about colliding with things. Mitherless must have exercise, so you'll have to have a place where she can blunder about but without hurting herself."

Just back of the kitchen there was a lean-to room, formerly occupied by a hired man when the Jarvis family could afford one. This room the boy and his mother carefully padded with straw and sacking, and scattered a foot of clean new straw on the floor, while Mitherless slept before the fire in the living-room. When her quarters were ready, they fed her again, lifted her up and noted that she could now stand alone.

"She'll live," Bobby assured his mother pridefully. "It takes more than a bad start to kill a thoroughbred."

And to the amazement of all hands at Sunnyvale Stock Farm, Mitherless did live. She spent her days in the sun in a tiny grassy paddock and her nights under cover. Then slowly her appetite increased. But her growth was negligible; indeed, when she was three months old she was no larger or friskier than the average foal of three weeks.

"She got off to a bad start," Bobby would explain to his mother, "so I don't expect much of her now."

He no longer came to Sunnyvale Stock Farm after school let out. Mitherless required all the time he could spare for her.

Although she was a pet and the boy's pride and joy, she was not treated as one. No sugar or other unnatural foods were ever permitted her. Dad Hannigan looked in from time to time and gave him sage advice, for what Dad did not know about horses just wasn't worth knowing.

When she was seven months old Bobby, at Dad's suggestion, stabled her in the barn. Mitherless carried her winter coat into late June, and even when she lost it, she lacked what Dad Hannigan called bloom. She looked a bit rough and not rounded out—a trifle thin always, although this young animal was active enough and very alert.

As a yearling she was very much undersized, but Dad Hannigan admired her conformation. About this time Bobby bitted her with a light smooth bit, and she carried it in her stall until she grew accustomed to it.

When she was eighteen months old, he strapped a folded blanket on her with a surcingle, to accustom her to being girthed; and when she was full two years old and about the size of the average yearling, he sprawled across her one day in her stall and found that she made no objection, beyond squatting a little. Then he rode her bareback and at a walk around the paddock—she was broken before the boy realized it. She had all the fire of her royal ancestry, but her manners were faultless.

WHIP or spur she never knew. Bobby trained her to respond instantly to the pressure of his young knees; but he trained her also to respond to his voice. To break her into a gallop, he merely took a firmer grip on the reins, leaned slightly forward and cried sharply: "Scat!" And promptly Mitherless broke as her ancestors had been wont to break at the starting gate.

The boy rode her eight miles daily—four to school and four back. It was a rough country road, so he walked her or jogged her very gently, until he came to a half-mile stretch of wide flat road that had been ballasted with decomposed granite which, breaking into fine particles, offered good footing. On this stretch, going to and returning from school, he would set Mitherless down for a gallop. She had balance; she was sure-footed; and she liked the running.

Shortly after she became officially, if she was ever to be raced, a three-year-old—although in reality she lacked six months of that age and looked a scant two years old—Mitherless commenced to grow. She began to broaden, to show more fire and eagerness, although to the eye of the experienced horseman she was a runt, a failure, a horse just not quite there.

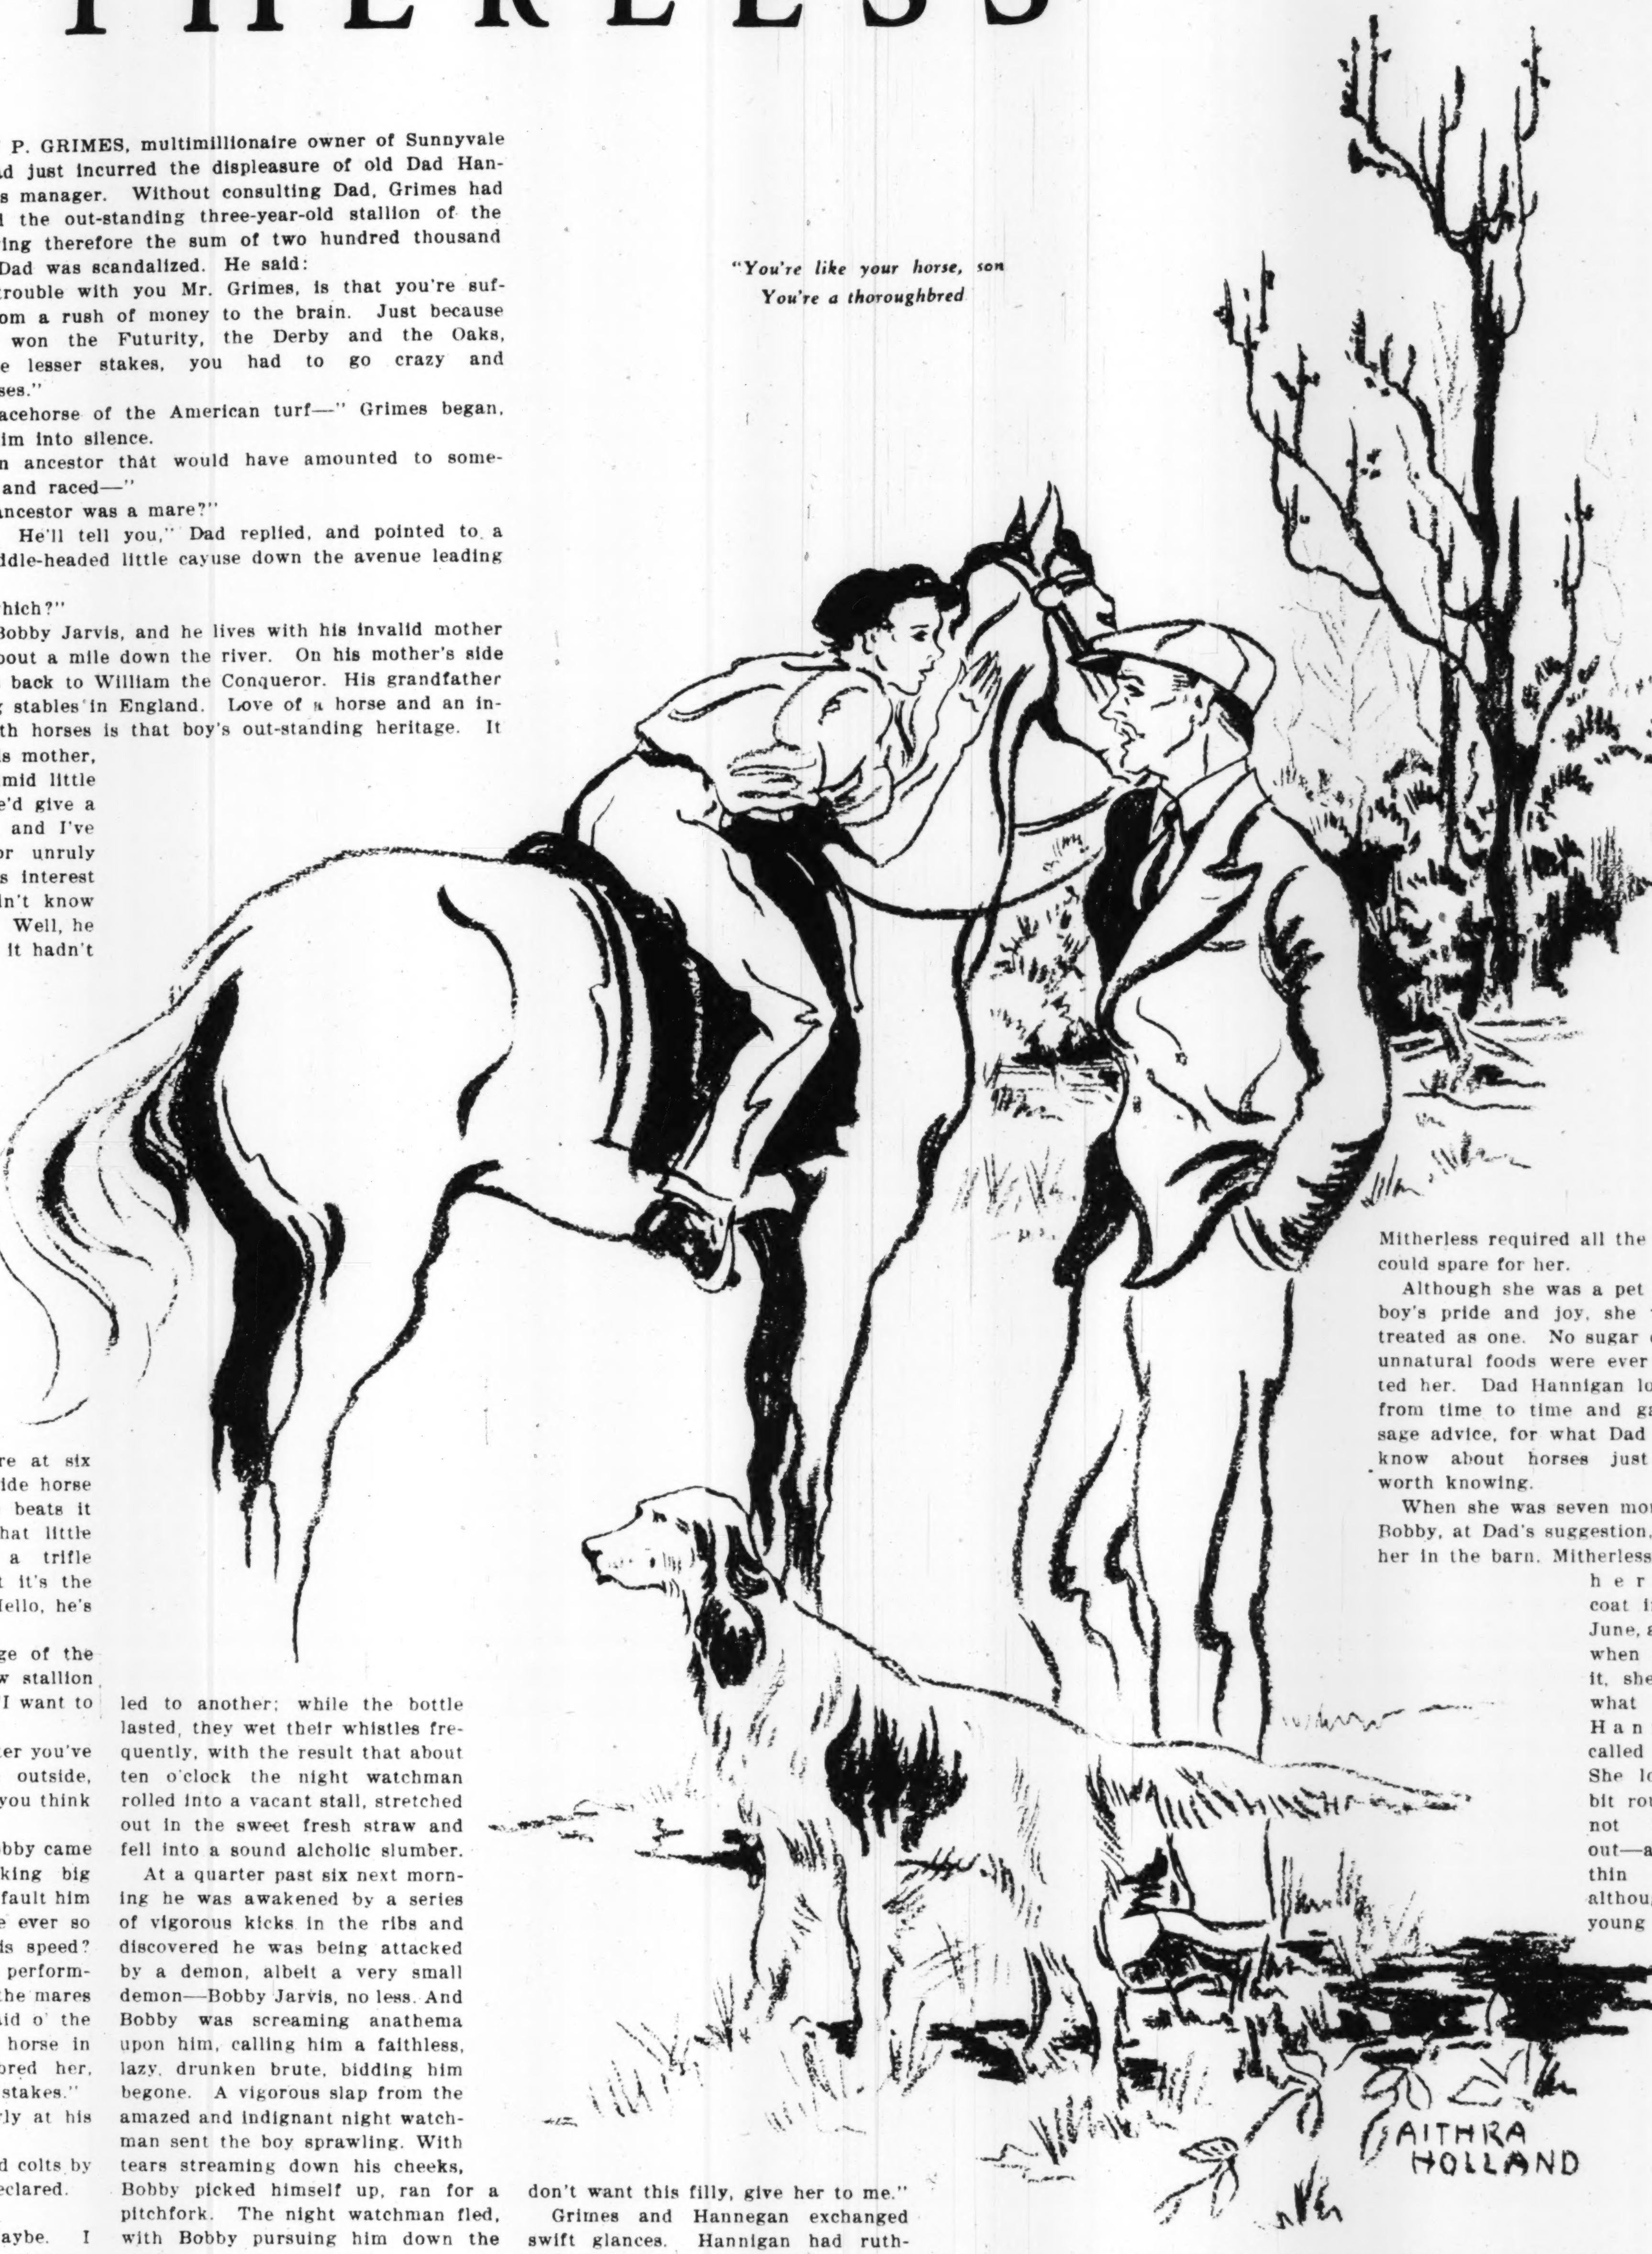
In September Gordon J. Proctor came down to Sunnyvale Farm to look over the yearlings with a view to trading John P. Grimes out of half a dozen of the best. A rich man, this Proctor, and a skilled horseman. He owned a racing stable—not a very large one, but quite filled with useful horses. He brought a young setter down to Sunnyvale Farm. And it was while watching his dog point quail in a little patch of clover beside the road that Bobby traveled daily to and from school, that he first met the boy and Mitherless.



"You're like your horse, son
You're a thoroughbred

PROCTOR saw them go by like a golden streak; he ran out in the road and gazed after them; with satisfaction he observed that the boy's hat had blown off and that the lad must, perforce, ride back for it.

"Nice little filly you've got there, son," he greeted Bobby affably. He stepped up and appraised Mitherless critically. "Not a drop of cold blood in this one," he declared. "I'll be hanged if I can fault her anywhere. And she's fast for half a mile at least. Boy, this one is a sprinter."

"She's Mitherless, by Scottish Chief out of Lass o' the Glen, she by Whusky Neat out of Maid Marion and he by—"

"I know the stock well. None better. This little keepsake isn't yours by any chance, is she?"

"Yes, sir, she belongs to me. Mr Grimes gave her to me."

"Well, you haven't got much horse, but what you have got is all horse. I think she's a true galloper."

"She's in training now," Bobby said.

"Goodness gracious son! Why?"

"Because I think she's very fast, and I've got to find out. The best horse in the Sunnyvale stables is the Roman. But I think my Mitherless can outrun him at the mile, although she shouldn't be run more than six furlongs or seven-eighths of a mile. Some morning when his rider sets the Roman down for a mile, I'm going to be there with Mitherless and show him up."

Proctor's hand came up and caressed the boy's. "You're like your horse, son. You're a thoroughbred. You'll race for glory as quickly as you will for money. You've got love of horses in your blood, I can see that."

"I got it from mother's people."

PROCTOR appraised the boy no less carefully than he had Mitherless. "You revive an old memory," he murmured. "Your eyes—What's your name?"

"Bobby Jarvis, sir. My grandfather had a racing stable in England."

"Is your mother living Bobby?"

"Oh, yes sir, but she's not very well. She's never been well since I was born."

"That's very unfortunate. Where do you live?"

Bobby pointed to the little white farmhouse across the fields.

"See you sometime around Sunnyvale Stock Farm, Bobby. I'll be a guest there for two weeks."

About ten o'clock next morning Proctor drove up to the Jarvis farmhouse. Bobby's mother was seated on the sunny veranda. He raised his hat and queried: "Mrs. Jarvis? Bobby's mother?"

Her waxen hands fluttered a little. "Yes, Gordon, I'm Bobby's mother. I'm not surprised at your failure to recognize me. I—I've changed."

He hastened to her side and took both her hands in his.

At last he said: "Oh, my dear, my poor dear Polly! I didn't know—and yet I should have suspected. The boy has your eyes."

Then he drew a chair beside her and sat gazing at her.

"Widow?" he queried presently. She nodded.

"Married, Gordon?" she countered.

He shook his head. "Never had any desire to after I discovered I couldn't have you." He smiled, but not bitterly. "I must be a one-woman man."

"What business are you in, my dear friend?"

"Oil—only I'm retired from business. I have an avocation now. I race horses."

"So you settled down! I'm glad, Gordon."

Then he possessed himself of her

gers only staunch defenders. In their enthusiastic claims in its behalf one hears the echo of Captain Nemo's eulogy of his boat to Professor Aronnax:

"Ah! sir, live—live in the bosom of the waters! There only is independence! There I recognize no masters! There I am free! . . . If danger threatens one of your vessels on the ocean, the first impression is the feeling of an abyss above and below. On the Nautilus men's hearts never fail them. No defects to be afraid of, for the double shell is as firm as iron; no rigging to attend to; no sails for the wind to carry away; no boilers to burst, no fire to fear, for the vessel is made of iron, not of wood; no coal to run short, for electricity is the only mechanical agent; no collision to fear, for it alone swims in deep water; no tempest to brave, for when it dives below the water, it reaches absolute tranquility. There, sir, that is the perfection of vessels!"

THE Nautilus of the Verne story, however, did get in trouble quite beyond the expectations of its fearless Captain Nemo. And it was an iceberg that caused the trouble. In the novelist's account of the weird adventure, the Wilkins voyagers may find valuble hints not only as to perils to be met, but as to methods of extricating themselves from predicaments.

In passing under the ice-filled seas off the coast of a then unknown "Antarctic land," the story goes, the submarine became entangled with an immense iceberg in a peculiar and unexpected manner. There was a sudden shock and the occupants of the boat were hurled from their beds. After some investigation Captain Nemo explained the dilemma in this wise:

"An enormous block of ice, a whole mountain, has turned over. When icebergs are undermined at their base by warmer water or reiterated shocks, their center of gravity rises, and the whole thing turns over. This is what has happened: One of these blocks, as it fell, struck the Nautilus, then, gliding under its hull, raised it with irresistible force, bringing it into beds which are not so thick, where it is lying on its side."

As the submarine was not lifted above the water line by this freakish accident, the crew was abled to right the boat by emptying her reservoirs and floating her off the shelf. This was done, but immediately another difficulty was discovered. The boat was trapped in a sort of tunnel, actually enveloped within an iceberg——

"We were in open sea; but at a distance of about 10 yards, on either side of the Nautilus, rose a dazzling wall of ice. Above and beneath the same wall. Above, because the lower surface of the iceberg stretched over us like an immense ceiling. Beneath, because the overturned block, having slid by degrees, had found a resting place on the lateral walls, which kept it in that position. The Nautilus was really imprisoned in a perfect tunnel of ice not more than 20 yards in breadth, filled with quiet water."

ARCTIC SUB
NAUTILUS

Sir Hubert and members of his crew.

Hope of floating out one end of the tuunel was frustrated by a shifting of the berg, so that Captain Nemo and his crew found themselves imprisoned in an ice pocket far below the surface of the water—and with only enough oxygen in the reserve tanks to last two days. Things looked dark indeed. Even Captain Nemo was depressed and began talking about dying—

"'Gentlemen,' he said calmly, 'there are two ways of dying in the circumstances in which we are placed. The first is to be crushed; the second is to die of suffocation. I do not speak of the possibility of dying of hunger, for the supply of provisions in the Nautilus will certainly last longer than we shall. Let us then calculate our chances.'

"'AS TO suffocation, Captain,' I replied (it is Professor Aronnax who tells the story), 'that is not to be feared, because our reservoirs are full.'

"'Just so; but they will yield only two days' supply of air. Now, for 36 hours we have been hidden under the water, and already the heavy atmosphere of the Nautilus requires renewal. In 48 hours our reserve will be exhausted.'

"'Well, Captain, can we be delivered before 48 hours?'

"'We will attempt it, at least, by piercing the wall that surrounds us.'

"'On which side?'

"'Sound will tell us. I am going to run the Nautilus aground on the lower bank, and my men will attack the iceberg on the side that is least thick.'

". . . Some instants later, we saw a dozen of the crew set foot on the bank of ice. . . . Captain Nemo was with them. Before proceeding to dig the walls, he took the soundings, to be sure of working in the right direction. Long sounding lines were sunk in the side walls, but after 15 yards they were again stopped by the thick walls. It was useless to attack it on the ceiling-like surface, since the iceberg itself measured more than 400 yards in height. Captain Nemo then sounded the lower surface. There 10 yards of wall separated us from the water, so great was the thickness of the ice field. It was necessary, therefore, to cut from it a piece equal in extent to the Nautilus' waterline.

"There were about 6000 cubic yards to detach, so as to dig a hole by which we could descend to the ice field. The work was begun immediately and carried on with indefatigable energy. Instead of digging round the Nautilus, which would have involved greater difficulty, Captain Nemo had an immense trench made at eight yards from the port quarter. Then the men set to work simultaneously with their screws, on several points of its circumference.

"PRESENTLY the pickaxe attacked this compact matter vigorously and large blocks were detached. By a curious effect of specific gravity, these blocks, lighter than water, fled, so to speak, to the vault of the tunnel, that increased in thickness at the top in proportion as it diminished at the base. But that mattered little so long as the lower part grew thinner. After two hours' hard work, Ned Land came in exhausted. He and his comrades were replaced by new workers, whom Conseil and I joined. The second lieutenant of the Nautilus superintended us. . . . When I re-entered after working two hours, to take some food and rest, I found a perceptible difference between the pure fluid with which the Rouquayol engine supplied me, and the atmosphere of the Nautilus, already charged with carbonic acid. The air had not been renewed for 48 hours, and its vivifying qualities were considerably enfeebled. However, after a lapse of 12 hours, we had only raised a block of ice one yard thick, on the marked surface, which was about 6000 cubic yards. Reckoning that it took 12 hours to accomplish this much, it would take five nights and four days to bring this enterprise to a satisfactory conclusion. Five nights and four days! And we have only air enough for two days in the reservoirs! . . . The situation was terrible. But everyone had looked danger in the face, and each was determined to do his duty to the last."

Racing desperately against time and exhaustion of the reserve oxygen, the tale continues, Captain Nemo and his associates observed next morning a new terror in the offing. The side walls of the tunnel had begun to contract from continued freezing and were closing in. If this kept on, the ship and all its occupants would be crushed.

The resourceful Captain hastened to meet this emergency by utilizing all of the ship's electrical power for the heating of water and then directing this boiling water in streams against the advancing ice walls. The measure proved to be effective in forestalling a death by crushing, but there were still four yards of ice to be dug out of the trench before the Nautilus would be free. That meant 48 hours more of frantic work and the oxygen tanks were nearly empty—

". . . The air could not be renewed in the interior of the Nautilus. And this day would make it worse. An intolerable weight oppressed me. Towards 3 o'clock in the afternoon this feeling rose to a violent degree. Yawns dislocated my jaws. My lungs panted as they inhaled this burning fluid, which became rarified more and more. A moral torpor took hold of me. I was powerless, almost unconscious. . . . Two yards only separated us from the open sea. . . . What a night! I know not how to describe it. . . . Dizziness accompanied the pain in my head, and made me feel like a drunken man. My companions showed the same symptoms. Some of the crew had rattling in the throat.

"On that day, the sixth of our imprisonment, Captain Nemo, finding the pickaxes worked too slowly, resolved to crush the ice bed that still separated us from the liquid sheet. This man's coolness and energy never forsook him. He subdued his physical pains by moral force.

"By his orders the vessel was lightened, that is to say, raised from the ice bed by a change of specific gravity. When it floated they towed it so as to bring it above the immense trench made on the level of the water line. Then filling his reservoirs with water, he descended and shut himself up in the hole.

"Just then all the crew came on board, and the double door of communication was shut. The Nautilus then rested on the bed of ice, which was not one yard thick, and which the sounding leads had perforated in a thousand places.

"THE taps of the reservoir were then opened, and a hundred cubic yards of water was let in, increasing the weight of the Nautilus 1800 tons. We waited, we listened, forgetting our sufferings in hope. Our safety depended on this last chance. Notwithstanding the buzzing in my head, I soon heard the humming sound under the hull of the Nautilus. The ice cracked with a singular noise, like tearing paper, and the Nautilus sank.

". . . The Nautilus went at a frightful pace, 40 miles an hour. It literally tore through the water. . . . At the moment the manometer indicated we were not more than 20 feet from the surface. A mere plate of ice separated us from the atmosphere. Could we not break it? Perhaps. In any case the Nautilus was going to attempt it. I felt that it was in an oblique position, lowering the stern and raising the bows. The introduction of water had been the means of disturbing its equilibrium. Then, impelled by its powerful screw, it attacked the ice field from beneath like a formidable battering ram."

And the Nautilus, ably captained and maneuvered, broke through, "pure air came in in abundance," and ship and crew were saved.

hand. "Is it too late, Polly?" he asked.

She bowed her head gently in affirmation.

"But I can give you such care, Polly," he pleaded.

Her brimming eyes were lifted to his. "It's so long since we were young, Gordon. I made a mistake, but I haven't commenced to complain at my luck as yet. I'm broken down. I have a bad heart—and I'm still proud. I wouldn't be a burden on any man."

"So be it, Polly. It's possible to be kind to an old friend?" She nodded. "Let me foot the bills," he pursued.

"You can't do anything for me—not that I wouldn't permit you to, but I'm beyond doing for. You might keep an eye on Bobby when I'm gone, though."

"THAT'S a bet," he managed to answer. Then with an effort: "I called to see you about Bobby and his filly Mitherless. I want you to let me have them both for a couple of months. I want to take them both out to Agua Caliente in Lower California, in December. There's an eighty-one-day race meeting out there, and I'm shipping to it. I can put Mitherless in with my horses, and I'll take Bobby in my private car. He'll have to ride Mitherless, of course—I'll get him an apprentice license. May I have them both and will you be my guest at Agua Caliente and see the filly put the Jarvis family where the wolf's howls cannot be heard?"

"I'll think it over," said Mrs. Jarvis. Then they talked of other things.

Bobby had been training Mitherless himself, under the direction of the Sunnyvale trainer, and in November she was as fit as could be. Gordon Proctor came down to Sunnyvale and egged John P. Grimes into a match race at a mile, on the Sunnyvale training track, between his great four-year-old, the Roman, and Bobby's Mitherless. He bet Grimes five thousand dollars on Mitherless, and that concluded the deal. On a windy, rainy morning with a slushy track they sent them away. Mitherless, with Bobby up, and carrying ninety-six pounds, flashed under the wire an open length in front of the Roman, although she was tiring at the finish. A mile was her limit, and she could do it, but she couldn't be asked to do it very often.

Grimes was thunderstruck. "I'll give you five thousand for the filly, Bobby," he almost pleaded. "That's a lot of money for a boy."

"Make it twenty-five, and I'll consider the offer," the boy flashed back at him.

"Very well, twenty-five thousand," said Grimes.

"Fifty thousand," said Proctor, and Grimes would not meet the figure. He walked away in a huff; and Proctor, leaning up against the little clubhouse, endorsed Grimes' check to Bobby. "I bet the money for you, Bobby," he explained. "If we'd lost, it would have been my bet, but since we won, it's yours—and your mother's. Now cool your filly out, and tomorrow we'll ship to Agua Caliente. Your mother has agreed to come, too."

At Agua Caliente they entered her first in a maiden race for three-year-olds at five furlongs. Bobby brought her in a winner by half a length, to win an eight-hundred dollar purse. Proctor had bet for the owner. The machines paid $28.40 for $2.

That same week Mitherless won a six-furlong race. Each time she ran Bobby cashed a thousand-dollar bet.

The Governor's Handicap was to be run at a mile. The tipsters declared the gallant little filly was being asked to do the impossible and when the weather indicated a fast dry track for the race, John P. Grimes remembered his great colt the Roman was far more at home on a dry, fast track than in the mud. So he entered the Roman, who was picked to win by the tipsters.

FIFTEEN high-class horses went to the post with little Mitherless, while Proctor stood in the betting ring gazing up at the bookies. He noticed that the Roman was being quoted at six to five, while Mitherless was ten to one. Every dollar Bobby had in the world he had given to Proctor. Proctor had placed seven thousand dollars to win, but just at the last he decided to play safe and scattered seven thousand dollars on the Roman to place.

He sat with Bobby's mother on the clubhouse veranda. The field got off to a fair start with Mitherless fourth and the Roman sixth. The boy on the Roman had orders to get out in front as soon as possible.

At the quarter he was in third place, with Mitherless second, on the rail. At the half he moved up to first place, and the field, with the exception of Mitherless, commenced stringing out behind him. But Mitherless had her little head at his saddle-girth, and Bobby still had the rail. The boy on the Roman glanced back over his left arm and grinned at Bobby, for the Roman had not yet been extended; the boy was saving him for the home-stretch, and although Grimes' trainer had told him that Mitherless was the contender, he did not believe it. He was certain the race would begin to tell on her at the three-quarters; he planned to set the Roman down at the seven-eighths pole and ride the filly out.

But at the seventh-eighths pole Bobby took a firmer grip on the filly's head; he leaned forward a little, thumbed her on each side of the neck and cried shrilly "Scat!" Before the boy on the Roman could move out, she was two open lengths in front of him, and though he flailed the Roman and began to even the interval, the fact was that he had made his run too late, and Mitherless, stretched to the last bit of speed in her brave little body, managed to last and passed under the wire to win by a head.

BOBBY pulled her up and walked her back to the judges' stand, where he stripped her, while one of Proctor's swipes blanketed her. As the boy came out of the scale-room after weighing in, he noticed that the filly had dropped her head. It was coming down slowly; his quick glance took in a slight trembling in her quarters; he dropped his tack and ran to her head. Slowly the silky nose came down on his shoulder, lower, lower, pressing the boy down; then little Mitherless heaved a great sigh, went to her knees, rolled over and lay very still, while Bobby knelt with her small, beautiful head in his arms, and through a gust of tears watched the filly's brave brown eyes grow dim.

From his seat on the clubhouse veranda, where, with Mrs. Jarvis, he had watched the race, Proctor had no necessity to move in order to learn what had happened to Mitherless. He knew that he had induced Bobby to ask Mitherless to do more than her bit! But—it was a coup that could never be tried again at the long odds prevailing; if it could be put over the Jarvis family would be out from under the paw of the wolf.

He had known that the going was to the Roman's liking—so he had bet on the Roman and Mitherless—the filly to win, the Roman to place. And he cashed both bets for his proteges.

He turned to Mrs. Jarvis.

"Well, this little campaign with the filly has won you and Bobby about a hundred thousand dollars. I should say that Mitherless has repaid the loving care that has been lavished on her. Never again will I see a more gallant finish. Another jump, and the Roman would have caught her."

But Mrs. Jarvis wasn't thinking of the money, but rather of the breaking heart of a boy. "What's—happened to—Mitherless, Gordon?"

"WE ASKED her to do too much—and she did it, but the effort has killed her. I'm going down to comfort the boy."

She looked at him with brimming eyes. "That race has almost killed me," she faltered. "Our racing days are over, and it will not be long before Bobby is doubly mitherless."

There was pain in the glance he bent upon her. But—he was a sporting man and wouldn't slop over. "Well, when that time comes, I'll see to it that he isn't faitherless."

Dad Hannigan came up, and there was agony in his kind old face, and tears in his shrewd old eyes. "This is terrible, terrible, Mr. Proctor," he mumbled. "I had two thousand bet on the Roman—"

"You should have known better," Proctor interrupted briskly.

"I bet him to place, fool," Dad flared back, "and played the filly straight. I'd give it all if I could—" He turned away. Poor old Dad! He was always cherishing the thought that some day—well, it's hard to have turned out a Mitherless and given her away, and Dad's conscience smote him for his early lack of faith. So he could only pay his last tribute:

"She was a noble little lady!"

When the Mysterious Lemming Swims Out to Sea

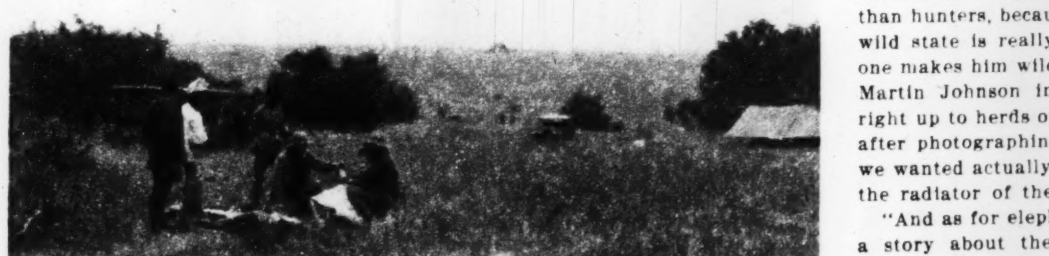
glaciers are doing just the opposite of what glaciers usually do. Instead of descending, they're melting and receding.

"The vegetation at the high altitudes is prehistoric. It's a real lost world. Why, you know, plants are found growing there that have been discovered fossilized in the coal fields of America.

"The heather, that grows to a height of about six inches in Scotland, is 50 feet high in the Mountains of the Moon. Common parsley is nine feet high. Lobelias, little blue plants that you can buy in florists' shops, a few inches tall, are 12 feet high. Groundsel, a little four-inch weed sold in bird stores for canaries, is 30 feet high. Paleolithic, every bit of it. And note, I am saying feet, not inches.

"As for paleolithic animals, there is a very rare leopard, known as ruwenzori. As far as I know, there is only one skin in any museum.

"They are long-haired, like the snow leapord, but instead of the irregular blotches that mark the snow leopard, their markings are very close together, even closer than are those of the ordinary short-haired leopard.



Africa, Mr. Wells explains, is largely a plains country.

"The ruwenzori lives on the hyrax, a little animal that looks like a rabbit and is descended from an elephant. When we were in the mountains, we saw neither. The only four-legged animal we saw was a crocidura, a little thing not much bigger than a lemming. We brought back the only specimen we ran across.

"Up in the mountains we discovered snow fields, just covered with spiders. The spiders live on a moth, previously unknown to science, which"—he cleared his throat apologetically—"the British Museum has named after me."

A feminine listener advanced the proposition that it must be "thrilling to go out into all that wilderness and danger and risk your life fighting wild animals. She sighed.

"Dangerous? Exploring? Umm," said Wells. "I've always said that trainers in zoos are exposed to more danger than hunters, because no animal in the wild state is really 'wild' until someone makes him wild. When I was with Martin Johnson in Africa, we drove right up to herds of 20 or 30 lions and after photographing them as much as we wanted actually bumped them with the radiator of the motor.

"And as for elephants, I can tell you a story about the 'wildness' of elephants.

"When I was in Nairobi, Kenya Colony, one of the best hunters there bet a man a hundred pounds he could chalk his initials on the rear of the largest bull elephant in a wild herd.

"First he prepared himself so that he smelled like an elephant. Then he just took a piece of chalk and walked, at night, into the herd and instead of his initials, wrote his name where he said he would. It was as simple at that."

Mr. Murgatroyd Goes In for Poise

And With Uncommon Speed, Goes Right Out Again.

"NOT ME, BABY!" I yelps. "You can't make a silk purse out of a souse's ear and there's no use crying the mascara out of your eyes about it, either. I'm not the kind of an egg that can be led around by the yolk. Anyhow, as far as the set we circulate with goes, I'm seven-up socially."

"Well," says the missus, "considering the piece of raw hamburger they put on my bridal doorstep you're not so worse as bar-room braves go. A few more years of cooking and you'll almost be fit to meet."

"I'm as well done as you'll ever get me," I comes back. "Where do you figure I'm shy?"

"You're anything but that," she returns. "What you need is poise."

"Try and make me wear 'em?" I barks.

"Poise," the frau explains, "aren't clothes. You put it on, but don't take it off."

"Weight?" I inquires.

"Balance," says she, "that's what poise is. It's the art of walking graceful into a room as if you'd seen carpets before instead of acting like you missed a brass rail to rest your feet on and a counter to park your elbows. It's knowing what to do with your hands and so forth."

"What's the matter," I demands, "with the way I handle these lunch-hooks? They haven't been found in anybody's pockets yet, have they?"

"I've heard no complaints," admits the wife, "but I noticed when you were talking with Sarah Zilch before dinner you were jigging around as if you were standing on a hot stove and you didn't have any more control over your hands than I have over Queen Mary's millinery."

"Huh," I grunts. "You'd have acted the same way if you'd heard what that dame said about you."

"What did she said about me?" shrills the missus.

"Oo!" I shudders, delicately. "What a pain in the grammar! She just asked who that stuckup wampus was who'd just come downstairs and I shot back that nobody could talk like that about you to me at a party."

"How do you know," asks Minnie, "that she meant me? I wasn't upstairs all evening."

"Gosh!" I mumbles. "That's right. She didn't mention any names. I wonder what made me think it was you she was slamming? I guess it's because I've always got you in my mind."

"Get me out of that slum quick," snaps the frau, "and please don't try to change the subject."

"What subject?" I wants to know.

"Those dancing lessons," she returns.

"Sorry," says I, "but I'm going to be too busy learning poise."

"Where," demands Minnie, "do you thing you learn poise—in the back room of a denaturing plant?"

"I'm not quite sure," says I, "but I can find out at Dutch Henry's place. He's always talking about his poys."

"Monday night," declares the wife, coldly, "you and I and Cousin Sylvester all are going to Professor Marigold's Salon"——

"His what?" I interrupts.

"Not the kind you're used to," comes back Minnie. "There's no sawdust on the floor and there's only one 'o' in the place."

"AND that's not all," I shouts. "There's only going to be one Murgatroyd in the place, if any. You've got no chance of getting me to take dancing lessons."

So on Monday night I finds myself at Professor Marigold's stepping studio. He looks like his name, only more so. Besides the frau, Sylvester and myself, there are eight or ten other come-alongs. Marigold shows us a few tango steps and then hands me over to a gal assistant for further seasoning.

"Listen, sister," says I, when she starts rubbing her makeup off on my shoulder. "I got a jealous wife and a couple of feet that are jealous of each other, also. Suppose you just stand off a piece and watch my stuff."

"Be yourself, papa," she replies. "Come on, drape your arm around me. I'm not ticklish, and besides I'm crazy about another married man."

I does as I'm told and we moves around the room. The frill's light on her spaniels and I'm surprised myself how natural I get in cahoots with music I've never met before.

"Kidding on the square," says I, "what's the chance of my being able to dance in eight years or so?"

"In eight lessons," returns the skirt, "you'll be good enough to do adagios, even at your age."

"Where," I snorts, "do you get that age stuff. I'm squab, I am, am I?"

Professor Marigold shows us a few steps again, and then I'm told to trip a few staves with the wife.

"Want me to lead?" she inquires.

"Be yourself, female," says I. "Follow me and I'll show you something about fox-trotting that'll make all the other dances you've been in look like slow-motion staggers in a swamp."

At this point a bozo dancing around with an overstuffed jane bumps into me and in the ensuing scramble Minnie falls on her crazy bone—the one in her elbow—and I falls over her. At this juncture the girl teacher comes traipsing along with Cousin Sylvester.

"Floor slippery?" she asks.

"No," I yelps. "Can't a cash customer take a rest without comments from the hired hands?"

A bit later I again get the girl instructor for a partner. We gets along better and better.

"I could make a swell hoofer out of you," says she.

"Well," I tells her. "Go on. What do you need, the written consent of my parent or guardian?"

"Gosh," murmurs the doll, "how the years are falling off of you. What you need, feller, is some private lessons with my toes for you to step on."

"How much per private lesson?" I inquires.

"Ten pretties per," she replies, "including my gay chatter."

"The fact is," says I, "I wasn't brought here so much to learn dancing as poise. Know anything about it?"

"Poise?" repeats the stepper. "No, I don't, but show it to me once, or just hum it, and I'll get it."

"The Ether Kid" and the Prince of Wales

His Highness Batted .820 With the Giants, Did He?

PEOPLE who have never experienced it are always curious to learn how it feels to undergo an appendix excavation. Having been the guest of honor at a recent seance of this type, I can truthfully report that there isn't much to it. In fact, I can't understand why it's so popular. Somebody clamped a funnel over my face and told me to breathe deeply; so, obediently, I breathed deeply, and when I snapped out of it some six hours later, there I was a rebuilt job. The feature that impressed me most was my interview with the Prince of Wales the first night after the operation. I admit it was a rather peculiar interview, but then you must remember that I was still pretty well saturated with ether. I took too much of the stuff to begin with. You see, I have a chest expansion something like five and one-quarter inches and in forty seconds I absorbed so much ether that I cleared the operating table and soared up to the ceiling—which must have been a magnificent spectacle—and, in order to work on me they had to call in a ground crew and hold me down life the Graf Zeppelin. I found this out afterward upon asking several internes why they persisted in calling me "The Ether Kid."

However, I am telling what happened the first night. I didn't meet the Prince right away. Three purple blocks were floating in front of me and I felt constrained to seize them and stack them into a pillar. I would get the monument started nicely with two of the blocks, but the third would elude my grasp in a very tantalizing manner. After I nabbed the third block, one of the others would scream. I became exasperated and wanted to chuck the job. And if you think it's easy to do an engineering feat with material that sneaks away on you, just try it sometime.

Suddenly the blocks disappeared and the Prince showed up. His arrival caused me no surprise whatsoever. We greeted each other quite solemnly and I asked him whether he would mind telling me something about himself. He said he would be delighted.

"For three years," he began, "I played shortstop with the San Francisco Seals of the Pacific Coast League. Then I went over to the Giants. My first season with the Giants I batted .430."

"Hold on there," I broke in. "You're trying to kid me. You're no ball player."

"I'm not, eh?" scoffed the Prince. "Well, I'll show you."

The next moment I found myself in a grandstand near the third base line, watching the Prince at bat. He knocked a ball out toward the right field bleachers, but it veered somehow and struck me squarely on the chin. The Prince circled the bases, touched home plate and then trotted out to me and leaned over the railing.

"Now do you believe I'm a ball player?" he asked. "Or must I spike you in the shin to give you further proof?"

I knew perfectly well that I was laid up in a hospital recovering from an operation, and I realized that this talk couldn't possibly be real. I opened my eyes. The nurse was seated in a rocking chair near the window working a cross-word puzzle.

"What time is it?" I asked.

"EIGHT-TWENTY," replied the nurse.

The interruption angered the Prince.

"What was the idea of running away?" he barked. "Just when I was about to make you concede that I'm a ball player, you go and hide behind a woman's skirts. That's no way to do."

"How did you get into the hospital?" I countered, ignoring his last remarks. "It's after visiting hours."

"Never mind how I got in here," said the Prince. "The important thing is that I batted .820 my first season with the Giants."

"But," I objected, "I thought you said it was .430."

"Oh, no," said the Prince. "Four-thirty is the time and .820 is what I batted. If you don't believe I batted .820, just add it up."

"What's that got to do with it?" I demanded.

"Add it up, I tell you!" stormed the Prince. "I won't say another word until you add it up."

Some figures danced in front of me and I began adding them in various pairs. I knew I had to find two numbers that totaled ten, but no matter which combinations I tried I couldn't arrive at that sum. It was annoying. The Prince was seated on a bench in the dugout and somebody was fanning him with a towel. Two umpires sat next to him. I walked into the dugout, removed my hat and began taking off my gloves.

"How did you get in here?" asked the Prince. "It's after visiting hours."

"Listen, Prince," I said desperately. "You're holding out on me. I can't add properly unless you give me the rest of the figures."

"Must I hand out figures to every Tom, Dick and Harry that breezes along?" snorted the Prince. "I tell you, I haven't got any figures. Have I, boys?" he asked the umpires.

The umpires shook their heads. However, they volunteered to help me find them. They went out to the little well near home plate and, notwithstanding the solemn injunction to conserve baseballs, extracted a large number and began throwing them at me one after the other. Most of them were high and outside.

"Well, there's the numbers you wanted," said the Prince. "They're round numbers, see?"

"You can't fool me," I retorted. "This is all a dream. I know very well it's a dream."

Three purple blocks reappeared and I again busied myself trying to place them in a column. I was no more successful than I had been before, but I felt, nevertheless, that I was doing a much better job. The Prince, I suddenly realized, was watching me intently.

"I may have bungled up that addition awhile back," I told him, "but you can't say I'm a slouch stacking up these blocks."

The Prince apparently decided that I merited the rest of the interview, for he began talking very rapidly and very earnestly. Unfortunately, I can't remember any part of his speech.

When daylight arrived I recalled that I had gone to the movies a few days before the operation and a news reel had shown the Prince attending a ball game between teams of American sailors. I have learned my lesson. If I ever take any more ether I am going to sniff it gently and not take deep drags.

"MY LORD I MEET IN EVERY LONDON LANE AND STREET"—This quotation, from the pen of Richard LeGallienne, inspired new painting by Mark Symons, which is now on display in London at the Royal Academy. St. Louisans will remember Mr. Symons' painting of last year, entitled "Were You There When They Crucified My Lord"?, which was viewed by thousands when it was exhibited downtown, and later offered for sale by St. Louis purchaser to aid the Community Fund. This new painting has aroused the same storm of criticism which greeted the other canvas.

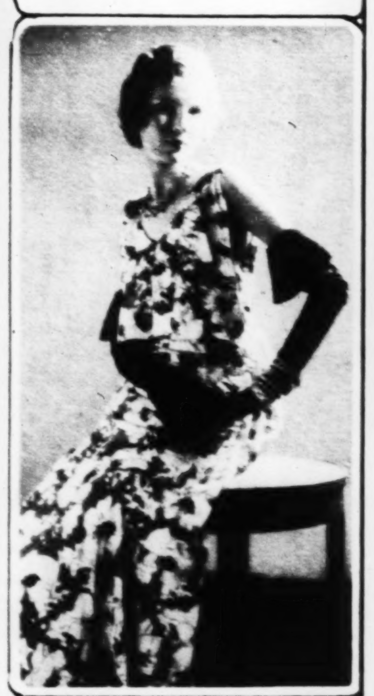
Black and white calico print, white broadcloth collar and green, black and white trimmings, are features of this informal suit for the young miss.



An evening frock with smart accessories. The dress is made of floral printed silk, black and white on a green ground. The evening gloves are of black suede with flaring cuffs. Notice the bracelets!

WOMEN WITH LARGE PORES

Read this . . .

Love isn't blind at this range

How new method is accomplishing such remarkable work in pore refining. Read these amazing facts . . .

Here's that new way of pore refining scientists have been working on for three years.

It's a way that not only refines pores, but does so in a remarkably short time.

You accomplish this by means of a liquid which is both a cleanser and a solvent.

What it does

First it thoroughly cleans surface of skin, then it enters pores and dissolves out accumulated pore residue. Relieved of this residue, pores shrink back to normal size.

Diagram at right shows how solvent of real penetrating power is needed to enter minute curving pore channel. And thus dissolve out this unexpelled residue which causes pores to become enlarged. No ordinary method will do it.

Use after cleansing cream to remove all traces of grease, all lingering particles of dirt, dust.

New delicate skin texture

Note, please, the new delicate skin texture, the vivid cleanness regular use of Hinds Toning Cleanser brings you.

Do not confuse Hinds Toning Cleanser with skin tonics and fresheners. It is a liquid cleanser which refines pores. Positively will not dry the skin.

At all drug and department stores. Price 65c.

DRAMATIC TEST made at well-known New York laboratory proves three new Hinds products equal in quality to similar products of the expensive lines bearing famous "individual" names and selling at prices from two to eight times more than they do.

New Greaseless Skin Softener

Now there's a new-type softening cream to correct these dry skin conditions. Hinds Texture Cream, it's called.

A light, delicate cream you apply at night . . . it is utterly unlike greasy softening creams. Hence you retire with face smooth and lovely.

No need to be uncomfortable with grease on face . . . in hair.

At all drug and department stores. Hinds Texture Cream, 40c and 65c.

That is why you see large ugly pores on many women.

Only a solvent with real penetrating power can enter this minute curving channel and dissolve pore residue. And thus let pores shrink back to their normal fine state.

(Diagram made from microscopic drawing)

Avoid Heavy Cleansing Creams

They may stretch skin . . . cause pore enlargement

You get best success in pore-refining with Toning Cleanser if the cleansing cream you use is a delicate liquefying cream.

There is a new cleansing cream that melts the moment it touches your skin. Thus can penetrate and clean immediately. Hinds Cleansing Cream, it is called.

Cleans gently

Contrast this with action of "heavy" cleansing creams that go on skin like lard thus need strenuous rubbing which may stretch pores.

Melts faster

Hinds Cleansing Cream liquefies from 2 to 7 times faster than any other popular priced liquefying or so-called "liquefying" cleansing cream. Chemists have proved this.

You get Hinds cleansing cream in two sizes, at 40c and 65c. Observe, please, the exquisite container. Buy it today. At all drug and department stores.

Declared Equal to Salon Products

In a strict test made at a well-known New York laboratory these 3 products were certified to be equal in quality to salon products selling at from 2 to 8 times more.

Here is the chemists' statement:

". . . we have made strict laboratory tests of Hinds Cleansing Cream, Hinds Texture Cream, Hinds Toning Cleanser in direct comparison with similar products of the expensive lines bearing famous 'individual' names.

"We find them equal and in three cases superior in quality to these famous 'individual' name products which sell at prices from 2 to 8 times more than they do."

Adding Variety to the Meat Course

. . . and to help you do this,

The Kroger Food Foundation tells you what to serve . . . how to serve it . . . what to serve with what

LET'S say it's next Saturday. There you sit, pencil in hand, ready to write your marketing list. And the same question bobs up again—"What shall we have for Sunday dinner?"

No wonder you wrinkle your forehead as you try to decide. The menu is the most worrisome—but the most important—part of any meal. You must begin your planning with the meat, of course. For on that depend the vegetables, the salad, yes, even the dessert.

You know the new adage: "Meals must be more than food." It naturally follows, then, that meat should be more than just so much beef or pork, mutton, veal or lamb. But to get back to your list and your marketing—what shall you have for Sunday's dinner? . . . how shall you serve it? . . . what shall you serve with what?

To make it easy for you to answer these questions, The Kroger Food Foundation has prepared for you a most helpful, new Bulletin—"Adding Variety to the Meat Course." It tells you at a glance the different kinds and cuts of meat—whether to bake or broil, roast or stew, fricassee or fry them—and suggests what to serve with each. New and different combinations of meat and vegetables and fruits . . . your guide to more palatable, more interesting meals.

The rug is the Shoreham—Alexander Smith's new five-star rug—now introduced by St. Louis department and furniture stores at the remarkable price of $49.50.

Ask yourself what it is you want in a rug. List all the points you would insist upon if you did not have to consider the cost. Now see if every one of your requirements isn't covered in the five stars below:

★ BEAUTIFUL, AUTHENTIC PATTERNS. Each Shoreham pattern is a beautiful adaptation of an authentic and treasured Oriental masterpiece, each is an outstanding example of rich, harmonious coloring

★ RICH COLORINGS. The pure, long staple wool from which the grounds of Shoreham Rugs are woven is dyed before it is spun. This imparts a superior finish to the fabric which greatly enriches the color effect

★ DEEP, LUXURIOUS PILE. Made by the finest method of Axminster construction, the Shoreham has a deep, closely woven pile, soft to the tread and sound absorbing

★ PRE-TESTED WEARING QUALITY. Scuffing, pounding and abrasion tests show that the Shoreham fabric will withstand a generation of household wear

★ GUARANTEED SATISFACTION. The Alexander Smith trade-mark on the Shoreham Rug appeared on rugs your grandmother—or great grandmother bought. Now, as then, it is a guarantee of satisfaction and honest value to every purchaser

When you compare the Shoreham, point by point, with more expensive rugs, you will wonder how such a fine rug can be made for only $49.50. The answer is simple. We are the world's largest manufacturers of Axminster, Velvet and Tapestry rugs. Consequently, we are able to effect huge savings in our purchases of raw materials and economies in production.

Yet eager to serve something different?

Lo! These thrilling new dishes cost thrillingly little!

It's Spring! It's time for lovely new things to happen to your menu.

Yet—after Easter's spending—it's time for economy, too.

And there's where Jell-O can help!

DESSERTS, FIRST! Take a look at the Sparkling Jell-O pictured below. Isn't it a shimmering beauty? Yet it's easy—economical—delicious! Try it!

Or—now that rhubarb is cheap and plentiful almost anywhere—make up Rhubarb Jell-O. It's a brand-new discovery . . . full of tangy, Springtime goodness. And so easy on your purse!

MAIN COURSE, NEXT. If you've ever tasted a Jell-O fish or meat loaf, you know that Jell-O loaves are a "find." Here's the latest. Ham and Celery Loaf. It's hearty enough for hard-working Dad and the hard-playing kiddies. Yet it's so much cheaper than your usual main dish, you'll be mighty glad to hear them beg for it again.

AND NOW LET'S TALK SALADS! Women everywhere are using Lemon and Lime Jell-O to make the most delicious salads. Wonderfully attractive looking. And economical. Many making clever use of left-overs. The one told of here is especially tempting—and an excellent way to use left-over canned pineapple.

To insure success in all these recipes, be sure to use genuine Jell-O . . . none other. There's nothing like it. Jell-O now comes in 6 pure fruit flavors (the newest is that cool, green LIME), each package sealed tight to keep that fruity goodness intact. Jell-O is sure to turn out right. Easy to prepare. Many housewives buy Jell-O six packages at a time. Then they always have the "makings" of an economical surprise on hand.

Speed method for emergencies!

Dissolve Jell-O in one cup of boiling liquid, then add remaining liquid cold. Place mold in pan of crushed ice, ice water or ice and salt, and leave in coldest place available. Your Jell-O will be firm in no time!

Mercolized Wax Keeps Skin Young

Absorb blemishes and discolorations by regularly using Mercolized Wax. Get an ounce, and use as directed. Invisible particles of aged skin are freed and all defects such as pimples, liver spots, tan, freckles and large pores disappear. Skin is then beautifully clear, soft and velvety, and looks years younger. Mercolized Wax brings out the hidden beauty. At all Drug Stores.

Powdered Saxolite

Reduces wrinkles and other age-signs. Simply dissolve one ounce Saxolite in half-pint witch hazel and use daily as face lotion.

The Winner

In sports, as in other things, it is characteristic that the boy who lands on top invariably looks like a winner. Fine clothes are a habit with the winner.

Kay Johnson, screen celebrity of First National Vitaphone Pictures, discusses feminine fashions with expert knowledge.

"Any woman likes to know her hats are smartly in advance of the mode," she says. "A screen player must be particularly alert. I choose Gage hats because they always accurately predict the style trend."

In the Parlando, chosen by Miss Johnson, Gage designers have made skillful use of accents. Roughly woven charmeuse straw, drooping slightly on either side of the face, creates an artfully simple effect. A wide velvet ribbon across the crown affords an interesting color contrast. A fascinating coronet effect is achieved with a band of the charmeuse. Here is a hat of truly romantic appeal.

The Gage Parlando is especially appropriate for summer semi-formal wear. It is available in a choice of colors and is priced at $10.

VACATION

What to see and do in Southern California . . . how easy to reach . . . how little the cost

One of the most helpful vacation books ever published is now offered to you free. Don't plan a vacation until you get it! It includes:

1. The things you'll want to see and do in Southern California.
2. Detailed day-by-day Sightseeing Itinerary for a 2-weeks vacation . . . or longer.
3. Scores of interesting gravure photographs of Southern California scenes.
4. Detailed figures on costs while here.
5. Information about how to get here.
6. Information about time required for the trip.

This book visualizes for you Hollywood with its gay night life, where you'll mingle with the stars . . . the blue Pacific with its broad, sandy beaches and bright pleasure-islands just offshore . . . Old Spanish Missions and the foreign glamour of nearby Old Mexico . . . mighty snow-capped mountains, mile-high lakes and forested canyons.

The sports of every kind that you'll enjoy . . . orange groves, palms and luxuriant gardens . . . comfortable, rainless days, and cool summer nights that make light wraps and blankets the rule . . . sparkling cities and resorts like Pasadena, Long Beach, Santa Monica and hospitable, cosmopolitan Los Angeles, center of this whole vacationland . . . Fiestas . . . everything that goes to make up your vacation-of-a-lifetime in this romantic world-playground.

Send for this book now. Learn how, from your city, you can be actually in Southern California at least 12 days of even a 2-weeks vacation, with costs of hotels, meals and sightseeing while here as little as $6.35 a day.

Clip out and send the handy coupon below, or write direct. There is no cost or obligation. The purpose of this non-profit community organization is to furnish helpful information to prospective California vacationists.

If you should wish another Southern California book containing more than 80 large gravure photographs, send 4 cents to cover mailing cost.

No. 555. In this smart girdle for the heavier figure, a boned reinforced lining flattens the abdomen. Trolley garters hold both the outer garment and the inner reinforcement firmly in place. Sizes 26-40. Price $5.00.

Women with full figures will find smart lines again with this Wonderlift combination. The famous Wonderlift inner belt has amazing firmness in exactly the right places. It effectively flattens you both front and back. When the supple outer garment is closed, there is not a wrinkle to mar the lines of the slimmest frock. Sizes 34 to 54. No. 98-650 tall, 96-650 average, and 14-650 short. Price $6.50.

MORE . . . or LESS Restraint?

Whether you need much or little remoulding, this spring there's a new Nemo-flex garment that does it expertly

IF you are a trifle large, the new Wonderlift inner belts give your abdomen and diaphragm that complete flatness which alone enables one to be smart in this season's close-fitting frocks.

If you are slight or average, a smart little step-in pulls in your back, hips and stomach discreetly and satisfyingly. A wisp of brassiere holds your bust in cup-shaped roundness.

And hips! You need never incur a pitying glance from anyone, when your hips are correctly swathed with grace and with freedom in an expertly designed Nemo-flex. Made by Kops Brothers, Inc. New York — Chicago — Boston — San Francisco — Toronto — London.

HOUSECLEANING

"There's one best way . . .
It's the modern quicker way
by O.D.C."

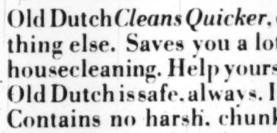
RESEARCH and the experience of millions of housewives all over the world have established the one best way of housecleaning modern homes. It's the O. D. C. way . . . Old Dutch Cleanser, of course.

Old Dutch cleans with scientific efficiency. The flaky and flat-shaped O. D. C. particles are natural cleansers. Dirt cannot escape them. Even unseen impurities, seeking to cling to the surface, go in the same quick sweep with visible dirt. The O. D. C. way leaves things hygienic and wholesome, aglow with Healthful Cleanliness.

Old Dutch Cleans Quicker, quicker than anything else. Saves you a lot of time during housecleaning. Help yourself to more time. Old Dutch is safe, always. It doesn't scratch. Contains no harsh, chunky grit; nor any other abrasive. It preserves the beauty and brilliance of lovely things; keeps them lovely. For the same reason, it's kind to the hands; will not roughen or irritate the skin.

You'll find the O. D. C. way the best way to clean windows, painted walls and woodwork, floors, wood and stone steps, marble, tile, porcelain, enamel, bathrooms, refrigerators, ranges, kitchen utensils . . . and you'll find it economical to use because a little goes a long way. Use Old Dutch; it's all you need for all your cleaning, and O. D. C. cleaning is a distinction of good housekeeping.

It's a good practice to buy Old Dutch Cleanser three packages at a time. Keep it in the kitchen, bathroom and laundry — in these handy service holders. You can obtain them easily. For each holder, clip the windmill panels from three Old Dutch Cleanser labels and mail with 10c, your name and address.



LISTEN to the Old Dutch Girl every Monday, Wednesday and Friday morning over the Columbia Broadcasting System. Tune in Station KMOX—7:45 A. M.

An amazing advance by the largest makers of Oriental rug is transforming homes all over the country!

Karagheusian has actually succeeded in creating an American rug that has the silky, luxurious sheen of a costly Oriental!

Even experts hesitate to tell the difference.

A revolution in rug values followed in the trail of Gulistan

Today it is the most imitated rug in America.

But only Karagheusian can make Gulistan! It is the American product of this famous House, whose native weavers in Persia and China supply America with so many fine Oriental rugs.

To make Gulistan, Karagheusian uses most of the centur old methods that have made the glorious Oriental tradition.

The same indispensable sturdy Oriental wool yarns, the fines dyes, the very same finishing processes!

Is it surprising that the lovely sheen!

. . . the pile deep luxury!

. . . the jewel-like colors!

. . . of expensive Karagheusian Persian rugs

—are also in Gulistan?

SEE Gulistan before buying any rug of any kind. It will giv you new ideas of what you want. Every good furniture o department store will be glad to show you the beautiful pat terns available.

TELL ME, SAD EYES, ARE YOU HAVING A GOOD TIME?
OH, GEE, I'M HAVING A 'SWELL TIME ----- EVERYBODY'S SO GOOD TO ME
YOU ALWAYS SAID NOBODY CARED ANYTHING ABOUT YOU --- NOW, LOOK AT THIS WONDERFUL PARTY BLONDIE'S GIVING JUST FOR YOU
GEE, HIHO ---- DO YOU KNOW THIS IS THE FIRST GOOD TIME I EVER HAD IN MY LIFE?
FLORA FUMA
MY PHONE NUMBER IS 2120
AW, PLEASE PAY A LITTLE ATTENTION TO ME -- COME, SIT CLOSER AND TELL ME PRETTY LITTLE THINGS
GEE, IT'S GOOD TO SEE SAD EYES HAPPY -- THE GIRLS ARE SO SWEET, TOO, DOING EVERYTHING THEY CAN TO BRING A LITTLE SUNSHINE INTO HIS LIFE
COME ON EVERYBODY --- BLONDIE'S FIXED A WONDERFUL LUNCH ---- WE'LL PLAY MORE GAMES AFTER WE EAT
GEE, THIS IS FUN
LOOK, SAD EYES -- YOUR BIRTHDAY CAKE --- AND MANY HAPPY RETURNS OF THE DAY
HONEST, I'M SO HAPPY I -- I -- CONGRATULATIONS
WHAT'S THE MATTER?
WHERE'S HE GOING?
GULP -- GULP
AREN'T YOU GOING TO EAT YOUR BIRTHDAY CAKE AND ICE CREAM?
PLEASE, BLONDIE, PLEASE LET ME GO -- I'LL BE ALL RIGHT IN A MINUTE
WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH HIM? -- HE GOT AWFULLY QUIET AND ALL OF A SUDDEN JUMPED UP AND LEFT THE TABLE
HE'S AWFULLY MOODY -- REMEMBER HOW BLUE HE GOT THE DAY HE WAS HIT BY THE AUTOMOBILE?
SAD EYES, WHAT ON EARTH ---
I'M CRYING CAUSE I'M SO HAPPY --- I C-CAN'T HELP IT -- YOU'RE ALL SO GOOD TO ME
THIS IS THE FIRST GOOD TIME I'VE EVER HAD IN MY LIFE -- NOBODY'S EVER CARED IF I LIVED OR DIED BEFORE I MET YOU --- I'VE ALWAYS JUST BEEN KICKED AROUND -- GULP -- THIS GOES RIGHT TO MY HEART -- I -- I ---
BOO-HOO

✣ One Way of Getting a New Spring Coat ✣

By BUD FISHER

QUITE SO, SIR SIDNEY! M-M! GEE, THAT'S A SWELL SPRING TOP-COAT!
SIR SIDNEY ALWAYS DRESSES RIGHT UP TO THE MINUTE AND I CAN'T GO WRONG IN PATTERNING AFTER HIM: MUTT'S GOT A WISE HEAD ON THE END OF HIS NECK - SO I'M GONNA SEEK HIS ADVICE!
MUTT, YOU'VE GOT A SHREWD BRAIN - HENCE - I'VE COME TO YOU FOR ADVICE!
AHEM! SHOOT!!
I WANT TO GET A SPRING TOP-COAT: HOW WOULD YOU GO ABOUT GETTING ONE? BE FRANK WITH ME, KID!
SIT DOWN!
LET ME GET THIS RIGHT! YOU WANT TO GET A SPRING TOP-COAT - IS THAT THE IDEA?
QUITE SO, QUITE SO!
WELL, GO INTO A RESTAURANT - A RESTAURANT THAT'S PATRONIZED BY MEN OF MEANS! AHEM--
AFTER YOU PAY YOUR CHECK - SELECT A GOOD SPRING TOP-COAT THAT'S HANGING NEAR YOU - AND THEN SORT OF ABSENT-MINDEDLY WALK OUT WITH IT!! AND THERE YOU ARE!
NOPE: I COULDN'T DO THAT, MUTT: AT LEAST I DON'T THINK I COULD!
THINK IT OVER: JUST DO IT ABSENT-MINDEDLY!
ONE HOUR LATER-
NOTHING WRONG ABOUT PICKING UP ANOTHER MAN'S COAT ABSENT-MINDEDLY!
HOW DO YOU LIKE MY COAT, MUTT?
OKAY! YOU TOOK MY ADVICE AFTER ALL, EH?
NO, I DIDN'T:
THEN, IF YOU DIDN'T PICK IT UP IN A RESTAURANT - HOW DID YOU GET IT? ANSWER ME THAT!
I BOUGHT IT: TEE HEE:
HUH?

I AM SORRY, MR FREDERICK, BUT I DON'T KNOW YOU WELL ENOUGH.
BUT AFTER ALL, WE'VE BEEN KEEPIN' COMPANY FOR NEARLY A YEAR!
THAT'S NOT NEARLY LONG ENOUGH--- POSITIVELY YOU EMBARRASS ME!
I'M SORRY, MISS BETTY
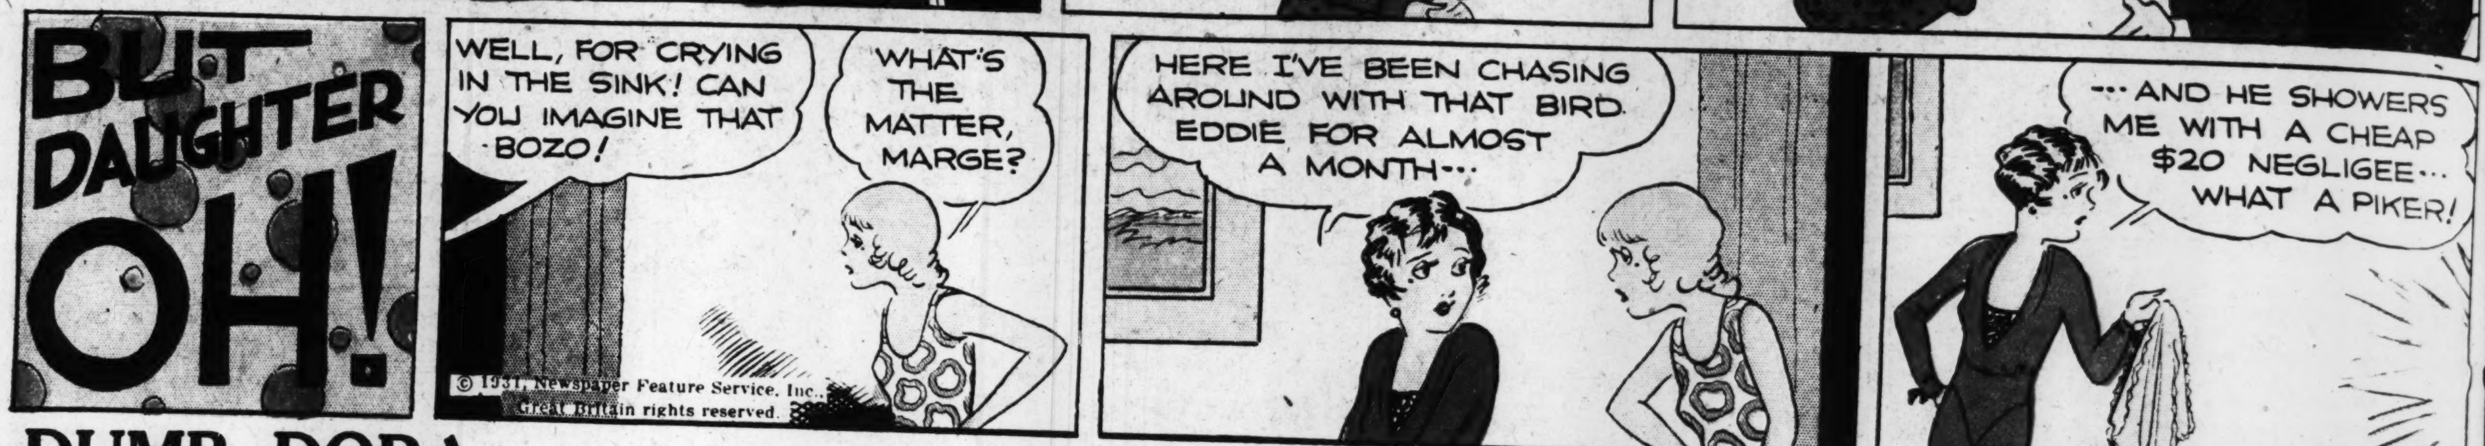
I WAS AFRAID THAT BOX OF POWDER MIGHT BE TOO PERSONAL.



BUT DAUGHTER OH!
WELL, FOR CRYING IN THE SINK! CAN YOU IMAGINE THAT BOZO!

I GOT MY MIND MADE UP! DORA BELL'S GONNA LEARN BACKGAMMON, OR I'LL KNOW THE REASON WHY!
ALL KIDDIN' ASIDE, DORA. TONIGHT IS THE NIGHT I TEACH YOU BACKGAMMON--- LUIS DE FRIJOLI ISN'T GONNA GUM UP THE WORKS
WHY, ROD, HOW YOU TALK!
NOW YOU SEE, THIS IS A BACKGAMMON BOARD, AND--- OH, JUST A MINUTE, ROD--- THERE'S THE 'PHONE!
WHY, NO, LUIS, THERE ISN'T ANYBODY HERE, ONLY ROD--- YES, I SHOULD SAY I AM LONESOME! YOU WILL? OH, HURRY!
HUH?
DORA BELL, YOU LISTEN TO ME--- THIS HASTA END, I WON'T---
OH, ROD, DON'T BE DULL!
MY ANGELITA !!
HEY!
HOW I MISS YOU, MY SWEET, MY PRECIOUS ONE---
OH, LUIS!
THE BIG PHONY! I'LL FIX HIM!
YOU GOT THE IDEA, HARRY? WELL, COME ON, MAKE IT FAST AND DON'T FORGET ANY PART OF IT! YOU'RE A REAL PAL!
IS THERE A BIRD HERE WHO CALLS HIMSELF LUIS DE FRIJOLI?
YES, HE'S RIGHT IN THE LIVING ROOM.
GOOD OLD HARRY!
BUT, MY FREN'--- THERE MUST BE ONE MISTAKE--- I HAVE NEVAIR SEE YOU BEFORE IN MY LIFE!
QUIT STALLIN', AND YOU KEEP AWAY FROM MY SISTER--- I KNOW ALL ABOUT YOUR DESERTED WIFE AND SEVEN KIDS!
BUT, DORA, MY ANGEL---
YOU LEAVE THIS HOUSE AT ONCE, MR. FRIJOLI--- I NEVER WANT TO SEE YOU AGAIN!
NOW I'M EVEN WITH THE BIG PALOOKA FOR ALL THE MISERY HE'S GIVEN ME! HE TOLD ME EVERYTHING WAS FAIR IN LOVE AND WAR!
BUT, ROD, I THOUGHT YOU SAID YOU WERE GOING TO TEACH ME BLACKGAMMON?
DON'T BE SO DUMB, BABY--- DON'T BE SO DUMB!
